Spending Policy To Be Tested

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are preparing to test in the Senate the Johnson administration's willingness to hold down nonwar expenditures as a brake on inflation.

Announcing this Saturday, Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said GOP members would demand rollcall votes on $490 million in increases made by the House in Health, Education and Welfare funds.

"We're going to see where the administration stands on spending so the people will know where to put the blame for inflation," Dirksen said in an interview. "Up to this point President Johnson certainly hasn't done anything to block the increases Congress is making in his budget requests."

LECTURES MEMBERS

Johnson lectured about 50 members of Congress recently on the need for economy. But Dirksen said he had found no evidence of any intensive follow-up on this.

The President, of course, could decline to spend some of the money that Congress votes. But few believe he would cut programs such as those administered by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Johnson's threat Friday to reduce the space program if price increases continue in basic commodities was interpreted in Congress generally as telling allied industries they had better not follow the steel-price boost.

From a Democratic source came a request for cuts far greater than asked by the Republicans — and aimed in part at the space program which this far has been almost as sacrosanct as the defense funds.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced in a letter to colleagues he plans to offer amendments to a forthcoming independent offices money bill to cut the $5 billion space program by nearly $1 billion. He proposed also reductions of $30 million in public building funds and $200 million in Fedreal Aviation Agency allotments.

The HEW money bill is likely to be boosted higher than the House total of $10.573 billion before it gains final senate approval.

Most of the House increases were accounted for in education funds, which are popular among members of Congress. In Congress there is widespread belief that Johnson never expected reductions he proposed in these funds to stand.

The House added $232.8 million to the $183.4 million he asked for payments to school districts in so-called impacted areas where federal employes' children have taxed educational facilities.

It tacked $157.8 million on his request for $273.5 million for defense educational activities, mostly for the student-loan program. Johnson originally proposed that this be supplanted by a system of government insurance for such loans made by private lenders.

Because of the nature of these increases, Republicans entertain scant hope that they can force any substantial reductions in government spending in these fields.

THE GUTTED REMAINS of the house in which three West Monroe children burned to death Saturday is shown standing after fire was contained and police roped the area off. Three others in the family were burned, two seriously. Firemen arrived to see the house engulfed in flames after a neighbor was awakened by screams and turned in the alarm. Origin of the fire was unknown late Saturday, fire officials said, but fire apparently began at the bathroom ceiling — spreading up into the attic and down. The house is at 310 Woodrow St.

Three Persons Injured

Three Children Killed In West Monroe Fire

Fire raced through a West Monroe house early Saturday, leaving three children dead. Their father and grandfather were in satisfactory condition Saturday night. A fourth child was less seriously burned.

Sharon Ann Posey, 4, Charles, 3, and Ronald G. Posey, 14, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Posey, died in or shortly after the fire at 310 Woodrow St.

Ed Posey, and his father-in-law, Joseph McGee, were transferred from Glenwood to Confederate Memorial Hospital, where they were reported in satisfactory condition late Saturday.

Escaping the blaze with the help of their mother were four other children. Mrs. Posey said she awoke and saw flames coming from the bathroom.

She grabbed Janice, 2, and 10-month-old Chris and helped Mike, 10, and Steve, 12, out of the house and into the yard. Mrs. Posey was treated for shock and remained in Glenwood Hospital late Saturday, where Mike was in satisfactory condition under treatment for burns suffered during the escape.

A neighbor, Mrs. Frances Wagner, 904 N. 10th St., West Monroe, told police officers that she was told by the family before they retired for the evening that an electrical wire in the bathroom had come loose and fallen, and that Mrs. Posey's father, McGee, had nailed the wire to the ceiling.

The six room frame house was gutted.

When firemen and police arrived on the scene the house was engulfed in flames, they said, with fire "rolling off the porch and into the yard."

According to witnesses, police Captain Bill Pace and Asst. Fire Chief Wilburn Hora braved intense heat in attempting rescue of persons inside. Wearing air (compressed oxygen) masks, they pulled from the house Ed Posey, Sharon and Charles.

Police Chief Harvey Hale said Charles was found wedged between a bed and wall, and Sharon halfway under a bed, indicating their trying to protect themselves from the flames.

"It's a wonder there was any life at all spared from that fire," Hale said, "It is the worst fire in a single house here in anyone's memory."

Hale said the fire, apparently beginning at the bathroom ceiling, went up into the attic, and down on the family. Investigation had yet to reveal any certain cause of the fire, he said.

Firemen said the alarm was called in by a neighbor awakened by screams from the house, at 2:15 a.m.

Two units were sent out.

Funeral services for the three will be at 2 p.m. today in Kilpatrick's Funeral Home chapel, with the Rev. E. A. Johnson officiating. Burial will be in Hasley Cemetery.

Other survivors include the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Joseph McGee, Shreveport, and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Posey, Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Danny Brister, Jewell Donaldson, Butch Futch, Larry Foote, Dell Burnell, John Crum, Steve Jones, Roger Crowllay, Mike Roark and Noel Johnson.

Mrs. Vic Ditta, heading a drive for clothing and donations for the family, said donations may be brought to Twin City Glass at 2933 Louisville, or money sent to P.O. Box 4024, Monroe. She said all aid donated will be turned over to Mrs. Posey.

Rusk Hopeful Of Curb On Nuclear Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) —Secretary of State Dean Rusk voiced hope Saturday that the Soviet Union will "negotiate with us in a spirit of compromise" on disarmament agreements going beyond the 1963 nuclear test ban treaty.

In a statement hailing the third anniversary of the pact banning all except underground atomic tests, Rusk spoke specifically of proposals to outlaw the spread of nuclear arms and to cut off production of atomic weapons material.

BEFORE CONFERENCE

These proposals now are before the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva — and No. 1 priority, in the U.S. view, goes to the effort to prevent atomic arms from spreading to new national arsenals.

Washington strategists fear mounting pressure on countries like India and Pakistan, Egypt and Israel and others to acquire nuclear weaponry could lead to disastrous consequences for world peace unless a curb is found.

Rusk's avowed hope is tempered, as he put it at a news conference Friday, with doubt about prospects for an early solution to the U.S.-Soviet differences over a nonproliferation pact that have arisen in the Geneva talks.

Moscow has objected to the U.S. version of an agreement to check the spread on grounds that it would allow nuclear weapons for Germany.

Washington refused to shut its West German ally off from any independent atomic capability and accusing the Kremlin of being more interested in weakening NATO than in a nonproliferation treaty.

A second obstacle has been the Viet Nam war. The Soviets have been trying to avoid any appearance of being too friendly toward the United States, whom they denounce as the aggressors in Southeast Asia.

Nonetheless there is a mild undercurrent of optimism in the Johnson administration that Russia in due course will sign a nonproliferation pact that would be even more important than the test ban treaty.

Wreckage Of Planes Found

DEQUINCY, La. (AP) — The wreckage of two Navy fighters and the bodies of both pilots were found Saturday in an isolated area 10 miles northwest of Dequincy.

The Coast Guard said one pilot was dead in the wreckage of his A4 jet. The other was hanging from his parachute, snagged in a clump of small trees about 10 miles away.

Both men were members of the Naval Air Reserve Squadron VA776 at Los Alamitos, Calif. They were undergoing active training.

The 30 planes in the search found the wreckage after concentrating on an area where lumbermen reported hearing an explosion Friday.

Debate Resumes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House moves into the third week of its longest civil rights bill debate Monday with a modified "open housing" provision in good shape for approval.

Argument-weary members still had to deal with sections that would strengthen penalties for racial violence and give the Justice Department new authority to fight school segregation before taking final action on President Johnson's measure.

Machinists Face Work Order Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Airlines and striking machinists were given a congressional choice Saturday: Try again for a weekend settlement or face a "no winners" back-to-work bill. But chances for an agreement looked slim.

The House Commerce Committee formally asked the two sides to meet all weekend to seek agreement. If they failed, Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said, the committee will expedite legislation to order the strikers back to work.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said he would "intensify" contacts already being made with the two sides. However, airline spokesman William J. Curtin said he saw "no prospect" for a settlement. Union spokesman Frank Heisler declined to assess the prospects but said, "we're ready to talk at any time, always."

"NO WINNERS"

"There are no winners in this bill at all," Staggers warned. The Senate-passed resolution he referred to world give Congress and the President a joint role in ordering the strikers back to work for up to 180 days.

Staggers, echoed by many committee members, said the bill would "set back collective bargaining . . . up to 100 years."

When the Senate passed the resolution, the five strikebound airlines hailed the action but the 35,000-man International Association of Machinists denounced it.

Heisler, airline coordinator for the IAM, said his union already had told Wirtz it was ready to talk "on 30 minutes notice." But he said the negotiating committee for the carriers "isn't even in town."

Staggers said if there was no settlement by Monday his committee would expedite action on the measure "with everything at our command." But he indicated the hearings could take several days.

Under a second day of committee questioning, Wirtz said he thought that if the legislation passed, the dispute would be settled sometime during the 180-day no-strike period.

Again, he carefully avoided any administration stand on the bill, bringing an expression of "deep disappointment" from Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., over administration failure to exert leadership.

Voting Facts Listed Today

The section, a unique one we believe, will give you many facts dealing with the August 13 primary election.

You'll find a list of candidates in the various races, plus sample ballots, background stories and advertisements on many of them, a list of voting precincts in Ouachita Parish and a wealth of other material.

We believe you'll find it most helpful, and you'll want to keep it throughout the upcoming week, studying it as you make preparation to vote next Saturday. In fact, you might wish to keep it on file as background information for a long time.

At any rate you will not want to miss reading all of this important information, so turn to page 1-E now and take a look.

Temperatures Below 90 Mark

Twin City residents enjoyed a pleasant Saturday as the temperatures remained below the 90-degree mark. The weatherman expects much of the same weather for today with high temperatures to range between 88 and 92 and the lows of 70 to 76 expected tonight.

The high reported Saturday for Monroe by FAA at Selman Field was 88 which occurred at 4 p.m. The low of 66 was recorded 10 hours earlier. The extremes for the same date last year were 90 and 70.

There is a 20 per cent probability of rain in the form of widely scattered mostly afternoon and evening thundershowers today and tonight. Monday there will be a 30 per cent probability of rain. Winds will be variable today at 5 to 15 miles an hour.

Suspected Cong Concentration Hit By B52 Bombers

Communists Believed To Be Massing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — High-altitude B52s from Guam poured 750-pound bombs today into a suspected Viet Cong jungle base south of Da Nang where the Communists are believed massing for operations.

A military spokesman said the eight-engine jets hit almost the same region plastered by a B52 strike Saturday. The target today was a suspected Viet Cong concentration and base camp area.

OPERATION ENDS

One military operation, named, Koko, ended Saturday night, U.S. military headquarters said. The two-week sweep by the U.S. 25th Infantry Division about 25 miles northwest of the capital accounted for 40 Viet Cong dead and 25 captured.

In the central highlands, a 3,000-man U.S. infantry brigade fresh from the United States flew in Saturday to beef up American forces blocking a Communist attempt to slice South Viet Nam in two. The new troops raised U.S. manpower in the country to nearly 290,000.

The Unit of the U.S. 4th Infantry (Ivy) Division, famous for its landing on Omaha Beach on D-Day in World War II, arrived at coastal Qui Nhon before dawn after a trip from the division's base at Fort Lewis, Wash., and almost immediately the men were boarding helicopters. They were flown to a base camp in the highlands where a force of 10,000 U.S. fighters has been hunting a combined force of North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong for almost a week.

The U.S. build-up, expected to be followed by the arrival of remainder of the 4th Division, came on a day when ground action throughout South Viet Nam was light.

Night-flying U.S. Air Force Phantom jets plastered a convoy of 40 trucks driving south in darkness. Picking it up on radar screens, the pilots blasted the convoy with cannon and rockets and reported setting 25 trucks afire.

Another highlight of the day was the visit of former Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon. After a military briefing from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander, and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his running mate in the 1960 presidential election, Nixon told newsmen political and economic development in Viet Nam was improving. He added that the war "will not be lost in Viet Nam, but it could be lost at home."

Nixon contended that criticism at home of the U.S. role in Viet Nam was prolonging the war by encouraging the Communists "and preventing the very negotiations the critics say they want."

Luci, Pat Married In Washington Ceremony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luci Johnson, youngest daughter of the President and Patrick John Nugent, were married in all the splendor Washington could muster Saturday, and then left for a secret honeymoon hideaway.

Seven hundred friends, relatives, and associates of the first family attended the ceremony by special invitation. Millions watched the outside activities on television.

The father of the bride, described by one usher as looking "wistful but proud," surrendered his youngest daughter to the man she loves in a 90-minute mass.

Luci, 19, and Pat, 23, were married at 10:42 a.m. CST. Then the young couple accepted congratulations at a huge reception.

At the end of the festivities, Luci tossed her bridal bouquet to her sister, Lynda Bird. Hollywood actor George Hamilton, who has been Lynda's regular escort through this year, was at the reception as well as the wedding.

THANKED GUESTS

It was the end of an emotional time for the newlyweds, and Luci thanked the guests at the White House for "the most magnificent day of my life."

By then she had changed from her wedding dress.

It was an informal and touching scene at the end as Luci kissed her mother and hugged her father.

Just where the honeymoon was to be was as much a top secret around the White House as one of the President's confidential papers.

At 4:35 p.m. CST, a White House spokesman said only that "they left a short time ago."

The couple was blessed by a perfect summer day, with the temperatures in the 80s and blue skies. But the inside of the huge shrine got warm and humid towards the end of the service and Luci's sister, Lynda Bird, the maid of honor, became "woozy." She put her head down on the altar railing, and finally had to accept a chair.

Groups of pickets showed up both at the church and near the White House to protest the war in Viet Nam. Only a small group appeared at the shrine. More than 300 were at Lafayette Square across from the White House while the wedding reception was in progress. They chanted such slogans as: "End the war now —send the troops home." Some carried Viet Cong flags.

This did not mar the gaiety across the street. In contrast with the solemnity of the marriage ceremony, the reception was festive.

It was a climatic day for the young couple of such differing upbringing who met and fell in love a year ago. Luci was radiant in her white wedding dress with 10-foot-long train. Pat was dapper in formal cutaway.

The President, who wouldn't wear such an outfit to his inauguration, got into one at Luci's request and looked somewhat embarrassed.

The White House reception afterwards, with its punch, tables of food and decorations, was a first class social occasion. There were pictures taken on the lawn, with Pat and Luci walking hand in hand, kissing, and petting the presidential dogs.

The 700 guests filed through the reception line, offering congratulations and advice. Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who by his own admission likes to kiss the ladies, had a smooch with Luci.

The nuptial mass began at 10:20 a.m. CST. The President, and the Secret Service, and White House limousines, got his daughter to the church on time.

Pat, called Paddy by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill., had arrived early. He admitted he was nervous. So had Lynda Bird, Luci's older sister and maid of honor who is being "sparked" by movie actor George Hamilton. So had the cabinet, congressmen, high government officials, Supreme Court justices, and friends.

Alert Copilot Saves Plane

TOKYO (UPI) —The pilot of a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines DC8 jetliner died of an apparent heart attack Saturday while landing at Tokyo Airport with 56 persons aboard. The copilot seized the controls and averted disaster.

The pilot was Capt. G. H. de Groot, 48, of Amsterdam, a veteran of many years of flying. His wife lives in London. H. S. Jonkers, the airlines general manager for Japan and Korea, said De Groot underwent a physical examination June 27 and was given a clean bill of health.

The copilot was C. G. de Jager, 37, of Huyizen, The Netherlands, who was giving De Groot approach bearings at the time. When De Groot failed to respond to a suggestion the course be corrected to the right, De Jager turned and saw the pilot slumping in his seat.

De Jager seized the controls at 150 feet, applied full power and took the plane to 3,000 feet to avert a crash. The crew removed the dead pilot and De Jager landed the plane safely with the aid of the navigator. The plane had been within seconds of crashing.

Jonkers said it was the first time such an incident had occurred in 45 years of KLM history.

Machinists Face Work Order Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Airlines and striking machinists were given a congressional choice Saturday: Try again for a weekend settlement or face a "no winners" back-to-work bill. But chances for an agreement looked slim.

The House Commerce Committee formally asked the two sides to meet all weekend to seek agreement. If they failed, Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said, the committee will expedite legislation to order the strikers back to work.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said he would "intensify" contacts already being made with the two sides. However, airline spokesman William J. Curtin said he saw "no prospect" for a settlement. Union spokesman Frank Heisler declined to assess the prospects but said, "we're ready to talk at any time, always."

"NO WINNERS"

"There are no winners in this bill at all," Staggers warned. The Senate-passed resolution he referred to world give Congress and the President a joint role in ordering the strikers back to work for up to 180 days.

Staggers, echoed by many committee members, said the bill would "set back collective bargaining . . . up to 100 years."

When the Senate passed the resolution, the five strikebound airlines hailed the action but the 35,000-man International Association of Machinists denounced it.

Heisler, airline coordinator for the IAM, said his union already had told Wirtz it was ready to talk "on 30 minutes notice." But he said the negotiating committee for the carriers "isn't even in town."

Staggers said if there was no settlement by Monday his committee would expedite action on the measure "with everything at our command." But he indicated the hearings could take several days.

Under a second day of committee questioning, Wirtz said he thought that if the legislation passed, the dispute would be settled sometime during the 180-day no-strike period.

Again, he carefully avoided any administration stand on the bill, bringing an expression of "deep disappointment" from Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., over administration failure to exert leadership.

Voting Facts Listed Today

The section, a unique one we believe, will give you many facts dealing with the August 13 primary election.

You'll find a list of candidates in the various races, plus sample ballots, background stories and advertisements on many of them, a list of voting precincts in Ouachita Parish and a wealth of other material.

We believe you'll find it most helpful, and you'll want to keep it throughout the upcoming week, studying it as you make preparation to vote next Saturday. In fact, you might wish to keep it on file as background information for a long time.

At any rate you will not want to miss reading all of this important information, so turn to page 1-E now and take a look.

Temperatures Below 90 Mark

Twin City residents enjoyed a pleasant Saturday as the temperatures remained below the 90-degree mark. The weatherman expects much of the same weather for today with high temperatures to range between 88 and 92 and the lows of 70 to 76 expected tonight.

The high reported Saturday for Monroe by FAA at Selman Field was 88 which occurred at 4 p.m. The low of 66 was recorded 10 hours earlier. The extremes for the same date last year were 90 and 70.

There is a 20 per cent probability of rain in the form of widely scattered mostly afternoon and evening thundershowers today and tonight. Monday there will be a 30 per cent probability of rain. Winds will be variable today at 5 to 15 miles an hour.

Suspected Cong Concentration Hit By B52 Bombers

Luci, Pat Married In Washington Ceremony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luci Johnson, youngest daughter of the President and Patrick John Nugent, were married in all the splendor Washington could muster Saturday, and then left for a secret honeymoon hideaway.

Seven hundred friends relatives, and associates of the first family attended the ceremony by special invitation. Millions watched the outside activities on television.

The father of the bride, described by one usher as looking "wistful but proud," surrendered his youngest daughter to the man she loves in a 90-minute mass.

Luci, 19, and Pat, 23, were married at 10:42 a.m. CST Then the young couple accepted congratulations at a huge reception.

At the end of the festivities, Luci tossed her bridal bouquet to her sister, Lynda Bird. Hollywood actor George Hamilton, who has been Lynda's regular escort through this year, was at the reception as well as the wedding.

THANKED GUESTS

It was the end of an emotional time for the newlyweds, and Luci thanked the guests at the White House for "the most magnificent day of my life."

By then she had changed from her wedding dress.

It was an informal and touching scene at the end as Luci kissed her mother and hugged her father.

Just where the honeymoon was to be was as much a top secret around the White House as one of the President's confidential papers.

At 4:35 p.m. CST, a White House spokesman said only that "they left a short time ago."

The couple was blessed by a perfect summer day, with the temperatures in the 80s and blue skies. But the inside of the huge shrine got warm and humid towards the end of the service and Luci's sister, Lynda Bird, the maid of honor, became "woozy." She put her head down on the altar railing, and finally had to accept a chair.

Groups of pickets showed up both at the church and near the White House to protest the war in Viet Nam. Only a small group appeared at the shrine. More than 300 were at Lafayette Square across from the White House while the wedding reception was in progress. They chanted such slogans as: "End the war now —send the troops home." Some carried Viet Cong flags.

This did not mar the gaiety across the street. In contrast with the solemnity of the marriage ceremony, the reception was festive.

It was a climatic day for the young couple of such differing upbringing who met and fell in love a year ago. Luci was radiant in her white wedding dress with 10-foot-long train. Pat was dapper in formal cutaway.

The President, who wouldn't wear such an outfit to his inauguration, got into one at Luci's request and looked somewhat embarrassed.

The White House reception afterwards, with its punch, tables of food and decorations, was a first class social occasion. There were pictures taken on the lawn, with Pat and Luci walking hand in hand, kissing, and petting the presidential dogs.

The 700 guests filed through the reception line, offering congratulations and advice. Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who by his own admission likes to kiss the ladies, had a smooch with Luci.

The nuptial mass began at 10:20 a.m. CST. The President, and the Secret Service, and White House limousines, got his daughter to the church on time.

Pat, called Paddy by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill., had arrived early. He admitted he was nervous. So had Lynda Bird, Luci's older sister and maid of honor who is being "sparked" by movie actor George Hamilton. So had the cabinet, congressmen, high government officials, Supreme Court justices, and friends.

Alert Copilot Saves Plane

TOKYO (UPI) —The pilot of a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines DC8 jetliner died of an apparent heart attack Saturday while landing at Tokyo Airport with 56 persons aboard. The copilot seized the controls and averted disaster.

The pilot was Capt. G. H. de Groot, 48, of Amsterdam, a veteran of many years of flying. His wife lives in London. H. S. Jonkers, the airlines general manager for Japan and Korea, said De Groot underwent a physical examination June 27 and was given a clean bill of health.

The copilot was C. G. de Jager, 37, of Huyizen, The Netherlands, who was giving De Groot approach bearings at the time. When De Groot failed to respond to a suggestion the course be corrected to the right, De Jager turned and saw the pilot slumping in his seat.

De Jager seized the controls at 150 feet, applied full power and took the plane to 3,000 feet to avert a crash. The crew removed the dead pilot and De Jager landed the plane safely with the aid of the navigator. The plane had been within seconds of crashing.

Jonkers said it was the first time such an incident had occurred in 45 years of KLM history.

Communists Believed To Be Massing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — High-altitude B52s from Guam poured 750-pound bombs today into a suspected Viet Cong jungle base south of Da Nang where the Communists are believed massing for operations.

A military spokesman said the eight-engine jets hit almost the same region plastered by a B52 strike Saturday. The target today was a suspected Viet Cong concentration and base camp area.

OPERATION ENDS

One military operation, named, Koko, ended Saturday night, U.S. military headquarters said. The two-week sweep by the U.S. 25th Infantry Division about 25 miles northwest of the capital accounted for 40 Viet Cong dead and 25 captured.

In the central highlands, a 3,000-man U.S. infantry brigade fresh from the United States flew in Saturday to beef up American forces blocking a Communist attempt to slice South Viet Nam in two. The new troops raised U.S. manpower in the country to nearly 290,000.

The Unit of the U.S. 4th Infantry (Ivy) Division, famous for its landing on Omaha Beach on D-Day in World War II, arrived at coastal Qui Nhon before dawn after a trip from the division's base at Fort Lewis, Wash., and almost immediately the men were boarding helicopters. They were flown to a base camp in the highlands where a force of 10,000 U.S. fighters has been hunting a combined force of North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong for almost a week.

The U.S. build-up, expected to be followed by the arrival of remainder of the 4th Division, came on a day when ground action throughout South Viet Nam was light.

Night-flying U.S. Air Force Phantom jets plastered a convoy of 40 trucks driving south in darkness. Picking it up on radar screens, the pilots blasted the convoy with cannon and rockets and reported setting 25 trucks afire.

Another highlight of the day was the visit of former Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon. After a military briefing from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander, and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his running mate in the 1960 presidential election, Nixon told newsmen political and economic development in Viet Nam was improving. He added that the war "will not be lost in Viet Nam, but it could be lost at home."

Nixon contended that criticism at home of the U.S. role in Viet Nam was prolonging the war by encouraging the Communists "and preventing the very negotiations the critics say they want."

Hail, Wind Storm Hits Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy winds, hail and rain struck portions of Minnesota Saturday and a cloudburst brought 4½ inches of rain down on a government base near Houston, Tex.

Utility lines were downed in the Brainerd, Minn., area by a wind and hail storm.

A tornado was sighted near Leola, S.D., and three funnel clouds were seen in the Aberdeen, S.D., area. No reports were received of damages.

The midday cloudburst hit Ellington Air Force Base near Houston. Nearly 4½ inches of rain poured down on the area in less than one hour.

Graduation Speaker Gives Education Views

A distinguished educator told summer graduates of Northeast Louisiana State College here Saturday night that higher education must become modernized.

Dr. C. C. Colvert, professor of education at the University of Texas and chief executive of Northeast during its junior college days, was the speaker at commencement exercises held in Neville Auditorium.

The graduation speaker, former dean of the School of Education at Texas and one of the nation's foremost authorities on junior colleges, listed three areas of higher education as important areas for modernization —libraries, faculty and institutional research.

Our libraries must become "materials instruction centers," Dr. Colvert said. The materials instruction center is "a challenging concept." Modern libraries of this type house tapes of lectures by professors, computer assisted instructional programs where the student may use programmed computers and teletypewriters to study questions and problems, and records of plays, literature, music, great speeches and lectures from outside exports.

"All of these materials can be programmed — even television tapes — and can be commanded at will by the student or faculty member by dialing them by code numbers," Dr. Colvert explained.

Dr. Colvert called materials instruction centers the heart of the college or university and "the faculty is the soul of it."

The speaker emphasized that "We must give greater emphasis to good teaching."

"I do not believe ... professors and administrators should adopt a policy of 'publish or perish.' There are some professors who are better researchers and writers than they are teachers. There are others who are better teachers than researchers and a few who are good at both. I believe all three types of professors are needed and should be encouraged through salary raises and promotions."

Dr. Colvert said faculty members should submit to in-service training. "We must do more of this sort of thing just as medical doctors, lawyers and some other professions do."

In speaking of the third area of modernization, Dr. Colvert said, "Colleges and universities must do more research inside the college, that is, internal research or institutional research.

Enrollment projections, building needs of different types, projected costs of these buildings, projected cost of the education operation of the college and faculty needs are among the problems which can be solved through institutional research.

We also need "to examine our present methods of admitting students to our colleges — we need a new definition of excellence," Dr. Colvert said.

The speaker concluded by saying there are many other areas in higher education in need of modernization such as student personnel, merit raises, faculty ratings and research versus teaching.

Northeast President George T. Walker introduced Dr. Colvert.

Hail, Wind Storm Hits Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy winds, hail and rain struck portions of Minnesota Saturday and a cloudburst brought 4½ inches of rain down on a government base near Houston, Tex.

Utility lines were downed in the Brainerd, Minn., area by a wind and hail storm.

A tornado was sighted near Leola, S.D., and three funnel clouds were seen in the Aberdeen, S.D., area. No reports were received of damages.

The midday cloudburst hit Ellington Air Force Base near Houston. Nearly 4½ inches of rain poured down on the area in less than one hour.

Graduation Speaker Gives Education Views

A distinguished educator told summer graduates of Northeast Louisiana State College here Saturday night that higher education must become modernized.

Dr. C. C. Colvert, professor of education at the University of Texas and chief executive of Northeast during its junior college days, was the speaker at commencement exercises held in Neville Auditorium.

The graduation speaker, former dean of the School of Education at Texas and one of the nation's foremost authorities on junior colleges, listed three areas of higher education as important areas for modernization —libraries, faculty and institutional research.

Our libraries must become "materials instruction centers," Dr. Colvert said. The materials instruction center is "a challenging concept." Modern libraries of this type house tapes of lectures by professors, computer assisted instructional programs where the student may use programmed computers and teletypewriters to study questions and problems, and records of plays, literature, music, great speeches and lectures from outside exports.

"All of these materials can be programmed — even television tapes — and can be commanded at will by the student or faculty member by dialing them by code numbers," Dr. Colvert explained.

Dr. Colvert called materials instruction centers the heart of the college or university and "the faculty is the soul of it."

The speaker emphasized that "We must give greater emphasis to good teaching."

"I do not believe ... professors and administrators should adopt a policy of 'publish or perish.' There are some professors who are better researchers and writers than they are teachers. There are others who are better teachers than researchers and a few who are good at both. I believe all three types of professors are needed and should be encouraged through salary raises and promotions."

Dr. Colvert said faculty members should submit to in-service training. "We must do more of this sort of thing just as medical doctors, lawyers and some other professions do."

In speaking of the third area of modernization, Dr. Colvert said, "Colleges and universities must do more research inside the college, that is, internal research or institutional research.

Enrollment projections, building needs of different types, projected costs of these buildings, projected cost of the education operation of the college and faculty needs are among the problems which can be solved through institutional research.

We also need "to examine our present methods of admitting students to our colleges — we need a new definition of excellence," Dr. Colvert said.

The speaker concluded by saying there are many other areas in higher education in need of modernization such as student personnel, merit raises, faculty ratings and research versus teaching.

Northeast President George T. Walker introduced Dr. Colvert.

Food Price Freeze May Be Favored

WASHINGTON (Special) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, has said he would favor a freeze in food prices if prices continue to increase.

The Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry last week approved a resolution calling for a field study to be made by the Agriculture Department to determine the cause of the recent price rises in bread, milk, and other retail agricultural commodities. Legislation to regulate food prices has already been introduced in the Congress.

In an interview, Ellender said that he would favor freezing prices "particularly if the war in Viet Nam is enlarged."

Ellender said that he would hesitate to support such legislation, "but I would rather have prices frozen than to find our country in an inflationary position where we couldn't stop the run-away."

He said that the price increases were not justified from the farmer's standpoint. "The cost of the rises in these prices is not due to the price supports the farmer received," Ellender said, "or even to the prices the farmer receives."

The Senator said he was very concerned with the prices increases "because I do not believe there is any good reason for them." He said that he thought the increases were due to labor costs, the transportation costs, and other in-betweens."

The Gallup Poll -

Campaign Spending Changes Favored

By GEORGE GALLUP

The American people favor radical changes in campaign spending — changes which, if put into effect, might help improve the tarnished image of politics today.

The amount of money being spent on campaigns for public office is colossal — and mounting. A million dollars or more may be spent in running for a seat in the U.S. Senate. Even in a presidential primary election campaign, many millions of dollars are sometimes spent.

President Johnson in his message to Congress on campaign spending said: "Public confidence in the elective process is the foundation of public confidence in government . . . We have laws dealing with campaign financing. But they have failed . . . They are more loophole than law."

The President also said: "We have done nothing to insure that able men of modest means can undertake elective service unencumbered by debts of loyalty to wealthy supporters."

The public's views on campaign spending will be of special interest to the Congressional committees now holding hearings on the subject.

1. By a large majority (72 per cent), the public favors putting a top limit on the amount which can be spent by or for a candidate. Some laws — State and Federal — already exist concerning the top limit an individual can give, or candidates can spend, but many ways have been found to get around these laws.

The survey question, and results:

"Would you favor or oppose a law which would put a limit on the total amount of money which can be spent for or by a candidate in his campaign for public office?"

Favor	72%
Oppose	18
No opinion	10

2. The public endorses present laws that prohibit corporations and labor unions from making contributions to parties or candidates in political campaigns. Such laws are presently widely disregarded.

The survey questions and results:

"Do you think corporations should or should not be permitted to make campaign contributions?"

Should	27%
Should not	56

"What about labor unions — do you think labor unions should or should not be permitted to make campaign contributions?"

Pamphlet to Every Home

How can a candidate present his case without spending a lot of money?

One suggestion for cutting campaign costs is to have the U.S. Government print and distribute free a pamphlet dealing with the views of each candidate for Federal office.

The proposal receives majority support, as seen in the results to the following question:

"To reduce the cost of running for Congress, it has been suggested that the government print and distribute free a pamphlet dealing with the qualifications and views of each candidate, prepared in standard form. The pamphlet would be mailed to all households in each district. Do you think this would be a good idea, or a poor idea?"

Good idea	57%
Poor idea	32
No opinion	11

One way to raise money for campaigns would be to widen the base of political contributions. The weight of public opinion is on the side of permitting a person who makes a contribution (up to $50) to deduct this amount on his Federal income tax. President Johnson has asked that contributions up to $100 be made deductible.

The survey question and findings:

"Suppose a person makes up to a $50 contribution to one of the major political parties. Do you think he should be able to deduct this amount on his Federal income tax or not?"

Yes	48%
No	41
No opinion	11

Free Radio and TV Time?

Still another proposal for cutting campaign costs is to require all radio and television stations to give a certain amount of free time to the national political parties during election years.

By a small margin, the public favors such a law. And if such a law were to go into effect, a majority (55 per cent) of all persons interviewed would approve if some of the time given to political parties were evening hours when popular shows are broadcast.

The questions, and results:

"Do you think all television and radio stations should or should not be required by law to give a certain amount of free time to the national political parties during election year?"

Should	49%
Should not	40
No opinion	11

"If TV and radio stations were required to do so, would you approve or disapprove if some of this time given to the political parties were evening hours when popular shows are broadcast?"

Approve	55%
Disapprove	35
No opinion	10

Increasing Public Participation

The President has called for broadening the participation of the public in financing political campaigns.

Survey findings show the following:

An estimated 20 million families would be willing to contribute $5 to the campaign fund of the political party they prefer during the coming campaign.

An estimated 32 million people say they would be willing to work as a volunteer for their party.

The above findings show that the money is there and the workers available, if the political parties exercise ingenuity in taking advantage of this favorable situation.

To fill its campaign coffers, a party or candidate would have to organize at the local level with the same efficiency as do the Community Chest drives and other local campaigns.

To be successful in recruiting workers, the parties would have to improve the image now held of the political profession, and particularly of local politicians.

Summary Of Public's Views

1. The public, by a ratio of 4-to-1, favors a law which would put a limit on the total amount which can be spent for or by a candidate.
2. A majority favors laws which prohibit corporations and labor unions from making contributions to parties or candidates.
3. The weight of opinion is that a person should be able to deduct from his Federal income tax a $50 contribution to one of the major parties.
4. A majority favors having the government print and distribute a pamphlet dealing with the views of each candidate for Federal office.
5. The weight of opinion is that all television and radio stations should be required by law to give a certain amount of free time to the national political parties during election years.
6. An estimated 32 million adults say they would be willing to work as a volunteer for their party during the coming campaign.
7. An estimated 20 million families would be willing to contribute $5 to the campaign fund of their party, if they were asked.

Belgian To Be Asked In On Dispute

THE HAGUE (UPI) —A Belgian diplomat may be asked to mediate the dispute between the Netherlands and Red China stemming from the mysterious death of a visiting Chinese engineer, sources close to the government said Saturday.

The sources said the "logical choice" appeared to be Belgian ambassador Baron Francois-Xavier van Der Straten-Waillet, dean of the diplomatic corps in the Hague.

The case—known here simply as "The Chinese affair" — stands this way:

—Dutch police still wish to question eight Chinese engineers holed up in their country's legation building about a colleague, Hsu Tsu-Tzai, found fatally injured in the street outside the Chinese headquarters. Taken to a hospital, he was kidnaped by Chinese diplomats and taken back to the legation, where he died.

—Dutch charge d'affaires G. J. Jongejans, has been ordered out of Red China, but is being held as hostage until the engineers, who have no diplomatic immunity outside the legation, leave Holland.

Although there seems no solution to the impasse, unless Dutch police relent on their demands to interview the other engineers, there were signs that both sides sought a face-saving settlement.

The Dutch Parliament's foreign affairs committee met Friday to consider the case. It was then reported that Straten-Waillier's name came up. Sources said a break in relations was not discussed.

Trail Through Mind Of Man That Led To Massacre Traced

EDITORS NOTE — What led to Charles Whitman's monstrous day of wrath atop the tower? Here is the trial through the mind of one man that led to massacre on a quiet summer day in Texas.

By SAUL PETT
AND JULES LOH

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — On March 2, 1966, a sunny day in the seaside town of Lake Worth, Fla., where mothers used to ask their kids, "Why can't you be like Charley Whitman?", Charles Joseph Whitman, now 25, full grown, tall, handsome, was walking up and down outside his father's house.

He did not go in. Instead, he paced the sidewalk and as he did was seen wiping his eyes. Was it dust or was it tears?

The overwhelming evidence, now crying out from the soul and brain of a dead man, votes for tears. Tears, then, we assume it was, although few people ever saw Charles Whitman troubled.

GOOD OLD CHARLEY

Not good old Charley, the nice guy, the boy with the all-American look, the good friend, the earnest student, the playful kidder, the reliable altar boy, the sailing paper boy, the first Eagle Scout around at the age of 12, the sharp-eyed deer hunter of the Everglades, the boy who never forgot to say ma'am and sir, the best college roommate a fellow ever had — the boy, the adolescent, the man who always appeared on the sunny side of promise.

March 2, a Wednesday, a day of tears five months before a day of wrath.

Inside the house, Charles Whitman's mother was packing her things. She was leaving his father. She would drive to Austin with her eldest son and live there.

So he waited, not going in, and began to worry. He found a phone and called the police and asked them to protect his mother on her last day in his father's house. The call would become the first of many crushing ironies. The police came, found no reason to stay.

In Austin, Charles Whitman found an apartment for his mother. It was just two miles from the small brick duplex where Charles lived with his pretty wife, Kathleen. It was one mile from the landmark he liked to visit — the soaring bell tower of the University of Texas, where a man could see the campus, the town, the rolling prairie, the big sky and, perhaps, a way out of pain and hate.

But most people saw no pain, no hate in Charley Whitman. He seemed like a guy who had everything.

He and his Kathy, still as pretty as the day she was crowned Queen of the Youth Fair back in her home town of Needville, Tex.; still as lovely as the day she became his bride four years ago.

He had a comfortable home which Kathy kept so tidy other campus wives marveled. They both had good summer jobs, she at the telephone company, he as an assistant at the university's engineering research lab.

He had his guns. He and three brothers were brought up with guns. Charley liked guns so much he once got into a spot of trouble on account of one. During a hitch in the Marines after high school he was busted in rank for keeping a pistol in his barracks and aboard ship. With a campus buddy and fellow gun lover, Charley liked to discuss guns, heft them, work their precisely engineered bolts, caress their smooth walnut stocks.

He was going well enough in his architectural engineering courses. After a wobbly start, he was pulling his grades up. In high school he ranked seventh in his class. Now, in college, he was trying to get back on the ball.

He and Kathy enjoyed picnics and outings at the lake with friends. Charley, ever the outdoorsman, found time to be scoutmaster at the First Methodist church which Kathy attended.

HOW THEY SAW HIM

This, then, was the way most people saw Charles Joseph Whitman.

But behind the warm glow, there were dark spots. Close friends noted them. Lawrence Fuess and his wife, whom the Whitmans often had over for candlelight dinners, saw an interior tension, a temper that needed to be consciously checked. Charley Whitman, it seemed, thought Charley Whitman needed watching. There is no evidence that anybody else did.

"Even when he looked perfectly normal," said Elaine Fuess, "he gave you this feeling of trying to control something in himself. He knew he had a temper and he saw it in himself. He saw the idea of cruelty in himself and tried to suppress it. He had seen cruelty before and he didn't want it in his own house."

Mrs. Fuess that when she first met Charley he was "very high-strung." But lately, Mrs. Whitman told her friend, "he was calming down a lot."

Calming down lately, said Kathy Whitman. Friends thought this, too. Almost everybody, it seemed, thought Charley Whitman was calming his private storm.

The Fuesses and other friends saw something else — a constant, gnawing need to succeed and excell. "He was nervous quit a bit," said Don Thornbury, a former college roommate. "He pushed himself so much to do well in school. He set such high standards for himself. He just pushed and pushed."

Woman Dies At Age Of 116

BASSETT, Va. (AP) — Mahala Lewis, who said three years ago she thought "my time is nearly here," died Saturday at the approximate age of 116.

Death came to Mrs. Lewis after a short illness at the rural home of a daughter — one of 189 survivors of the colorful centenarian who until rerently took pride in doing her own cooking.

Included among the survivors are three daughters, one son, 39 grandchildren, 101 great-grandchildren and 45 great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Lewis set the date of her birth as 1850 in Franklin County and vividly recalled Civil War days, although she said she "didn't pay it no mind."

Active until her recent illness, she lived in a trailer beside her daughter's home near the community of Henry. She had been married twice — to John Harley, who was killed in a farm accident, and to Charles Lewis.

Election Set

EL DORADO, Ark. (Special) — The El Dorado City Council has called a special election for September 20 to vote on the proposal to extend the city limits.

The plan would extend the limits to include approximately an additional 22 square miles. Six to eight thousand persons would be included in the area.

Five-Day Session

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The second annual Louisiana Institute on Alcoholic Studies opens Monday at the Louisiana State University campus for a five-day session.

Mississippi Production Tests Noted

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Productions tests were reported under way today at a Smith County wildcat well and the oil industry was watching with interest.

The well is the Shell Oil Co., and R. Merrill Harris & Associates No. 1 James in section 5, 1 north, 9 east, located about four miles south of Sylvarena.

The electrical log was run to 15,856 feet and seven-inch casing was set, with the operators electing to perforate and test oil shows found in the Cotton Valley Zone rather than drill to the contract dept of 17,100 feet and test the Smackover lime. It is reported that a zone of 15,000 feet has been perforated and the operators have released no information.

The important test is located about eight miles southwest of the Bay Springs Oil Field which produces from the Cotton Valley Zone.

Pan American Petroleum is below 12,600 feet in its closely-watched Wayne County wildcat, the U.S.A.—G.M.&O. Land Co., section 3, 7N-8W, with the venture scheduled to be drilled deep enough to test the Smackover lime. Oil shows of yet undetermined commercial worth have been logged at 11,204 feet and 12,000 feet. The operators have released little information on the venture, located about seven miles southwest of Waynesboro.

In Simpson County, Phillips Petroleum is reported preparing to resume drilling below 19,480 feet in its deep wildcat, the Zellerbach No. B-1, section 25, 1N-3E, located about two miles northeast of Pinola. The well is to go to 20,500 feet and no information is being released.

Also in Simpson, Humble Oil is below 11,000 feet in its wildcat, the Phillips No. 1, sec. 8-2N-4E, a scheduled 14,000 foot try.

In Madison County, C. C. Murray Jr., is below 11,500 in his wildcat, the Davis No.1, sec 9-11N-3E, about one mile south of shallow oil production in the Pickens Field. It is to go to 12,000 feet to test the Smackover lime.

Four important wildcat wells are being drilled in Jasper County.

Pan American is below 15,200 feet in its No. 1 Graham, sec. 6-10N-11W, located near Mossville. Skelly Oil is below 9,400 feet in its No. 1 McCoy ,sec. 31-3N-11E, located about six miles northeast of Bay Springs.

Nigeria Turns Loose Detainees

The list includes four former regional ministers from the midwest, headed by Chief H Omo-Osagie. Chief D.N. Ogan save, former parliamentary secretary to the federal Finance Ministry, and Mallam Ibrahim Nock, northern Nigeria labor leader, also were freed.

The New Look For Casual Wear
BEWITCHED . . . three quarter bell sleeves, slit sides and new v-neck are main attractions of this color jacquard pullover of 88% wool and 12% nylon. 34 to 38. 18.00—Basic double knit capri with elasticized waistband, in 100% virgin wool, 8 to 18, 18.00. Both in Green or Brown.

Mississippi Production Tests Noted

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Productions tests were reported under way today at a Smith County wildcat well and the oil industry was watching with interest.

The well is the Shell Oil Co., and R. Merrill Harris & Associates No. 1 James in section 5, 1 north, 9 east, located about four miles south of Sylvarena.

The electrical log was run to 15,856 feet and seven-inch casing was set, with the operators electing to perforate and test oil shows found in the Cotton Valley Zone rather than drill to the contract dept of 17,100 feet and test the Smackover lime. It is reported that a zone of 15,000 feet has been perforated and the operators have released no information.

The important test is located about eight miles southwest of the Bay Springs Oil Field which produces from the Cotton Valley Zone.

Pan American Petroleum is below 12,600 feet in its closely-watched Wayne County wildcat, the U.S.A.—G.M.&O. Land Co., section 3, 7N-8W, with the venture scheduled to be drilled deep enough to test the Smackover lime. Oil shows of yet undetermined commercial worth have been logged at 11,204 feet and 12,000 feet. The operators have released little information on the venture, located about seven miles southwest of Waynesboro.

In Simpson County, Phillips Petroleum is reported preparing to resume drilling below 19,480 feet in its deep wildcat, the Zellerbach No. B-1, section 25, 1N-3E, located about two miles northeast of Pinola. The well is to go to 20,500 feet and no information is being released.

Also in Simpson, Humble Oil is below 11,000 feet in its wildcat, the Phillips No. 1, sec. 8-2N-4E, a scheduled 14,000 foot try.

In Madison County, C. C. Murray Jr., is below 11,500 in his wildcat, the Davis No.1, sec 9-11N-3E, about one mile south of shallow oil production in the Pickens Field. It is to go to 12,000 feet to test the Smackover lime.

Four important wildcat wells are being drilled in Jasper County.

Pan American is below 15,200 feet in its No. 1 Graham, sec. 6-10N-11W, located near Mossville. Skelly Oil is below 9,400 feet in its No. 1 McCoy ,sec. 31-3N-11E, located about six miles northeast of Bay Springs.

Charter Granted

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A charter to establish a chapter of Omicron Delta Epsilon, national honor society in economics, has been granted to the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Nigeria Turns Loose Detainees

The list includes four former regional ministers from the midwest, headed by Chief H. Omo-Osagie. Chief D.N. Oronsaye, former parliamentary secretary to the federal Finance Ministry, and Mallam Ibrahim Nock, northern Nigeria labor leader, also were freed.

Burglar Dies By Electrocution

NEW YORK (AP)—A window in Herbert Price's fourth-floor apartment is an easy jump from the empty building next door.

After burglars entered it three times, Price rigged up an electrified metal gate across the window.

He wired it to turn back any future burglar with a nonlethal jolt, he said.

When Price arrived home early Saturday from his job as a private guard, he found a man's body hanging head-down with a foot caught in his electric gate.

Detectives said Montalvo had been electrocuted.

Recording Artist Dies In Mishap

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Recording artist Joseph Gilbert, 23, of the singing team Joe and Eddie was killed Saturday in an auto accident on a freeway interchange.

Highway patrol officers said Gilbert's car overturned and burst into flames as he was driving from the northbound Long Beach Freeway to the inbound Santa Ana Freeway.

West Carroll School Head Is Chosen

OAK GROVE (Special) — L. H. Willis, supervisor of instruction for the West Carroll Parish school system since 1949, has been chosen to succeed C. W. Gilmore, who is retiring, as superintendent of West Carroll Parish Schools.

A. C. Fryday, Kilbourne High School principal, has been chosen as supervisor of high school instruction, succeeding H. M. Thomas, who is also retiring, and T. Lavelle Hammett, Forest High School principal, as supervisor of elementary instruction, to replace Willis.

Adams Selected By International

A former Monroyan has joined International Paper Company as public relations representative for the Bastrop and Louisiana mills, according to a joint announcement by mill managers, Starlus Rigell and John Oswald.

Ezra Adams will succeed John Blanchard as representative. Before joining International, Adams was in Hammond where he was director of publications at Southeast Louisiana College. A graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College with a degree in journalism, Adams has a master's degree from Louisiana State University in journalism also.

Adams was reared in Franklin Parish and graduated from Winnsboro High School. He is married to the former Catherine Ward of Monroe and the couple have two children.

3 Appointed To Positions

Three members of the School of Pharmacy faculty at Northeast Louisiana State College have been appointed to positions in the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association and the Louisiana Heart Association.

Dean Ben F. Cooper has been named chairman of the Interprofessional Relations Committee of the State Pharmaceutical Association and Dr. Frank Martin, professor of pharmacognosy, and Dr. Joseph Kern, professor of pharmacy administration, were appointed members of that committee.

Dr. Kern has also been named chairman of the state-wide Speakers Bureau and a member of the Coordinating Committee on Community Facilities of the Louisiana Heart Association.

West Carroll School Head Is Chosen

OAK GROVE (Special) — L. H. Willis, supervisor of instruction for the West Carroll Parish school system since 1949, has been chosen to succeed C. W. Gilmore, who is retiring, as superintendent of West Carroll Parish Schools.

A. C. Fryday, Kilbourne High School principal, has been chosen as supervisor of high school instruction, suceeding H. M. Thomas, who is also retiring, and T. Lavelle Hammett, Forest High School principal, as supervisor of elementary instruction, to replace Willis.

Adams Selected By International

A former Monroyan has joined International Paper Company as public relations representative for the Bastrop and Louisiana mills, according to a joint announcement by mill managers, Starlus Rigell and John Oswald.

Ezra Adams will succeed John Blanchard as representative. Before joining International, Adams was in Hammond where he was director of publications at Southeast Louisiana College. A graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College with a degree in journalism, Adams has a master's degree from Louisiana State University in journalism also.

Adams was reared in Franklin Parish and graduated from Winnsboro High School. He is married to the former Catherine Ward of Monroe and the couple have two children.

3 Appointed To Positions

Three members of the School of Pharmacy faculty at Northeast Louisiana State College have been appointed to positions in the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association and the Louisiana Heart Association.

Dean Ben F. Cooper has been named chairman of the Interprofessional Relations Committee of the State Pharmaceutical Association and Dr. Frank Martin, professor of pharmacognosy, and Dr. Joseph Kern, professor of pharmacy administration, were appointed members of that committee.

Dr. Kern has also been named chairman of the state-wide Speakers Bureau and a member of the Coordinating Committee on Community Facilities of the Louisiana Heart Association.

BILLYE L.
ADAMS
JUDGE
Monroe City Court
(Wards 3 and 10)

The growth of Monroe requires and the public demands a complete change of our City Court in order to meet the demands of the times. "Complete" change to the extent that the worth of the individual citizens be recognized, that standarized fines be abolished, and the court refrain from participating in the prosecution of cases before it.

This WILL NOT be done simply by change of men on the bench and CANNOT be done by one having little or no working knowledge of this court and trial work in general. It is imperative that the Judge of this court be experienced in the trial of cases to protect the rights of all parties. Further, the Judge must be truly independent from undue influence from ANY source.

Having actively practiced both civil and criminal law in this court for 15 years, I am familiar with the practices, problems, and human elements involved. I feel that I am from the standpoint of education, experience, temperament, and human understanding qualified for this office. Further, I have the independence, interest, and determination to make these changes that are so necessary.

I have deep faith in the worth of the individual man and feel that he is entitled to a presumption of good faith as he is entitled to the legal presumption of innocence. I do not believe there is such a thing as a "little case"—certainly not to the person involved, for his is the ONLY case—and it is important.

Graduates In ROTC Get Advice

The military leader of today must play many roles, Dr. T. Eugene Holtzclaw told summer ROTC graduates at Northeast Louisiana State College here Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Holtzclaw, dean of the School of Education at the College, was the speaker at commissioning ceremonies for seven new U.S. Army second lieutenants held in Biedenharn Recital Hall on the campus.

"You must be motivator, guide, disciplinarian, example and judge for your men," Holtzclaw said.

Dean Holtzclaw also listed several things the graduates must believe in if they are to be good officers. "You must be committed to the cause of democracy," he said.

"You must also believe in the dignity of man, the brotherhood of mankind, the consitutional freedoms of America and in the essential capacity for good possessed by all men."

Decelle and Lee will enter the Signal Corps; Housley and Zarro, the Infantry; Lott, the Quartermaster Corps; and Nutt and Rader, the Adjutant General Corps.

Housley and Rader were designated as Distinguished Military Graduates. Graduates receiving the honor designation are chosen on the basis of leadership, character and academic and military achievement.

Crown Passes To New Girl

OAK GROVE (Special) —Miss Naomi Causey, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. N. W. Causey, of Oak Grove, first runnerup in the Miss West Carroll Pageant, will reign for the remainder of this year.

"Complete" change to the extent that the worth of the individual citizens be recognized, that standarized fines be abolished, and the court refrain from participating in the prosecution of cases before it.

This WILL NOT be done simply by change of men on the bench and CANNOT be done by one having little or no working knowledge of this court and trial work in general. It is imperative that the Judge of this court be experienced in the trial of cases to protect the rights of all parties. Further, the Judge must be truly independent from undue influence from ANY source.

Having actively practiced both civil and criminal law in this court for 15 years, I am familiar with the practices, problems, and human elements involved. I feel that I am from the standpoint of education, experience, temperament, and human understanding qualified for this office. Further, I have the independence, interest, and determination to make these changes that are so necessary.

I have deep faith in the worth of the individual man and feel that he is entitled to a presumption of good faith as he is entitled to the legal presumption of innocence. I do not believe there is such a thing as a "little case"—certainly not to the person involved, for his is the ONLY case—and it is important.

Graduates In ROTC Get Advice

The military leader of today must play many roles, Dr. T. Eugene Holtzclaw told summer ROTC graduates at Northeast Louisiana State College here Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Holtzclaw, dean of the School of Education at the College, was the speaker at commissioning ceremonies for seven new U.S. Army second lieutenants held in Biedenharn Recital Hall on the campus.

"You must be motivator, guide, disciplinarian, example and judge for your men," Holtzclaw said.

Dean Holtzclaw also listed several things the graduates must believe in if they are to be good officers. "You must be committed to the cause of democracy," he said.

"You must also believe in the dignity of man, the brotherhood of mankind, the consitutional freedoms of America and in the essential capacity for good possessed by all men."

Decelle and Lee will enter the Signal Corps; Housley and Zarro, the Infantry; Lott, the Quartermaster Corps; and Nutt and Rader, the Adjutant General Corps.

Housley and Rader were designated as Distinguished Military Graduates. Graduates receiving the honor designation are chosen on the basis of leadership, character and academic and military achievement.

3 Honored At Northeast For Services

Three Honor Professorships named for persons rendering great service to Northeast Louisiana State College and Louisiana education in general—former Gov. James A. Noe of Monroe, the late Col. George T. Madison of Bastrop and Mrs. Eleanore H. Meade of New Orleans — have been established at the college.

The professorships were approved by the State Board of Education in its meeting Saturday and announced by Dr. George T. Walker, Northeast president.

In announcing the professorships, Dr. Walker said, "There are few things more enduring than a college, and the core of any college — one of it's permament values — is its faculty. To honor them is to honor the college.

"It is with great pride that I announce the action of the State Board of Education in establishing three Honor Professorships at Northeast Louisiana State College. The professorships will honor three of the great citizens of Louisiana whose contributions to the progress of our state include an earnest support of and continuing devotion to the cause of education in all its phases.

"Later in the year three members of the faculty will be selected to receive these professorships. Thus the Honor Professorships will have the further effect of giving recognition to the high ability of the college faculty, and to the outstanding contributions they are making in effective teaching, forward-looking administration, and worthy research."

Recognition banquets will be held at an early date, Dr. Walker said, in Monroe for Noe, in Bastrop for the Madison family and in New Orleans for Mrs. Meade.

Dr. Walker said the naming of one of the professorships in honor of Noe is based on his leadership in securing passage of the act authorizing Louisiana State University to take over the operation of what was then Ouachita Parish Junior College from the Parish School Board, and for his continuing contributions to Northeast.

"The George T. Madison and Eleanore H. Meade Honor Professorships have been established in recognition of their great service to Louisiana education as members of the State Board of Education," Dr. Walker said.

Col. Madison (1898-1965), prominent attorney and president of the Louisiana Bar Association in 1950, served on the State Board of Education from 1931 to 1963 and was president of the body from 1948 through 1952.

Mrs. Meade is the only woman ever elected to the State Board and served for 35 years until her retirement in 1962. She was vice president of the Board from 1937 through 1952 and president in 1953. She is currently serving her 19th year as a member of the board of trustees of George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn.

State May Get Another House Seat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The apparent defeat of Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn., in Thursday's primary could mean another House committee chairmanship next year for Louisiana's already powerful congressional delegation.

Murray is chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee. Ranking immediately behind him is Rep. James H. Morrison, D-La.

Morrison, assuming his own renomination and re-election this year thus would be in line for the chairmanship if final returns show Murray—trailing in near final returns—was defeated.

At present Louisiana members of Congress hold three chairmanships — plus both the House and Senate Democratic whip posts. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee; Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., is chairman of the Finance Committee and is Senate whip; Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., is chairman of the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities and Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., is House Democratic whip.

Boggs said that Louisiana and the 6th District could be proud that the chairmanship is due to go to Morrison, thus giving the state four top committee posts.

Ellender and Willis also are running for renomination next Saturday in addition to Morrison. Boggs is unopposed.

Infantrymen Train In Louisiana For Survival In Viet Nam

Monroe Morning World

Monroe, La., August 7, 1966 1-B

Many riflemen headed for Viet Nam go with high morale, a product of realistic training by combat veterans. It's a program aimed at helping them survive combat, but some critics contend the course is too short, teaches the wrong things, and the men often don't pay attention.

By JOHN T. WHEELER

FT. POLK, La. (AP) — "Ambush."

A diminutive GI screams the dreaded word as a burst of fire seemed to engulf the entire truck convoy snaking through the Louisiana countryside.

The draftee infantrymen spill out of the vehicles, pause in confusion and finally, under the prodding of instructors, form a line to charge the hidden weapons that are raking their ranks.

After it is over, a sergeant veteran of Viet Nam growls in mixed disgust and despair: "If it had been for real, none of them would have made it."

NOT FOR REAL

But it wasn't for real. The ambush near Ft. Polk was simulated for the benefit of men who would be serving with rifle companies in Viet Nam combat in a matter of weeks.

They wore camouflaged helmets to identify them as members of the 3rd Training Brigade which turns out fighting men for Viet Nam. There the cry of "ambush" signals the most vicious life or death struggle to be found in the war.

"Sure they make plenty of mistakes but they are getting far better training than I ever had before going to Viet Nam," a corporal instructor said later. "Man, I learned my fighting with O.J.T. on the job trainng."

The U.S. Army and Marines proudly claim they are turning out the best crop of young fighting men in the nation's history.

One tribute to the military training establishment is the high morale of men who know they are headed for combat in Viet Nam.

Pvt. Thomas Mattison of Hackettstown, N.P., summed up the feeling of more than a dozen recruits in one bull session.

"I was a little shocked — and pretty proud — to be picked," he said. "Only 11 men from our basic training company got orders here."

"Looking forward to Viet Nam? Well, not exactly. But I'm ready to go and do my job," said Pvt. Arthur Guerrero of Denver, Colo. He added he, too, was proud to have been selected for the "Viet Nam brigade."

TRAINING PRAISED

Col. Hal Moore, a commander of one of the 1st Calvalry, Airmobile, Division's brigades in Viet Nam, wrote to Ft. Polk authorities to say graduates of the training school were extremely well trained. "I've never seen such dedication. They are willing to close with the Viet Cong and are not afraid to fight."

Reproductions of Vietnamese villages, complete with booby traps, tunnels and even livestock have sprung up at many Army and Marine training bases. A major percentage of instructors are veterans of Viet Nam fighting.

Army and Marine training commanders are constantly pouring over action reports from Viet Nam to look for new tests that should be incorporated into stateside training programs.

The Army has added an extra week to its advanced training for recruits pegged for combat in Viet Nam. Increasingly the stress in trainng is on realism and practice in the field.

"This is the first war the United States slid into fairly slowly," said a paratroop major. "We've taken every advantage of it to boost the chances of the rifleman who goes next to come home alive."

KEY PROBLEMS REMAIN

But for all the knowledge gained in Viet Nam, the key problem remains — how to compress to the minimum the time it takes to make a green unit or replacement battlewise. Some Americans have died in Viet Nam because frightened or confused buddies shot or grenaded them by accident. In other instances, hesitation and confusion in newly arrived units have cost them dearly.

Col. Conrad Stransberry, commander the 3rd Brigade, summed up the opinion of senior officers both in Viet Nam and the United States by saying: "Even the best training under the most realistic circumstances possible, no soldier can understand combat until he gets into a real fight."

There is some sharp criticism of the U.S. training program by some of the men whose job it is to give recruits the basic expertise.

A common one is that the programs are too short to give the new GIs a chance to pick up more than a general impression of what's going on.

"If they are going to stay alive, they have to move instinctively. They can't do that when they leave here," a captain said.

SOME COMPLAINTS

At one training base with a Viet Nam village, the Buddhist pagoda, or church, has tunnels leading underground from below the altar and places to hide weapons.

During the actual problem, the bonze or priest, takes the role of helping the American troops by pointing out the Viet Cong in the simulated village.

The original idea called for the bonze to be sympathetic to the Viet Cong. Opposition from the chaplains' office reportedly forced a change in the script even though countryside pagodas in Viet Nam often are key parts of the Communist apparatus.

Most Vietnamese village reproductions are virtually free of undergrowth so the instructors can see what is going on during a field problem. In Viet Nam the real villages are laid out in a crazy quilt pattern with narrow, twisting trails through thick bamboo and undergrowth that gives the enemy plenty of room to hide.

Other instructors complain about "momism" which they say prevents tougher training for fear that a letter home might lead to a complaint to a congressman. Kickbacks can seriously damage military careers.

INFORMATION NEED

At Ft. Bragg, one source complained of the "pathetic lack of information" GIs from his base had about the people, customs and background of Viet Nam before going over.

Ft. Bragg is not a training base but many men from the 82nd Airborne Division and other units are transferred individually to Viet Nam.

INFANTRY TRAINEES, soon to be shipped to combat units in Viet Nam, enter a simulated Vietnamese village through a path of barbed wire and bamboo stakes at Fort Polk, La. The men are undergoing a one-week added training session to prepare them for fighting in Viet Nam. Replicas of Vietnamese villages, complete with booby traps, tunnels and even livestock have sprung up at many Army and Marine bases in the U.S. Instructors, mostly veterans of Viet Nam fighting, try to show the men what they can expect in Viet Nam and what mistakes to avoid to stay alive. TRAINEES AT FORT POLK, La., move through a quick fire course, armed with BB guns, to fire at pop-up targets while at the same time looking out for booby traps. Instructors pull wires that make the targets pop up in front of the infantrymen walking through the course. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Food, Drug Commissioner Not Pleased With View Of Nation's Medicine Cabinet

The first medical doctor to head the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, Dr. James Lee Goddard, has tightened down on regulation of drugs, stating that 'The optimum degree of public protection is our goal.' He has many supporters and critics. Here are some of their viewpoints.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early this year a lean and vigorous doctor yanked the door open to take a hard new look inside the nation's medicine cabinet.

Dr. James Lee Goddard — soon to win the nickname "Go Go Goddard" — was disenchanted with a good deal of what he saw as new commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, and as the first medical doctor to hold that office.

In a country highly conscious about drugs, he quickly and forcefully made his views known.

MADE VIEWS KNOWN

He ordered half a dozen or so prescriptions drugs off the market on grounds they were mislabled or didn't live up to claims.

He accused drug manufacturers of often being irresponsible, and lashed out at what he saw as faults in drug advertising.

The Goddard approach has spurred some protests from pharmaceutical leaders and some doctors as well.

They object that his accusations and some actions are too sweeping, too abrupt, undemocratic, unfair.

Some accuse him of slowing the progress of medical research, and of interfering with the practice of medicine.

Since taking office Jan. 17, Dr. Goddard's whirlwind of activity has put the FDA smack in front of the public eye.

Some drug industry leaders say they hope Goddard's moves were designed primarily to give the FDA a new image, and that now or soon he may adopt a more moderate course.

"NEW IMAGE"

A Goddard aide implies that creating a "new image" was part of the new commissioner's plans, saying:

"Jim is speaking to and through the manufacturers to the public. Patients are reading about the FDA. Dr. Goddard is talking about the little people and how can organized medicine fight him about that." He is proud of his M.D. degree, and he can go right to the public, as a doctor. He receives lots of letters from little people approving his steps. There's a new relationship now between the FDA and the public."

Until recently, the FDA was a much understaffed agency in its drug responsibilities.

Amendments to the food and drug law, passed in 1962, gave FDA the task of seeing to it that new drugs — and old ones as well, in FDA's interpretation — were not only safe but also effective. And they greatly tightened requirements for animal and human testing before a potential new drug could be approved for wider scale human testing, or before it could later be licensed for general distribution.

These changes followed congressional hearings that aired—among other things — the tragedy of a sleeping pill, thalidomide, which horribly deformed babies born to some women taking the pills during pregnancy. Developed in Germany, thalidomide had not been approved for marketing in this country.

But the FDA, say numerous observers, became bogged down for lack of manpower in trying to meet its broadened duties. A completed application to market a new drug has been taking 18 months or longer for processing and decision, says Joseph Stetler, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

Now, he adds, it costs about $5 million to develop a new drug from initial research through all the required testing, compared with about $2 million five or more years ago.

Dr. Goddard is beefing up the FDA medical and scientific staff, and is hewing to the new amendments, with which "I am in strong agreement." For about two years he practiced medicine in his native Ohio, and has served in public health posts for more than a dozen years, the last three as director of the Communicable Disease Center of the U. S. Public Health Service in Atlanta, Ga.

APPROVAL WITHDRAWN

Early along in his new job, he withdrew approval for a number of prescription drugs, on grounds of mislabeling or misrepresentation in advertising, of ineffectiveness for claimed purposes, some grounds that adverse effects were not mentioned, or that evidence of harmful effects in animal tests had not been mentioned.

In a speech to the PMA, Dr. Goddard told manufacturers that improper labeling of drugs, improper advertising, poorly prepared applications for drugs for investigation or for licensing, "are all symptoms of a disease that drugs cannot cure — but which can undermine the industry as we know it. That disease is irresponsibility."

Public response by drug manufacturers to Goddard had been mild thus far, but leaders object that all are being tarred for the actions of a few.

"It's easy for him to say that the industry should police itself and enforce its code of ethics," said one company president. "But a code of ethics hasn't the force of law. If we tried to do anything about the advertising of a competitor — whose claims we think are unfounded and unfair — we might find ourselves in court for restraint of trade."

Dr. Goddard tramped on other toes when he ordered relabeling of long-acting sulfa drugs, which were suspected of causing sometimes fatal reactions in some people.

The new wording encourages doctors to consider using short-acting sulfas, as being effective for the same purposes, before prescribing the longer-acting drugs.

This drew protest from the Council on Drugs of the American Medical Association. It said doctors should have full information from all sources about all drugs, and that no agency should "preclude individual physicians from evaluating the available published facts and selecting the drug for an individual patient according to the particular circumstances concerned."

OBJECTION RAISED

Dr. James Z. Appel, past president of the AMA, objected to the "apparent basic regulatory concept that the effective and safe use of drugs by physicians can be assured only by regulatory fiat."

Dr. Joseph F. Sadusk Jr., who resigned as medical director of FDA in an apparent clash of philosophy with Dr. Goddard, said the 1962 amendments were good moves in the public interest, but "they must be administered in a scientific and flexible manner."

"An overly strict interpretation and application of legal and regulatory language of the amendments could stifle development and production of new drugs," he said.

"To tie the hands of the doctor by dogmatic directives in the labeling or use of a drug, to over-emphasize adverse animal data without clinical confirmation, or to stress adverse experience without a reasonable degree of certainty of a cause-effect relationship is unjustifiable," Dr. Sadusk said.

How safe, how good a drug is takes time to establish, experts agree. There is no simple way to determine these answers completely before a drug is used by many thousands of people. But the public and human interests demand the best possible safeguards, and early warning of previously unsuspected reactions.

"DELICATE BUSINESS"

Dr. Goddard says of his job: "It is a delicate business, based upon judgments of men as frail as I, men in private industry, and men in government."

With a new man at the FDA helm, medical and industry leaders voice some concerns, real or potential, about the tougher regulations.

One result may be a movement by drug firms to carry out basic developments of a new drug in foreign countries, to learn if it is safe and effective, and has a market potential, before application is undertaken here, says Dr. Jean K. Weston, secretary of the AMA's Council on Drugs.

Will, one drug executive asks, the regulations slow down drug improvement? If one ingredient is changed in hopes of making a drug more effective, will it then have to run the same long, expensive gauntlet as a brand new drug?

Will small companies be driven to the wall by the costs of meeting new regulations?

To this, Dr. Goddard says "It will be inherently more difficult" for a small company to market a new drug. Only one out of 400 chemical compounds — that first look promising in the laboratory — ever prove out to reach the market, he estimates.

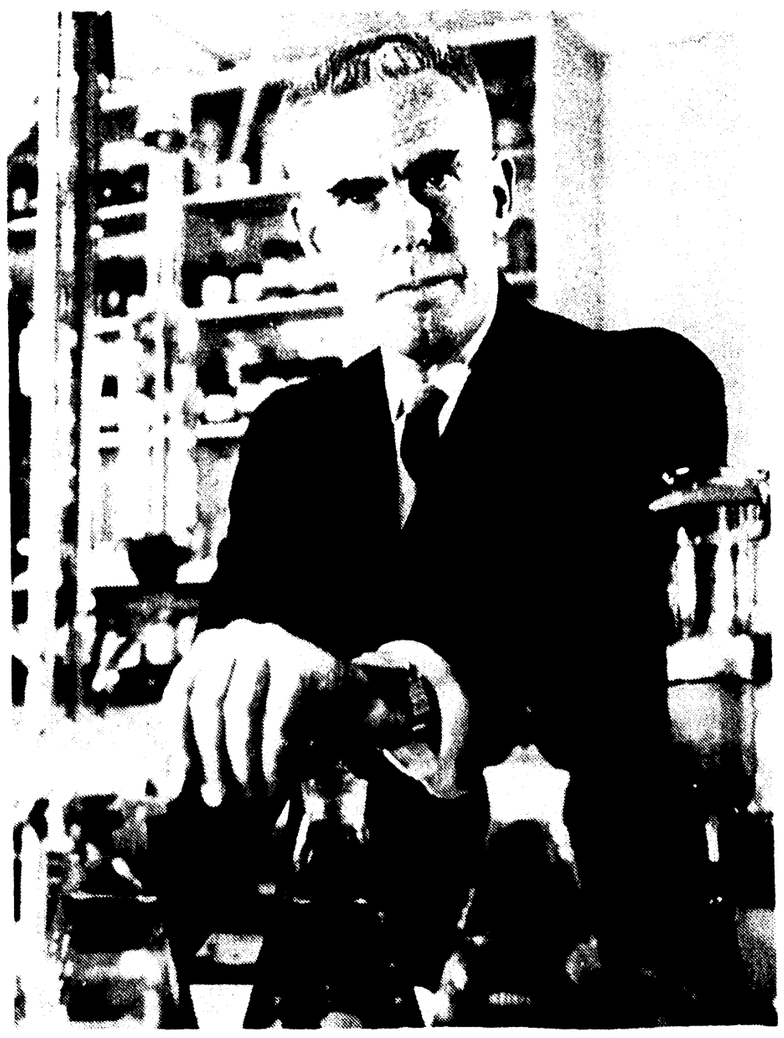
The 1962 amendments, say some critics, are so severe that a penicillin or cortisone wouldn't be approved today, because neither is a totally safe drug. Dr. Goddard replies that it would take longer for them to be approved now.

The new regulations, drug executives say, could mean a company would hesitate to develop a drug that could be very effective for some disease that isn't common, but which is highly important to its victims.

The tougher regulations have been blamed for reducing the number of entirely new drug entities approved in recent years.

In 1959, says Steler of PMA, 63 new single entities were licensed for general use. There were 17 in 1964, and 23 in 1965. But he and others point to another fact — that the basic research that produces brand new ideas and drugs does run in cycles. Fundamental knowledge bringing forward leaps takes time to build up.

One worry, to the FDA as well as pharmaceutical firms, was how the FDA would manage the mammoth task of reviewing all drugs licensed between 1938 and 1962 for safety and effectiveness.



SHORTLY AFTER Dr. James Lee Goddard took on the job of Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, they began calling him "Go Go Goddard." In a country highly conscious about drugs, he quickly and forcefully made his views known, ordering some prescription drugs off the market and accusing drug manufacturers of often being irresponsible. NOT FOR REAL

But it wasn't for real. The ambush near Ft. Polk was simulated for the benefit of men who would be serving with rifle companies in Viet Nam combat in a matter of weeks.

They wore camouflaged helmets to identify them as members of the 3rd Training Brigade which turns out fighting men for Viet Nam. There the cry of "ambush" signals the most vicious life or death struggle to be found in the war.

"Sure they make plenty of mistakes, but they are getting far better training than I ever had before going to Viet Nam," a corporal instructor said later. "Man, I learned my fighting with OJT, on the job trainng."

The U.S. Army and Marines proudly claim they are turning out the best crop of young fighting men in the nation's history.

One tribute to the military training establishment is the high morale of men who know they are headed for combat in Viet Nam.

Pvt. Thomas Mattison of Hackettstown, N.P., summed up the feeling of more than a dozen recruits in one bull session.

"I was a little shocked — and pretty proud — to be picked," he said. "Only 11 men from our basic training company got orders here."

"Looking forward to Viet Nam? Well, not exactly. But I'm ready to go and do my job," said Pvt. Arthur Guerrero of Denver, Colo. He added he, too, was proud to have been selected for the "Viet Nam brigade."

TRAINING PRAISED

Col. Hal Moore, a commander of one of the 1st Calvalry, Airmobile, Division's brigades in Viet Nam, wrote to Ft. Polk authorities to say graduates of the training school were extremely well trained. "I've never seen such dedication. They are willing to close with the Viet Cong and are not afraid to fight."

Reproductions of Vietnamese villages, complete with booby traps, tunnels and even livestock have sprung up at many Army and Marine training bases. A major percentage of instructors are veterans of Viet Nam fighting.

Army and Marine training commanders are constantly pouring over action reports from Viet Nam to look for new tests that should be incorporated into stateside training programs.

The Army has added an extra week to its advanced training for recruits pegged for combat in Viet Nam. Increasingly the stress in training is on realism and practice in the field.

"This is the first war the United States slid into fairly slowly," said a paratroop major. "We've taken every advantage of it to boost the chances of the rifleman who goes next to come home alive."

KEY PROBLEMS REMAIN

But for all the knowledge gained in Viet Nam, the key problem remains — how to compress to the minimum the time it takes to make a green unit or replacement battlewise. Some Americans have died in Viet Nam because frightened or confused buddies shot or grenaded them by accident. In other instances, hesitation and confusion in newly arrived units have cost them dearly.

Col. Conrad Stransberry, commander the 3rd Brigade, summed up the opinion of senior officers both in Viet Nam and the United States by saying: "Even the best training under the most realistic circumstances possible, no soldier can understand combat until he gets into a real fight."

There is some sharp criticism of the U.S. training program by some of the men whose job it is to give recruits the basic expertise.

A common one is that the programs are too short to give the new GIs a chance to pick up more than a general impression of what's going on.

"If they are going to stay alive, they have to move instinctively. They can't do that when they leave here," a captain said.

SOME COMPLAINTS

At one training base with a Viet Nam village, the Buddhist pagoda, or church, has tunnels leading underground from below the altar and places to hide weapons.

During the actual problem, the bonze, or priest, takes the role of helping the American troops by pointing out the Viet Cong in the simulated village.

The original idea called for the bonze to be sympathetic to the Viet Cong. Opposition from the chaplains' office reportedly forced a change in the script, even though countryside pagodas in Viet Nam often are key parts of the Communist apparatus.

Most Vietnamese village reproductions are virtually free of undergrowth so the instructors can see what is going on during a field problem. In Viet Nam the real villages are laid out in a crazy quilt pattern with narrow, twisting trails through thick bamboo and undergrowth that gives the enemy plenty of room to hide.

Other instructors complain about "momism" which they say prevents tougher training for fear that a letter home might lead to a complaint to a congressman. Kickbacks can seriously damage military careers.

INFORMATION NEED

At Ft. Bragg, one source complained of the "pathetic lack of information" GIs from his base had about the people, customs and background of Viet Nam before going over.

Ft. Bragg is not a training base but many men from the 82nd Airborne Division and other units are transferred individually to Viet Nam.

INFANTRY TRAINEES, soon to be shipped to combat units in Viet Nam, enter a simulated Vietnamese village through a path of barbed wire and bamboo stakes at Fort Polk, La. The men are undergoing a one-week added training session to prepare them for fighting in Viet Nam. Replicas of Vietnamese villages, complete with booby traps, tunnels and even livestock have sprung up at many Army and Marine bases in the U.S. Instructors, mostly veterans of Viet Nam fighting, try to show the men what they can expect in Viet Nam and what mistakes to avoid to stay alive. Food, Drug Commissioner Not Pleased With View Of Nation's Medicine Cabinet

The first medical doctor to head the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, Dr. James Lee Goddard, has tightened down on regulation of drugs, stating that 'The optimum degree of public protection is our goal.' He has many supporters and critics. Here are some of their viewpoints.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early this year a lean and vigorous doctor yanked the door open to take a hard new look inside the nation's medicine cabinet.

Dr. James Lee Goddard — soon to win the nickname "Go Go Goddard" — was disenchanted with a good deal of what he saw as new commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, and as the first medical doctor to hold that office.

In a country highly conscious about drugs, he quickly and forcefully made his views known.

MADE VIEWS KNOWN

He ordered half a dozen or so prescriptions drugs off the market on grounds they were mislabled or didn't live up to claims.

He accused drug manufacturers of often being irresponsible, and lashed out at what he saw as faults in drug advertising.

The Goddard approach has spurred some protests from pharmaceutical leaders and some doctors as well.

They object that his accusations and some actions are too sweeping, too abrupt, undemocratic, unfair.

Some accuse him of slowing the progress of medical research, and of interfering with the practice of medicine.

Some drug industry leaders say they hope Goddard's moves were designed primarily to give the FDA a new image, and that now or soon he may adopt a more moderate course.

"NEW IMAGE"

A Goddard aide implies that creating a "new image" was part of the new commissioner's plans, saying:

"Jim is speaking to and through the manufacturers to the public. Patients are reading about the FDA. Dr. Goddard is talking about the little people and how can organized medicine fight him about that? He is proud of his M.D. degree, and he can go right to the public, as a doctor. He receives lots of letters from little people approving his steps. There's a new relationship now between the FDA and the public."

Until recently, the FDA was a much-understaffed agency in its drug responsibilities.

Amendments to the food and drug law, passed in 1962, gave FDA the task of seeing to it that new drugs — and old ones as well, in FDA's interpretation — were not only safe but also effective. And they greatly tightened requirements for animal and human testing before a potential new drug could be approved for wider scale human testing, or before it could later be licensed for general distribution.

These changes followed congressional hearings that aired—among other things — the tragedy of a sleeping pill, thalidomide, which horribly deformed babies born to some women taking the pills during pregnancy. Developed in Germany, thalidomide had not been approved for marketing in this country.

But the FDA, say numerous observers, became bogged down for lack of manpower in trying to meet its broadened duties. A completed application to market a new drug has been taking 18 months or longer for processing and decision, says Joseph Stetler, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

Now, he adds, it costs about $5 million to develop a new drug from initial research through all the required testing, compared with about $2 million five or more years ago.

Dr. Goddard is beefing up the FDA medical and scientific staff, and is hewing to the new amendments, with which "I am in strong agreement." For about two years he practiced medicine in his native Ohio, and has served in public health posts for more than a dozen years, the last three as director of the Communicable Disease Center of the U. S. Public Health Service in Atlanta, Ga.

APPROVAL WITHDRAWN

Early along in his new job, he withdrew approval for a number of prescription drugs, on grounds of mislabeling or misrepresentation in advertising, of ineffectiveness for claimed purposes, some grounds that adverse effects were not mentioned, or that evidence of harmful effects in animal tests had not been mentioned.

In a speech to the PMA, Dr. Goddard told manufacturers that improper labeling of drugs, improper advertising, poorly prepared applications for drugs for investigation or for licensing, "are all symptoms of a disease that drugs cannot cure — but which can undermine the industry as we know it. That disease is irresponsibility."

Public response by drug manufacturers to Goddard had been mild thus far, but leaders object that all are being tarred for the actions of a few.

"It's easy for him to say that the industry should police itself and enforce its code of ethics," said one company president. "But a code of ethics hasn't the force of law. If we tried to do anything about the advertising of a competitor — whose claims we think are unfounded and unfair — we might find ourselves in court for restraint of trade."

Dr. Goddard tramped on other toes when he ordered relabeling of long-acting sulfa drugs, which were suspected of causing sometimes fatal reactions in some people.

The new wording encourages doctors to consider using short-acting sulfas, as being effective for the same purposes, before prescribing the longer-acting drugs.

This drew protest from the Council on Drugs of the American Medical Association. It said doctors should have full information from all sources about all drugs, and that no agency should "preclude individual physicians from evaluating the available published facts and selecting the drug for an individual patient according to the particular circumstances concerned."

OBJECTION RAISED

Dr. James Z. Appel, past president of the AMA, objected to the "apparent basic regulatory concept that the effective and safe use of drugs by physicians can be assured only by regulatory fiat."

Dr. Joseph F. Sadusk Jr., who resigned as medical director of FDA in an apparent clash of philosophy with Dr. Goddard, said the 1962 amendments were good moves in the public interest, but "they must be administered in a scientific and flexible manner."

"An overly strict interpretation and application of legal and regulatory language of the amendments could stifle development and production of new drugs," he said.

"To tie the hands of the doctor by dogmatic directives in the labeling or use of a drug, to over-emphasize adverse animal data without clinical confirmation, or to stress adverse experience without a reasonable degree of certainty of a cause-effect relationship is unjustifiable," Dr. Sadusk said.

How safe, how good, a drug is takes time to establish, experts agree. There is no simple way to determine these answers completely, before a drug is used by many thousands of people. But the public and human interests demand the best possible safeguards, and early warning of previously unsuspected reactions.

"DELICATE BUSINESS"

Dr. Goddard says of his job: "It is a delicate business, based upon judgments of men as frail as I, men in private industry, and men in government."

With a new man at the FDA helm, medical and industry leaders voice some concerns, real or potential, about the tougher regulations.

One result may be a movement by drug firms to carry out basic developments of a new drug in foreign countries, to learn if it is safe and effective, and has a market potential, before application is undertaken here, says Dr. Jean K. Weston, secretary of the AMA's Council on Drugs.

Will, one drug executive asks, the regulations slow down drug improvement? If one ingredient is changed in hopes of making a drug more effective, will it then have to run the same long, expensive gauntlet as a brand new drug?

Will small companies be driven to the wall by the costs of meeting new regulations?

To this, Dr. Goddard says "It will be inherently more difficult" for a small company to market a new drug. Only one out of 400 chemical compounds — that first look promising in the laboratory — ever prove out to reach the market, he estimates.

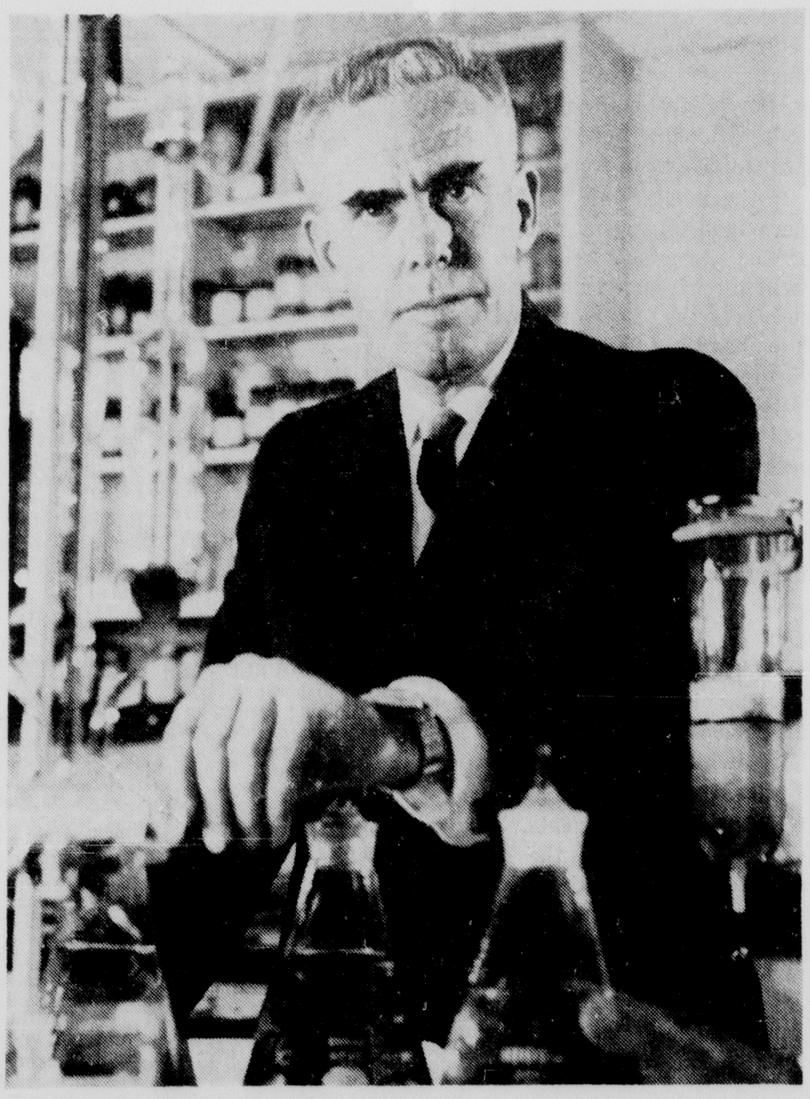
The 1962 amendments, say some critics, are so severe that a penicillin or cortisone wouldn't be approved today, because neither is a totally safe drug. Dr. Goddard replies that it would take longer for them to be approved now.

The new regulations, drug executives say, could mean a company would hesitate to develop a drug that could be very effective for some disease that isn't common, but which is highly important to its victims.

The tougher regulations have been blamed for reducing the number of entirely new drug entities approved in recent years.

In 1959, says Steler of PMA, 63 new single entities were licensed for general use. There were 17 in 1964, and 23 in 1965. But he and others point to another fact — that the basic research that produces brand new ideas and drugs does run in cycles. Fundamental knowledge bringing forward leaps takes time to build up.

One worry, to the FDA as well as pharmaceutical firms, was how the FDA would manage the mammoth task of reviewing all drugs licensed between 1938 and 1962 for safety and effectiveness.



SHORTLY AFTER Dr. James Lee Goddard took on the job of Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, they began calling him "Go Go Goddard." In a country highly conscious about drugs, he quickly and forcefully made his views known, ordering some prescription drugs off the market and accusing drug manufacturers of often being irresponsible. Endorsements Reviewed

Voters of the Monroe area, Northeast Louisiana and throughout the state will go to the polls in primary elections Saturday to decide party nominees for various municipal, parish, state and federal offices which will be finally decided in the General Election next November. Each post at issue is of vital importance at some level of government and every qualified voter should go to the polls.

At the start of the campaign, now coming to a close, The World endorsed:

John S. Hunt of Monroe, Chairman of the Louisiana Public Service Commission for re-election to the post he now holds on that commission as representative of the Third Public Service District, which embraces all of North Louisiana; the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth Congressional Districts with the exception of Avoyelles Parish.

Otto E. Passman for re-election to the U.S. House of Representatives from the Fifth District.

Allen J. Ellender for re-election to the United States Senate.

Congressman Passman

Many of Mr. Passman's eminent qualifications were pointed out in a previous editorial. Among them is his sterling honesty, as exemplified by his refusal to profit from his staff allowance fund and his return to the federal government of more than $100,000 in surplus from this fund. He is also known as the watchdog of the Treasury and it is estimated he has saved the nation about one billion dollars in extravagant foreign aid and in forcing economices along other lines. His work in flood control is estimated as being worth more than one billion dollars.

Congressman Passman ranks high on the Appropriations Committee, because of his seniority, and his influence in this most important of all committees in Congress is of great value to his constituents and to the nation.

For Free Enterprise

Furthermore, Congressman Passman has always stood staunchly for free enterprise, or democracy, for Americanism as our founding fathers knew it and for the heritages and traditions of the South. He has fought for individual freedom and the right to choose one's associates and against bestowing favors on one race of people at the expense of another race.

Without any reflection whatsoever on his opponent, we doubt if there is another member of Congress who comes nearer being without blemish, both in his personal life and in his congressional life, than does Mr. Passman. He is said to put in 16 hours a day at his duties, which constitute practically his entire life.

John S. Hunt

Mr. Hunt is a young, vigorous, capable attorney of Monroe — a native of Ruston. He is now Chairman of the Public Service Commission, to which he was appointed two years ago by Governor John McKeithen when the latter left the commission to become Governor. He is one of the most vigorous and active persons ever to serve on the Commission, which — while not known as well as it should be to the public generally — is a vital factor in Louisiana life; not only the lives of our own individual citizens but in our efforts to bring big outside industry into the state, particularly into North Louisiana.

The Public Service Commission regulates the rates of our various public utilities, such as electric power, gas, water, motor freight carriers and telephone service.

Many Are Affected

Its activities affect more individual citizens in Louisiana than any other governmental agency except those dealing with income tax. Under its jurisdiction throughout the state are 140 water utilities, 51 gas utilities — such as United Gas in Monroe—six electric utilities—such as Louisiana Power and Light Company — 30 telephone companies and answering services (not only Southern Bell but many independents), 283 common carriers of freight by motor vehicle, the Western Union Telegraph Company, and both railroad service and water transportation within the state.

The function of the commission is to see that the consumers — the users of services involved — get a fair deal on service — everything they could possibly have in accordance with the prices they pay — and that the utilities are able to make a fair profit, but no more.

But beyond this, there is the matter of outside industry coming to Louisiana. One of the main factors which any major industry considers in deciding on a site for a new plant — or on major expansion of an existing plant — is the competency, capability and fairness of all regulatory bodies such as the Public Service Commission. They are concerned with such things especially for their own welfare, but also the welfare of their employes.

International Telephone and Telegraph would not have turned to the Monroe area as a site for a major plant unless they had been fully satisfied that the Public Service Commission — and especially its Third Public Service District Commissioner and present Chairman, Mr. Hunt — were capable, competent and thoroughly fair in their official activities.

Most certainly Western Electric and Baifield Industries would not have brought their big plants to the Shreveport - Bossier area.

Ford Encouraged

Most certainly, the seeming intent of Ford to locate perhaps two plants in Louisiana — one presumably in North Louisiana — has given full consideration to this same subject and has been satisfied with the result.

The News-Star — World could continue almost indefinitely along this same line but space permits hitting only a few high spots today — Louisiana is the only state in the nation with a 5 cent pay phone rate, yet $2,500,000 in telephone service expansion in rural service alone and in our North Louisiana Third Public Service District alone, has come during Mr. Hunt's tenure on the Commission. Areas which have been affected by this tremendous expansion include Mansfield, Logansport, Haughton, Bernice, Farmerville, Bastrop, Ferriday, Jonesville, Alexandria, Columbia, Monroe, Winnfield, Montgomery, Colfax, Natchitoches, Boyce, Ruston, Leesville, Hornbeck, Calhoun, Lake Providence, Many, Castor Shreveport.

In the whole state, $53,000,000 more is being spent now on expanded telephone service with spending of many millions planned for the near future. Mr. Hunt has the full support of many of the most prominent people of North Louisiana. We believe he well deserves it and that he well deserves the votes of the people in Saturday's Democratic primary.

Senator Ellender

While we have not always agreed with what Senator Ellender has done, his long service to the state justifies his re-election. He is a man who has worked long and hard at his job.

No reflection whatsoever is intended on his opponents, but we cannot conceive of the turning away of any quantity of voters from Mr. Ellender. We endorse him for re-election due to the many achievements he has accomplished which were covered fully in an original endorsement.

It is fitting that Maine, birthplace of the legendary Paul Bunyan and a producer of forest products for 350 years, should play an important role in this anniversary.

Likes Arthritis Cure

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I read with concern your editorial Peril in Arthritis Cure which appeared in the morning paper. Being a patient of the doctor to whom you refer, I feel inclined to point out several inaccuracies in the editorial.

1. Perhaps foremost, the doctor does not profess to "cure" arthritis. He does say that he has had success in "arresting" the disease in about 80 per cent of the patients he has treated over a five-year period.

2. Dr. Chavarria is a Mexican, not a German, as his name should indicate.

3. You state that the medicine has been "used in such quantities as to bring critical or hospitalizing reaction to literally hundreds of persons". I personally know many, many people who have taken the medicine for many months, and do not know of a single incidence of hospitalization or illness caused by the medication.

4. As for the six deaths you mention, I don't believe it has been proven that a single death has been attributed to the medicine. Out of the many thousands of persons taking the medicine, it is reasonable to assume that a number of them would have died from other causes.

5. Your statement that the doctor "has become a millionaire in a few years" is purely conjecture. It would take many hours of hard work for him to become rich from the nominal fee he charges for the treatment.

6. Use of the drug is not limited to, nor certainly not concentrated in the North Louisiana area.

7. You state that "other analyses by drug manufacturing firms in this country and in Germany has found that dymethyl pyrazalone sulfanilamide is identical to a drug called dipyrone." I have many letters in my file and have much information on the medicine, and I do not find that any such firm has actually analyzed the medicine being administered by Dr. Chavarria; they are only assuming the drug to be a certain product.

This matter is of grave importance to thousands of people in this area, and I am disappointed that statements other than absolute truth have been published in your paper. I, along with many other arthritics in this area, am anxious to know the complete truth about the medicine, and it is our desire that exaggerations and inuendos be kept to a minimum.

Elections Impirtant

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

We are in the midst of electing a Senator and Congressman to Washington, which is a vital office to hold. It may mean life or death to the voters in electing the right one; our needs for the best one are very important. A man who will vote on every important issue when he is present in Congress. A no-vote on a bill shows he is not interested in the people he is there to represent. The most important of all is a man who is interested in Our American Way of Life.

This freedom our forefathers left us is in jeopardy, our jobs and freedom to work where we desire and wherever we can find a position to earn a living for our family.

If one would think of the things happening in this U.S.A. today; no respect for law and order and peoples' rights. Don't think because you have had freedom and a home that it will always be that way; because if the people just sit back and let things go on like they are, we will have happen here just what has happened in other countries, and your Freedom will be gone. It will be lost to a Central Government.

The people are going to have to elect men to the Congress who don't say, "Let them alone, let them see our form of Government is superior"; that it not the way to keep this Country free. We are to elect men who will stand up for what is right, not men who think the U.N. is the best thing for us; or that one World Government is best for America; or have the World Courts to control our people; or the World Police to patrol our streets; or the U.N. to control all wars. These things are not the American Way of Life.

We will have to see to it that our Representatives do something about this give-away program; money to those who don't work, money and agriculture products. This money belongs to the tax-paying public and the products the government buys is with your money from taxes. This country cannot take care and feed the whole world. The Panama Canal belongs to you, bought with taxpayers money, now they want to give it back with the consent of Senate and buy more land and build another one with your money.

We cannot let the President and members of Congress turn this country over to the minority, which riots, burns, kills, steals, and infringes on our personal rights. The people had better decide now, not later, whether they want their freedom, and do something about it.

Reapportionment

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

The people of our state are faced with the problem of reapportionment of the Legislature. It may be done by the Federal Courts. The 1921 State Constitution imposed upon the Legislature the duty to attend to apportionment. Hence, we have been witness to the inability of our Legislature to reapportion itself in the recent session. It is my opinion that the Legislature can not reapportion itself. Any thinking person, applying ordinary reason, should know that the Legislature can not and will not adopt a system of true representation for the people in their Legislative Branch of government.

As far as reapportionment is concerned, the people find themselves right back at the Constitutional Convention of 1921. There they sought to delegate the authority of apportionment to others, which should never have been done. Perhaps, because of that error they stand on the door steps of the Federal Court House today. Even under the mandate of 1921 the Legislature ignored its duty to try to keep proper apportionment for the people in that great Legislative body. Now, under the "one-man one-vote" ruling of the United States Supreme Court, the Legislature has demonstrated, once and for all, that it can not reapportion itself.

What the people must do is to face the facts. We, as a whole, must realize that we cannot as a practical matter as well as a legal principle delegate to others duties which the others can not perform. Reapportionment is of a fundamental matter, a thing which we must attend to ourselves. It is a matter which the people can do easily, because in the first instance the people created the government, of which the Legislature is one of the three branches of that government.

Therefore, I respectfully submit that we should issue a call for a convention of the people for the purpose of adopting a system of true representation in the Legislature, that while so convened that the null and impractical idea of delegating the power of apportionment to the legislature be withdrawn. And that the people set in motion a procedure where all future reapportionment will be attended to by the citizens of our great State. It is further submitted: that until this is done no true reapportionment nor true representation will be had in the Legislature.

Humphrey's Damage Not Undone By LBJ

LAW-ABIDING Americans are waiting in vain for the President to either repudiate or otherwise repair the damage done by Hubert H. Humphrey in connection with rioting in our major cities.

The Vice President, in effect, has put an official stamp of approval on the riots. If he had to live in one of the riot-torn areas, he told the nation, "I think you'd have more trouble than you have had already because I've got enough spark left in me to lead a mighty good revolt under those conditions."

He went on to predict "open violence in every major city and county in America" unless the administration's rent-subsidy plan is accepted.

THIS DOUBLE-barreled affront to law and order amounts to nothing less than the Vice President of the United States threatening the nation with burning, murder and looting unless it follows his party's particular political program. He is telling the nation that burning, murder and looting are justifiable for particular people living in particular sections of our great cities.

No matter how the fast-talking Humphrey tries to get out of this one, he has done incalculable damage to hopes for peace on our streets.

No apology or explanation alone can undo the damage of this top-level invitation to riot. Only a forthright statement from the President could damp the fires the Vice President has set.

We listen but do not hear even a forthright statement on law and order generally. The President issued a luke-warm warning that violence might damage civil rights gains already made. But he has not clearly put the power of his office absolutely on the side of law and order and against those who support violence.

HE STILL encourages a connection between civil rights and riots. It would seem to many observers that the riots have no connection with decent striving for the rights of citizenship. They involve criminality and sheer power and are clearly wrong — not sort of wrong or maybe wrong or understandably wrong.

No one is more obligated to say these things than the President. He must, to my mind, speak without ifs, ands or buts, and speak without reference to voting blocs and popularity polls. He should act as the President of the United States, not the boss of a vote-counting political party.

If that is too much to ask, however, the President at least should try to remove the seal of the United States from the riots, so brazenly put there by the Vice President.

Either action would be far more proper for the President at this juncture than the handshaking, purely political flying trips he has embarked upon while his nation and its neighborhoods burn.

People Realize Air Transport Is Vital

FLYING AMERICA has bogged down in the morass of the airline machinists strike. And for the first time, those of us who travel about the country have realized just how dependent we are on air transport. We took planes for granted — and now it takes longer to get a ticket than to fly from New York to Washington. That is, if tickets are available. Usually they are not, or at least not for the flight we wanted.

Some of us have gone back to taking trains for the shorter distances. In the late Forties and early Fifties, we had shifted to air travel, but not only because of the advantages of speed. The railroads seemed determined to discourage us. Much of the passenger equipment was old and dirty, the service was terrible, and the people we dealt with acted as if they resented our presence.

The airlines, on the other hand, developed techniques of public relations that made travel a real pleasure. It was quicker, easier, and more pleasant to get a plane reservation. The stewardesses were attractive and dedicated to our needs. Meals were brought to our seats, doing away with the long and miserable wait to get into crowded dining cars where we were short ordered at fancy prices.

BUT IN THE years of our absence, the trains have been improving. On the New York to Washington run, the cars are clean and air-conditioned. Snack bars serve beer, milk, soft drinks, and sandwiches. Service on the diners has improved. For four hours, you can read or doze or talk to a fellow passenger. Or you can dawdle over drinks. There are no phones to harry you, or rush and bustle. You are, to be a degree, insulated.

Airborne Americans — airborne no longer — are rediscovering the country's trains. The most frequent comment you hear as you wait to board is, "This is the first time I've traveled by train in five years." Or six or seven years.

But what will happen when plane service returns to normal? Will Americans go back to train travel? I think the answer could be in the affirmative — if the railroads want it. There will have to be a small revolution in the thinking of the railroads and the unions, but in the long run both will profit by yielding to the changing times. And the Interstate Commerce Commission, which supervises the rails, will have to be more flexible, more interested in the traveler than in the complaints of labor leaders.

LONG HAUL passenger travel, as the railroads know, is a thing of the past. Those who wish to travel from the East to Chicago and points West are going to fly. In a country this size, the train takes too long. But in short-haul transportation — between cities up to 300 miles apart — the train remains the best means of travel. Old ways have made it ponderous and inefficient. If the ICC allows the railroads to cut down or eliminate the costly cross-continent runs, there will be money and incentive to improve inter-city systems.

There is no reason, for example, why fast service with new equipment and improved roadbeds shouldn't cut down the New York to Washington ride from its present four hours to a comfortable two. The same is true for other pairs of East, West and Midwest cities. But it will require more than speed to make the roads competitive. There must be a change in the service, approximating what the airlines do.

THIS WILL MEAN that the unions will have to agree to new personnel and new ways of doing things. The railroads remain one of the last bastions of male dignity, but there is no reason, on a two-hour run, that the innovations of the airlines should not be applied to rail travel. There is no reason, either, that credit cards should not be allowed for the payment of ticket purchases. Americans nowadays travel with very little cash. If you want to travel by train, you've got to cash a check somewhere — and if you are away from home, this can be a real nuisance.

With a little sympathy from the government and a little prod from the public, railroad passenger traffic can move from the Nineteenth Century to the second half of the Twentieth. Frankly, it is simpler and more comfortable to travel from mid-city to mid-city—eliminating the cab rides to and from airports which, when traveling long distances, sometimes take longer than the actual flight itself.

Some Senators Feel Air Strike's Pinch

THE REASON there is a furor in the Senate of the United States is that a number of distinguished gentlemen there have been personally inconvenienced by the airline strike; and labor unions are expected to know that it is one thing to inconvenience just plain people, quite another to inconvenience the members of the most exclusive club in the world.

Your city can be paralyzed, as in recent months and years it has been, by a total absence of newspapers, of shipping, of buses, of subways; and the majority of our legislators would sit out the crises, bravely, in the comfort of their local accommodations, and in their spare time plot together to repeal the right of a few relatively strifeless states to ban the union shop. It is something else again when a senator planning a trip to California finds it necessary to route himself through Toronto, Calgary and Vancouver, in order to oblige a union which has shut down 60 per cent of the air traffic of the United States.

ACCORDINGLY, the same Congress that just a few months ago almost succeeded in repealing Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act — a precarious relic of an age in which it was innocently believed that among American freedoms is the freedom to work without joining a monopoly labor union — is engaged in hot-potato act with the President of the United States. The latter would also like to see the strike ended, although it has not as yet grounded Air Force One. The President recognizes that the public's nerves are raw, and as President of all the people, he sees the necessity to do something about it, but would just as soon that Congress broke the strike as he doesn't want to be a scab-President. With complementary punctilio, the Congress is determined to return the potato to the President by granting him and only him the emergency power to interrupt the strike, restore public commerce, and the convenience of our legislators.

IN THE BACKGROUND there is an interesting convergence of thought between the monopoly labor union leaders and the conservative community. They find themselves warning of the same thing, the danger of getting into the habit of settling economic dilemmas by political action. The labor unions are frightened at the prospect of losing the great economic leverage of the national strike by being required to submit to political force majeure. The conservatives are frightened at the prospect of political authority deciding what is a purely economic issue.

A true depoliticalization of economic issues, as tacitly admitted by both sides — to be sure joyfully by the labor unions, tearfully by the conservatives — is utterly unlikely. The unions are confident that no matter what happens Congress will not move to break up the monopoly labor unions, which dispose of the power to close down the airlines, the railroads, the steel mills, the trucking industry — indeed, the crucial services of an economically centralized society. The conservatives also know in their heart of hearts that true reform is unlikely against the strategic danger of giving Congress — or the President — the authority to decide the terms of economic agreement.

ONE WONDERS WHAT, in an emergency of this kind, Senator Robert Taft would have counselled, with his admirable eye for the long-term question combined with his sense of the realistic problem at hand. In the past he successfully filibustered against the impetuous demand of an irate President Harry Truman for special legislation to permit him to conscript into the army striking railroad workers. If he were alive, he might well join a crystallizing majority in calling for the use of emergency power; but he would have conscripted the attention of Congress and the public to the generic problem which is that no union should have the power to paralyze commerce. He would have warned that ad hoc solutions, politically contrived, will in due course vest in the government the responsibility for settling all major strikes. And of course the trouble with that solution is that the government is inevitably influenced by extra-economic considerations. Any hope that future economic agreements can be prudently reconciled by politicians is as remote as any hope that strictly political decisions are competently adjudicated by businessmen and labor unions.

Endorsements Reviewed

Voters of the Monroe area, Northeast Louisiana and throughout the state will go to the polls in primary elections Saturday to decide party nominees for various municipal, parish, state and federal offices which will be finally decided in the General Election next November. Each post at issue is of vital importance at some level of government and every qualified voter should go to the polls.

At the start of the campaign, now coming to a close, The World endorsed:

John S. Hunt of Monroe, Chairman of the Louisiana Public Service Commission for re-election to the post he now holds on that commission as representative of the Third Public Service District, which embraces all of North Louisiana; the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth Congressional Districts with the exception of Avoyelles Parish.

Otto E. Passman for re-election to the U.S. House of Representatives from the Fifth District.

Allen J. Ellender for re-election to the United States Senate.

Congressman Passman

Many of Mr. Passman's eminent qualifications were pointed out in a previous editorial. Among them is his sterling honesty, as exemplified by his refusal to profit from his staff allowance fund and his return to the federal government of more than $100,000 in surplus from this fund. He is also known as the watchdog of the Treasury and it is estimated he has saved the nation about one billion dollars in extravagant foreign aid and in forcing economices along other lines. His work in flood control is estimated as being worth more than one billion dollars.

Congressman Passman ranks high on the Appropriations Committee, because of his seniority, and his influence in this most important of all committees in Congress is of great value to his constituents and to the nation.

For Free Enterprise

Furthermore, Congressman Passman has always stood staunchly for free enterprise, or democracy, for Americanism as our founding fathers knew it and for the heritages and traditions of the South. He has fought for individual freedom and the right to choose one's associates and against bestowing favors on one race of people at the expense of another race.

Without any reflection whatsoever on his opponent, we doubt if there is another member of Congress who comes nearer being without blemish, both in his personal life and in his congressional life, than does Mr. Passman. He is said to put in 16 hours a day at his duties, which constitute practically his entire life.

John S. Hunt

Mr. Hunt is a young, vigorous, capable attorney of Monroe — a native of Ruston. He is now Chairman of the Public Service Commission, to which he was appointed two years ago by Governor John McKeithen when the latter left the commission to become Governor. He is one of the most vigorous and active persons ever to serve on the Commission, which — while not known as well as it should be to the public generally — is a vital factor in Louisiana life; not only the lives of our own individual citizens but in our efforts to bring big outside industry into the state, particularly into North Louisiana.

The Public Service Commission regulates the rates of our various public utilities, such as electric power, gas, water, motor freight carriers and telephone service.

Many Are Affected

Its activities affect more individual citizens in Louisiana than any other governmental agency except those dealing with income tax. Under its jurisdiction throughout the state are 140 water utilities, 51 gas utilities — such as United Gas in Monroe—six electric utilities— such as Louisiana Power and Light Company — 30 telephone companies and answering services (not only Southern Bell but many independents), 283 common carriers of freight by motor vehicle, the Western Union Telegraph Company, and both railroad service and water transportation within the state.

The function of the commission is to see that the consumers — the users of services involved — get a fair deal on service — everything they could possibly have in accordance with the prices they pay — and that the utilities are able to make a fair profit, but no more.

But beyond this, there is the matter of outside industry coming to Louisiana. One of the main factors which any major industry considers in deciding on a site for a new plant — or on major expansion of an existing plant — is the competency, capability and fairness of all regulatory bodies such as the Public Service Commission. They are concerned with such things especially for their own welfare, but also the welfare of their employes.

International Telephone and Telegraph would not have turned to the Monroe area as a site for a major plant unless they had been fully satisfied that the Public Service Commission — and especially its Third Public Service District Commissioner and present Chairman, Mr. Hunt — were capable, competent and thoroughly fair in their official activities.

Most certainly Western Electric and Baifield Industries would not have brought their big plants to the Shreveport - Bossier area.

Ford Encouraged

Most certainly, the seeming intent of Ford to locate perhaps two plants in Louisiana — one presumably in North Louisiana — has given full consideration to this same subject and has been satisfied with the result.

The News-Star — World could continue almost indefinitely along this same line but space permits hitting only a few high spots today — Louisiana is the only state in the nation with a 5 cent pay phone rate, yet $2,500,000 in telephone service expansion in rural service alone and in our North Louisiana Third Public Service District alone, has come during Mr. Hunt's tenure on the Commission. Areas which have been affected by this tremendous expansion include Mansfield, Logansport, Haughton, Bernice, Farmerville, Bastrop, Ferriday, Jonesville, Alexandria, Columbia, Monroe, Winnfield, Montgomery, Colfax, Natchitoches, Boyce, Ruston, Leesville, Hornbeck, Calhoun, Lake Providence, Many, Castor Shreveport.

In the whole state, $53,000,000 more is being spent now on expanded telephone service with spending of many millions planned for the near future. Mr. Hunt has the full support of many of the most prominent people of North Louisiana. We believe he well deserves it and that he well deserves the votes of the people in Saturday's Democratic primary.

Senator Ellender

While we have not always agreed with what Senator Ellender has done, his long service to the state justifies his re-election. He is a man who has worked long and hard at his job.

No reflection whatsoever is intended on his opponents, but we cannot conceive of the turning away of any quantity of voters from Mr. Ellender. We endorse him for re-election due to the many achievements he has accomplished which were covered fully in an original endorsement.

It is fitting that Maine, birthplace of the legendary Paul Bunyan and a producer of forest products for 350 years, should play an important role in this anniversary.

Likes Arthritis Cure

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I read with concern your editorial Peril in Arthritis Cure which appeared in the morning paper. Being a patient of the doctor to whom you refer, I feel inclined to point out several inaccuracies in the editorial.

1. Perhaps foremost, the doctor does not profess to "cure" arthritis. He does say that he has had success in "arresting" the disease in about 80 per cent of the patients he has treated over a five-year period.

2. Dr. Chavarria is a Mexican, not a German, as his name should indicate.

3. You state that the medicine has been "used in such quantities as to bring critical or hospitalizing reaction to literally hundreds of persons". I personally know many, many people who have taken the medicine for many months, and do not know of a single incidence of hospitalization or illness caused by the medication.

4. As for the six deaths you mention, I don't believe it has been proven that a single death has been attributed to the medicine. Out of the many thousands of persons taking the medicine, it is reasonable to assume that a number of them would have died from other causes.

5. Your statement that the doctor "has become a millionaire in a few years" is purely conjecture. It would take many hours of hard work for him to become rich from the nominal fee he charges for the treatment.

6. Use of the drug is not limited to, nor certainly not concentrated in the North Louisiana area.

7. You state that "other analyses by drug manufacturing firms in this country and in Germany has found that dymethyl pyrazalone sulfanilamide is identical to a drug called dipyrone." I have many letters in my file and have much information on the medicine, and I do not find that any such firm has actually analyzed the medicine being administered by Dr. Chavarria; they are only assuming the drug to be a certain product.

This matter is of grave importance to thousands of people in this area, and I am disappointed that statements other than absolute truth have been published in your paper. I, along with many other arthritics in this area, am anxious to know the complete truth about the medicine, and it is our desire that exaggerations and inuendos be kept to a minimum.

Elections Impirtant

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

We are in the midst of electing a Senator and Congressman to Washington, which is a vital office to hold. It may mean life or death to the voters in electing the right one; our needs for the best one are very important. A man who will vote on every important issue when he is present in Congress. A no-vote on a bill shows he is not interested in the people he is there to represent. The most important of all is a man who is interested in Our American Way of Life.

This freedom our forefathers left us is in jeopardy; our jobs and freedom to work where we desire and wherever we can find a position to earn a living for our family.

If one would think of the things happening in this U.S.A. today; no respect for law and order and peoples' rights. Don't think because you have had freedom and a home that it will always be that way; because if the people just sit back and let things go on like they are, we will have happen here just what has happened in other countries, and your Freedom will be gone. It will be lost to a Central Government.

The people are going to have to elect men to the Congress who don't say, "Let them alone, let them see our form of Government is superior"; that it not the way to keep this Country free. We are to elect men who will stand up for what is right, not men who think the U.N. is the best thing for us; or that one World Government is best for America; or have the World Courts to control our people; or the World Police to patrol our streets; or the U.N. to control all wars. These things are not the American Way of Life.

We will have to see to it that our Representatives do something about this give-away program; money to those who don't work, money and agriculture products. This money belongs to the tax-paying public and the products the government buys is with your money from taxes. This country cannot take care and feed the whole world. The Panama Canal belongs to you, bought with taxpayers money, now they want to give it back with the consent of Senate and buy more land and build another one with your money.

We cannot let the President and members of Congress turn this country over to the minority, which riots, burns, kills, steals, and infringes on our personal rights. The people had better decide now, not later, whether they want their freedom, and do something about it.

Reapportionment

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

The people of our state are faced with the problem of reapportionment of the Legislature. It may be done by the Federal Courts. The 1921 State Constitution imposed upon the Legislature the duty to attend to apportionment. Hence, we have been witness to the inability of our Legislature to reapportion itself in the recent session. It is my opinion that the Legislature can not reapportion itself. Any thinking person, applying ordinary reason, should know that the Legislature can not and will not adopt a system of true representation for the people in their Legislative Branch of government.

As far as reapportionment is concerned, the people find themselves right back at the Constitutional Convention of 1921. There they sought to delegate the authority of apportionment to others, which should never have been done. Perhaps, because of that error they stand on the door steps of the Federal Court House today. Even under the mandate of 1921 the Legislature ignored its duty to try to keep proper apportionment for the people in that great Legislative body. Now, under the "one-man one-vote" ruling of the United States Supreme Court, the Legislature has demonstrated, once and for all, that it can not reapportion itself.

What the people must do is to face the facts. We, as a whole, must realize that we cannot as a practical matter as well as a legal principle delegate to others duties which the others can not perform. Reapportionment is of a fundamental matter, a thing which we must attend to ourselves. It is a matter which the people can do easily, because in the first instance the people created the government, of which the Legislature is one of the three branches of that government.

Therefore, I respectfully submit that we should issue a call for a convention of the people for the purpose of adopting a system of true representation in the Legislature, that while so convened that the null and impractical idea of delegating the power of apportionment to the legislature be withdrawn. And that the people set in motion a procedure where all future reapportionment will be attended to by the citizens of our great State. It is further submitted: that until this is done no true reapportionment nor true representation will be had in the Legislature.

Humphrey's Damage Not Undone By LBJ

LAW-ABIDING Americans are waiting in vain for the President to either repudiate or otherwise repair the damage done by Hubert H. Humphrey in connection with rioting in our major cities.

The Vice President, in effect, has put an official stamp of approval on the riots. If he had to live in one of the riot-torn areas, he told the nation, "I think you'd have more trouble than you have had already because I've got enough spark left in me to lead a mighty good revolt under those conditions."

He went on to predict "open violence in every major city and county in America" unless the administration's rent-subsidy plan is accepted.

THIS DOUBLE - barreled affront to law and order amounts to nothing less than the Vice President of the United States threatening the nation with burning, murder and looting unless it follows his party's particular political program. He is telling the nation that burning, murder and looting are justifiable for particular people living in particular sections of our great cities.

No matter how the fast-talking Humphrey tries to get out of this one, he has done incalculable damage to hopes for peace on our streets.

No apology or explanation alone can undo the damage of this top-level invitation to riot. Only a forthright statement from the President could damp the fires the Vice President has set.

We listen but do not hear even a forthright statement on law and order generally. The President issued a luke-warm warning that violence might damage civil rights gains already made. But he has not clearly put the power of his office absolutely on the side of law and order and against those who support violence.

HE STILL encourages a connection between civil rights and riots. It would seem to many observers that the riots have no connection with decent striving for the rights of citizenship. They involve criminality and sheer power and are clearly wrong — not sort of wrong or maybe wrong or understandably wrong.

No one is more obligated to say these things than the President. He must, to my mind, speak without ifs, ands or buts, and speak without reference to voting blocs and popularity polls. He should act as the President of the United States, not the boss of a vote-counting political party.

If that is too much to ask, however, the President at least should try to remove the seal of the United States from the riots, so brazenly put there by the Vice President.

Either action would be far more proper for the President at this juncture than the handshaking, purely political flying trips he has embarked upon while his nation and its neighborhoods burn.

People Realize Air Transport Is Vital

FLYING AMERICA has bogged down in the morass of the airline machinists strike. And for the first time, those of us who travel about the country have realized just how dependent we are on air transport. We took planes for granted — and now it takes longer to get a ticket than to fly from New York to Washington. That is, if tickets are available. Usually they are not, or at least not for the flight we wanted.

Some of us have gone back to taking trains for the shorter distances. In the late Forties and early Fifties, we had shifted to air travel, but not only because of the advantages of speed. The railroads seemed determined to discourage us. Much of the passenger equipment was old and dirty, the service was terrible, and the people we dealt with acted as if they resented our presence.

The airlines, on the other hand, developed techniques of public relations that made travel a real pleasure. It was quicker, easier, and more pleasant to get a plane reservation. The stewardesses were attractive and dedicated to our needs. Meals were brought to our seats, doing away with the long and miserable wait to get into crowded dining cars where we were short ordered at fancy prices.

BUT IN THE years of our absence, the trains have been improving. On the New York to Washington run, the cars are clean and air-conditioned. Snack bars serve beer, milk, soft drinks, and sandwiches. Service on the diners has improved. For four hours, you can read or doze or talk to a fellow passenger. Or you can dawdle over drinks. There are no phones to harry you, or rush and bustle. You are, to be a degree, insulated.

Airborne Americans — airborne no longer — are rediscovering the country's trains. The most frequent comment you hear as you wait to board is, "This is the first time I've traveled by train in five years." Or six or seven years.

But what will happen when plane service returns to normal? Will Americans go back to train travel? I think the answer could be in the affirmative — if the railroads want it. There will have to be a small revolution in the thinking of the railroads and the unions, but in the long run both will profit by yielding to the changing times. And the Interstate Commerce Commission, which supervises the rails, will have to be more flexible, more interested in the traveler than in the complaints of labor leaders.

LONG HAUL passenger travel, as the railroads know, is a thing of the past. Those who wish to travel from the East to Chicago and points West are going to fly. In a country this size the train takes too long. But in short-haul transportation — between cities up to 300 miles apart — the train remains the best means of travel. Old ways have made it ponderous and inefficient. If the ICC allows the railroads to cut down or eliminate the costly cross-continent runs, there will be money and incentive to improve inter-city systems.

There is no reason, for example, why fast service with new equipment and improved roadbeds shouldn't cut down the New York to Washington ride from its present four hours to a comfortable two. The same is true for other pairs of East, West and Midwest cities. But it will require more than speed to make the roads competitive. There must be a change in the service, approximating what the airlines do.

THIS WILL MEAN that the unions will have to agree to new personnel and new ways of doing things. The railroads remain one of the last bastions of male dignity, but there is no reason, on a two-hour run, that the innovations of the airlines should not be applied to rail travel. There is no reason, either, that credit cards should not be allowed for the payment of ticket purchases. Americans nowadays travel with very little cash. If you want to travel by train, you've got to cash a check somewhere — and if you are away from home, this can be a real nuisance.

With a little sympathy from the government and a little prod from the public, railroad passenger traffic can move from the Nineteenth Century to the second half of the Twentieth. Frankly, it is simpler and more comfortable to travel from mid-city to mid-city—eliminating the cab rides to and from airports which when traveling long distances, sometimes take longer than the actual flight itself.

Sunday Poem

They can tell what we are
By the very manner in which we speak,
By the way we employ our leisure time,
By the use we make of a dollar or a dime,
By the things we wear,
By the spirit in which we our burdens bear,
By the kind of things at which we laugh,
By the records we play on a phonograph;
They can tell what we are by the way we walk,
By the things of which we delight to talk,
By so simple a thing as how we eat,
By the way we the poor or needy treat,
By the books we choose from the well-filled shelves
In these ways, and more, we tell on ourselves.

Americans Deceived

U. S. readiness to negotiate with North Viet Nam has become a cardinal tenet of U. S. policy, purely for domestic reasons. It sounds good to the American people. In reality, it is a thoroughly bad posture.

What is there to negotiate? Ho Chi Minh intends to conquer South Viet Nam. The United States is committed to the protection of South Viet Nam from Ho's attack. All President Johnson asks is that Ho stop his aggression.

Ho Chi Minh can stop his aggression any time he wants to do so. He requires no peace conference with the United States to do so. Why would he publicly humiliate himself by confessing failure instead of quietly liquidating the project?

Ho would enter a peace conference to gain some advantage not otherwise attainable. But if the United States is adamant as President Johnson asserts, in protecting the independence and integrity of Saigon, there is nothing Hanoi can gain at the conference table.

AMBASSADOR Goldberg has been reported as suggesting a return to the 1954 Geneva settlement. That solution would require North Viet Nam to surrender all the territory it has since gained in eastern Laos and in South Viet Nam and to sacrifice its hegemony over Cambodia, which now provides a base for the attack on Thailand. This is hardly a rational U. S. proposal.

Despite these realities, the American people cling to the illusion that the war can be ended by negotiation. Administration policy cultivates this illusion to conceal the truth that the aggression will be ended only when our response to aggression makes that course unprofitable to the Communist leadership.

THE U. S. posture on negotiation is also deeply erroneous in its psychological origins. The United States demeans itself in offering to negotiate with Hanoi. It undermines the sovereignty of its ally, South Viet Nam, and lends credence to the Communist line that the Viet Cong are fighting American "imperialism."

If, as the Administration repeatedly proclaims, this is South Viet Nam's war and the U. S. is merely aiding in defense of the country, the responsibility for all policy declarations should rest in Saigon, not in Washington. It did rest there until President Kennedy and his entourage of novices lifted the responsibility from President Ngo Dinh Diem.

As a protecting power, the United States should deal only with the Soviet Union and Communist China. Just as the Soviet Union and Communist China, which are supporting North Viet Nam, preserve the diplomatic appearance that Ho Chi Minh is running the war, the United States should accord the front position on our side to South Viet Nam. If Ho wants to talk, send him to Ky.

THE SPECTACLE of presidential emissaries touring the world seeking some means to persuade tiny North Viet Nam to desist from its aggression is as unedifying as it is unproductive. What can these smaller nations think of a giant who lacks the mind or the will to quell such attacks of a gadfly?

Is the United States so lacking in pride that it will call upon the smaller nations of the free world to help in such a task as this? Surely our allies were right in supposing that the alliance would bring the United States to their assistance, not that they would be called to save the United States.

This true view of the United States as it is seen abroad is screened from the American people by Administration propaganda and a compliant press. The futile quest for peace through negotiation is part of the domestic image - building of the President as a Man of Peace.

Abolish The Headlines?

The Louisville, Kentucky Times the other day came up with a timely editorial on a certain phase of the newspaper profession, headline writing. The editorial obviously has merit and was based on a discussion at the meeting of the Governors Conference in Los Angeles recently.

The editorial says:

Whenever people start criticizing newspapers, it's a safe bet somebody will say a few words about headlines. It happened again at the Governors Conference in Los Angeles, only this time it was a newspaper editor who did the talking. During a discussion of complaints about news presentation, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of "The Christian Science Monitor," observed, "I sometimes think headlines ought to be abolished." The governors indicated their agreement with vigorous applause.

Well, why not abolish headlines? There are some pretty good reasons. A good headline tells the reader quickly what the story underneath has to say. It enables him to find a particular story he may be looking for. By its relative size and placement, the headline indicates the editor's best judgment of the story's value.

By its very nature, the headline is imperfect. It is an attempt to put in a few words what a writer may have taken hundreds of words to tell. Often news material simply cannot be condensed that much with total accuracy. A complex, carefully qualified policy statement, for example, is almost impossible to sum up in five or six words. In such cases, the headlines may be a compromise.

The frustrating conditions under which headlines must be written add to the problem. In the first place, a headline must fit in a given space, which puts strict limits on how much can be said. Furthermore, the headline writer may have to read the story and write the headline under extreme time pressure. Though he may improve on his work in later editions, his first effort is there in print for all to see. In spite of all this, critics notwithstanding, a great many good headlines are written.

No one is more aware of the imperfections of headlines than the people who produce them, as Canham's wry comment indicates. Yet, with all their shortcomings, headlines perform an invaluable service. Without them, it would be almost impossible to make any sense out of a newspaper.

Mass Homicide Triggers Call For Gun Curbs

By Oland Silk

THE SECOND amendment to the Constitution says, "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of people to keep and bear arms shall not be abridged." This is a revered section of basic American law, allowing the widest possible leeway for citizens to purchase guns for protection, sport — and even for killing human beings.

Last week the nation was faced with the second mass homicide within a month when a deeply troubled ex - Marine named Charles Whitman went berserk in Austin, Texas. His murderous rampage left 15 persons dead, and reactivated long - dormant plans in Washington for gun controls. The nation was hardly recovered from the shock of Chicago's "crime of the century" — wherein eight young student nurses were butchered and strangled to death, presumably by Richard Speck. The Dallas - based seaman pleaded innocent to the killings in court last week.

FOR CHARLES Whitman there will be no trial. He was shot to death at his perch on the University of Texas tower, but not before he had killed his wife and mother, and 13 persons on the campus in 90-minutes of faultless marksmanship. He wounded 31 others.

His rampage was halted when three Austin policemen and a campus employe slipped into the 27-story tower, rode the elevator to the 26th floor, and stepping around dead and wounded, made their way to the tower ledge. Leader of the bold quartet was off-duty policeman, Ramiro Martinez, an intense Latin who admitted before going aloft after Whitman that he "said a prayer and gave my life to God."

An autopsy, grand jury probe, medical report, and police work revealed, in summary, these facts about Whitman. He was a bright, all-American type, gun expert and concert pianist, who suffered severe headaches. He was found to be in perfect health, although there was some dispute about whether a pecan-sized tumor on the brain directly attributed to the homicidal explosion. The tumor was non-malignant — and may have caused him intense pain.

A PSYCHIATRIST revealed Whitman's distress over grades (he was in architectural engineering) and his parents' recent separation. The blond, six footer was said to have a "mortal hatred of his father," of Lake Worth, Florida. Too, Whitman had expressed a desire to do just what he did — ascend the university tower and start shooting people. When he turned thoughts into action, he took in arsenal with him, concealing it in a footlocker.

INVESTIGATORS continued efforts to determine where he got the guns, and other aspects of the case. Gov. John Connally called a national conference of experts to try to determine the cause of Whitman's derangement, to find out "how and why a person might act like that."

In Allentown, Pa., one of the world's foremost authorities on criminal psychology, had his own explanation. Discussing the possible connection between the snipings in Austin and the massacre of eight nurses, Dr. Frederick Wertham said, "Murder is contagious — just like measles."

Gun Control Sought

PRESIDENT Johnson deplored the "shocking tragedy" in Austin and said "we must press urgently for a federal gun control law." The chief Senate sponsor of gun legislation, Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., was ahead of the president in hoping the shooting would push the measure to passage. A chorus of yeas and nays sounded through Congress.

The bill has been sitting in the Senate Judiciary Committee. It was last March that the Administration handed Congress gun control proposals. In May, a Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency approved the kind of firearms bill Johnson wanted and sent it to the full Judiciary Committee. Efforts were underway last week to spring the bill and start it on an admittedly hazardous path through Congress.

HERE'S WHAT THE BILL WOULD DO:

(1) Ban the interstate mail order of concealable firearms — such as pistols and revolvers — to individuals.

(2) Regulate the interstate sale of sporting rifles and shotguns through an affidavit provision. (This would require a person purchasing a rifle through the mail to give his name and address and swear he was not a criminal. Then his affadavit would be forwarded to the police in his communtiy to check on him.)

(3) Restrict the import into the United States of military surplus firearms and certain other foreign - made firearms.

(4) Bar sale of pistols and revolvers to persons under 21.

(5) Bar the sale of rifles and shotguns to persons under 18.

(6) Ban the over-the-counter sale of concealable firearms to persons who are not residents of the state wherein the licensee conducts his business.

BECAUSE of lobbying activities of sportsmen, the National Rifle Association, and gun lovers in general, there was little likelihood these provisions would breeze through Congress unsullied. Battle lines are forming hazily, with Dodd leading the restrictionists, while Senator Roman Hruska, R-Neb., is the informal head of the opposition. Hruska said it would be deplorable to trade on the emotion generated by the incident to push through a weapons bill. "I don't think," he added, "that the legitimate, wholesome user of long guns" ought to be saddled with federal restrictions.

The anti-gun bill may pass, but the chances are it will be in shreds before Presidential signing.

UFOs Hot Potatoes

RESIDENTS, as well as policemen in the Maryland - Virginia suburbs of Washington reported bright, multi-colored lights hovering over a wide area. The sightings of flying saucers — or Unidentified Flying Objects — set off a flood of phone calls to police switchboards. Local airports and the Federal Aviation Agency could not confirm the elusive things. Radar screens, said the FAA, did not pick up any unseemly aerial activity. One policeman declared, "Don't try and tell me it was swamp gas I saw . . ."

THE AIR Force duly entered the sightings in its Project Blue Book devoted to such phenomena. Meanwhile, official Washington could have cared less about an extra - terrestrial invasion. It was busy juggling the hottest potatoes in recent congressional history — anti-strike legislation, steel price increases, and open housing. All in all, it was not a week for sunshine patriots. But they always abound in election years.

THE STRIKE settlement, so blithely

THE STARS and Stripes flies at half staff near the University of Texas tower after deranged sniper Charles Whitman killed 13 persons last Monday.

spliced in belatedly in this column last Sunday, was short-lived. Machinists simply rejected an agreement which their union, the airlines, and the White House jointly announced. It was back to the drawing boards. Here's what, as of Friday, the Senate did:

Approved legislation aimed at halting the month-old strike, with responsibility shared by Congress and the President. An outcry for the President to handle the hot potato alone resulted in a steaming toss back in the Senate's lap. So . . .they worked out a compromise whereby (1) Congress would order the strikers back for 30 days (2) The President could appoint a special panel to serve as mediators in contract bargaining. This action would freeze the situation and keep the men on their jobs for another 60 days. And (3) If an agreement is not worked out in that period, the President could extend the panel's efforts and the back-to-work freeze another 90 days.

THE BILL goes to the House, where more hearings are scheduled. There is sharp division in the lower chamber on the emergency legislation. The Senate vote was 54 to 33. Because this is an election year, Congress and the President are not anxious to offend labor. Thus, the gingerly treatment. Meanwhile, airline and union losses soared ever onward.

While the U.S.-airline ritual ran its steamy course, the naton's steel makers pulled a clever flanking movement. They increased prices on sheet steel $3 a ton. Inland Steel was the first producer to raise; then followed several in quick succession until, by Friday, 10 major producers announced they were going along with the increase.

SAID ONE New York analyst, "The timing in the middle of the airline strike is beautiful." And so it was. The Administration had painted itself into a wage-price guideline corner because its earlier airline-machinest agreement violated the 3.2 per cent guidepost limit. If the Administration could torpedo its own ruling, why shouldn't the steel industry hike prices, inflationary or not?

BEFORE THE general steel hike, the Administration sent telgrams to the industries requesting that they consult with the government before taking any rash action. Only one replied — and up went the prices.

Gordon Ackley, White House economic adviser, was incensed. He denounced the raises as irresponsible. Twice in the last five years the federal government has succeeded in getting the steel industry to roll back or scale down price increases.

IT WAS too early to tell what the Administration would do about steel's cheekiness, but tentative judgement gave industry the first round, so mild was the initial White House reaction. However, Johnson pointedly warned that unless certain people behaved, the government would cut expenditures in those areas contributing to inflation.

THE HOUSE wrestled mightily with open housing. Late Friday, Rep. Charles M. Mathias, R.-Md., got a controversial provision tacked tentatively to the 1966 Civil Rights Bill by a vote of 198 to 179. The provision bans racial discrimination by builders, bankers, and real estate agents and others in the business of selling or renting housing. Owner - occupants would be exempt, unless they engage in three or more transactions a year. Owner - occupants of dwellings up to four-family size would also be exempt. Republicans tried to kill the provision. It had the blessing of the Administration for no other reason than without it there might not be an open housing bill at all. The proposed bill would open to Negroes 23 million housing units, most of them in large apartments and new developments, plus 1.5 million new houses built each year.

Primary Results

G. MENNEN Williams, heir to Mennen soap fortune and former governor of Michigan, beat Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh by 146,000 votes in the Senate Democratic primary. For 'Soapy' Williams, it was a giant comeback into national politics. He will face recent Romney - appointee, Sen. Robert Griffin in November.

Of the several primaries, Michigan's was the most significant. Democrats were anxious to blunt the Presidential aspiration of Republican Governor George Romney. President Johnson, Vice President Humphrey and Senator Robert Kennedy will lead a task force into Michigan to help Williams. At the same time, Romney will be trying to knock off some Democratic congressional incumbents and return control of the Michigan delegation to the GOP. Democrats now hold an 11-8 edge.

Williams beat Cavanagh in the mayor's own bailiwick — Detroit. Labor and Negroes went for Williams in a big way, Detroit's Negro precincts registering a 12-1 margin for him. Williams has been serving as undersecretary of State for African Affairs.

Republican Griffin is in for a hard time. He is co-author of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Act, a law highly displeasing to Michigan's unions.

In Idaho, Republican Gov. Robert Symlie lost a bid for renomination to an unprecedented fourth term. The winner was staunch conservative, Don Samuelson, a state senator from the northern panhandle. Samuelson's victory surprised even him. He carried all but six of Idaho's 44 countries. So stunned was he that he was late getting out a victory statement.

Gov. Smylie was reportedly in the dog house with the state GOP because of his role in purging Dean Burch as national party chairman. Also, he had been in office for 12 years and is sponsor of a 3 cent sales tax.

Former Gov. Buford Ellington, a Johnsonian Democrat, defeated Kennedy-style liberal, John Jay Hooker Jr., for the Tennessee gubernatorial nomination. Republicans are unlikely to field a candidate, so Ellington is virtually assured of another 4 years in Nashville.

In another Tennessee contest, Gov. Frank Clement edged incumbent Sen. Ross Bass in the Democratic primary for U.S. Senate. Clement will face tough opponent Howard Baker Jr., in the general election.

The best quote of the Tennessee doings came from loser Hooker. He said the loss was not a "bitter thing but defeat doesn't taste like ice cream."

Short Takes

OPERATION HASTINGS ended Wednesday in Viet Nam. The Marine offensive shattered North Vietnamese forces just south of the demilitarized zone. Casualties were officially light, but some 500 Marines were believed killed or wounded. The enemy toll was nearly 2,000; 17 prisoners were taken and heavy weapons seized.

RED CHINA purged its army chief of staff and five deputies. The move followed a similar "cleansing" action on the intellectual-academic front. Clearly, Mao was having trouble keeping his people in line with current Maoist thinking — a boring chore, at best.

PREMIER Kosygin of Russia said the Vietnamese war was isolating the United States from the rest of the world and jeopardizing Soviet-American relations. At the same time, he pledged to do everything possible to bring about a Communist victory.

THE MOST serious racial violence of the week flared in Chicago. Over 3,000 white persons shouting "white power" clashed last Sunday with 350 civil rights demonstrators in an all-white neighborhood. Sixty persons were injured, over 20 arrested, and some 30 cars belonging to the demonstrators were burned by gangs of young whites. The invasion was part of Martin Luther King's direct action program to get better housing for Negroes. Thursday night, an expectant Negro mother was killed and three other persons were wounded when a shotgun blazed from a car containing five youths. They shouted "Mighty Blackstone Rangers" before one of them fired. The gang is one of two powerful Negro groups operating in the Chicago streets.

The Week's Twin Cities-Area News In Review

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

There hadn't been such punting and passing since the New York Giants beat the Baltimore Colts for the NFL championship some 10 years ago. The game last week, however, was far more serious and probably for more money.

At stake as the ball of the proposed Fifth District sales tax was moved up and down the field were teacher and school bus driver pay raises estimated to total $2.8 million, plus pay increases and capital improvements of a nearly like amount in the district's parishes and municipalities.

As has been the case in most recent weeks, the vigorous comment, which swirled about the tax make it perhaps

TYLER

THE issue of the review period. Of course, it wasn't the only game in town, so to speak.

The Monroe City School Board, not mentioned as a specific part of the education tax district, had little to say on that subject, but with prices rising on the construction market in the middle of a $6 million building program, it had plenty to do.

Apart from the tax, the Ouachita Parish School Board found itself again facing an intricate transportation problem that was believed solved over two weeks ago.

Desegregation was another issue before the same board as a federal court, sitting in Monroe, ordered the filing of a student integration plan within five days.

Other major construction steps were taken. Work or plans were moving in a $200,000 Ouachita-wide drainage program by the Louisiana Department of Public Works and the Ouachita Police Jury, in the widening of North Eighteenth Street in Monroe, and in the renovation of the Virginia Hotel, due to become a state office building.

In the language of the hipster, that's what was happening. That, and a good deal more.

SALES TAX

On the issue of the Fifth District sales, no doubt the most engaging feature is the fact that it gave indication of becoming a Twin City sales tax. The tax, abstruse from its labored birth, last week was balled up in still more facets.

Seemingly, what it comes down to finally is that the Ouachita School Board, the only board in Ouachita licensed by the sales tax bill to pass on an election in the parish, didn't jump either way when it met Tuesday night. And, since over half the funds which would be collected in the district would be collected in Ouachita Parish, the board has the peculiar capacity to make or break the tax district-wide.

Meeting in a rare joint session Thursday, Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard and W. B. (Bert) Hatten of West Monroe, with their fellow city officials and leaders of the respective Chambers of Commerce as observers, noted "reluctance" of the board to come to rest. Said the municipal officials, with well over $1 million at stake in so-called surplus from the one cent tax after implementation of school salaries in Monroe and Ouachita, "If the board does not act, we will be compelled to call a one cent sales tax election in Monroe and West Monroe, to be used for municipal purposes only."

It should be reported also that early in the week the matter had become entangled in comment over who or which agency should pay the cost of running a tax election in Ouachita's Parish, a cost estimated variously at from $6,000 to $15,000, depending on who was estimating.

This point too was covered in a telegram sent Ouachita Board President B. A. Tarver Sr. Howard and Hatten agreed to "consider," subject to approval of the policy jury, paying for the election on a scale approximating that in which the separate governmental units would share in surplus: that is, Monroe 71 per cent (absorbing the one per cent portion marked for Sterlington), West Monroe 19 per cent and the police jury 10 per cent.

That, in a nutshell was it, and about as far as it went. Speaking Friday, Tarver listed no plans for a special meeting to deal with the new development, which obviously could spell curtains for teacher raises — parishes and, apparently, city alike.

The mayors, urging the board to act, called teacher raises well-deserved, but declared the cities under stress to act independently, if necessary, to raise money for their own "desperate" needs. In a word, if there was to be no parish tax, and hence no district tax, the cities would seek a local tax.

Tarver said the matter would be discussed at the board's next meeting Aug. 16. Meanwhile, the teachers themselves, naturally enough, were talking and discussing all the time.

While he "could name 500 teachers who want their raises," Ouachita Teachers' Association President Donald Mack said the resolve is to "stand behind our board.

"They will have to make the first move," he said. For Monroe teachers, their association president, Glen Hammett, said opinion had not been sounded, adding that he could not venture one of his own.

Another official in the system, however, said, curiously, that city teachers, in numbers of half or more probably would be against the tax, and raised the fact that, in effect, they would be paying their own raises by paying the tax.

So, as the week closed, the sales tax, in the words of Nikita Khrushchev or Mark Twain, was a stepped-on cat. It could go any way. But it was a safe bet that an election is coming, and a reckoning, probably on Aug. 16.

The special session of the Legislature called by Gov. John McKeithen last week, tentatively for some time after the Nov. 8 general election, could even enter into the tax calculations. Monroe School Board President W. S. Gannaway, for example, not speaking for the board, indicated a preference to let the district tax (called by the attorney general the worst written measure he'd ever seen) die in its present form. Then, the special session could be employed to iron out some of the bill's reported ambiguities

Spokesmen for both local board reported a further awareness of the legal possibility of calling an independent election of their own, dedicating the funds only for school purposes. There were no plans "at present" to do so, but the prospect raised visions of a race to see who could set their vote first.

SCHOOL BUSINESS

As indicated, of other school business during the week, there was plenty.

Calling first at the Monroe School Board and its Tuesday afternoon meeting, the chief item continued to be the attempt to press on with a massive bond-financed building program.

But the advance, halting at best as the board balances sky-high prices against the hope of a levelling somewhere down the line, scarcely spurted. In fact, another bid was taken under advisement — $140,703 for construction of a stadium at Carroll High School, the apparent low bid being approximately $21,000 over its projected allocation.

Neither were matters helped by a look at the status of work and prices in the proposed air conditioning of the system's schools — an undertaking thought capable of completion for $890,000 when the bond issue passed. Board Member Billy Hargiss saw a "$400,000 problem, whether we act now or six months from now," and he found no reason to wait. "We have held up too many decisions until we could find out where we stand in air conditioning."

Hargiss outlined a situation in which almost $485,000 of work remains in the cooling of 11 elementary schools, with but $275,000 left to do it, and revealed an "oversight!" that "put us $180,000 behind to start with." Estimates on air conditioning the Neville and Carroll High Schools covered auditoriums only. Cost of cooling the auditoriums came to $140,000, but cooling the entirety of both schools cost $319,000.

Board President Gannaway sounded the possibility of "doing without" down the road.

Tuesday night, the Ouachita School Board met. This time, it was school busing problems, thought settled earlier, that formed the meat of the meeting. In brief, the question of transporting students living less than a mile from a school was thrown back to member Gerald York and his transportation committee.

State law makes the one mile limitation on bus operations, but does that law draw its circumference around schools of a particular system or any system. On York's motion, about two weeks ago, the board ceased transporting students who lived less than a mile from a city school, even though they might live more than that mile from a parish school.

About "300 to 400" students were involved in the decision and some of their parents were present Tuesday to make vigorous protest.

The Ouachita School System was involved in another key story of the week, as Federal Judge Ben Dawkins ordered its desegregation this fall. Racial barriers, therefore, will fall in the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh and twelfth grades, placing the parish neck and neck with the city, so to speak, in integration. The Monroe system was opened to a prescribed extent to Negroes almost exactly a year ago.

The desegregation plan, probably sent to Dawkins in Shreveport sometime Friday, details arrangements for notifying prospective Negro students of the action. It is understood to mirror the plan presented the judge by the city board.

Later at the same court session in Monroe, the Richland Parish system, which declined to file a plan, was given one by Dawkins — like the Ouachita schedule. Also ordered to desegregate during the week was the Lincoln Parish system, due to open grades one, two, three, 10, 11 and 12 in the fall. All grades in all three systems must be desegregated in the fall of 1967, with faculty and transportation desegregation probably not far behind.

Mention of the Ouachita faculty in the court action Wednesday was turned aside by Dawkins.

Recent weeks have shown no lack of major construction underway or contemplated. Last week was no different, actually was distinguished for a plentitude.

Holding center stage, by virtue of an appearance by Gov. McKeithen and for other reasons, was the groundbreaking in Ruston for a new multi-million-dollar plant of the Stowe-Woodward Company, headquartered in Newton, Mass. The plant, when it is dedicated early next year, will manufacture rubber covers for paper mill rolls. It will employ 45 persons.

About 50 business and community leaders joined Ruston Mayor John Perritt in welcoming Stowe - Woodward's president and board chairman, D. W. Stapleton, who received the customary "key to the city."

But in Monroe and Ouachita Parish, there were doings too. C. W. Whetstone, chairman of the police jury's drainage committee, revealed that the wheels are turning on a $200,000 project to relieve "enormously" the well - remembered floods that have struck in rainy periods.

Bids will be opened Aug. 15 on the excavation of over 486,000 cubic yards of dirt in digging three important drainage channels along 10.5 miles of East Ouachita Parish. Plans already have been approved by the Louisiana Department of Public Works, which is sharing approximately equally in the cost.

The main routes will run from Selman Field south to Young's Bayou, from the Milhaven Road south to the Young's Bayou Cutoff, and east of Milhaven south from U.S. Highway 80 to the north side of the Illinois Central Railroad tracks, thence to Bayou Lafourche. The parish, besides supplying rights - of - way and bridge structures, will dig four lateral canals from the three main channels.

The previously - delayed widening to four lanes of Monroe's North Eighteenth Street was solidly on the tracks last week. Fifth District Highway Board Member James W. Moore announced the acceptance of the $169,103.58 bids of T. L. James and Company for the work. Two hundred contract days were allotted for the four-laning from Forsythe to Breard.

Meanwhile, Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe injected the Virginia Hotel, bought last year as a state office building, back into the news. Adcock disclosed his call to a meeting Monday of the Louisiana Office Building Corporation.

Since plans for the approximately $700,000 renovation of the hotel, fitting it to new uses, already are completed and approved, the project almost certainly will be placed on the construction market for bids. Office Building Corporation Manager Sidney Fazio of Baton Rouge, in fact, noted some while ago that the Virginia would be opened to bids at the first meeting after the plans were done. This is it.

Sunday Poem

They can tell what we are
By the very manner in which we speak,
By the way we employ our leisure time,
By the use we make of a dollar or a dime,
By the things we wear,
By the spirit in which we our burdens bear,
By the kind of things at which we laugh,
By the records we play on a phonograph;
They can tell what we are by the way we walk,
By the things of which we delight to talk,
By so simple a thing as how we eat,
By the way we the poor or needy treat,
By the books we choose from the well-filled shelves
In these ways, and more, we tell on ourselves.

Americans Deceived

U. S. readiness to negotiate with North Viet Nam has become a cardinal tenet of U. S. policy, purely for domestic reasons. It sounds good to the American people. In reality, it is a thoroughly bad posture.

What is there to negotiate? Ho Chi Minh intends to conquer South Viet Nam. The United States is committed to the protection of South Viet Nam from Ho's attack. All President Johnson asks is that Ho stop his aggression.

Ho Chi Minh can stop his aggression any time he wants to do so. He requires no peace conference with the United States to do so. Why would he publicly humiliate himself by confessing failure instead of quietly liquidating the project?

Ho would enter a peace conference to gain some advantage not otherwise attainable. But if the United States is adamant as President Johnson asserts, in protecting the independence and integrity of Saigon, there is nothing Hanoi can gain at the conference table.

AMBASSADOR Goldberg has been reported as suggesting a return to the 1954 Geneva settlement. That solution would require North Viet Nam to surrender all the territory it has since gained in eastern Laos and in South Viet Nam and to sacrifice its hegemony over Cambodia, which now provides a base for the attack on Thailand. This is hardly a rational U. S. proposal.

Despite these realities, the American people cling to the illusion that the war can be ended by negotiation. Administration policy cultivates this illusion to conceal the truth that the aggression will be ended only when our response to aggression makes that course unprofitable to the Communist leadership.

THE U. S. posture on negotiation is also deeply erroneous in its psychological origins. The United States demeans itself in offering to negotiate with Hanoi. It undermines the sovereignty of its ally, South Viet Nam, and lends credence to the Communist line that the Viet Cong are fighting American "imperialism."

If, as the Administration repeatedly proclaims, this is South Viet Nam's war and the U. S. is merely aiding in defense of the country, the responsibility for all policy declarations should rest in Saigon, not in Washington. It did rest there until President Kennedy and his entourage of novices lifted the responsibility from President Ngo Dinh Diem.

As a protecting power, the United States should deal only with the Soviet Union and Communist China. Just as the Soviet Union and Communist China, which are supporting North Viet Nam, preserve the diplomatic appearance that Ho Chi Minh is running the war, the United States should accord the front position on our side to South Viet Nam. If Ho wants to talk, send him to Ky.

THE SPECTACLE of presidential emissaries touring the world seeking some means to persuade tiny North Viet Nam to desist from its aggression is as unedifying as it is unproductive. What can these smaller nations think of a giant who lacks the mind or the will to quell such attacks of a gadfly?

Is the United States so lacking in pride that it will call upon the smaller nations of the free world to help in such a task as this? Surely our allies were right in supposing that the alliance would bring the United States to their assistance, not that they would be called to save the United States.

This true view of the United States as it is seen abroad is screened from the American people by Administration propaganda and a compliant press. The futile quest for peace through negotiation is part of the domestic image - building of the President as a Man of Peace.

Abolish The Headlines?

The Louisville, Kentucky Times the other day came up with a timely editorial on a certain phase of the newspaper profession, headline writing. The editorial obviously has merit and was based on a discussion at the meeting of the Governors Conference in Los Angeles recently.

The editorial says:

Whenever people start criticizing newspapers, it's a safe bet somebody will say a few words about headlines. It happened again at the Governors Conference in Los Angeles, only this time it was a newspaper editor who did the talking. During a discussion of complaints about news presentation, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of "The Christian Science Monitor," observed, "I sometimes think headlines ought to be abolished." The governors indicated their agreement with vigorous applause.

Well, why not abolish headlines? There are some pretty good reasons. A good headline tells the reader quickly what the story underneath has to say. It enables him to find a particular story he may be looking for. By its relative size and placement, the headline indicates the editor's best judgment of the story's value.

By its very nature, the headline is imperfect. It is an attempt to put in a few words what a writer may have taken hundreds of words to tell. Often news material simply cannot be condensed that much with total accuracy. A complex, carefully qualified policy statement, for example, is almost impossible to sum up in five or six words. In such cases, the headlines may be a compromise.

The frustrating conditions under which headlines must be written add to the problem. In the first place, a headline must fit in a given space, which puts strict limits on how much can be said. Furthermore, the headline writer may have to read the story and write the headline under extreme time pressure. Though he may improve on his work in later editions, his first effort is there in print for all to see. In spite of all this, critics notwithstanding, a great many good headlines are written.

No one is more aware of the imperfections of headlines than the people who produce them, as Canham's wry comment indicates. Yet, with all their shortcomings, headlines perform an invaluable service. Without them, it would be almost impossible to make any sense out of a newspaper.

Mass Homicide Triggers Call For Gun Curbs

The nation was hardly recovered from the shock of Chicago's "crime of the century" — wherein eight young student nurses were butchered and strangled to death, presumably by Richard Speck. The Dallas - based seaman pleaded innocent to the killings in court last week.

FOR CHARLES Whitman there will be no trial. He was shot to death at his perch on the University of Texas tower, but not before he had killed his wife and mother, and 13 persons on the campus in 90-minutes of faultless marksmanship. He wounded 31 others.

His rampage was halted when three Austin policemen and a campus employe slipped into the 27-story tower, rode the elevator to the 26th floor, and stepping around dead and wounded, made their way to the tower ledge. Leader of the bold quartet was off-duty policeman, Ramiro Martinez, an intense Latin who admitted before going aloft after Whitman that he "said a prayer and gave my life to God."

An autopsy, grand jury probe, medical report, and police work revealed, in summary, these facts about Whitman. He was a bright, all-American type, gun expert and concert pianist, who suffered severe headaches. He was found to be in perfect health, although there was some dispute about whether a pecan-sized tumor on the brain directly attributed to the homicidal explosion. The tumor was non-malignant — and may have caused him intense pain.

A PSYCHIATRIST revealed Whitman's distress over grades (he was in architectural engineering) and his parents' recent separation. The blond, six footer was said to have a "mortal hatred of his father," of Lake Worth, Florida. Too, Whitman had expressed a desire to do just what he did — ascend the university tower and start shooting people. When he turned thoughts into action, he took an arsenal with him, concealing it in a footlocker.

INVESTIGATORS continued efforts to determine where he got the guns, and other aspects of the case. Gov. John Connally called a national conference of experts to try to determine the cause of Whitman's derangement, to find out "how and why a person might act like that."

In Allentown, Pa., one of the world's foremost authorities on criminal psychology, had his own explanation. Discussing the possible connection between the snipings in Austin and the massacre of eight nurses, Dr. Frederick Wertham said, "Murder is contagious — just like measles."

Gun Control Sought

PRESIDENT Johnson deplored the "shocking tragedy" in Austin and said "we must press urgently for a federal gun control law." The chief Senate sponsor of gun legislation, Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., was ahead of the president in hoping the shooting would push the measure to passage. A chorus of yeas and nays sounded through Congress.

The bill has been sitting in the Senate Judiciary Committee. It was last March that the Administration handed Congress gun control proposals. In May, a Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency approved the kind of firearms bill Johnson wanted and sent it to the full Judiciary Committee. Efforts were underway last week to spring the bill and start it on an admittedly hazardous path through Congress.

HERE'S WHAT THE BILL WOULD DO:

(1) Ban the interstate mail order of concealable firearms — such as pistols and revolvers — to individuals.

(2) Regulate the interstate sale of sporting rifles and shotguns through an affidavit provision. (This would require a person purchasing a rifle through the mail to give his name and address and swear he was not a criminal. Then his affadavit would be forwarded to the police in his communtiy to check on him.)

(3) Restrict the import into the United States of military surplus firearms and certain other foreign - made firearms.

(4) Bar sale of pistols and revolvers to persons under 21.

(5) Bar the sale of rifles and shotguns to persons under 18.

(6) Ban the over-the-counter sale of concealable firearms to persons who are not residents of the state wherein the licensee conducts his business.

BECAUSE of lobbying activities of sportsmen, the National Rifle Association, and gun lovers in general, there was little likelihood these provisions would breeze through Congress unsullied. Battle lines are forming hazily, with Dodd leading the restrictionists, while Senator Roman Hruska, R-Neb., is the informal head of the opposition. Hruska said it would be deplorable to trade on the emotion generated by the incident to push through a weapons bill. "I don't think," he added, "that the legitimate, wholesome user of long guns" ought to be saddled with federal restrictions.

The anti-gun bill may pass, but the chances are it will be in shreds before Presidential signing.

UFOs Hot Potatoes

RESIDENTS, as well as policemen in the Maryland - Virginia suburbs of Washington reported bright, multi-colored lights hovering over a wide area. The sightings of flying saucers — or Unidentified Flying Objects — set off a flood of phone calls to police switchboards. Local airports and the Federal Aviation Agency could not confirm the elusive things. Radar screens, said the FAA, did not pick up any unseemly aerial activity. One policeman declared, "Don't try and tell me it was swamp gas I saw . . ."

THE AIR Force duly entered the sightings in its Project Blue Book devoted to such phenomena. Meanwhile, official Washington could have cared less about an extra - terrestrial invasion. It was busy juggling the hottest potatoes in recent congressional history — anti-strike legislation, steel price increases, and open housing. All in all, it was not a week for sunshine patriots. But they always abound in election years.

THE STRIKE settlement, so blithely

THE STARS and Stripes flies at half staff near the University of Texas tower after deranged sniper Charles Whitman killed 13 persons last Monday.

spliced in belatedly in this column last Sunday, was short-lived. Machinists simply rejected an agreement which their union, the airlines, and the White House jointly announced. It was back to the drawing boards. Here's what, as of Friday, the Senate did:

Approved legislation aimed at halting the month-old strike, with responsibility shared by Congress and the President. An outcry for the President to handle the hot potato alone resulted in a steaming toss back in the Senate's lap. So . . .they worked out a compromise whereby (1) Congress would order the strikers back for 30 days (2) The President could appoint a special panel to serve as mediators in contract bargaining. This action would freeze the situation and keep the men on their jobs for another 60 days. And (3) If an agreement is not worked out in that period, the President could extend the panel's efforts and the back-to-work freeze another 90 days.

THE BILL goes to the House, where more hearings are scheduled. There is sharp division in the lower chamber on the emergency legislation. The Senate vote was 54 to 33. Because this is an election year, Congress and the President are not anxious to offend labor. Thus, the gingerly treatment. Meanwhile, airline and union losses soared ever onward.

While the U.S.-airline ritual ran its steamy course, the naton's steel makers pulled a clever flanking movement. They increased prices on sheet steel $3 a ton. Inland Steel was the first producer to raise; then followed several in quick succession until, by Friday, 10 major producers announced they were going along with the increase.

SAID ONE New York analyst, "The timing in the middle of the airline strike is beautiful." And so it was. The Administration had painted itself into a wage-price guideline corner because its earlier airline-machinest agreement violated the 3.2 per cent guidepost limit. If the Administration could torpedo its own ruling, why shouldn't the steel industry hike prices, inflationary or not?

BEFORE THE general steel hike, the Administration sent telgrams to the industries requesting that they consult with the government before taking any rash action. Only one replied — and up went the prices.

Gordon Ackley, White House economic adviser, was incensed. He denounced the raises as irresponsible. Twice in the last five years the federal government has succeeded in getting the steel industry to roll back or scale down price increases.

IT WAS too early to tell what the Administration would do about steel's cheekiness, but tentative judgement gave industry the first round, so mild was the initial White House reaction. However, Johnson pointedly warned that unless certain people behaved, the government would cut expenditures in those areas contributing to inflation.

THE HOUSE wrestled mightily with open housing. Late Friday, Rep. Charles M. Mathias, R.-Md., got a controversial provision tacked tentatively to the 1966 Civil Rights Bill by a vote of 198 to 179. The provision bans racial discrimination by builders, bankers, and real estate agents and others in the business of selling or renting housing. Owner - occupants would be exempt, unless they engage in three or more transactions a year. Owner - occupants of dwellings up to four-family size would also be exempt. Republicans tried to kill the provision. It had the blessing of the Administration for no other reason than without it there might not be an open housing bill at all. The proposed bill would open to Negroes 23 million housing units, most of them in large apartments and new developments, plus 1.5 million new houses built each year.

Primary Results

G. MENNEN Williams, heir to Mennen soap fortune and former governor of Michigan, beat Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh by 146,000 votes in the Senate Democratic primary. For 'Soapy' Williams, it was a giant comeback into national politics. He will face recent Romney - appointee, Sen. Robert Griffin in November.

Of the several primaries, Michigan's was the most significant. Democrats were anxious to blunt the Presidential aspiration of Republican Governor George Romney. President Johnson, Vice President Humphrey and Senator Robert Kennedy will lead a task force into Michigan to help Williams. At the same time, Romney will be trying to knock off some Democratic congressional incumbents and return control of the Michigan delegation to the GOP. Democrats now hold an 11-8 edge.

Williams beat Cavanagh in the mayor's own bailiwick — Detroit. Labor and Negroes went for Williams in a big way, Detroit's Negro precincts registering a 12-1 margin for him. Williams has been serving as undersecretary of State for African Affairs.

Republican Griffin is in for a hard time. He is co-author of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Act, a law highly displeasing to Michigan's unions.

In Idaho, Republican Gov. Robert Symlie lost a bid for renomination to an unprecedented fourth term. The winner was staunch conservative, Don Samuelson, a state senator from the northern panhandle. Samuelson's victory surprised even him. He carried all but six of Idaho's 44 countries. So stunned was he that he was late getting out a victory statement.

Gov. Smylie was reportedly in the dog house with the state GOP because of his role in purging Dean Burch as national party chairman. Also, he had been in office for 12 years and is sponsor of a 3 cent sales tax.

Former Gov. Buford Ellington, a Johnsonian Democrat, defeated Kennedy-style liberal, John Jay Hooker Jr., for the Tennessee gubernatorial nomination. Republicans are unlikely to field a candidate, so Ellington is virtually assured of another 4 years in Nashville.

In another Tennessee contest, Gov. Frank Clement edged incumbent Sen. Ross Bass in the Democratic primary for U.S. Senate. Clement will face tough opponent Howard Baker Jr., in the general election.

The best quote of the Tennessee doings came from loser Hooker. He said the loss was not a "bitter thing but defeat doesn't taste like ice cream."

Short Takes

OPERATION HASTINGS ended Wednesday in Viet Nam. The Marine offensive shattered North Vietnamese forces just south of the demilitarized zone. Casualties were officially light, but some 500 Marines were believed killed or wounded. The enemy toll was nearly 2,000; 17 prisoners were taken and heavy weapons seized.

RED CHINA purged its army chief of staff and five deputies. The move followed a similar "cleansing" action on the intellectual-academic front. Clearly, Mao was having trouble keeping his people in line with current Maoist thinking — a boring chore, at best.

PREMIER Kosygin of Russia said the Vietnamese war was isolating the United States from the rest of the world and jeopardizing Soviet-American relations. At the same time, he pledged to do everything possible to bring about a Communist victory.

THE MOST serious racial violence of the week flared in Chicago. Over 3,000 white persons shouting "white power" clashed last Sunday with 350 civil rights demonstrators in an all-white neighborhood. Sixty persons were injured, over 20 arrested, and some 30 cars belonging to the demonstrators were burned by gangs of young whites. The invasion was part of Martin Luther King's direct action program to get better housing for Negroes. Thursday night, an expectant Negro mother was killed and three other persons were wounded when a shotgun blazed from a car containing five youths. They shouted "Mighty Blackstone Rangers" before one of them fired. The gang is one of two powerful Negro groups operating in the Chicago streets.

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

There hadn't been such punting and passing since the New York Giants beat the Baltimore Colts for the NFL championship some 10 years ago. The game last week, however, was far more serious and probably for more money.

At stake as the ball of the proposed Fifth District sales tax was moved up and down the field were teacher and school bus driver pay raises estimated to total $2.8 million, plus pay increases and capital improvements of a nearly like amount in the district's parishes and municipalities.

As has been the case in most recent weeks, the vigorous comment, which swirled about the tax make it perhaps

TYLER

THE issue of the review period. Of course, it wasn't the only game in town, so to speak.

The Monroe City School Board, not mentioned as a specific part of the education tax district, had little to say on that subject, but with prices rising on the construction market in the middle of a $6 million building program, it had plenty to do.

Apart from the tax, the Ouachita Parish School Board found itself again facing an intricate transportation problem that was believed solved over two weeks ago.

Desegregation was another issue before the same board as a federal court, sitting in Monroe, ordered the filing of a student integration plan within five days.

Other major construction steps were taken. Work or plans were moving in a $200,000 Ouachita-wide drainage program by the Louisiana Department of Public Works and the Ouachita Police Jury, in the widening of North Eighteenth Street in Monroe, and in the renovation of the Virginia Hotel, due to become a state office building.

In the language of the hipster, that's what was happening. That, and a good deal more.

SALES TAX

On the issue of the Fifth District sales, no doubt the most engaging feature is the fact that it gave indication of becoming a Twin City sales tax. The tax, abstruse from its labored birth, last week was balled up in still more facets.

Seemingly, what it comes down to finally is that the Ouachita School Board, the only board in Ouachita licensed by the sales tax bill to pass on an election in the parish, didn't jump either way when it met Tuesday night. And, since over half the funds which would be collected in the district would be collected in Ouachita Parish, the board has the peculiar capacity to make or break the tax district-wide.

Meeting in a rare joint session Thursday, Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard and W. B. (Bert) Hatten of West Monroe, with their fellow city officials and leaders of the respective Chambers of Commerce as observers, noted "reluctance" of the board to come to rest. Said the municipal officials, with well over $1 million at stake in so-called surplus from the one cent tax after implementation of school salaries in Monroe and Ouachita, "If the board does not act, we will be compelled to call a one cent sales tax election in Monroe and West Monroe, to be used for municipal purposes only."

It should be reported also that early in the week the matter had become entangled in comment over who or which agency should pay the cost of running a tax election in Ouachita's Parish, a cost estimated variously at from $6,000 to $15,000, depending on who was estimating.

This point too was covered in a telegram sent Ouachita Board President B. A. Tarver Sr. Howard and Hatten agreed to "consider," subject to approval of the policy jury, paying for the election on a scale approximating that in which the separate governmental units would share in surplus: that is, Monroe 71 per cent (absorbing the one per cent portion marked for Sterlington), West Monroe 19 per cent and the police jury 10 per cent.

That, in a nutshell was it, and about as far as it went. Speaking Friday, Tarver listed no plans for a special meeting to deal with the new development, which obviously could spell curtains for teacher raises — parishes and, apparently, city alike.

The mayors, urging the board to act, called teacher raises well-deserved, but declared the cities under stress to act independently, if necessary, to raise money for their own "desperate" needs. In a word, if there was to be no parish tax, and hence no district tax, the cities would seek a local tax.

Tarver said the matter would be discussed at the board's next meeting Aug. 16. Meanwhile, the teachers themselves, naturally enough, were talking and discussing all the time.

While he "could name 500 teachers who want their raises," Ouachita Teachers' Association President Donald Mack said the resolve is to "stand behind our board.

"They will have to make the first move," he said. For Monroe teachers, their association president, Glen Hammett, said opinion had not been sounded, adding that he could not venture one of his own.

Another official in the system, however, said, curiously, that city teachers, in numbers of half or more probably would be against the tax, and raised the fact that, in effect, they would be paying their own raises by paying the tax.

So, as the week closed, the sales tax, in the words of Nikita Khrushchev or Mark Twain, was a stepped-on cat. It could go any way. But it was a safe bet that an election is coming, and a reckoning, probably on Aug. 16.

The special session of the Legislature called by Gov. John McKeithen last week, tentatively for some time after the Nov. 8 general election, could even enter into the tax calculations. Monroe School Board President W. S. Gannaway, for example, not speaking for the board, indicated a preference to let the district tax (called by the attorney general the worst written measure he'd ever seen) die in its present form. Then, the special session could be employed to iron out some of the bill's reported ambiguities.

Spokesmen for both local board reported a further awareness of the legal possibility of calling an independent election of their own, dedicating the funds only for school purposes. There were no plans "at present" to do so, but the prospect raised visions of a race to see who could set their vote first.

SCHOOL BUSINESS

As indicated, of other school business during the week, there was plenty.

Calling first at the Monroe School Board and its Tuesday afternoon meeting, the chief item continued to be the attempt to press on with a massive bond-financed building program.

But the advance, halting at best as the board balances sky-high prices against the hope of a levelling somewhere down the line, scarcely spurted. In fact, another bid was taken under advisement — $140,703 for construction of a stadium at Carroll High School, the apparent low bid being approximately $21,000 over its projected allocation.

Neither were matters helped by a look at the status of work and prices in the proposed air conditioning of the system's schools — an undertaking thought capable of completion for $890,000 when the bond issue passed. Board Member Billy Hargiss saw a "$400,000 problem, whether we act now or six months from now," and he found no reason to wait. "We have held up too many decisions until we could find out where we stand in air conditioning."

Hargiss outlined a situation in which almost $485,000 of work remains in the cooling of 11 elementary schools, with but $275,000 left to do it, and revealed an "oversight" that "put us $180,000 behind to start with." Estimates on air conditioning the Neville and Carroll High Schools covered auditoriums only. Cost of cooling the auditoriums came to $140,000, but cooling the entirety of both schools cost $319,000.

Board President Gannaway sounded the possibility of "doing without" down the road.

Tuesday night, the Ouachita School Board met. This time, it was school busing problems, thought settled earlier, that formed the meat of the meeting. In brief, the question of transporting students living less than a mile from a school was thrown back to member Gerald York and his transportation committee.

State law makes the one mile limitation on bus operations, but does that law draw its circumference around schools of a particular system or any system. On York's motion, about two weeks ago, the board ceased transporting students who lived less than a mile from a city school, even though they might live more than that mile from a parish school.

About "300 to 400" students were involved in the decision and some of their parents were present Tuesday to make vigorous protest.

The Ouachita School System was involved in another key story of the week, as Federal Judge Ben Dawkins ordered its desegregation this fall. Racial barriers, therefore, will fall in the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh and twelfth grades, placing the parish neck and neck with the city, so to speak, in integration. The Monroe system was opened to a prescribed extent to Negroes almost exactly a year ago.

The desegregation plan, probably sent to Dawkins in Shreveport sometime Friday, details arrangements for notifying prospective Negro students of the action. It is understood to mirror the plan presented the judge by the city board.

Later at the same court session in Monroe, the Richland Parish system, which declined to file a plan, was given one by Dawkins — like the Ouachita schedule. Also ordered to desegregate during the week was the Lincoln Parish system, due to open grades one, two, three, 10, 11 and 12 in the fall. All grades in all three systems must be desegregated in the fall of 1967, with faculty and transportation desegregation probably not far behind. Mention of the Ouachita faculty in the court action Wednesday was turned aside by Dawkins.

Recent weeks have shown no lack of major construction underway or contemplated. Last week was no different, actually was distinguished for a plentitude.

Holding center stage, by virtue of an appearance by Gov. McKeithen and for other reasons, was the groundbreaking in Ruston for a new multi-million-dollar plant of the Stowe-Woodward Company, headquartered in Newton, Mass. The plant, when it is dedicated early next year, will manufacture rubber covers for paper mill rolls. It will employ 45 persons.

About 50 business and community leaders joined Ruston Mayor John Perritt in welcoming Stowe - Woodward's president and board chairman, D. W. Stapleton, who received the customary "key to the city."

But in Monroe and Ouachita Parish, there were doings too. C. W. Whetstone, chairman of the police jury's drainage committee, revealed that the wheels are turning on a $200,000 project to relieve "enormously" the well - remembered floods that have struck in rainy periods.

Bids will be opened Aug. 15 on the excavation of over 486,000 cubic yards of dirt in digging three important drainage channels along 10. 5 miles of East Ouachita Parish. Plans already have been approved by the Louisiana Department of Public Works, which is sharing approximately equally in the cost.

The main routes will run from Selman Field south to Young's Bayou, from the Milhaven Road south to the Young's Bayou Cutoff, and east of Milhaven south from U.S. Highway 80 to the north side of the Illinois Central Railroad tracks, thence to Bayou Lafourche. The parish, besides supplying rights - of - way and bridge structures, will dig four lateral canals from the three main channels.

The previously - delayed widening to four lanes of Monroe's North Eighteenth Street was solidly on the tracks last week. Fifth District Highway Board Member James W. Moore announced the acceptance of the $169,103.58 bids of T. L. James and Company for the work. Two hundred contract days were allotted for the four-laning from Forsythe to Breard.

Meanwhile, Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe injected the Virginia Hotel, bought last year as a state office building, back into the news. Adcock disclosed his call to a meeting Monday of the Louisiana Office Building Corporation.

Since plans for the approximately $700,000 renovation of the hotel, fitting it to new uses, already are completed and approved, the project almost certainly will be placed on the construction market for bids. Office Building Corporation Manager Sidney Fazio of Baton Rouge, in fact, noted some while ago that the Virginia would be opened to bids at the first meeting after the plans were done. This is it.

Ex-Actress In New Role

Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor of California, receives lots of help from his wife who finds speech making and politics difficult, but crosses 'one bridge at a time.'

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Mom, can I have a popsicle?" asked 8-year-old Ronnie.

Nancy Reagan said he could.

"Mom, can I get a guitar?" asked Pattie, 13.

"We'll talk about it later, honey."

This dialogue introduces Nancy Reagan, ex-debutante, ex-actress, in the role she says she likes best — homemaker.

She is the wife of Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor of California who will try to thwart the third-term bid of Democrat Edmund G. Brown, in the Nov. 8 general election. If he wins, Reagan could become an important figure when Republicans gather to pick a national slate for the presidential election in 1968.

Nancy Reagan, daughter of a Chicago brain surgeon, is a handsome, brown-eyed woman of 43 who has been married to Reagan, 55, for 14½ yrs.

FILM ROLE WIFE

As Nancy Davis in movies, she says, "I usually played the wife" — including once the wife of George Murphy, now U. S. senator from California. She quit films upon becoming Reagan's real-life wife.

Mrs. Reagan likes to work in her garden, give dinner parties for eight or ten good friends, including the Robert Taylors, and ride horseback at the Reagan ranch. She's a member of the Colleagues, a charity group which supports a home for unwed mothers, and the Junior League, community - service organization.

Now, however, she finds herself in the thick or at least the hot fringes of political battle. "When you have children, you have to divide yourself."

TEAS AND COFFEES

When the Reagans appeared jointly during the California primary campaign, in which Reagan won the GOP nomination by a landslide, she let her fluent actor husband do all the speech-making. But there were teas and coffee hours where Nancy was the sole attraction, and — "I had to make speeches. I said I never would — I like to just sit and talk. But I'd get up and tell how we got involved, why we're doing it, the importance of the two-party system and the importance of men other than politicians becoming involved politically.

"Ronnie and I thought the picture business had a corner on rumors, but politics are worse. It's like the rumor that Ronnie wears make-up for his speeches. He never wore it even in pictures.

"This one's in the same category. They're going to have to take me, old image and all."

The image includes a trim, 5-foot-4 figure weighing 109 pounds — a primary-campaign loss of five pounds although she ate heartily of the circuit's constant roast beef, mashed potatoes and apple pie.

Her reddish-brown hair, in a chic tousle has been coiffured "since long before the campaign "by George Masters, famed beautifier of such celebrities as Rita Hayworth, Elizabeth Taylor and, when she's in town for a date with George Hamilton, Lyndia Bird Johnson.

CAREER DECISION

Deciding on an acting career, she went to New York and got a job as engenue in "Ramshackle Inn" with Zazu Pitts. Next came "Lute Song" with Mary Martin, "Cordelia" and "The Late Christopher Bean" with Miss Pitts. A television performance in "Ramshackle Inn" led to an MGM contract.

Producer Mervyn LeRoy brought about the meeting of the Reagons, telling Nancy "I think you two should know each other."

"Ronnie called and asked me to have dinner but, never having seen me, protected himself by saying he had an early call the next day," Nancy said. "I said I had an early call, too.

"During dinner he said, 'Why don't we see the first show at Ciro's? It was Sophie Tucker. During the first show he said, 'Why don't we stay and see the second show?' We got home about 2 a.m."

They had another date the next night and a year later were married.

Reagan previously was married for eight years to actress Jane Wyman. They had two children.

PALISADES HOME

The Reagans live at suburban Pacific Palisades in a magnificent contemporary home they built nine years ago on a shelf carved into the Santa Monica Mountains. The feeling is out-doors-indoors, with swimming pool, lush shrubbery and vast vista visible through wall-size windows containing, incidentally, two cracks from sonic booms.

HOW DOES MRS. RONALD REAGAN feel about the possibility of becoming California's First Lady? It's a question, she says, that she is always being asked but can't answer. "I think it would be presumptuous of me," she says. "You cross one bridge at a time." This portrait was made recently at her Pacific Palisades home. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

The Institute of Logopedics, located in a section of a Kansas wheat field, has helped thousands of children overcome speech afflictions in the past 32 years. Music is one of the therapies used in helping penetrate the fog which shrouds speech faculties.

By JOE MCKNIGHT

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A grand piano, a sandbox full of Kansas wheat and a low-wheeled cart are helping teach handicapped children how to talk — some for the first time in their lives.

Consider 9-year-old Timmy. When he came to the Institute of Logopedics here, he couldn't speak, had withdrawn into himself and lived in his own secret world.

RESPONSE

He stood the boy beside a grand piano, opened the top and plucked out simple scales on the strings. Almost immediately, Timmy's face brightened, and he tried to crawl up this strange box of sound.

Within months, Timmy and his teacher were playing simple duets on the xylophone, and Timmy had embarked on what will be likely a year's long pathway to speech.

The late Dr. Martin F. Palmer, who founded the institute 32 years ago, explained it this way: the part of the brain that responds to music is tucked away in a well-protected area and has a separate blood supply than much of the rest of the brain. Thus, an accident that blocks blood and damages part of the brain might leave the music receptor untouched.

Sometimes an accident may result in brain damage and aphasia — the loss of learned ability to speak — and sometimes music can be the key to reaching the brain again.

FOG PIERCED

Aphasia, said Palmer, is like being lost in a fog, when one should know where he is. "Music," he said, "comes through the fog like a clear, sudden ray of sunshine."

Situated on 50 acres of a Kansas wheat field, the institute's 51 buildings have seen the passage of 12,000 handicapped persons through its halls, victims of cerebral palsy, aphasia, stuttering, and dozens of speech problems. It is open to anyone in need.

The instute has a student body of some 500 on campus, 1,000 more in 24 field centers in the state. Last year it "graduated" three persons a day from its programs, and back to new lives.

Logopedists may find a rhythm to the uncontrolled shaking motions of some handicapped children. Perhaps such a child will be furnished a drum to beat on. The instructor attempts to pick up a rhythm in such beats on a piano. Slowly — perhaps in weeks — the teacher begins taking the lead in this rhythm and gradually controlling it.

Medical history has shown that speech handicaps are likely to accompany severe cases of palsy. Children so afflicted must learn the slow, groping technique of mastering the more than 200 rebellious muscles that control speech. Many of them must learn first to control other unruly muscles — how to walk, pick up pencils — before wrestling with the problems of langugage.

Mechanical braces, often used to push crooked, palsied limbs into line, are held to a minimum at the institute. Therapists reason that, wherever possible, the twisted muscles take over the job of control from the start.

Football helmets are part of the regular attire for many palsied youngsters, subject to falls. They sometimes have the side effect of encouraging youthful athletics.

MUSCLE CONTROL

The act of picking up grains of wheat, putting them in a can with a salt shaker top, then shaking them out, helps teach muscle control. One popular spot with youngsters at the institute is a sand box filled with wheat.

A child who has never walked can find supreme delight in being strapped stomach down on a low, wheeled cart and propelling himself with flailing arms and legs, learning muscle control.

[illegible] of [illegible] the institute encourages nearly a normal life as possible for your student. This is difficult for many who come from other states or countries for treatment that may last four years or more.

One of Palmer's many recollections about his years of logopedics work was of a proud mother who burst into his office with her 4-year-old son, an aphasic student at the institute.

"I just did a terrible thing," she told Palmer, "but you can't imagine what a satisfaction it was. I've prayed for the day my baby could talk.

"Well today I had to tell him to shut up. He was talking my ear off."

Ex-Actress In New Role

Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor of California, receives lots of help from his wife who finds speech making and politics difficult, but crosses 'one bridge at a time.'

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Mom, can I have a popsicle?" asked 8-year-old Ronnie.

Nancy Reagan said he could.

"Mom, can I get a guitar?" asked Pattie, 13.

"We'll talk about it later, honey."

This dialogue introduces Nancy Reagan, ex-debutante, ex-actress, in the role she says she likes best — homemaker.

She is the wife of Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor of California who will try to thwart the third-term bid of Democrat Edmund G. Brown, in the Nov. 8 general election. If he wins, Reagan could become an important figure when Republicans gather to pick a national slate for the presidential election in 1968.

Nancy Reagan, daughter of a Chicago brain surgeon, is a handsome, brown-eyed woman of 43 who has been married to Reagan, 55, for 14½ yrs.

FILM ROLE WIFE

As Nancy Davis in movies, she says, "I usually played the wife" — including once the wife of George Murphy, now U. S. senator from California. She quit films upon becoming Reagan's real-life wife.

Mrs. Reagan likes to work in her garden, give dinner parties for eight or ten good friends, including the Robert Taylors, and ride horseback at the Reagan ranch. She's a member of the Colleagues, a charity group which supports a home for unwed mothers, and the Junior League, community - service organization.

Now, however, she finds herself in the thick or at least the hot fringes of political battle. "When you have children, you have to divide yourself."

TEAS AND COFFEES

When the Reagans appeared jointly during the California primary campaign, in which Reagan won the GOP nomination by a landslide, she let her fluent actor husband do all the speech-making. But there were teas and coffee hours where Nancy was the sole attraction, and — "I had to make speeches. I said I never would — I like to just sit and talk. But I'd get up and tell how we got involved, why we're doing it, the importance of the two-party system and the importance of men other than politicians becoming involved politically.

"Ronnie and I thought the picture business had a corner on rumors, but politics are worse. It's like the rumor that Ronnie wears make-up for his speeches. He never wore it even in pictures.

"This one's in the same category. They're going to have to take me, old image and all."

The image includes a trim, 5-foot-4 figure weighing 109 pounds — a primary-campaign loss of five pounds although she ate heartily of the circuit's constant roast beef, mashed potatoes and apple pie.

Her reddish-brown hair, in a chic tousle has been coiffured "since long before the campaign "by George Masters, famed beautifier of such celebrities as Rita Hayworth, Elizabeth Taylor and, when she's in town for a date with George Hamilton, Lyndia Bird Johnson.

CAREER DECISION

Deciding on an acting career, she went to New York and got a job as engenue in "Ramshackle Inn" with Zazu Pitts. Next came "Lute Song" with Mary Martin, "Cordelia" and "The Late Christopher Bean" with Miss Pitts. A television performance in "Ramshackle Inn" led to an MGM contract.

Producer Mervyn LeRoy brought about the meeting of the Reagons, telling Nancy "I think you two should know each other."

"Ronnie called and asked me to have dinner but, never having seen me, protected himself by saying he had an early call the next day," Nancy said. "I said I had an early call, too.

"During dinner he said, 'Why don't we see the first show at Ciro's? It was Sophie Tucker. During the first show he said, 'Why don't we stay and see the second show?' We got home about 2 a.m."

They had another date the next night and a year later were married.

Reagan previously was married for eight years to actress Jane Wyman. They had two children.

PALISADES HOME

HOW DOES MRS. RONALD REAGAN feel about the possibility of becoming California's First Lady? It's a question, she says, that she is always being asked but can't answer. "I think it would be presumptuous of me," she says. "You cross one bridge at a time." This portrait was made recently at her Pacific Palisades home. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Child's Pathway To Speech

The Institute of Logopedics, located in a section of a Kansas wheat field, has helped thousands of children overcome speech afflictions in the past 32 years. Music is one of the therapies used in helping penetrate the fog which shrouds speech faculties.

By JOE MCKNIGHT

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A grand piano, a sandbox full of Kansas wheat and a low-wheeled cart are helping teach handicapped children how to talk — some for the first time in their lives.

Consider 9-year-old Timmy. When he came to the Institute of Logopedics here, he couldn't speak, had withdrawn into himself and lived in his own secret world.

RESPONSE

He stood the boy beside a grand piano, opened the top and plucked out simple scales on the strings. Almost immediately, Timmy's face brightened, and he tried to crawl up this strange box of sound.

Within months, Timmy and his teacher were playing simple duets on the xylophone, and Timmy had embarked on what will be likely a year's long pathway to speech.

The late Dr. Martin F. Palmer, who founded the institute 32 years ago, explained it this way: the part of the brain that responds to music is tucked away in a well-protected area and has a separate blood supply than much of the rest of the brain. Thus, an accident that blocks blood and damages part of the brain might leave the music receptor untouched.

Sometimes an accident may result in brain damage and aphasia — the loss of learned ability to speak — and sometimes music can be the key to reaching the brain again.

FOG PIERCED

Aphasia, said Palmer, is like being lost in a fog, when one should know where he is. "Music," he said, "comes through the fog like a clear, sudden ray of sunshine.

Situated on 50 acres of a Kansas wheat field, the institute's 51 buildings have seen the passage of 12,000 handicapped persons through its halls, victims of cerebral palsy, aphasia, stuttering, and dozens of speech problems. It is open to anyone in need.

The instute has a student body of some 500 on campus, 1,000 more in 24 field centers in the state. Last year it "graduated" three persons a day from its programs, and back to new lives.

Logopedists may find a rhythm to the uncontrolled shaking motions of some handicapped children. Perhaps such a child will be furnished a drum to beat on. The instructor attempts to pick up a rhythm in such beats on a piano. Slowly — perhaps in weeks — the teacher begins taking the lead in this rhythm and gradually controlling it.

Medical history has shown that speech handicaps are likely to accompany severe cases of palsy. Children so afflicted must learn the slow, groping technique of mastering the more than 200 rebellious muscles that control speech. Many of them must learn first to control other unruly muscles — how to walk, pick up pencils — before wrestling with the problems of langugage.

Mechanical braces, often used to push crooked, palsied limbs into line, are held to a minimum at the institute. Therapists reason that, wherever possible, the twisted muscles take over the job of control from the start.

Football helmets are part of the regular attire for many palsied youngsters, subject to falls. They sometimes have the side effect of encouraging youthful athletics.

MUSCLE CONTROL

The act of picking up grains of wheat, putting them in a can with a salt shaker top, then shaking them out, helps teach muscle control. One popular spot with youngsters at the institute is a sand box filled with wheat.

A child who has never walked can find supreme delight in being strapped stomach down on a low, wheeled cart and propelling himself with flailing arms and legs, learning muscle control.

Outside of classes, the institute encourages as nearly a normal life as possible for young students. This is difficult for many who come from other states or countries for treatment that may last four years or more.

Apartments are available for youngsters whose parents move here from distant points to maintain family life. The Air Force has been known to transfer airmen to a nearby air base so their children can attend the institute.

HOUSEMOTHERS

A number of apartments at the institute are staffed with trained housemothers for youngsters whose parents can't be with them in sustained training periods.

Collier of Ferriday, Alex Davis of Newellton, Paul Davis of Bastrop, Helen E. Dixon of Tallulah, Nancy D. Randle of Bastrop, Lottie B. Tolliver of Winnsboro and Eddie M. Toston of Oak Grove, B.S. (secondary education).

Engineering — Richard Cooper of Homer, B.S.

Home Economics — Ina L. Gage of Lake Providence and Barbara J. Wallace of Monroe, B.S. (food nutrition).

Receiving degrees from graduate school were:

Elementary Education — Dorothy M. Coleman of Tallulah and Estella S. Smith of West Monroe, M. Ed.

Secondary Education — Clarice M. Gibson of Jonesboro, Joe G. Singleton of Winnsboro and Lonnie B. Smith of West Monroe, M. Ed.

Administration and Supervision — Edward Farley of Jonesboro and Alex Nicholas of Monroe, M. Ed.

Clergyman Agrees

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A South African clergyman said Saturday Beatle John Lennon was right that the shaggy foursome "are more popular than Jesus Christ."

"If the Beatles came to Johannesburg on a Sunday churches would be empty," said the Rev. Mervyn Moore. "He (John) is a silly young cuss. But he is right all the same."

Negro Says Suit Here Not Intended

Lawyers who Wednesday won a federal court order here for the Ouachita Parish School Board to submit a plan for desegregation were apparently again without a plaintiff Saturday.

A Calhoun Negro named as last minute plaintiff in Wednesday's hearings on a suit charging Ouachita Parish School Board with maintaining a bi-racial system claimed Saturday he was misinformed by plaintiff's lawyers as to what he was signing.

"They should have known that I wouldn't have anything to do with putting my children in a white school. The lawyer (representing Lawyer's Constitutional Defense Committee, New Orleans) told me the suit would be for better facilities at Central High School."

Jeremiah Taylor, Negro, was named plaintiff Wednesday at hearings, in which Judge Ben C. Dawkins gave the school board five days in which to present a plan for desegregating the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth, eleventh and twelfth grades for this fall.

Days before the hearings, two West Monroe Negroes named by the lawyers as plaintiffs denied their intent, also saying they had been mislead into signing something they "do not want."

Upon their dismissal from the suit as plaintiffs, Taylor was named plaintiff. Dawkins had overruled District Attorney Albin P. Lassiter's motion that the case should be dropped for want of plaintiffs. He ruled the trial should be continued on the basis that the plaintiffs in the case were not as important as the fact that "the parish does operate a bi-racial system."

Malibu Sport Coupe and Malibu 4-Door Station Wagon. Both with 8 standard safety features.

To save money and, quite often, lots of it.

They know that prices will never be better at their Chevrolet dealer's than they are in August. They know their present cars will never be worth more in trade than they are right now. And they know a good value when they see one, like a Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe—the most popular model of America's most popular mid-size car.

It comes with thick foam-cushioned seats, deep-twist carpeting, vinyl up one door and down the other, padded instrument panel and sun visors for added safety. And all those Body by Fisher niceties sit solidly over some of the surest handling features a car can have: Ball-Race steering. Full Coil suspension. Wide-stance wheel design for steady cornering.

So you see, "Chevrolet in August" makes a lot of sense. Fine cars. Exceptionally good buys. And just think about all those beautiful driving days left. Real Malibu weather. Act, my friend.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) - the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Portugal Opens 3,000 Foot Span

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal opened the Premier Antonio Salazr bridge over the Tagus River Saturday. It is the longest in the world outside the United States.

As peace doves were released and jet fighters roared overhead, President America Thomaz dedicated the 3,323-foot span, the first direct connection between Portugal's industrial north and the impoverished south.

The $75-million bridge was built by U.S. Steel Corp. and its subsidiaries with the aid of a $50-million loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank. In addition, $21 million came from two French banks. It was finished six months ahead of schedule, in four years.

Marines Find 12 Viet Bodies

DA NANG (UPI) —A U.S. Marine patrol searching a farming village 12 miles south of Da Nang Saturday discovered the bodies of 12 Vietnamese savagely beaten and riddled with bullets.

Four of the victims were children. They had been shot to death at close range by light machineguns and thrown into a heap near the bodies of four men and four women.

A Marine spokesman who reported the incident said they apparently were victims of a Communist Viet Cong terror and assassination squad for not cooperating with them.

The victims appeared to have been dead for several hours before the Marines discovered the carnage in the bloodspattered mud hut.

Shortly before the patrol entered the hut, it killed eight Communist guerrillas in a brief firefight on the edge of the farming hamlet.

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal opened the Premier Antonio Salazr bridge over the Tagus River Saturday. It is the longest in the world outside the United States.

As peace doves were released and jet fighters roared overhead, President Americo Thomaz dedicated the 3,323-foot span, the first direct connection between Portugal's industrial north and the impoverished south.

The $75-million bridge was built by U.S. Steel Corp. and its subsidiaries with the aid of a $50-million loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank. In addition, $21 million came from two French banks. It was finished six months ahead of schedule, in four years.

Law Degree Is Shelved For Spread Of Gospel

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A former Marine, who shelved an Ivy League law degree to enter the ministry, hopes to expand a small television station into a million-dollar facility to spread the gospel.

"We hope to start work this fall on a full color television studio with video tape and a new radio-television center," says Pat Robertson. "The cost is estimated at more than a million dollars."

Through "our principal ministry right now is to the million or so people in Tidewater Virginia," Robertson envisions a religious network serving the eastern seaboard.

"I have a particular burden eventually to reach the heavily populated east coast of the United States with the gospel of Christ. Key cities would include Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, which form with Norfolk what is called Megalopolis," he said.

SERVED IN KOREA

Robertson, 36 and 6 feet 2, is a son of Sen. A. Willis Robertson of Virginia. He received a bachelor of arts degree at Washington and Lee University in 1950 and was mustered out of the Marines in 1952 after serving in Korea.

Three years later, Robertson was graduated from Yale Law School, tried big business briefly, then entered New York Theological Seminary. There he received a bachelor of sacred theology degree in 1959. He is an ordained Baptist minister.

"I asked the Lord what He wanted me to do next," Robertson recalls, "The answer came that fall."

He learned that a small television station in Portsmouth could be bought for $37,000. He loaded his wife and three children — he has four now — into the family car and drove to Portsmouth with $70 in his pocket.

"The first thing I did," he said, "was to have printed 10,000 cards asking people to pray. In January 1960, I formed the Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc., to operate the station. I opened a bank account with a deposit of $3, the first contribution received. It was from a young man in South Carolina."

Robertson, who likes to be called Pat — "hardly anyone knows my name is Marion G." — renamed the station WYAH-TV, taken from the Hebrew word Yahweh, "He who causes (everything) to be."

"The first year was difficult, to say the least," Robertson recalls. "We did not solicit funds. We relied on prayer to sustain the station. There were no commercials.

INCOME SPIRALS

"Nevertheless, our income has virtually doubled every year since 1961, when it was $7,000. I estimate the 1966 income will be approximately $200,000.

"We still have no commercials on the television station, but we do on our FM radio station, WXRI, which we put on the air in 1962 to augment the work of WYAH-TV."

The television and radio staffs now include 16 full - time and nine part-time employes. Robertson says operating costs run $12,000 to $15,000 per month.

WYAH-TV is on the air each week night from 7 to 10:30 o'clock and on Sunday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. At least 60 per cent of the programs are live.

"We plan to double these hours when the new center is built," Pat said.

The radio station is on the air 24 hours each weekday, 19 hours on Sunday.

MANY REQUESTS

The stations receive many telephone requests for spiritual counsel and prayers. Counsel is given immediately by telephone. Prayer requests are referred to Robertson for response on a television program.

The stations are operated on an interdenominational basis. "Many faiths conduct programs," said Robertson.

A weekly program that deals with Christian missions is conducted by Robertson's wife, the former Adelia Elmer of Columbus, Ohio, who holds a masters degree in nursing from Yale.

Robertson thinks "Christian television's major contribution is in programs for children. By 1975, 50 per cent of the people in America will be under 18. They are constantly exposed to a television diet of violence, fantasy and aberrations."

Outlining his goals, Robertson said: "We strive to encourage Christians in the day to day living of their faith and to share with them the wonderful truths of the holy Bible.

"In this regard we also want to offer the Christian home a satisfactory alternative to rock 'n' roll music and the vast wasteland of commercial television."

Ridge Ave. Youth-Led Revival Set

A youth-led revival will open Thursday at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, Ridge Ave. and Splane Dr., West Monroe, and continue daily through Sunday, August 14.

Services will be held nightly at 7:30 Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Morning services will be held at 7 Friday and Saturday, with coffee, milk and doughnuts being served in the vestibule of the church. Services Sunday, August 14 will be at 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Featured during the revival will be a youth team from Pineville, consisting of evangelist Brett Walker, Jr. and singer Kenny Keller.

CHURCH WORK

Walker is a native of Jackson, Miss., graduate of Byrd High School, Shreveport, graduate Louisiana College, Pineville, has been counselor for boys camps, interim pastor and song leader in various Baptist Churches. He presently is serving as interim music director for Meredith Baptist Church, Alexandria.

Keller is a native of Simmesport, graduate of New Iberia High School, attended University of Southwestern Louisiana, is a senior at Louisiana College, and plans to attend New Orleans Theological Seminary. He has directed several choirs, was minister of music at Abbeville, has sung with Louisiana College Singers, Louisiana College Chorale, and the Louisianians. He presently is minister of music of Trinity Baptist Church, Oakdale.

Chairmen of various youth committees assisting with the revival are Diane Balfour, Brenda Mason, Dorothy Stewart, Jimmy Nicholson, Charles Holstead, Janis Mason, Rennie Smelser, Betty Waller, and Pat Spillers.

Cottage prayer meetings of young people and adults, visitation by young people and adults, discussion groups and fellowships are scheduled in connection with the revival. Primary, Junior and Young People's choirs will be heard during the meetings.

Nurseries will be open during all meetings.

The Rev. H. L. Sampson is pastor of the church.

Teen Group Ministering With Songs

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The setting and most of the songs are typical of any college campus hootenany. But the performers are from a different mold than most folk singers.

"We hope to bring people to an awareness of God and Christ through our music and our words," explains 16-year-old Baylus (Breezy) Cade III.

Cade and three other Las Cruces high school pupils have found what they believe is their life's calling in a religious soft-sell through music. Their pastor calls them rebels with a cause.

"The pulpit-pounding evangelist, so to speak, was good for a certain generation, but that is past and perhaps our own generation needs something else," Cade said. "Maybe this might be the answer. We don't advocate a specific church, just Christianity."

GUITAR VOCAL GROUP

The teen-agers — three boys and a girl — have formed the "Ichthusians," a guitar and vocal group which got its start at the Christian Church Student Center at New Mexico State University.

Their program of popular and folk songs attracted other young people. They interspersed a half-dozen religious songs of their own composition "and really put it across," said their pastor, the Rev. Lee Hobert, president of the New Mexico Council of Churches.

"The result was they said to me, 'Is there a real ministry possible in this area; how far can we go; what can we do?'

"Their springboard was an international youth emphasis program in Las Cruces," he said. "They wrote a song, 'What in the World Are We Waiting For,' and the punch line of this song is 'Join the rebellion for God,' which pretty well captures the feeling of these kids.

"They say, 'All right, lets rebel, but lets rebel for something rather than against.'"

AT CONVENTION

The quartet's approach and success has brought them before the New Mexico convention of the Christian Church twice for performances.

For the initial performances, Cade, a polio victim since 5, had to be rolled onto the stage in a cart because of a heavy back brace he was wearing. Now it is gone and he uses crutches.

"We've had some kids respond to some of the songs," the Rev. Mr. Hobert said. "There have been kids at these performances who would never darken the door of a church." But he hesitates to use the term converts.

Is there a future for their special type of ministry?

"They keep asking me how many other youth rallies and weekend youth retreats can I get them involved in," Rev. Mr. Hobert said, "because they are beginning to sense they have something to say. It's a refreshing experience to have a group of young people who stand for something."

Cade and two others in the group, Kathy Lynn Griffith, 18, and Michael Chappell, 17, have plans to attend Northwest Christian College at Eugene, Ore., for study "with an accent on the ministry." The fourth member, Steve Dahlgren, 16, is a Methodist. The others are members of the Mesilla Valley Christian church.

The group wants to continue its religious folk singing. Cade says, "There's no beating it for a feeling of actually getting somewhere and helping other people."

Reformation Underway In Church Architecture

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Some churches once were built round "so the devil can't corner you."

Many of today's churches are being built in-the-round — but the aim is to bring the people together.

Church designers are remembering that Mathew quotes Jesus as saying: "For where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them."

Thus new churches are being built with the pews in a circle and an altar or communion table "in the midst of them."

Although there are advantages to this seating arrangement, some architects warn against turning it or any other trend into a fad and following it blindly.

Architect Philip Gardner has written that, "Examples of the overused A-frame design continue to multiply like a virus."

SURROUND STAGE

The seating-in-the-round arrangement for churches looks much like seating for theater in the round, which puts the audience on all sides of the stage. There can be participation from all sides and action in any direction.

Manchester, Iowa, a conservative community by many standards, saw consecration recently of a Methodist church with six rows of pews in almost a complete circle around a communion table.

A massive cross is suspended over the center table so that, as architect Hovey Brom of Waterloo, Iowa, said, "The cross becomes the altar, and everything that is done is done under the cross." The central location of the Communion table signifies "the fellowship of the church around the table of Our Lord," he said.

IN CIRCLE

At Ames, Iowa, the two-year-old University Lutheran Chapel seats its congregation in a circle around a Communion table. A skylight above the table looks up to a cross atop the building. In both churches the pulpit is near the center of the circle of pews but set slightly toward one side.

The Rev. Galen Hora, 25, crew-cut and bearded chaplain of University Lutheran Chapel, said, "The preaching, of necessity, becomes more informal. You can't have a stale, rhetorical lecture any more. I sometimes even get down from the pulpit and walk around the congregation as I talk."

As a worshipper, he said, "you don't just look at the back of a guy's head. You look across into someone else's eyes. You're involved in the service."

Admitting some may go to a round church just to see the building, he said, "I guess this is just as good a reason as hab it."

The immediate past president of the American Society for Church Architecture, Charles Stade of Park Ridge, Ill., says the designer of a church should consider theology, just as he does the lay of the land at the building site.

He said that a church in the round, "done well, could be a good piece of architecture. If it is not done well, it could be merely an example of a passing fad."

DESIGN REFORMATION

Architect Willis Schellberg of Forest City, Iowa, whose firm designed the University Lutheran Chapel, said this trend is "an architectural reformation, especially as it applies to Lutheran churches. It re-emphasizes the corporate nature of worship, where people gather together to worship. The people are not merely onlookers."

Brom mentioned today, in some church buildings of conventional design, "you end up in the 73rd row with no feeling of participating in things at the altar.

"It's the theology that brings this trend about. There is less emphasis on mystery, the service is more personal and there is more participation."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Pfeffer, chancellor of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Des Moines, said there is a similar trend among builders of Catholic churches.

REV. GLENN PIPPENS, pastor of North Monroe Baptist Church, will be evangelist for a revival series opening today at Antioch Baptist Church, Route 2, Farmerville, and continuing through Sunday, August 14. Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m. The event will be climaxed with a homecoming and dinner on the grounds. Pastor of the church is the Rev. John R. Cutrer.

J. S. DOLLAR

J. S. Dollar Speaker At Church Here

A ruling elder from the First Presbyterian Church of Natchitoches, J. S. Dollar, will be guest speaker at 11 a.m. services today at the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe.

A native of Sulligent, Ala., he graduated from Mississippi State College, and has been employed by General Motors Acceptance corporation for the past 17 years. From 1953 to 1960, he was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe.

He is a Sunday school adult class teacher, chairman of the Christian Education Committee of his church, member of Christian Education Committee of Red River Presbytery, and a member of the presbytery's Committee on Examinations.

He is married and has five children.

Mixed Faiths Marriages Gain With 2 Pastors Officiating

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Four men stand elbow-to-elbow at the side of the church altar — the groom, his best man, a Roman Catholic priest and a Protestant minister.

"Dearly beloved," the Presbyterian clergyman intones, after prayer opening the marriage rites, and then he reads from Scripture.

At the central portion of the service, the Roman Catholic priest leads the couple in their marriage vows. Then the Presbyterian minister takes over again, for more Scripture reading, a short talk and the benediction.

Organ music up. Flowers and rice fly. And the well-wishers disperse.

This has become the frequent ecclesiastical style for mixed marriages today — an ecumenical approach which until recently was forbidden by Rome.

POINTS OF TENSION

Respective roles accorded the Roman Catholic and protestant clergymen still are points of some tension, and some Protestants decline participation, under the present rules.

Nevertheless, such jointly celebrated ceremonies are becoming increasingly commonplace, most of them taking place quietly without fanfare, sometimes at the request of Catholic bishops that the affairs not be publicized.

But in many dioceses, scores of them have occurred since the Vatican regulations were liberalized last spring.

For example Catholic Bishop Bernard J. Flanagan, of Worcester, Mass., said that in one month, there were about 10 mixed marriages in that diocese in which both Protestant ministers and Catholic priests took part.

Forms of the ceremonies and extent of Protestant participation vary from place to place, with Catholic rules requiring that the priest receive the couple's vows as witness.

MANY TEAMED

The service cited at the start of this account was that used at Holy Cross Catholic Church, Portland, Ore., at the marriage of Presbyterian Roy W. Adams, religion editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and his Catholic wife, Pat, as they described it to me.

"We thought it was wonderful that both churches were involved, he said.

The jointly celebrated ceremonies have drawn Protestant clergymen of various denominations — Lutheran, Methodist, Episcopal Baptist — into the sanctuary with Catholic priests.

In Memphis, Tenn., a Southern Baptist pastor, the Rev. William Jackson, of Hebbardsville, Ky., and a Catholic priest, the Rev. James Miller, of Memphis, joined there in officiating at the wedding of the Baptist minister's sister, Joyce, to James M. Larkin, a Catholic.

The Rev. Mr. Jackson read both the Gospel lesson and the epistle, delivered the marriage exhortation, and gave the closing benediction, while Father Miller guided the recital of vows.

Commented the Baptist: "There were almost no restrictions given me, except that he (Father Miller) had to lead the exchange of vows. And this is something I would want to do at any wedding performed in my church."

Some Protestants, including a branch of Lutheranism, the American Lutheran Church, disapprove participation in such joint services because of some remaining Catholic requirements.

Main point of objection is the Catholic rule that in approved mixed marriages, the Catholic partner must promise to rear children as Catholics, and the Protestant partner promise not to interfere with the Catholic's religious duty — assurances which may be given orally.

This is considerably modified from the former Catholic requirement that both parties pledge in writing to rear children as Catholics.

REV. WAYNE CARPENTER, evangelist of Cameron, Ark., will speak 7:30 p.m. daily, Monday through Sunday during summer revival services at Cypress Baptist Church, West Monroe. Song director for the revival will be Bennie Owens of Highland Baptist Church, West Monroe, and pianist will be Miss Patsy McGrew of Mount Vernon Baptist Church. Church pastor is the Rev. Charlie Sutton.

PINE HILL REVIVAL

Pine Hill Baptist Church of Sicily Island will open a series of revival services today which will continue through Friday. Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and weekday services at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. H. M. Roach of Converse, La., will be evangelist, and B. A. Fielding of Clinton, Miss., will direct music. The Rev. F. K. Shipp is pastor.

Old Fashion Revival Set By Church

Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, Gordon and Dixie, will launch an "old fashion Methodist revival" starting 7:30 p.m. Monday, August 15, and continuing through Sunday, August 21, it was announced by the Rev. Louis F. Roos, pastor.

Services will be held at 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. on the closing Sunday of the revival. There will be no Saturday services. Weekday services will be at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Evangelist for the series will be the Rev. Abe Connerly, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church of Bastrop.

Song leaders will be Thomas Ray and Jack Hesketh. Organists will be Miss Linda Finkbeiner and Leon Hammonds. Mrs. Maybell Thompson and Mrs. Martha Hudson will serve as pianists.

The church is air conditioned, and a nursery will be open during services.

REV. AND MRS. PAUL RAMSEY of Fletcher, N. C., recently returned from missionary work in Japan and South Korea, will be evangelists for a series of revival services starting Sunday, Aug. 14 at the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ, 4501 Jackson St., Monroe, it was announced by the pastor, Elder Nathan Jones. Sunday services will be held at 10 a.m. and services every night will be at 7:30. The revival is expected to continue for about three weeks. The newly organized congregation moved into the remodeled church building on Jackson St. several days ago.

Inquirers' Class Is Scheduled At Grace Episcopal

Grace Episcopal Church, N. 4th Street and Glenmar Ave., will conduct a 10-week Inquirers' Class beginning Thursday. The sessions to be held each Thursday night will begin at 7:30.

Classes will be in the church parish house, 405 Glenmar. The rector, the Rev. W. Bradley Trimble, will conduct a brief lecture after which an open discussion on the subject matter will be held.

The classes are open to the public for all persons interested in learning about the Christian Faith as the Episcopal Church understands it. There is no obligation for anyone attending.

Revival To Open At Little Creek

The Rev. Roger White, pastor of Crowville Methodist Church, will be evangelist for a revival series starting Monday and continuing through Friday at Little Creek Methodist Church, Archibald, it was announced by the Rev. Sammy Hargrove, pastor.

Services will be held 7:30 p.m. daily. Special music will be provided nightly by various singers, and the Rev. White and his wife also will sing on several occasions.

OLD CLASSIC REISSUED

NEW YORK (AP) — On the 30th anniversary of its first appearance, the famed collection of Jewish legends, fables and pointed stories, "The Jewish Caravan," has been reissued by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, with additional tales added, including some modern ones. Altogether, it includes 126 selections of classic Jewish stories, much of it from Talmudic literature.

The Rev. Roger White, pastor of Crowville Methodist Church, will be evangelist for a revival series starting Monday and continuing through Friday at Little Creek Methodist Church, Archibald, it was announced by the Rev. Sammy Hargrove, pastor.

Services will be held 7:30 p.m. daily. Special music will be provided nightly by various singers, and the Rev. White and his wife also will sing on several occasions.

OLD CLASSIC REISSUED

NEW YORK (AP) — On the 30th anniversary of its first appearance, the famed collection of Jewish legends, fables and pointed stories, "The Jewish Caravan," has been reissued by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, with additional tales added, including some modern ones. Altogether, it includes 126 selections of classic Jewish stories, much of it from Talmudic literature.

RETREAT FOR OTHERS

ASSISI, Italy (AP) — A Franciscan monastery here has opened a retreat center for non-Roman Catholic clergy.

Reformation Underway In Church Architecture

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Some churches once were built round "so the devil can't corner you."

Many of today's churches are being built in-the-round — but the aim is to bring the people together.

Church designers are remembering that Mathew quotes Jesus as saying: "For where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them."

Thus new churches are being built with the pews in a circle and an altar or communion table "in the midst of them."

Although there are advantages to this seating arrangement, some architects warn against turning it or any other trend into a fad and following it blindly.

Architect Philip Gardner has written that, "Examples of the overused A-frame design continue to multiply like a virus."

SURROUND STAGE

The seating-in-the-round arrangement for churches looks much like seating for theater in the round, which puts the audience on all sides of the stage. There can be participation from all sides and action in any direction.

Manchester, Iowa, a conservative community by many standards, saw consecration recently of a Methodist church with six rows of pews in almost a complete circle around a communion table.

A massive cross is suspended over the center table so that, as architect Hovey Brom of Waterloo, Iowa, said, "The cross becomes the altar, and everything that is done is done under the cross." The central location of the Communion table signifies "the fellowship of the church around the table of Our Lord," he said.

IN CIRCLE

At Ames, Iowa, the two-year-old University Lutheran Chapel seats its congregation in a circle around a Communion table. A skylight above the table looks up to a cross atop the building. In both churches the pulpit is near the center of the circle of pews but set slightly toward one side.

The Rev. Galen Hora, 25, crew-cut and bearded chaplain of University Lutheran Chapel, said, "The preaching, of necessity, becomes more informal. You can't have a stale, rhetorical lecture any more. I sometimes even get down from the pulpit and walk around the congregation as I talk."

As a worshipper, he said, "you don't just look at the back of a guy's head. You look across into someone else's eyes. You're involved in the service."

Admitting some may go to a round church just to see the building, he said, "I guess this is just as good a reason as habit."

The immediate past president of the American Society for Church Architecture, Charles Stade of Park Ridge, Ill., says the designer of a church should consider theology, just as he does the lay of the land at the building site.

He said that a church in-the-round, "done well, could be a good piece of architecture. If it is not done well, it could be merely an example of a passing fad."

DESIGN REFORMATION

Architect Willis Schellberg of Forest City, Iowa, whose firm designed the University Lutheran Chapel, said this trend is "an architectural reformation, especially as it applies to Lutheran churches. It re-emphasizes the corporate nature of worship, where people gather together to worship. The people are not merely onlookers."

Brom mentioned today, in some church buildings of conventional design, "you end up in the 73rd row with no feeling of participating in things at the altar.

"It's the theology that brings this trend about. There is less emphasis on mystery, the service is more personal and there is more participation."

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Pfeffer, chancellor of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Des Moines, said there is a similar trend among builders of Catholic churches.

REV. GLENN PIPPENS, pastor of North Monroe Baptist Church, will be evangelist for a revival series opening today at Antioch Baptist Church, Route 2, Farmerville, and continuing through Sunday, August 14. Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m. The event will be climaxed with a homecoming and dinner on the grounds. Pastor of the church is the Rev. John R. Cutrer.

Mixed Faiths Marriages Gain With 2 Pastors Officiating

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Four men stand elbow-to-elbow at the side of the church altar — the groom, his best man, a Roman Catholic priest and a Protestant minister.

"Dearly beloved," the Presbyterian clergyman intones, after prayer opening the marriage rites, and then he reads from Scripture.

At the central portion of the service, the Roman Catholic priest leads the couple in their marriage vows. Then the Presbyterian minister takes over again, for more Scripture reading, a short talk and the benediction.

Organ music up. Flowers and rice fly. And the well-wishers disperse.

This has become the frequent ecclesiastical style for mixed marriages today — an ecumenical approach which until recently was forbidden by Rome.

POINTS OF TENSION

Respective roles accorded the Roman Catholic and protestant clergymen still are points of some tension, and some Protestants decline participation, under the present rules.

Nevertheless, such jointly celebrated ceremonies are becoming increasingly commonplace, most of them taking place quietly without fanfare, sometimes at the request of Catholic bishops that the affairs not be publicized.

But in many dioceses, scores of them have occurred since the Vatican regulations were liberalized last spring.

For example Catholic Bishop Bernard J. Flanagan, of Worcester, Mass., said that in one month, there were about 10 mixed marriages in that dioceses, in which both Protestant ministers and Catholic priests took part.

Forms of the ceremonies and extent of Protestant participation vary from place to place, with Catholic rules requiring that the priest receive the couple's vows as witness.

MANY TEAMED

The service cited at the start of this account was that used at Holy Cross Catholic Church, Portland, Ore., at the marriage of Presbyterian Roy W. Adams, religion editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and his Catholic wife, Pat, as they described it to me.

"We thought it was wonderful that both churches were involved, he said.

The jointly celebrated ceremonies have drawn Protestant clergymen of various denominations — Lutheran, Methodist, Episcopal Baptist — into the sanctuary with Catholic priests.

In Memphis, Tenn., a Southern Baptist pastor, the Rev. William Jackson, of Hebbardsville, Ky., and a Catholic priest, the Rev. James Miller, of Memphis, joined there in officiating at the wedding of the Baptist minister's sister, Joyce, to James M Larkin, a Catholic.

The Rev. Mr. Jackson read both the Gospel lesson and the epistle, delivered the marriage exhortation, and gave the closing benediction, while Father Miller guided the recital of vows.

Commented the Baptist: "There were almost no restrictions given me, except that he (Father Miller) had to lead the exchange of vows. And this is something I would want to do at any wedding performed in my church."

Some Protestants, including a branch of Lutheranism, the American Lutheran Church, disapprove participation in such joint services, because of some remaining Catholic requirements.

Main point of objection is the Catholic rule that in approved mixed marriages, the Catholic partner must promise to rear children as Catholics, and the Protestant partner promise not to interfere with the Catholic's religious duty — assurances which may be given orally.

This is considerably modified from the former Catholic requirement that both parties pledge in writing to rear children as Catholics.

REV. WAYNE CARPENTER, evangelist of Cameron, Ark., will speak 7:30 p.m. daily, Monday through Sunday during summer revival services at Cypress Baptist Church, West Monroe. Song director for the revival will be Bennie Owens of Highland Baptist Church, West Monroe, and pianist will be Miss Patsy McGrew of Mount Vernon Baptist Church. Church pastor is the Rev. Charlie Sutton.

PINE HILL REVIVAL

Pine Hill Baptist Church of Sicily Island will open a series of revival services today which will continue through Friday. Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and weekday services at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. H. M. Roach of Converse, La., will be evangelist, and B. A. Fielding of Clinton, Miss., will direct music. The Rev. F. K. Shipp is pastor.

Old Fashion Revival Set By Church

Gordon Avenue Methodist Church, Gordon and Dixie, will launch an "old fashion Methodist revival" starting 7:30 p.m. Monday, August 15, and continuing through Sunday, August 21, it was announced by the Rev. Louis F. Roos, pastor.

Services will be held at 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. on the closing Sunday of the revival. There will be no Saturday services. Weekday services will be at 9 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Evangelist for the series will be the Rev. Abe Connerly, pastor of Memorial Methodist Church of Bastrop.

Song leaders will be Thomas Ray and Jack Hesketh. Organists will be Miss Linda Finkbeiner and Leon Hammonds. Mrs. Maybell Thompson and Mrs. Martha Hudson will serve as pianists.

The church is air conditioned, and a nursery will be open during services.

REV. AND MRS. PAUL RAMSEY of Fletcher, N. C., recently returned from missionary work in Japan and South Korea, will be evangelists for a series of revival services starting Sunday, Aug. 14 at the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ, 4501 Jackson St., Monroe, it was announced by the pastor, Elder Nathan Jones. Sunday services will be held at 10 a.m. and services every night will be at 7:30. The revival is expected to continue for about three weeks. The newly organized congregation moved into the remodeled church building on Jackson St. several days ago.

Inquirers' Class Is Scheduled At Grace Episcopal

Grace Episcopal Church, N. 4th Street and Glenmar Ave., will conduct a 10-week Inquirers' Class beginning Thursday. The sessions to be held each Thursday night will begin at 7:30.

Classes will be in the church parish house, 405 Glenmar. The rector, the Rev. W. Bradley Trimble, will conduct a brief lecture after which an open discussion on the subject matter will be held.

The classes are open to the public for all persons interested in learning about the Christian Faith as the Episcopal Church understands it. There is no obligation for anyone attending.

The M. E. System

(This is the first of a summer series of one on the collective prospects of the Gulf States Conference football teams as compiled by the M. E. rating service. Any similarities to the final season tabulations will be strictly coincidental, and very unlikely.)

As a supplement to the daily series run in our sports pages this past week on the suspects, better make that prospects, of the GSC football teams for the upcoming 1966 season, I felt it only fitting to conclude the series with a brief, hard hitting analysis of the conference as a whole by someone who's business it is to know what's what in these matters.

However, I couldn't think of any such animal — at least not one who would let me stick his neck out for him in this semi-serious summer series of one (try that with marbles in your mouth).

So that cut the number of panel members down considerably for this tell-all session about who's going to win when and why over who.

Therefore, only one choice remained: call out that old reliable system, the M. E. rating service — better known locally without the dots. And, here I am.

As always, I'm ready and willing to provide you with reason for one nonchalant head - shake while muttering something about that "poor stupid ..." who thinks he knows what those unpredictable football teams are going to do Saturday. Heck, everybody already knows you have to find out what they did on Friday night before you can have an idea about what they'll do on Saturday afternoon.

A One Horse Race?

Actually, according to GSC coaches it isn't going to be such a big task to pick the top hoss this year. In balloting by all six loop coaches, Southwestern was the choice of five. The lone dissenter, of course, was USL coach Russ Faulkinberry.

Faulkinberry, who's Bulldogs finished 7-3 with a share of the GSC title (with McNeese). selected Louisiana Tech on his ballot. And, it appears that out of modesty Faulkinberry is a better coach than predicter.

It is very hard to find any fault with the selection of Southwestern as the team to beat this fall. I can still remember two or three years back when the big joke in some GSC circles was Faulkinberry's Five-Year Plan.

His first season was 2-8, then he was 4-5 two straight years, and finally 5-4 in 1964, his fourth year at USL. Every year, particularly after the early losing frustrations, some would quip, "Well, Russ is one year nearer his five year plan." It seems Russ got the last laugh. He was right on schedule.

Since it appears the title is already conceded to USL by opposing coaches, let's look at the other five spots. Behind Southwestern's 25 points, Louisiana Tech was given 21, Southeastern 15, McNeese 13, Northwestern 11 and Northeast five. These selections, too, seem very plausible.

But, then, the paper game is always easier to play than the real McCoy.

At present, I can see only one team I feel is being over looked. That is Northwestern. I feel the Demons will finish higher than fifth, in fact, two notches higher.

My standings look this way: Southwestern, Tech, Northwestern, Southeastern, McNeese, Northeast.

Logic Disputes Tech Rating

Actually, there is bigger reason to question the position of Tech than any of the others, in my opinion. It would seem that the year after it has lost the three - year backbone of its club, quarterback Billy Laird, plus linemen like Wayne Davis, Dan Irby and James Boudreaux things would have to be dismal for the Bulldogs.

And, if this isn't enough look at their schedule which has them opening with Southern Mississippi and the University of Alabama on successive weekends away from home. But, even more, Tech has only two home games the whole season. Plenty of reason to pick them for a very poor season.

Still, GSC coaches put them second. This, more than anything else, is from respect of Joe Aillet's abilities as a coach. He has lost the guns before, had schedule difficulties before, and still put the pieces together. He'll probably do it again in 1966.

Why Northwestern third? Experience, proven quarterback. The Demons return 28 lettermen, with depth at the right spots. Also, sophomore Don Guidry stepped in at QB the last several games last year and there is no doubt he will be a good one for the next three seasons.

After the top three, it looks like a jumble to me. I don't really have any idea what Southeastern has, and I doubt if even Southeastern has any idea. It's hard to picture McNeese falling from a share of the crowd down to fifth, but I think it'll happen.

Not only did the 'Pokes lose powerful runner Merlin Walet, quarterback Richard Guillory and lineman Errol Eschete, they also lost head coach Les Devall. Replacement Jim Clark may do the job, but not this year.

And what about Northeast? You have to put them in the cellar until they fight their way out of it. Hopefully, this could be the year. I know they will be better this year. I don't know how much.

Right now I feel four victories would be like a pot of gold to the boys out on DeSiard. And, when they can accomplish that feat those wins will serve only as an appetizer. If it happens this year, the Indians will turn the GSC race into the biggest scramble yet.

Clay KO's London In 3rd

LONDON (AP) — Cassius Clay backed Britain's Brian London into a corner Saturday and belted him to the floor for a third round knockout and the fifth successful defense of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

The time was one minute, 40 seconds.

After toying with the brawler from Blackpool for two rounds, the confident Clay opened up in the third.

He lashed out with two tremendous right hands and backed the Briton into the corner.

The he scored with a left and right. London crumbled to the canvas and took the full count with his head buried on the canvas.

It was the 25th straight victory and 20th by knockout for the lean, coffee-colored Negro from Louisville, Ky., who never has been beaten and who has hardly been scratched in his professional career.

It was only the second clean knockout suffered by the rugged London, who in 11 years of fighting has won 35 lost 13 and been stopped six times.

The bout in Earl's Court Indoor Stadium, scene of Billy Graham's recent religious revival, drew a disappointing — and undoubtedly disappointed — crowd of 13,000, well below the 18,000 capacity.

Millions of Americans witnessed the fight live through Early Bird Satellite (ABC). The Britons had to settle for closed circuit television at 20 theaters.

It was just another good payday for Clay, who has announced a plan to fight once a month until he is called into service by the United States. He has appealed his call-up by the draft board.

The champion was guaranteed 90,000 pounds or $252,000 plus a part of the television monies, and London figured to get around $112,000. Clay is scheduled to meet Germay's Karl Mildenberger at Frankfurt Sept. 10.

An indication of how lightly Clay regarded the test was seen in the fact he weighed in at 209½ pounds, seven pounds heavier than when he stopped Henry Cooper in the sixth round here last May 21.

London weighed 209½.

"You have to give him credit," Clay continued. "He put up a fight for 1½ rounds.

"The man was determined, and I know he butts with his head. I was concentrating on getting in and out. I realized that one butt could mean the fight.

"But, whenever I see an opening — like against Liston — I take it. I'm never out to prove nothing to the public.

"I'm looking forward to the Mildenberger fight," Cassius commented. "I'm glad the fight didn't take too much out of me."

The 24-year-old Clay had a seven-year edge on London, 32, and was not only bigger but younger and faster and possessor of a seven-inch longer reach.

It all showed to advantage in the brief battle, which left the crowd moaning with disappointment.

The man who often boasted, "I am the greatest" started dismantally against the slow, plodding Briton.

Through the first two rounds, Clay made himself a moving target while London peared forward, his hands high, pawing at the fainting, fast moving champion.

Soon red splotches began to show on London's marked countenance. In the second, Clay intensified his attack, lashed out with two hard right hands and staggered his foe. But London hung on.

The third round was over almost before it started.

Boyles Resigns At Oak Grove To Take Caldwell Parish Post

Woody Boyles, head coach and athletic director at Oak Grove for the past eight years, has resigned to accept a similar position at Caldwell Parish High School.

Boyles replaces Glenn Meredith who resigned at Caldwell recently to accept a job outside the coaching profession.

The Spartans of Columbia will be performing in double-A this year for the first time, moving up from class A in this past spring's reclassification.

An announcement will be made by Broyles sometime this week as to his assistant coaches.

In leaving Oak Grove, where Boyles has built a reputation as one of the shrewdest schoolboy coaches in Louisiana, he said he "leaves with regret but is looking forward to the challenge ahead of him."

Said Boyles "I would like to express my appreciation to the boys I've worked with, the school administration and the entire town of Oak Grove for their cooperation. And I would particularly like to stress the cooperation I've received from the Oak Grove Quarterback Club.

"At the same time, I am looking forward to working with the people of Columbia and Caldwell High School and am going to strive to continue in the development of a well-rounded athletic program and physical education program at Caldwell."

Boyles carries an impressive prep coaching record to Caldwell. While at Oak Grove, the Tigers were 52-31-2 and have advanced into the state football playoffs the last three years.

Last fall's club captured the first district grid championship in Oak Grove's 43 year history before being defeated by Landry, 19-14, in the quarter-finals.

Previously, Oak Grove had reached the state semi-finals in 1963 before bowing to powerful Amite, 39-7, and played for the state championship in 1964, losing to Lockport, 26-13.

Four boys have made all-state under Boyles and three have played in the annual summer All-Star classic in Baton Rouge.

Before going to Oak Grove, he had been assistant at Delhi one year under Raymond Richards, coached with Jim Malone at Northeast State College from fall 1950 through the 1954 season, then went to Texarkana, Tex., in 1955.

Serving as head coach and AD at Texarkana Junior College for two years, Boyles produced a co-champion in the Texas Junior College Conference in both football and baseball.

At Northeast Boyles was the instigator of the baseball program and coached the sport during his four year stay there.

In going to Caldwell, Boyles will be guiding the only club to beat Oak Grove during the regular season last year.

At Oak Grove, principal Sam Gallien announced taht he is accepting applications for the post vacated by Boyles. Because of the urgency of the situation, with fall practice only one week away, Gallien urged that anyone interested in the job contact him immediately.

He can be reached by phone at his home. The number is 428-2498.

Brian Says Clay Is The Best

LONDON (AP) — Brian London strolled into Cassius Clay's dressing room after being knocked out by the world champ Saturday night and said:

"I'd like a return — but only if you put a 56-pound weight on each ankle."

The first was "a fast and snappy one," Clay said, "But it wasn't as hard as I can hit.

"London didn't fight the way I thought he would. He didn't charge like a bull, he didn't hit a low blow. He was a real gentleman.

"And he didn't deserve the boos that the crowd gave him afterwards."

London was dazed but unmarked when he first returned to his dressing room, the hoots and jeers of the crowd still echoing through the stadium.

"I am sorry," he said.

"You told me he was good, but nobody said he was that good," London added.

"It was not a question of luck. I just was not good enough. There were so many punches I didn't know where they were coming from.

"I went into that ring expecting to go the 15-round distance. I reckon I am as good as the best, but Cassius Clay is different. He's more than the greatest. I am disgusted with myself.

"To get knocked out like that just isn't good enough," London said.

Asked if he would consider retiring, London replied:

"No, there is no chance of that. I still think I can beat the best in the world."

With jeers still ringing in the background, London said sorrowfully:

"I've never been booed out of a ring like that before. I was certain I could go the distance with this Clay. I felt great after the first round and thought we were even after the second. About the third round I can't remember much. Everything happened so quickly. I don't know what punch it was that actually got me. It might have been a right cross or a left hook. There was such a flurry I can't remember anything else."

Clay said he expected a tougher fight against German Karl Mildenberger in Frankfurt, Sept. 10 — his next defense of the title.

"Mildenberger is a southpaw, and I will have to box him more," Clay said. "London I had to hit."

It was at that moment that London appeared in Clay's dressing room.

"You're as good as you say you are," London said, "And I wish you all the best."

Cassius shook his hand and said: "I've been saying a prayer that you weren't hurt — You're a family man and you've got children and everything."

Hill Directs Eagles' Win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Veteran quarterback King Hill passed for one touchdown and ran for two others another Saturday night in rallying the Philadelphia Eagles to a 40-21 victory over Chicago Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Chicago scored first in second quarter on an eight-yard jaunt by fullback Andy Livingston. But Hill, who replaced a sluggish norm Snead early in the game, brought the Eagles back to tie with a 49-yard pass to flanker Trenton Jackson.

Bowman's TD Pushes Giants Past Steelers

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Rookie Steve Bowman's one-yard scoring burst early in the final period gave the New York Giants a 16-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in a National Football Lague pre-season game.

Bowman's deciding touchdown, at 1:38 of the fourth quarter, capped a Giant drive triggered by a fumble recovery.

A crowd of 21,000 watched in 90-degree heat as the Giants' defense throttled Pittsburgh's running attack and blanked the Steelers after they took a 14-7 lead in the second period on Chuck Hinton's recovery of an Earl Morrall fumble in the end zone. The Steelers were held to minus-two yards rushing.

New York's Pete Gogolak, the former Cornell and Buffalo Bills place-kicking specialist, booted a 34-yard field goal in the second quarter, closing the gap to 14-10, but missed his conversion attempt after Bowman sent the Giants ahead.

Morrall's 19-year scoring pass to Homer Jones opened the Giants' scoring with the game less than three minutes old but the Steelers marched 39 yards late in the first period and tied it on Bill Nelson's 11-yard TD flip to Dick Htak.

West Monroe Falls, 5-2 As Smith, Brown Lead

By BUTCH MUIR
World Sports Writer

Monroe won its second straight Louisiana Dixie Senior State championship at Confederate Park Saturday night.

Petey Smith unleashed a bases-loaded triple to deep right-centerfield with two out in the fourth inning to give Monroe a come-from-behind 5-2 victory over West Monroe.

The win was the fourth straight for Monroe in the tournament, which got underway Monday afternoon.

Earlier, Monroe had defeated LaSalle Parish, Jefferson Parish Recreation Department and West Monroe.

Monroe will move into the Dixie Senior World Series at Kilgore, Tex., with its first game Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock against Mississippi. The team will depart from here Monday morning at 6 o'clock, and will arrive at Kilgore in time for pre-tournament activities.

The first man up in the fourth for the host team in this year's state tourney, Troy Nappier, appeared to have singled to right, but was thrown out at first base by Smith, the Monroe rightfielder.

Tommy Cox followed with a singled and Randy Russell walked. After Randall Walker sacrificed the two to second and third, Bruce Booth and Johnny Cook followed with successive singles to score the two runs.

Monroe came back in the home half of the fourth to score five runs and take the victory.

Brown had kept West Monroe in check through the first three innings, striking out six including three in the third inning when he fanned the side in order.

In all, West Monroe touched Brown for four hits, three in the second inning. He walked two batters and received credit for the victory.

Brown ran out of steam in the sixth and Ken Porter had to finish up for him in the seventh. He struck out the side to end the game.

In Dixie Senior ball a pitcher is not allowed to hurl more than 85 pitches a week.

Andersch went the distance for West Monroe, striking out seven, while walking one and striking out one. Although he was hit hard he came up when it counted most.

The victory added to the fine record of Coach Bill Mercer has won eight of the three years of the Dixie Senior program.

Mercer's squad will meet the state tournament champ from Lafayette Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock in the first game of the double elimination tourney. The winner of that game will meet the champion from Monroe at 10 o'clock Sunday night for the championship.

But first they must face the state and west tournament champs of the world series, Fort Worth, Texas, champs of Florida.

After the game Saturday night Dan McGuire, director of the tournament and West Monroe Dixie Senior director, presented plaques to Monroe coach Dick Smith and Junior John McCormick who have devoted much of their time to the program.

Lions Knot With Viking

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Neither Minnesota nor Detroit could generate any serious offensive thrust Saturday night and battled to a 6-6 tied in a National Football League pre-season game before a crowd of [illegible] 229.

The Vikings and the Lions committed one offensive mistake after another and all the scoring came on field goals.

Minnesota was never quite able to make its usually explosive offense explode and when scrambling Fran Tarkenton was benched in the second half most of the Viking offensive moves were backwards.

The bout in Earl's Court Indoor Stadium, scene of Billy Graham's recent religious revival, drew a disappointing — and undoubtedly disappointed — crowd of 13,000, well below the 18,000 capacity.

Millions of Americans witnessed the fight live through Early Bird Satellite (ABC). The Britons had to settle for closed circuit television at 20 theaters.

It was just another good payday for Clay, who has announced a plan to fight once a month until he is called into service by the United States. He has appealed his call-up by the draft board.

The champion was guaranteed 90,000 pounds or $252,000 plus a part of the television monies, and London figured to get around $112,000. Clay is scheduled to meet Germay's Karl Mildenberger at Frankfurt Sept. 10.

An indication of how lightly Clay regarded the test was seen in the fact he weighed in at 209½ pounds, seven pounds heavier than when he stopped Henry Cooper in the sixth round here last May 21.

London weighed 200½.

"You have to give him credit," Clay continued. "He put up a fight for 1½ rounds.

"The man was determined, and I know he butts with his head. I was concentrating on getting in and out. I realized that one butt could mean the fight.

"But, whenever I see an opening — like against Liston — I take it. I'm never out to prove nothing to the public.

"I'm looking forward to the Mildenberger fight," Cassius commented. "I'm glad the fight didn't take too much out of me."

The 24-year-old Clay had a seven-year edge on London, 32, and was not only bigger but younger and faster and possessor of a seven-inch longer reach.

It all showed to advantage in the brief battle, which left the crowd moaning with disappointment.

The man who often boasted, "I am the greatest" started disdainfully against the slow, plodding Briton.

Through the first two rounds, Clay made himself a moving target while London poured forward, his hands high, pawing at the fainting, fast-moving champion.

Soon red splotches began to show on London's marked countenance. In the second, Clay intensified his attack, lashed out with two hard right hands and staggered his foe. But London hung on.

The third round was over almost before it started.

Boyles Resigns At Oak Grove To Take Caldwell Parish Post

Woody Boyles, head coach and athletic director at Oak Grove for the past eight years, has resigned to accept a similar position at Caldwell Parish High School.

The Spartans of Columbia will be performing in double-A this year for the first time, moving up from class A in this past spring's reclassification.

An announcement will be made by Broyles sometime this week as to his assistant coaches.

In leaving Oak Grove, where Boyles has built a reputation as one of the shrewdest schoolboy coaches in Louisiana, he said he "leaves with regret but is looking forward to the challenge ahead of him."

Said Boyles "I would like to express my appreciation to the boys I've worked with, the school administration and the entire town of Oak Grove for their cooperation. And I would particularly like to stress the co-operation I've received from the Oak Grove Quarterback Club.

"At the same time, I am looking forward to working with the people of Columbia and Caldwell High School and am going to strive to continue in the development of a well-rounded athletic program and physical education program at Caldwell."

Boyles carries an impressive prep coaching record to Caldwell. While at Oak Grove, the Tigers were 52-31-2 and have advanced into the state football playoffs the last three years.

Last fall's club captured the first district grid championship in Oak Grove's 43 year history before being defeated by Landry, 19-14, in the quarter-finals.

Previously, Oak Grove had reached the state semi-finals in 1963 before bowing to powerful Amite, 39-7, and played for the state championship in 1964, losing to Lockport, 26-13.

Four boys have made all-state under Boyles and three have played in the annual summer All-Star classic in Baton Rouge.

Before going to Oak Grove, he had been assistant at Delhi one year under Raymond Richards, coached with Jim Malone at Northeast State College from fall 1950 through the 1954 season, then went to Texarkana, Tex., in 1955.

Serving as head coach and AD at Texarkana Junior College for two years, Boyles produced a co-champion in the Texas Junior College Conference in both football and baseball.

At Northeast, Boyles was the instigator of the baseball program and coached the sport during his four year stay there.

In going to Caldwell, Boyles will be guiding the only club to beat Oak Grove during the regular season last year.

At Oak Grove, principal Sam Gallien announced taht he is accepting applications for the post vacated by Boyles. Because of the urgency of the situation, with fall practice only one week away, Gallien urged that anyone interested in the job contact him immediately.

He can be reached by phone at his home. The number is 428-2498.

Brian Says Clay Is The Best

LONDON (AP) — Brian London strolled into Cassius Clay's dressing room after being knocked out by the world champ Saturday night and said:

"I'd like a return — but only if you put a 56-pound weight on each ankle."

The first was "'a fast and snappy one," Clay said, "But it wasn't as hard as I can hit.

"London didn't fight the way I thought he would. He didn't charge like a bull, he didn't hit a low blow. He was a real gentleman.

"And he didn't deserve the boos that the crowd gave him afterwards."

London was dazed but unmarked when he first returned to his dressing room, the hoots and jeers of the crowd still echoing through the stadium.

"I am sorry," he said.

"You told me he was good, but nobody said he was that good," London added.

"It was not a question of luck. I just was not good enough. There were so many punches I didn't know where they were coming from.

"I went into that ring expecting to go the 15-round distance. I reckon I am as good as the best, but Cassius Clay is different. He's more than the greatest. I am disgusted with myself.

"To get knocked out like that just isn't good enough," London said.

Asked if he would consider retiring, London replied:

"No, there is no chance of that. I still think I can beat the best in the world."

With jeers still ringing in the background, London said sorrowfully:

"I've never been booed out of a ring like that before. I was certain I could go the distance with this Clay. I felt great after the first round and thought we were even after the second. About the third round I can't remember much. Everything happened so quickly. I don't know what punch it was that actually got me. It might have been a right cross or a left hook. There was such a flurry I can't remember anything else."

Clay said he expected a tougher fight against German Karl Mildenberger in Frankfurt, Sept. 10 — his next defense of the title.

"Mildenberger is a southpaw, and I will have to box him more," Clay said. "London I had to hit."

It was at that moment that London appeared in Clay's dressing room.

"You're as good as you say you are," London said, "And I wish you all the best."

Cassius shook his hand and said: "I've been saying a prayer that you weren't hurt — You're a family man and you've got children and everything."

Hill Directs Eagles' Win

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Veteran quarterback King Hill passed for one touchdown and ran for two others another Saturday night in rallying the Philadelphia Eagles to a 40-21 victory over Chicago Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

Chicago scored first in second quarter on an eight-yard jaunt by fullback Andy Livingston. But Hill, who replaced a sluggish norm Snead early in the game, brought the Eagles back to tie with a 49-yard pass to flanker Trenton Jackson.

Bowman's TD Pushes Giants Past Steelers

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Rookie Steve Bowman's one-yard scoring burst early in the final period gave the New York Giants a 16-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in a National Football Lague pre-season game.

Bowman's deciding touchdown, at 1:38 of the fourth quarter, capped a Giant drive triggered by a fumble recovery.

A crowd of 21,000 watched in 90-degree heat as the Giants' defense throttled Pittsburgh's running attack and blanked the Steelers after they took a 14-7 lead in the second period on Chuck Hinton's recovery of an Earl Morrall fumble in the end zone. The Steelers were held to minus-two yards rushing.

New York's Pete Gogolak, the former Cornell and Buffalo Bills place-kicking specialist, booted a 34-yard field goal in the second quarter, closing the gap to 14-10, but missed his conversion attempt after Bowman sent the Giants ahead.

Morrall's 19-year scoring pass to Homer Jones opened the Giants' scoring with the game less than three minutes old but the Steelers marched 39 yards late in the first period and tied it on Bill Nelson's 11-yard TD flip to Dick Htak.

West Monroe Falls, 5-2 As Smith, Brown Lead

By BUTCH MUIR
World Sports Writer

Monroe won its second straight Louisiana Dixie Senior State championship at Confederate Park Saturday night.

Petey Smith unleashed a bases-loaded triple to deep right-centerfield with two out in the fourth inning to give Monroe a come-from-behind 5-2 victory over West Monroe.

The win was the fourth straight for Monroe in the tournament, which got underway Monday afternoon.

Earlier, Monroe had defeated LaSalle Parish, Jefferson Parish Recreation Department and West Monroe.

Monroe will move into the Dixie Senior World Series at Kilgore, Tex., with its first game Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock against Mississippi. The team will depart from here Monday morning at 6 o'clock, and will arrive at Kilgore in time for pre-tournament activities.

The first man up in the fourth for the host team in this year's state tourney, Troy Nappier, appeared to have singled to right, but was thrown out at first base by Smith, the Monroe rightfielder.

Tommy Cox followed with a singled and Randy Russell walked. After Randall Walker sacrificed the two to second and third, Bruce Booth and Johnny Cook followed with successive singles to score the two runs.

Monroe came back in the home-half of the fourth to score five runs and take the victory.

With one out, Skeeter Lasuzzo walked and Brown followed with a double to deep right center field. Gary Audirsch, the West Monroe hurler, got Ray Youngblood to pop to left, but the ball fell from the fielder's glove, with Lasuzzo scoring.

Brown had kept West Monroe in check through the first three innings, striking out six, including three in the third inning when he fanned the side in order.

In all, West Monroe touched Brown for four hits, three in the second inning. He walked two batters and received credit for the victory.

Brown ran out of innings in the sixth and Van Pardue had to finish up for him in the seventh. He struck out two in getting the side out in order.

In Dixie Senior ball, a pitcher is not allowed to hurl more than 18 innings a week.

Audirsch went the distance for West Monroe, yielding seven hits while walking one and striking out one. Although he was hit hard, he gave up no earned runs.

The victory added to a growing number of honors that Monroe has won during the three years of the Dixie Senior program.

In 1963, when the first Dixie Senior World Series was held at Legion Stadium, Monroe took the title with two wins over Texas on the final day.

The next year it reached the state tournament held in Metairie, but was beaten out by West Monroe, which went on to win the championship.

But last year it won the state title and went on to the finals of the world series held at Meridian, Miss., before losing to Florida.

After the game Saturday night, Dan McClure, director of the tournament and West Monroe Dixie Senior director, presented plaques to Mack Alexander, Dick Smith and Judge John McCormick, who have devoted much of their time to the program.

Lions Knot With Viking

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Neither Minnesota nor Detroit could generate any serious offensive thrust Saturday night and battled to a 6-6 tied in a National Football League pre-season game before a crowd of 38,229.

The Vikings and the Lions committed one offensive mistake after another and all the scoring came on field goals.

Minnesota was never quite able to make its usually explosive offense explode and when scrambling Fran Tarkenton was benched in the second half most of the Viking offensive moves were backwards.

Devaney Hits Exclusive .800 Plateau

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Devaney is major college football coaching's first .800 hitter since Bud Wilkinson. Both attained that lofty plateau in the Big Eight Conference.

A look at active coaches who have directed varsity squads eight or more seasons indicates that to be a leader it helps to have some affiliation with the Big Eight, Michigan State or the Southeastern Conference.

Nebraska's Devaney, whose teams have won three straight league crowns, has a nine-year total of 73 victories, 16 losses and five ties for an .820 percentage. When Wilkinson ended 17 years at the Oklahoma helm after the '63 season he took an .837 mark with him.

Dan Devine of Missouri, standing third in the ratings, was an assistant at Michigan State as was Devaney, while fourth place Frank Kush of Arizona State played for the Spartans.

Darrell Royal, No. 8, starred at quarterback and halfback for Wilkinson's Sooners before launching a resurgence of University of Texas gridiron prestige.

Mississippi's Johnny Vaught, in the runner-up spot, and Paul Bryant of Alabama, in fifth, are kingpins of the SEC. Frank Broyles of the amazing Arkansas Razorbacks and Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd are 9-10. Broyles played at Tech before it left the SEC and Dodd gained fame on the field at Tennessee.

Tied for sixth at .747 are Big Ten taskmaster Woody Hayes of Ohio State and the man who rules the Ivy League with a cherubic face and a finely-drilled team, Dartmouth's Bob Blackman.

Devaney missed a '65 sweep when lighter, whippet-like 'Bama out maneuvered the Huskers in the Orange Bowl, 39-28. But the 10-0 season's mark was the first unbeaten effort over the regular schedule for Nebraska since 1915.

The Huskers won nine of a possible 13 league crowns in the period 1928-40. Devaney brought 'em back to national prominence with their first-since title in 1963 and in four years he's been the overseer of a 38-6 reconstruction record.

Vaught keeps Mississippi rolling along with a 149-41-10 relentless flow through the South, good for a .781 average over 19 years. Devine follows with an 84-24-7, .778 in 11 campaigns. He moved that close to Vaught by directing his Tigers to a 20-18 Sugar Bowl triumph over Florida last New Year's Day.

Kush was a headliner at guard at Michigan State in 1952 when Duffy Daugherty, currently ranked 15th for his efforts at that school, was an aide to Biggie Munn. He consistently turns out sprint-T clubs dotted with Olympic Track and pro football prospects.

The crafty Bryant, recuperating from an off-season collapse, will have 'Bama ready again. The Bear's elevens have lost only six of their last 64 starts.

Major college coaching's leading 25, based on eight or more seasons with percentages figures without ties:

Baltimore Defeats Solons, Halt Skid

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sam Bowens knocked in two runs and Dave McNally stopped Washington on seven hits as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Senators 4-0 Saturday night, ending a three-game losing streak.

Bowlens singled home the final run in a three-run first inning rally off loser Barry Moore and singled in another run in the fifth before the Washington rookie was replaced on the mound.

Each time Bowens drove in Frank Robinson, who had two singles and a double in four trips.

Frank Robinson singled home Luis Aparicio, who opened the game with a double, for the first Baltimore run. Singles by Brooks Robinson and Bowens sent the second run across and Brooks scored on a wild pitch by Moore.

Frank Robinson stroked a broken-bat single with two out in the fifth, moved to second on a walk and scored on another Bowens hit.

Junior Tourney Action Slated

The affair is open to boys and girls in Monroe and West Monroe between the ages of eight and 17.

The tourney is free and pairings will be made according to age groups.

A new champion for the tourney will be crowned this year because defending titlist Terry Peddy has moved to Ruston.

Bastrop Takes Ark-La Triumph

BEAKMAN (Special) — Rickie Head blasted two home runs to drive in five runs and pace Bastrop to a 6-4 Ark-La League victory over Beakman here Saturday.

Bastrop hosts Farmerville today and travels to Crossett Tuesday in other loop action.

Jack McCormack went the route to take the mound win for Bastrop, allowing seven hits and fanning seven. Tommy Murry was tagged with the loss.

Boys Tourney Action Delayed

METAIRIE (Special) — Action in the State Dixie Boys Tournament here was rained out Saturday and the same time schedule has been moved up for today.

West Monroe meets Ponchatoula in the first game at 1 p.m. All games will be played at the Metairie Playground.

In other games today, Airline Park meets Ferriday at 3 p.m., St. Benard faces LaSalle Parish at 6 p.m., and host team Metairie is pitted against Oakdale at 8 p.m.

Devaney Hits Exclusive .800 Plateau

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Devaney is major college football coaching's first .800 hitter since Bud Wilkinson. Both attained that lofty plateau in the Big Eight Conference.

A look at active coaches who have directed varsity squads eight or more seasons indicates that to be a leader it helps to have some affiliation with the Big Eight, Michigan State or the Southeastern Conference.

Nebraska's Devaney, whose teams have won three straight league crowns, has a nine-year total of 73 victories, 16 losses and five ties for an .820 percentage. When Wilkinson ended 17 years at the Oklahoma helm after the '63 season he took an .837 mark with him.

Dan Devine of Missouri, standing third in the ratings, was an assistant at Michigan State as was Devaney, while fourth place Frank Kush of Arizona State played for the Spartans.

Darrell Royal, No. 8, starred at quarterback and halfback for Wilkinson's Sooners before launching a resurgence of University of Texas gridiron prestige.

Mississippi's Johnny Vaught, in the runner-up spot, and Paul Bryant of Alabama, in fifth, are kingpins of the SEC. Frank Broyles of the amazing Arkansas Razorbacks and Georgia Tech's Bobby Dodd are 9-10. Broyles played at Tech before it left the SEC and Dodd gained fame on the field at Tennessee.

Tied for sixth at .747 are Big Ten taskmaster Woody Hayes of Ohio State and the man who rules the Ivy League with a cherubic face and a finely-drilled team, Dartmouth's Bob Blackman.

Devaney missed a '65 sweep when lighter, whippet-like 'Bama out maneuvered the Huskers in the Orange Bowl, 39-28. But the 10-0 season's mark was the first unbeaten effort over the regular schedule for Nebraska since 1915.

The Huskers won nine of a possible 13 league crowns in the period 1928-40. Devaney brought 'em back to national prominence with their first-since title in 1963 and in four years he's been the overseer of a 38-6 reconstruction record.

Vaught keeps Mississippi rolling along with a 149-41-10 relentless flow through the South, good for a .781 average over 19 years. Devine follows with an 84-24-7, .778 in 11 campaigns. He moved that close to Vaught by directing his Tigers to a 20-18 Sugar Bowl triumph over Florida last New Year's Day.

Kush was a headliner at guard at Michigan State in 1952 when Duffy Daugherty, currently ranked 15th for his efforts at that school, was an aide to Biggie Munn. He consistently turns out sprint-T clubs dotted with Olympic Track and pro football prospects.

The crafty Bryant, recuperating from an off-season collapse, will have 'Bama ready again. The Bear's elevens have lost only six of their last 64 starts.

Baltimore Defeats Solons, Halt Skid

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sam Bowens knocked in two runs and Dave McNally stopped Washington on seven hits as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the Senators 4-0 Saturday night, ending a three-game losing streak.

Bowlens singled home the final run in a three-run first inning rally off loser Barry Moore and singled in another run in the fifth before the Washington rookie was replaced on the mound.

Each time Bowens drove in Frank Robinson, who had two singles and a double in four trips.

Frank Robinson singled home Luis Aparicio, who opened the game with a double, for the first Baltimore run. Singles by Brooks Robinson and Bowens sent the second run across and Brooks scored on a wild pitch by Moore.

Whitfield Gets 1st Hole-In One

Mark Whitfield got his first hole-in-one Saturday at the Municipal Golf Course.

Whitfield, who shoots par golf, fired the ace on the 140-yard 17th hole with a nine iron.

Junior Tourney Action Slated

The affair is open to boys and girls in Monroe and West Monroe between the ages of eight and 17.

The tourney is free and pairings will be made according to age groups.

A new champion for the tourney will be crowned this year because defending titlist Terry Peddy has moved to Ruston.

Upsets Mark Golf Action

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Bob Bryant upset Downing Gray and Jim Wiechers eliminated Marty Fleckman Saturday to reach the semifinals along with Jack Lewis Jr. and Ron Cerrudo in the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Bryant, 27, of Charlotte, N.C., sank a three-foot birdie putt on the 22nd hole to defeat Gray, of Pensacola, Fla. Gray, 28, and a member of the Walker Cup team, had evened the match on the 18th after losing the par 3 17th with a bogey.

Bastrop Takes Ark-La Triumph

BEAKMAN (Special) — Rickie Head blasted two home runs to drive in five runs and pace Bastrop to a 6-4 Ark-La League victory over Beakman here Saturday.

Bastrop hosts Farmerville today and travels to Crossett Tuesday in other loop action.

Jack McCormack went the route to take the mound win for Bastrop, allowing seven hits and fanning seven. Tommy Murry was tagged with the loss.

Boys Tourney Action Delayed

METAIRIE (Special) — Action in the State Dixie Boys Tournament here was rained out Saturday and the same time schedule has been moved up for today.

West Monroe meets Ponchatoula in the first game at 1 p.m. All games will be played at the Metairie Playground.

In other games today, Airline Park meets Ferriday at 3 p.m., St. Benard faces LaSalle Parish at 6 p.m., and host team Metairie is pitted against Oakdale at 8 p.m.

Slight Edge For Hunters

With Paul Martin

Hunters, with tightening restrictions as the years advance, will get a little more edge this season on some game — but not much.

Resident game regulations for Louisiana, announced during the week, will allow 14 more days for rabbit hunters, four more days on quail, one more trip for squirrel and seven more days for turkey. There may be a few days more or less in some areas of deer hunting, but the designated areas will be altered in structure from past seasons.

There's no additional days for teal, doves, woodcock, snipe but the seasons are good and hunters don't complain.

About all the hunter needs now is the regulations for duck, goose and coot and he can start mapping his campaign for the season. Federal waterfowl observers are indication there may be some improvement in duck regulations from the hunter standpoint, but don't expect too much. The easement may come in some other flyway. There is chance the mallard hunters, under tight rein last season, wil get help. Slight chance.

Right now the seasons already set are:

Rabbit — Oct. 1 — Feb. 28; limits 8-16.

Squirrel — Oct. 1-Jan 10; 8-16.

Bear—Closed.

Turkey—April 1-April 23; 1-1.

Doves — Three-way split Sept. 3-18; Oct. 15-Nov. 6; Dec. 16-Jan. 5; 12-24.

Teal — Sept. 17-25; 4-8 (for those getting teal permits by Aug. 17).

Rails and gallinules — Nov. 5-Jan. 13; 15-30.

Woodcock—Dec. 10-Jan. 28; 5-10.

Snipe — Nov. 26-Jan. 14; 8-16.

Gun season for deer opens Nov. 25 in all areas where such hunting will be permitted. The lengths in days will vary from five to 40 with most having split seasons. Hunters will have plenty of time to study area boundaries and other technicalities when the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries folders are made available to the public.

Bowhunters have no additional days, the special archery season running Oct. 8-Nov. 20. Incidentally, Missouri has just announced its gun and archery seasons for deer. Guns get only five days (No. 12-18) bows have Oct. 1-Dec. 15.

Congratulations, Cynthia

Congratulations have been pouring in all week for 11-year-old Cynthia Bell who will be a seventh grader at Lee Junior High come September, having completed elementary schooling at Sally Humble School.

Cynthia, daughter of Jack and Mrs. Bell, 113 Raymond Drive, Monroe, is home with distinction as a national archery champion, to our knowledge the only Louisiana archer ever to claim a national title in any class.

Of course there was a fumble somewhere from the National Field Archery Association's tournament last week at Point Pleasant, W.Va., and her home town, and the report came out that Cynthia had set a world's record for the hunter round in her cub division of girls' competition, even listing her among the women.

Naturally, Cynthia has some embarassment about it all, that world record stuff. But she can still stand proudly up front with her national girls cub bare bow championship.

A member of Lafourche Bowmen, Monroe archery club, she shot the five days of the meet with rounds of: 276-278 — 554 (field); 298-303—601 (hunter); 266 (animal, single round); aggregate total of 1421 points.

Sticking with the archers a while longer, Lafourche Bowmen have scheduled their second broadhead shoot of the summer for next Sunday afternoon. It's not definite yet, but Lafourche is considering half day broadhead shoots each Sunday until the bowhunting season starts.

Elation From Tragedy?

If anybody got any elation from the Texas gun tragedy of the past week it had to be the anti-gun people in Washington. They have been having a ball since the tragic shootings at Austin.

They've got a wedge that could bring an amputation for The Bill of Rights, amputation of the right of free men to bear arms. If such American documents can be rewritten and cut up, then how long before all parts of these rights so dear to American life can be torn up and destroyed and "We, the People" become the cattle of a police state?

The Texas case is as regrettable to sportsmen who are gun owners as to the unfortunate victims on all sides of the Austin story.

The national cry of the anti-gunners all week has been to secure legislation to "keep guns out of the hands of the wrong people."

The big question to us is how they will determine who are the right people.

This unfortunate person who started it all at Austin certainly wouldn't have been a wrong person when he got his guns. His model life before the tragedy had been one of the All-American boy, intelligent, a scoutmaster. With his back record he would have had permits to own the guns he took into a Texas tower.

Legislation to require police permits for areas will never stop gun tragedies. Even policemen are not immune to going over the deep end when they, like others, like this young man in Texas, come to that feared climax in some lives in which disturbed emotions take command.

Meanwhile, the gun sportsmen of a nation mourn the Texas case, too. Mr. Dodd's bill gathers ammuniton.

Personally, we've just about laid the guns away. We don't get a kick out of following the beagles we used to. If gun restrictions tighten, a lot of us are going to be glad we turned to the bow.

Lake Providence Study

There is a proposal under study for regulation of water levels for East Carroll's Lake Providence.

The Lake Providence Jaycees have been working toward lake improvements, and the Lake Providence Rotary Club recently invited Jim Davis, Monroe, biologist in charge of district fish and game management, to talk on the subject.

Davis, like other biologists, will cite opinions and answer questions of fish and game questions at any time. Whether or not the opinions and questions are accepted is left up to the people needing the help.

Davis recommended controlled fluctuations of lake levels as one of the cures. It would mean a control gate to maintain levels and bring about an annual drop about this time of year of at least six feet.

Naturally, there are a lot of Lake Providence folks who fight the plan. Most recognize the lake needs help.

It's a problem already being tackled on other state lakes. Black Lake and Saline Lake between Coushatta and Winnfield accepted the plan this year, the drawdown has been complete and will be held until the first killing frost.

Cheniere Lake at West Monroe, currently taking the cure, had its drawdown completed yesterday. Lake improvement projects—boat lanes, cleaning and improving public areas — is ready to begin.

Anyone getting a look at Cheniere now won't recognize the place, but a check over the area's mass of logs and decaying treetops can see what has been choking Cheniere's bottom. Tannic acid has been cited as a Cheniere drawback that some of this work will relieve. Work starts tomorrow.

Outdoor Scoreboard

Chalk up limits this week at Bussy Brake for JIM PACKER, RILEY HOPKINS and PAUL BROOKS, Monroe, and TIM KNIGHT, Bastrop, with bass, and J.D. and MRS. HUGHES and BILL TAYLOR, Bastrop, bream. Other nice Bussey catches included ten bass for BILL BICKHAM, Monroe; 12 bass for W.M. and MRS. LOVE, Monroe; and 65 crappie for THURMAN WEBB and DON MAYNARD, El Dorado, Ark.

MRS. MORRIS COLEMAN took 30 white perch, MRS. SAM FOUTZ took 32, all big ones, in River Chute at the Lake Providence port.

W. G. DURHAM and son, JAMES, Winnfield, took 22 bass from Saline Lake Tuesday morning.

SAM ROACH and JIM BAILEY, Monroe, caught crappie limits at Monterey's Big Horseshoe.

"DUSTY" BURROUGHS, he's six years old today, caught a bass at Black Bayou Lake that almost hit four pounds. He was with his dad, FRANK BURROUGHS, and JERRY ANDERSON who caught 15 bass. One taken by DUSTY'S dad weighed 5¾ pounds.

BILL ROBINSON, Louisiana Tech quarterback, strung the bass limit at Lake D'Arbonne where other good catches included JAMES ANDERSON, Ruston, 45 crappie; REP. JAMES P. SMITH and family, Farmerville, 95 crappie; CAPT. LAWRENCE REVILL, Ruston, mixed string bass and crappie that filled hi ice box (the one he carries in the boat); H. A. TANNER, Smackover, Ark., 38 crappie; MAX and MRS. ALEXANDER, 90 bream; and BOBBY NORRIS CARROLL, Tabor, N.J., 40 crappie while visiting with his parents, NORRIS and MRS. CARROLL, who live on the lake. His uncle is GRADY NORRIS who has D'Arbonne fish that will answer his feed call.

Some good Cheniere catches this week were 14 bass by S. N. CAMP, nine bass for JIMMY FREEMAN and 18 bass (two trips) for MILLER CHRISTIE.

JOHN T. LITTLE really had a good week at Black Bayou Lake with 50 crappie one day, back with IVY SMITH for limits again, then return with SMITH and ENOS THOMPSON for 125.

Other Black Bayou catches of note were JOHNNY DANNA, 21 bass in two days but same trip; JOHN AMOS, 12 bass; L. L. DECELLE party, 221 bream; ROY HENDERSON, bream limit; CLEVE CORNETT, and JOHN HAND, each eight bass; JOE C. TURNER, nine bass; ALVIN SMITH, 75 bream; ALDIN "BUTCH" MARTIN, bream limit; SAM LADART, 15 bass and back with CHARLES DEAN for 22; W. A. and MRS. STEWART, 97 crappie; JOHN GUYTON JR., 40 crappie.

L. E. BOWER, 15-year-old Monroe youth, hit the catfish jackpot at Bayou DeSiard Friday morning with a 42-pounder described as being as big as his 7-year-old brother, CHARLES. L.E had figured he was doing pretty good with his trotline on cat and the biggest he had ever caught was seven-pounder until his Friday catch

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Gary Lane of Missouri, who escaped for a 57-yard dash after trying to pass, was named Saturday the most valuable player of the All-Stars, who succumbed to the Green Bay Packers 38-0 Friday night.

The 210-pounder's long run accounted for all but 27 yards of the All-Stars' net rushing total. He tried 14 passes, hitting nine for 17 yards.

Lane is the property of the Cleveland Browns, who plan to make him into a running back.

Lane collected 46 votes from newsmen covering the game in Soldier Field. Next in the balloting was defensive back Nick Rassas of Notre Dame — Atlanta Falcons — with 13 votes.

Others receiving votes were end Garry Garrison, San Diego State and San Diego Chargers, 7; tackle George Rice, LSU and Houston Oilers, 4; fullback Jim Grabowski, Illinois and Green Bay, 2; end Aaron Brown, Minnesota and Kansas City Chiefs, 2.

Linebacker Frank Emanuel, Tennessee and Miami Dolphins, 1; back Charles King, Purdue and Buffalo Bills, 1, and defensive back Rodger Bird Kentucky and Oakland Raiders, 1.

The $4 million worth of pro rookies — a humiliated group of 46 All-Stars — joined the clubs in the National and American Football Leagues Saturday that bought them. And they undoubtedly went like chicks to a mother hen. After their mauling by the Packers, they know they have lots to learn.

The Packers' million dollar babbies, Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois, gained 15 yards in six carries. Anderson limped from the field with an injured instep. Xrays proved negative.

"We didn't have any poise out there," Grabowski said simply.

The Illini All-America is supposed to battle veteran packer Jim Taylor for his job.

Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi said he didn't know the word revenge and that he couldn't think back as far as 1963 when the All-Stars last won in the series by beating the Packers 20-17.

Did any of the All-Stars impress Lombardi?

"I didn't particularly notice," he snapped.

The revenge motif, however, was apparent among Packer players.

"The coach didn't have to say anything to us about that 1963 game," said defense end Willie Davis. "There were 16 of us in that game, and it was just boiling in our minds. We wanted this one and we got it."

Green Bay's second touchdown was set up on a 69-yard punt return by Willie Wood.

"This is really what killed us," said Lane.

All-Star Coach John Sauer said his players wanted "to go out there and hit, but we couldn't keep anything going because of misplays."

"The Packers weren't trying to rub it in — the veterans wouldn't let them forget 1963 and they came loaded with adrenalin," he added.

NFL Will Receive Rights To Top QB

CHICAGO (AP) — One of the unannounced agreements of the recent pro football merger automatically gives the National League the No. 1 college quarterback in the country next year, The Associated Press learned Saturday.

And that secret footnote to the original merger announcement is beginning to build concern among some American League people, who are just starting to get the news as it trickles down from higher officials.

The special quarterback footnote in the aft to be held after the 1966 season so stunned one AFL official that he said:

"That's not a common draft — it's a preferred draft."

Under the agreement, no American League team can draft a quarterback until at least one of the NFL team's has tapped a signal-caller.

The American League was extremely successful in drafting and signing quarterbacks before the pro football bidding war came to an end when the two leagues announced their merger plans on June 8.

Last year, for example, the New York Jets signed Joe Namath of Alabama and Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame, who since has been traded to Boston. And this past season Miami grabbed Rick Norton of Kentucky, one of the country's top passers.

In addition, four other AFL teams have improving young quarterbacks, Buffalo with Daryle Lamonica, Houston with Don Trull, Kansas City with Pete Beathard and San Diego with Steve Tensi.

What bothers the AFL people about the quarterback protocol to the merger agreement is that they apparently see it as giving the NFL preferential status in going after some of the top passers in the colleges such as Bob Greise of Purdue and Steve Spurrier of Florida.

But it is reported, although not confirmed, that the special quarterback status may have been given in exchange for the AFL getting preferential treatment in selecting a city when the leagues expand.

The NFL wil ladd one team for the 1967 season and the AFL will add a franchise for 1968. But the American League is supposed to be able to select its city first.

Among the cities that have been prominently mentioned as sites for expansion are New Orleans, La., Anaheim-Los Angeles, Seattle, Wash., and Cincinnati.

Other problems still to be resolved by the two leagues include picking a site for this year's championship meeting, the disposition of any players who wound up with two contracts during the war that immediately proceeded the peace and what to do with the AFL's two-point conversion rule.

Silas Inks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association announced Saturday that forward Paul Silas had signed for his third season.

Clutch Shot Gives Goalby Lead In Cleveland Open Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Determined Bob Goalby came through with a clutch chip shot for a birdie on the 18th hole Saturday and snared the third round lead in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole total of 199.

The 35-year-old pro from Belleville, Ill., posted a strong seven-under-par 64 in an almost flawless round of golf.

He clung to a one-stroke lead after withstanding a furious charge by lanky 26-year-old Dick Sikes, who made a shambles of the 6,777-yard par 36-35 — 71 Lakewood Country Club layout with a supurb 63.

Goalby, who shared Friday's half lead with Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex., was 14 under par for the distance.

Skies, 13th on the list of money winners and sponsored by Cleveland Browns' owner Art Modell, shattered the course record with a barrage of nine birdies. Veteran Julius Boros set the mark Friday with a 64.

Sikes, a former University of Arkansas star, stumbled only on the 465-yard 17th hole when he drove into the rough, left his second shot short of the green and missed an 18 footer that would have given him a par.

His 63 was the second lowest round on the pro tour this year. Arnold Palmer rang up a 62 in the third round of the Los Angeles Open earlier this season.

Goalby, 36th on the money list, had seven birdies, the last coming from 35 feet on the final hole that gave him the sole leadership.

Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., also had a 66 and was in at 203.

In fifth place at 204 was Boros, who scored a 68 with the help of an eagle on the 375-yard No. 15.

Gun Club Sets

The scheduled program at the Pine Hills Gun Club today will consist of 510 single 16 yard trap targets. Only one more registered trap shoot is scheduled at Pine Hills for this shooting year so a good crowd is expected.

The skeet field will be open for practice as usual.

This past Sunday afternoon 10 registered targets were offered on the trap field. R. T. Lolley was high gun with 97 out of 100, David Rosedale and Bert Williams tied for runner-up position with 96 out of 100.

The skeet field was completely dominated by Bob Talton who powered 118 straight targets.

Club President, Jess Cobb, reported that the largest crowd of the year was on hand this past Sunday. He stated that good attendance was to be expected until the closing date of the first of the month with the hunting members getting in shape for opening of the dove season.

Pirates Win, Keep Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run homer keyed a six-run explosion in the second inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates buried Cincinnati 9-3 Saturday, protecting their National League lead and ending the Reds' winning string at six games.

Right-hander Tommy Sisk checked the Reds on seven hits for his fifth victory against two losses.

Jim Pagliaroni chased O'Toole with a single. A pair of walks filled the bases and Baldschun forced in another run by walking Roberto Clemente. Clendenon followed with his two-run single.

In the third, the Pirates' Manny Mota clubbed a two-run triple after Jerry May singled and Bob Bailey walked.

The Reds got a run in the first on singles by Pete Rose and Gordy Coleman and an infield out. Rose doubled home a pair in the fifth following singles by Leo Cardenas and pinch hitter Mel Queen.

Slight Edge For Hunters

With Paul Martin

Hunters, with tightening restrictions as the years advance, will get a little more edge this season on some game — but not much.

Resident game regulations for Louisiana, announced during the week, will allow 14 more days for rabbit hunters, four more days on quail, one more trip for squirrel and seven more days for turkey. There may be a few days more or less in some areas of deer hunting, but the designated areas will be altered in structure from past seasons.

There's no additional days for teal, doves, woodcock, snipe but the seasons are good and hunters don't complain.

About all the hunter needs now is the regulations for duck, goose and coot and he can start mapping his campaign for the season. Federal waterfowl observers are indication there may be some improvement in duck regulations from the hunter standpoint, but don't expect too much. The easement may come in some other flyway. There is chance the mallard hunters, under tight rein last season, wil get help. Slight chance.

Right now the seasons already set are:

Rabbit — Oct. 1 — Feb. 28; limits 8-16.

Squirrel — Oct. 1-Jan 10; 8-16.

Bear—Closed.

Turkey—April 1-April 23; 1-1.

Doves — Three-way split Sept. 3-18; Oct. 15-Nov. 6; Dec. 16-Jan. 5; 12-24.

Teal — Sept. 17-25; 4-8 (for those getting teal permits by Aug. 17).

Rails and gallinules — Nov. 5-Jan. 13; 15-30.

Woodcock—Dec. 10-Jan. 28; 5-10.

Snipe — Nov. 26-Jan. 14; 8-16.

Gun season for deer opens Nov. 25 in all areas where such hunting will be permitted. The lengths in days will vary from five to 40 with most having split seasons. Hunters will have plenty of time to study area boundaries and other technicalities when the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries folders are made available to the public.

Bowhunters have no additional days, the special archery season running Oct. 8-Nov. 20. Incidentally, Missouri has just announced its gun and archery seasons for deer. Guns get only five days (No. 12-18) bows have Oct. 1-Dec. 15.

Congratulations, Cynthia

Congratulations have been pouring in all week for 11-year-old Cynthia Bell who will be a seventh grader at Lee Junior High come September, having completed elementary schooling at Sally Humble School.

Cynthia, daughter of Jack and Mrs. Bell, 113 Raymond Drive, Monroe, is home with distinction as a national archery champion, to our knowledge the only Louisiana archer ever to claim a national title in any class.

Of course there was a fumble somewhere from the National Field Archery Association's tournament last week at Point Pleasant, W.Va., and her home town, and the report came out that Cynthia had set a world's record for the hunter round in her cub division of girls' competition, even listing her among the women.

Naturally, Cynthia has some embarassment about it all, that world record stuff. But she can still stand proudly up front with her national girls cub bare bow championship.

A member of Lafourche Bowmen, Monroe archery club, she shot the five days of the meet with rounds of: 276-278 — 554 (field); 298-303—601 (hunter); 266 (animal, single round); aggregate total of 1421 points.

Sticking with the archers a while longer, Lafourche Bowmen have scheduled their second broadhead shoot of the summer for next Sunday afternoon. It's not definite yet, but Lafourche is considering half day broadhead shoots each Sunday until the bowhunting season starts.

Elation From Tragedy?

If anybody got any elation from the Texas gun tragedy of the past week it had to be the anti-gun people in Washington. They have been having a ball since the tragic shootings at Austin.

They've got a wedge that could bring an amputation for The Bill of Rights, amputation of the right of free men to bear arms. If such American documents can be rewritten and cut up, then how long before all parts of these rights so dear to American life can be torn up and destroyed and "We, the People" become the cattle of a police state?

The Texas case is as regrettable to sportsmen who are gun owners as to the unfortunate victims on all sides of the Austin story.

The national cry of the anti-gunners all week has been to secure legislation to "keep guns out of the hands of the wrong people."

The big question to us is how they will determine who are the right people.

This unfortunate person who started it all at Austin certainly wouldn't have been a wrong person when he got his guns. His model life before the tragedy had been one of the All-American boy, intelligent, a scoutmaster. With his back record he would have had permits to own the guns he took into a Texas tower.

Legislation to require police permits for areas will never stop gun tragedies. Even policemen are not immune to going over the deep end when they, like others, like this young man in Texas, come to that feared climax in some lives in which disturbed emotions take command.

Meanwhile, the gun sportsmen of a nation mourn the Texas case, too. Mr. Dodd's bill gathers ammuniton.

Personally, we've just about laid the guns away. We don't get a kick out of following the beagles we used to. If gun restrictions tighten, a lot of us are going to be glad we turned to the bow.

Lake Providence Study

There is a proposal under study for regulation of water levels for East Carroll's Lake Providence.

The Lake Providence Jaycees have been working toward lake improvements, and the Lake Providence Rotary Club recently invited Jim Davis, Monroe, biologist in charge of district fish and game management, to talk on the subject.

Davis, like other biologists, will cite opinions and answer questions of fish and game questions at any time. Whether or not the opinions and questions are accepted is left up to the people needing the help.

Davis recommended controlled fluctuations of lake levels as one of the cures. It would mean a control gate to maintain levels and bring about an annual drop about this time of year of at least six feet.

Naturally, there are a lot of Lake Providence folks who fight the plan. Most recognize the lake needs help.

It's a problem already being tackled on other state lakes. Black Lake and Saline Lake between Coushatta and Winnfield accepted the plan this year, the drawdown has been complete and will be held until the first killing frost.

Cheniere Lake at West Monroe, currently taking the cure, had its drawdown completed yesterday. Lake improvement projects—boat lanes, cleaning and improving public areas — is ready to begin.

Anyone getting a look at Cheniere now won't recognize the place, but a check over the area's mass of logs and decaying treetops can see what has been choking Cheniere's bottom. Tannic acid has been cited as a Cheniere drawback that some of this work will relieve. Work starts tomorrow.

Outdoor Scoreboard

Chalk up limits this week at Bussy Brake for JIM PACKER, RILEY HOPKINS and PAUL BROOKS, Monroe, and TIM KNIGHT, Bastrop, with bass, and J.D. and MRS. HUGHES and BILL TAYLOR, Bastrop, bream. Other nice Bussey catches included ten bass for BILL BICKHAM, Monroe; 12 bass for W.M. and MRS. LOVE, Monroe; and 65 crappie for THURMAN WEBB and DON MAYNARD, El Dorado, Ark.

MRS. MORRIS COLEMAN took 30 white perch, MRS. SAM FOUTZ took 32, all big ones, in River Chute at the Lake Providence port.

W. G. DURHAM and son, JAMES, Winnfield, took 22 bass from Saline Lake Tuesday morning.

SAM ROACH and JIM BAILEY, Monroe, caught crappie limits at Monterey's Big Horseshoe.

"DUSTY" BURROUGHS, he's six years old today, caught a bass at Black Bayou Lake that almost hit four pounds. He was with his dad, FRANK BURROUGHS, and JERRY ANDERSON who caught 15 bass. One taken by DUSTY'S dad weighed 5¾ pounds.

BILL ROBINSON, Louisiana Tech quarterback, strung the bass limit at Lake D'Arbonne where other good catches included JAMES ANDERSON, Ruston, 45 crappie; REP. JAMES P. SMITH and family, Farmerville, 95 crappie; CAPT. LAWRENCE REVILL, Ruston, mixed string bass and crappie that filled hi ice box (the one he carries in the boat); H. A. TANNER, Smackover, Ark., 38 crappie; MAX and MRS. ALEXANDER, 90 bream; and BOBBY NORRIS CARROLL, Tabor, N.J., 40 crappie while visiting with his parents, NORRIS and MRS. CARROLL, who live on the lake. His uncle is GRADY NORRIS who has D'Arbonne fish that will answer his feed call.

Some good Cheniere catches this week were 14 bass by S. N. CAMP, nine bass for JIMMY FREEMAN and 18 bass (two trips) for MILLER CHRISTIE.

JOHN T. LITTLE really had a good week at Black Bayou Lake with 50 crappie one day, back with IVY SMITH for limits again, then return with SMITH and ENOS THOMPSON for 125.

Other Black Bayou catches of note were JOHNNY DANNA, 21 bass in two days but same trip; JOHN AMOS, 12 bass; L. L. DECELLE party, 221 bream; ROY HENDERSON, bream limit; CLEVE CORNETT, and JOHN HAND, each eight bass; JOE C. TURNER, nine bass; ALVIN SMITH, 75 bream; ALDIN "BUTCH" MARTIN, bream limit; SAM LADART, 15 bass and back with CHARLES DEAN for 22; W. A. and MRS. STEWART, 97 crappie; JOHN GUYTON JR., 40 crappie.

L. E. BOWER, 15-year-old Monroe youth, hit the catfish jackpot at Bayou DeSiard Friday morning with a 42-pounder described as being as big as his 7-year-old brother, CHARLES. L.E had figured he was doing pretty good with his trotline on cat and the biggest he had ever caught was seven-pounder until his Friday catch

Missouri's Gary Lane Named 'Most Valuable' For All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Gary Lane of Missouri, who escaped for a 57-yard dash after trying to pass, was named Saturday the most valuable player of the All-Stars, who succumbed to the Green Bay Packers 38-0 Friday night.

The 210-pounder's long run accounted for all but 27 yards of the All-Stars' net rushing total. He tried 14 passes, hitting nine for 17 yards.

Lane is the property of the Cleveland Browns, who plan to make him into a running back.

Lane collected 46 votes from newsmen covering the game in Soldier Field. Next in the balloting was defensive back Nick Rassas of Notre Dame — Atlanta Falcons — with 13 votes.

Others receiving votes were end Garry Garrison, San Diego State and San Diego Chargers, 7; tackle George Rice, LSU and Houston Oilers, 4; fullback Jim Grabowski, Illinois and Green Bay, 2; end Aaron Brown, Minnesota and Kansas City Chiefs, 2.

Linebacker Frank Emanuel, Tennessee and Miami Dolphins, 1; back Charles King, Purdue and Buffalo Bills, 1, and defensive back Rodger Bird Kentucky and Oakland Raiders, 1.

The $4 million worth of pro rookies — a humiliated group of 46 All-Stars — joined the clubs in the National and American Football Leagues Saturday that bought them. And they undoubtedly went like chicks to a mother hen. After their mauling by the Packers, they know they have lots to learn.

The Packers' million dollar babbies, Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois, gained 15 yards in six carries. Anderson limped from the field with an injured instep. Xrays proved negative.

"We didn't have any poise out there," Grabowski said simply.

The Illini All-America is supposed to battle veteran packer Jim Taylor for his job.

Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi said he didn't know the word revenge and that he couldn't think back as far as 1963 when the All-Stars last won in the series by beating the Packers 20-17.

Did any of the All-Stars impress Lombardi?

"I didn't particularly notice," he snapped.

The revenge motif, however, was apparent among Packer players.

"The coach didn't have to say anything to us about that 1963 game," said defense end Willie Davis. "There were 16 of us in that game, and it was just boiling in our minds. We wanted this one and we got it."

Green Bay's second touchdown was set up on a 69-yard punt return by Willie Wood.

"This is really what killed us," said Lane.

All-Star Coach John Sauer said his players wanted "to go out there and hit, but we couldn't keep anything going because of misplays."

"The Packers weren't trying to rub it in — the veterans wouldn't let them forget 1963 and they came loaded with adrenalin," he added.

NFL Will Receive Rights To Top QB

CHICAGO (AP) — One of the unannounced agreements of the recent pro football merger automatically gives the National League the No. 1 college quarterback in the country next year, The Associated Press learned Saturday.

And that secret footnote to the original merger announcement is beginning to build concern among some American League people, who are just starting to get the news as it trickles down from higher officials.

The special quarterback footnote in the aft to be held after the 1966 season so stunned one AFL official that he said:

Under the agreement, no American League team can draft a quarterback until at least one of the NFL team's has tapped a signal-caller.

The American League was extremely successful in drafting and signing quarterbacks before the pro football bidding war came to an end when the two leagues announced their merger plans on June 8.

Last year, for example, the New York Jets signed Joe Namath of Alabama and Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame, who since has been traded to Boston. And this past season Miami grabbed Rick Norton of Kentucky, one of the country's top passers.

In addition, four other AFL teams have improving young quarterbacks, Buffalo with Daryle Lamonica, Houston with Don Trull, Kansas City with Pete Beathard and San Diego with Steve Tensi.

What bothers the AFL people about the quarterback protocol to the merger agreement is that they apparently see it as giving the NFL preferential status in going after some of the top passers in the colleges such as Bob Greise of Purdue and Steve Spurrier of Florida.

But it is reported, although not confirmed, that the special quarterback status may have been given in exchange for the AFL getting preferential treatment in selecting a city when the leagues expand.

The NFL wil ladd one team for the 1967 season and the AFL will add a franchise for 1968. But the American League is supposed to be able to select its city first.

Among the cities that have been prominently mentioned as sites for expansion are New Orleans, La., Anaheim-Los Angeles, Seattle, Wash., and Cincinnati.

Other problems still to be resolved by the two leagues include picking a site for this year's championship meeting, the disposition of any players who wound up with two contracts during the war that immediately proceeded the peace and what to do with the AFL's two-point conversion rule.

Clutch Shot Gives Goalby Lead In Cleveland Open Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Determined Bob Goalby came through with a clutch chip shot for a birdie on the 18th hole Saturday and snared the third round lead in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole total of 199.

The 35-year-old pro from Belleville, Ill., posted a strong seven-under-par 64 in an almost flawless round of golf.

He clung to a one-stroke lead after withstanding a furious charge by lanky 26-year-old Dick Sikes, who made a shambles of the 6,777-yard par 36-35 — 71 Lakewood Country Club layout with a supurb 63.

Goalby, who shared Friday's half lead with Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex., was 14 under par for the distance.

Skies, 13th on the list of money winners and sponsored by Cleveland Browns' owner Art Modell, shattered the course record with a barrage of nine birdies. Veteran Julius Boros set the mark Friday with a 64.

Sikes, a former University of Arkansas star, stumbled only on the 465-yard 17th hole when he drove into the rough, left his second shot short of the green and missed an 18 footer that would have given him a par.

His 63 was the second lowest round on the pro tour this year. Arnold Palmer rang up a 62 in the third round of the Los Angeles Open earlier this season.

Goalby, 36th on the money list, had seven birdies, the last coming from 35 feet on the final hole that gave him the sole leadership.

Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash., also had a 66 and was in at 203.

In fifth place at 204 was Boros, who scored a 68 with the help of an eagle on the 375-yard No. 15.

Gun Club Sets

The scheduled program at the Pine Hills Gun Club today will consist of 510 single 16 yard trap targets. Only one more registered trap shoot is scheduled at Pine Hills for this shooting year so a good crowd is expected.

The skeet field will be open for practice as usual.

This past Sunday afternoon 10 registered targets were offered on the trap field. R. T. Lolley was high gun with 97 out of 100, David Rosedale and Bert Williams tied for runner-up position with 96 out of 100.

The skeet field was completely dominated by Bob Talton who powered 118 straight targets.

Club President, Jess Cobb, reported that the largest crowd of the year was on hand this past Sunday. He stated that good attendance was to be expected until the closing date of the first of the month with the hunting members getting in shape for opening of the dove season.

Pirates Win, Keep Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run homer keyed a six-run explosion in the second inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates buried Cincinnati 9-3 Saturday, protecting their National League lead and ending the Reds' winning string at six games.

Right-hander Tommy Sisk checked the Reds on seven hits for his fifth victory against two losses.

Jim Pagliaroni chased O'Toole with a single. A pair of walks filled the bases and Baldschun forced in another run by walking Roberto Clemente. Clendenon followed with his two-run single.

In the third, the Pirates' Manny Mota clubbed a two-run triple after Jerry May singled and Bob Bailey walked.

The Reds got a run in the first on singles by Pete Rose and Gordy Coleman and an infield out. Rose doubled home a pair in the fifth following singles by Leo Cardenas and pinch hitter Mel Queen.

Cheniere Improvement Work Set As Drawdown Completed

Improvement work on Cheniere Lake out of West Monroe will begin tomorrow now that the six-foot drawdown from the lake's pool stage of 66.5 feet, sea level, has been completed.

Members of the Cheniere Lake Commission and the Ouachita Parish Police Jury made a survey of the lake Thursday and announced themselves ready to undertake the improvement project they think will ultimately become a major recreation center for this area.

E. D. Elmore, lake commission chairman, designated commission member Mike Tarver to announced immediate plans for the lake since Elmore had to be absent from the city on business shortly after the survey.

Tarver yesterday announced the drawdown of lake water had reached completion Saturday afternoon and the gates at the spillway were to be closed.

"Any water leaving the lake now will be by evaporation," Tarver said.

Tomorrow morning work crews will start near the spillway and begin cutting a 15-foot wide boat lane up the lake to Puckett Lake. (Puckett Lake is an old area of Cheniere Creek before the present lake was completed).

Then lateral lines will be cut from each public area to the central boat lane. Laterals will also be cut to Pine Island, Joe's Island, Coon Island and the other "hot spots" fishermen like to find.

"Work this year will go as far as available money permits," Tarver said.

The commission does not expect to get the job done in one year, but each year, after drawdown time, additional work will be done until the job is completed.

"Within three weeks, after drying, we will begin clearing at the public areas," Tarver said. "Logs, trash, brush will be removed and more depth given at shorelines to make bank fishing more popular."

Extension of fishing piers into the lake also is planned.

The lake cmmission also has voted, subject to approval of the police jury, to start commercial fishing August 15 to remove turtles and rough fish from the lake.

"We would like to encourage this commercial fishing in order to get as much of this rough stuff out of there as possible," said Tarver.

"Rough stuff" is turtle, gar, grindle, buffalo, and cat which all fall into the commercial categories. Game fish — bass, bream, crappie -- are not to be taken.

Tarver said fish and wildlife biologists have expressed compete satisfaction with lake operations so far in the drawdown, that no fish kill has resulted, and desired results are showing.

Regarding the boat lanes, Tarver pointed out such routes will be cut where stumps will be four feet below pool satge of 66.5 feet sea level. (The level at the drawdown low is now 60.5)

"As soon as the water is back at pool stage, these lanes will be marked so that no one can get lost while fishing," Tarver said.

Phillies Defeat Braves By 6-5

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pinch hitter Doug Clemens singled in one run in the sixth inning and scored on Cookie Rojas' squeeze bunt, sparking the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-5 victory over Atlanta Saturday night.

Cheniere Improvement Work Set As Drawdown Completed

Improvement work on Cheniere Lake out of West Monroe will begin tomorrow now that the six-foot drawdown from the lake's pool stage of 66.5 feet, sea level, has been completed.

Members of the Cheniere Lake Commission and the Ouachita Parish Police Jury made a survey of the lake Thursday and announced themselves ready to undertake the improvement project they think will ultimately become a major recreation center for this area.

E. D. Elmore, lake commission chairman, designated commission member Mike Tarver to announced immediate plans for the lake since Elmore had to be absent from the city on business shortly after the survey.

Tarver yesterday announced the drawdown of lake water had reached completion Saturday afternoon and the gates at the spillway were to be closed.

"Any water leaving the lake now will be by evaporation," Tarver said.

Tomorrow morning work crews will start near the spillway and begin cutting a 15-foot wide boat lane up the lake to Puckett Lake. (Puckett Lake is an old area of Cheniere Creek before the present lake was completed).

Then lateral lines will be cut from each public area to the central boat lane. Laterals will also be cut to Pine Island, Joe's Island, Coon Island and the other "hot spots" fishermen like to find.

"Work this year will go as far as available money permits," Tarver said.

The commission does not expect to get the job done in one year, but each year, after drawdown time, additional work will be done until the job is completed.

"Within three weeks, after drying, we will begin clearing at the public areas," Tarver said. "Logs, trash, brush will be removed and more depth given at shorelines to make bank fishing more popular."

Extension of fishing piers into the lake also is planned.

The lake cmmission also has voted, subject to approval of the police jury, to start commercial fishing August 15 to remove turtles and rough fish from the lake.

"We would like to encourage this commercial fishing in order to get as much of this rough stuff out of there as possible," said Tarver.

"Rough stuff" is turtle, gar, grindle, buffalo, and cat which all fall into the commercial categories. Game fish — bass, bream, crappie — are not to be taken.

Tarver said fish and wildlife biologists have expressed compete satisfaction with lake operations so far in the drawdown, that no fish kill has resulted, and desired results are showing.

Regarding the boat lanes, Tarver pointed out such routes will be cut where stumps will be four feet below pool satge of 66.5 feet sea level. (The level at the drawdown low is now 60.5)

"As soon as the water is back at pool stage, these lanes will be marked so that no one can get lost while fishing," Tarver said.

DR. GLENN F. POWERS

Dr. Powers Northeast's New Dean

The head of the Department of Physics, Dr. Glenn F. Powers, has been appointed dean of instruction at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Northeast President George T Walker announced the appointment. Dr. Powers succeeds the late Dr. Clint O. Hanna as Northeast's chief academic dean.

Dr. Powers joined the Northeast faculty as head of the Department of Physics in September, 1959, at which time the department was established.

He is currently one of 15 science educators from throughout the nation participating in a conference at Florida State University at Tallahassee, developing and evaluating a coordinated science program for junior high schools.

The new dean is one of 30 science educators in the country to be inducted into the National Association for Research in Science Teaching and was one of 100 scientists in the world whose expenses were paid by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to participate in the International Lunar Conference at Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blackburg.

In recognition of his standing as a scientist, he was named a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is a member of the American Physical Society, American Association of Physics Teachers, American Astronomical Association, American Geophysical Union, National Association for Research in Science Teaching, and Louisiana Teachers Association.

An active writer, Dr. Powers has written numerous articles for scientific and professional journals and also had a work of fiction published by a mass-circulation general magazine.

Dr. Powers is a graduate of Central Oklahoma State College, where he was on the President's Honor Roll. He received the master of nuclear science degree from the University of Oklahoma and the Ed D degree from Oklahoma State University.

He began his teaching career as chairman of the Physical Science Department at Seminole (Okla.) Junior College in 1950. In 1952 he returned to his high school alma mater, Classen High in Oklahoma City, as a physics teacher and in 1953 went to Arkansas State Teachers College as associate professor of physics. He remained at Arkansas State Teachers, with the exception of a year on leave as visiting instructor at Oklahoma State, until his appointment as department head at Northeast.

Dr. Powers is married to the former Delores Gibbs. They are parents of two daughters.

Death Toll Increases

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Two deaths increased the toll in Formosa's encephalitis epidemic to five Saturday. All the victims were children under 12. Forty additional cases are under treatment in hospitals in Taipei and Taichung.

Piccadilly Announces Expansion

A major remodeling and expansion of facilities at Piccadilly Cafeteria, 2201 Louisville Ave., was announced Saturday by Malcolm Stein Jr., manager.

Stein said a second serving line has been added, almost doubling the serving capacity. He said under ordinary circumstances about 700 persons can be served every hour on the lines.

Before remodeling started the seating capacity of the cafeteria was 278. There are facilities now for 414 persons. More new tables will be added soon bringing this total up to around 430, Stein said.

"We have added onto the building and completely modeled the dining room," said the manager.

He said the dining room is colorfully decorated, has beautiful new lighting fixtures, and the floor is carpeted.

The manager explained, "We will still operate both serving lines out of the same kitchen, but on the new serving line we have set up a fry station where some of the food will be cooked."

The cafeteria has been located in Monroe for about seven years, offering a broad selection of food and pastries. It is located in the Twin City Shopping Center, where there is ample car parking facilities.

The cafeteria's new schedule of serving hours which will be in effect every day, including Sundays and holidays, is from 10:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Fans Spend Money

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Out-of-town fans spent $2,018,920 while in Baton Rouge for Louisiana State University's seven home football games last year.

The chamber of commerce estimated Saturday that 148,450 out-of-town fans saw LSU in action and spent the money for food and drink, tickets, lodging and transportation.

Commencement Set

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Louisiana State University's main campus will hold its 35th annual summer commencement at 10 a.m. Friday. Diplomas will be awarded to about 750 graduates.

NET INCOME ANNOUNCED

HOUSTON, Tex. (Special) — Pennzoil Company announced a consolidated net income of $9,781,099, or $2.43 per share for the first six months of 1966. This compares to $5,945,846, or $1.50 per share for the first six months of 1965.

Of the $2.43 per share, $1.65 represents income before including Pennzoil's 42 per cent equity in the earnings of United Gas Corporation less applicable interest.

GETS DIPLOMA

Wayne M. Van, 309 Warren Drive, West Monroe, has been awarded a diploma from Vale Technical Institute at Blairsville, Pa.

Van, claim representative for State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company at 407 Hudson Lane in Monroe, has just returned from a three-weeks advanced training course in auto damage estimating and repair techniques at the institute. He is one of 800 State Farm men who will complete the course this year.

MAN HONORED

A local representative of the Great Southern Life Insurance Company has been honored by being named to the 1966 Great Southern Club, it was announced from the home office in Houston, Tex., this week. He is Harry Luter. This club is composed of those career life underwriters who meet qualifications in sales quality, business and outstanding service to policyholders and clients.

In addition to club membership, Luter received the added honor of membership in the Leaders Legion. Legionnaires are those men in the company who produce in excess of $500,000 in the fiscal year between July 1 and June 30.

SHIPMENTS UP

Allied Van Lines, Inc., has announced that it transported almost 100,000 shipments during the first six months of 1966, a 29 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

Robert Reutnauer, vice president of Fault Office Bonded Warehouses, Inc., local Allied agent, said that the world's largest long-distance household goods mover transported a record breaking 97,891 shipments in the period from January through June. Additionally, the tonnage loaded went up 37 per cent to nearly 95 million pounds in the same period.

These impressive national statistics, coupled with the fact that registrations for new orders are up more than 15 per cent for the first half of 1966, indicate clearly that Allied will register its biggest year ever, Breitkopf reported.

SALES UP

Dr. Pepper national sales for the period ending July 29 were nearly 15 per cent ahead of the comparable period last year, it was reported in Dallas.

July sales were better than 9 per cent ahead of the same month last year and marked the Texas based soft drink firm's 63rd consecutive monthly sales increase.

Leading all packages was canned product, both Dr. Pepper and Diet Dr. Pepper with sizeable gains. Pommac, the Swedish import low calorie soft drink being introduced in this country by Dr. Pepper Company, also showed substantial increase in can sales it was noted.

DIVIDEND NOTED

Georgia-Pacific's board of directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents in cash and 1 per cent in common stock, payable Sept. 21 to holders of record Aug. 8. This action maintained the same dividend rates as those prior to the concern's 5-for-4 stock split which has the effect of increasing the dividends 25 per cent. The company had earlier reported six-months records in sales and earnings, the former being $326,000,000 and the latter $27,080,000, increases over the first half 1965 of 23 per cent and 15.7 per cent respectively.

Beech Tree Burglar Home

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — A bearded burglar was found living in a beech tree Friday.

Larry Allman, 23, Columbus, also sought as a parole violator, was flushed from his 50-foot perch in a woods three miles south of here.

Sheriff Charles Nolting said Allman had a hammock strung between two limbs. Officials said the hammock contained a bow and arrows, a jar of cheese spread and jars of peanut butter and jelly.

DIVIDEND NOTED

Georgia-Pacific's board of directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents in cash and 1 per cent in common stock, payable Sept. 24 to holders of record Aug. 8. This action maintained the same dividend rates as those prior to the concern's 5-for-4 stock split, which has the effect of increasing the dividends 25 per cent. The company had earlier reported six-months records in sales and earnings, the former being $326,000,000 and the latter $27,080,000, increases over the first half 1965 of 23 per cent and 15.7 per cent respectively.

Beech Tree Burglar Home

Larry Allman, 23, Columbus, also sought as a parole violator, was flushed from his 50-foot perch in a woods three miles south of here.

Sheriff Charles Nolting said Allman had a hammock strung between two limbs. Officials said the hammock contained a bow and arrows, a jar of cheese spread and jars of peanut butter and jelly.

Miss Linda Kay Truett, John M. Maynard Married In Church Ceremony Saturday

Miss Linda Kay Truett became the bride of John Michael Maynard Saturday August 6 in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Father George Martinez at 10:30 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Truett are parents of the bride and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Maynard, all of Monroe.

Arrangements of white gladioli were placed on each side of the altar. Music was provided by Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ and Mrs. Waymon Etier, soloist. Steve and Bill Maynard, cousins of the groom of Nagodoches, Texas, served as altar boys.

Escorted by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of candlelight peau de soie with reembroidered lace at the square neckline and on the long sleeves. A chapel train fell from the empire waistline in back. Her elbow length veil of illusion was held by petals of lace. She carried a bouquet of daisies.

Attending the bride were Miss Mary Frances Elias, maid of honor; and Miss Helen Scroggs of Jena, Miss Dee Jones, and Miss Deborah Feeney, bridesmaids. Their gowns featured rose chiffon bodices and long skirt of ivory crepe. Their hats were open crown picture hats of deep rose peau de soie, and they carried nosegays of daisies.

Flower girls, who were dressed in pale pink dotted Swiss, were Amy Eileen Flynn of Shreveport, and Nancy Diane Bourque of Monroe, cousins of the bride.

Dick Watkins of Beaumont, Texas, was Mr. Maynard's best man. Groomsmen - ushers were James Ernest Truett, brother of the bride; James Patrick Maynard, brother of the groom; Mike Despenze, Frank Crouch, Larry Dalton, and Randy Brodnax of Beaumont, Texas. Jeffry Rogers Maynard, brother of the groom, carried the rings.

Mrs. Truett wore for her daughter's wedding a dress of turquoise lace and silk linen with matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Maynard chose pink crepe with burnt chiffon overblouse and all pink accessories. Their corsages were of white roses.

RECEPTION

Following the church service the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the Paragon. Mrs. Jay Flynn of Oak Ridge and Mrs. Jerry Flemming of Pollock, both cousins of the bride, registered the guests.

Silver punch bowls stood at each end of a long table centered with white stock and pink carnations in a crystal and silver epergne. Miss Linda Walker, Mrs. Charles Beene, Mrs. Thurman Dickey, and Miss Diane Decuir served the punch. The bride's cake was cut by her aunts, Mrs. R. E. Fussell of Mobile, Alabama, and Mrs. Ken Rice of Columbus, Ohio. Mrs. Ted Anthony of Gallatin, Tennessee, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. James Kelcher of Beaumont, Texas, served the groom's cake.

Others assisting were Mrs. Gerald Thompson of Oak Ridge, Mrs. Ray Plair, Mrs. Marian Harrell, Mrs. Sidney Fitch, Mrs. Homer Flynn of Oak Ridge, Mrs. W. G. Miller, and Mrs. Grady Patterson.

Tea girls were Miss Betty Plair, Mrs. John O'Conner, Miss Nancy Miller, Miss Carol Ann Petty, Miss Susan Fitch of Bastrop, Miss Sherrell Fitch of Oak Ridge, Miss Linda Ealker, and Miss Diane Decuir.

Rice bags were distributed by Ginger and Barbara Maynard of Nagodoches, Texas, cousins of the groom; and by Sandra Kay Fitch of Monroe and Christie Flynn of Shreveport, cousins of the bride.

When Mr. and Mrs. Maynard left on their wedding trip to Corpus Christi, Texas, the bride had changed to a gray knit trimmed with antique lace, and a pink velvet hat. Upon their return, they will be at home in Ruston, where Mr. Maynard is a student at Louisiana Tech.

MRS. JOHN MICHAEL MAYNARD

MISS JENNIFER LYN BELL

Plans for a September wedding uniting Miss Jennifer Lyn Bell and John Howell Taylor have been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leslie Bell Jr., of Mangham. The prospective groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Cecil G. Taylor of Baton Rouge.

Vows will be heard in the First Methodist Church of Mangham at 2 p.m. Friday, September 2. The Rev. Jefferson Wallace, pastor of Berwick Methodist church in Berwick will officiate.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Bessie Traweek Brunson and the late Alvin C. Brunson and of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Bell, Sr., A graduate of Mangham High School, she is a student at Louisiana State University.

Miss Bell has selected Miss Carmen Parham as her maid of honor. Other attendants will be Miss Shelia Wyley, Miss Nancy Sledge, Miss B. J. Williams, and Miss Vicki Bell.

The prospective groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Albright of Fort Myers, Fla. and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dawson Taylor of Williamston, N. C. He is a graduate of University High School in Baton Rouge and has attended the University of North Carolina and Louisiana State University.

Michael Dial has been named best man. Mr. Taylor's groomsmen are to be John Steib, Johnny Pa Lapenias, Joe DeVille, and Robert Bell, III.

The couple will live in Baton Rouge, where both will continue their studies.

Earl Chumney, Jr., Miss Christian Plan Fall Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William Alfred Christian of San Antonio, Texas, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Barbara Sue Christian, to Earl Hobbs Chumney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hobbs Chumney, also of San Antonio. The wedding is planned for September 17.

Miss Christian is a graduate of Texas Christian University in Fort Worth. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and of the San Antonio Girls' Cotillion Club.

The prospective groom is a graduate of Webb School, Bell Buckle, Tenn. He attended the University of Texas and was graduated from the University of the Americas in Mexico City. He is a member of the Order of the Alamo and of the San Antonio German club. He is the grandson of Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs of Monroe and the late Mr. Stubbs.

MISS MARY BETH CROWE

Mary Beth Crowe, Emery E. Worley, II Plan Fall Wedding

Plans are announced today for a fall wedding uniting Miss Mary Beth Crowe and Emery Edward Worley II, of Bastrop. The announcement is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Franklin Crowe of Bastrop. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Worley are parents of the prospective groom.

The ceremony is to take place October 20 in the First Baptist Church of Bastrop. Dr. Ray P. Rust, pastor of the church, will officiate.

Also a graduate of Bastrop High school, Mr. Worley was graduated from Louisiana College in Pineville. This fall he will enter Tulane School of Medicine in New Orleans, where the couple will live.

Gentry-Reagan Vows Pledged In Central Baptist Church

The Rev. Willie Woodard of Start officiated at the ceremony in Central Baptist church which united Miss Jackie Reagan and Michael Carl Gentry. The vows were pledged at 7:30 p.m. Friday, August 5. Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Reagan of Monroe are parents of the bride. Mr. Gentry is the son of Mrs. Jean Gentry of Monroe and Harold B. Gentry Jr., of Corpus Christi, Texas.

Large arrangements of yellow California gladioli in pedestal jardiniers alternating with wrought iron candelabra holding tall yellow tapers formed the background for the wedding service. Music was provided by Miss Peggy Wilson at the organ and Steve Boyette, soloist.

Mr. Reagan escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She was wearing a traditional gown executed in Chantilly lace, with taut bodice, Queen Ann neckline, and long sleeves. The bouffant skirt extended into a sweep train. Satin rosettes formed the headdress which held her fingertip veil. She carried a crescent of white butterfly roses and stephanotis caught with love knots.

Miss Sandy Wright of New Orleans attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Reed, Miss Donna Renwick, Mrs. Bruce Davidson, and Mrs. Charles Holyfield. Their dresses of reembroidered Chantilly lace and chiffon were styled on Empire lines, with a train of lace falling from the back of the scooped necklines. Their headdresses were clusters of yellow roses encircled with net and they carried cascades of yellow daisies and ivy.

Flower girl was Tammy Reagan, sister of the bride. She was attired in a style similiar to the other attendants, and carried a miniature of their bouquets.

Sammy Roberson was Mr. Gentry's best man. Groomsmen-ushers were Ray Chadderdor, Skeeter Boyd, Charles Jones, Mike Bishop, Gene Atchinson, and Melvin Lee. Eddie Nugent carried the rings.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Reagan was wearing a three piece ensemble of bonded yellow lace with white accessories. Mrs. Gentry chose blue with matching accessories. Their corsages were of white roses.

The reception room of the church was scene of the reception following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a floor length white satin cover and centered with an arrangement of yellow stock and carnations. A memory candle decorated the table where the bride's book lay.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gentry left on a wedding trip to Shreveport, the bride was wearing a two piece suit of blue bonded lace with white accessories and a corsage from her bouquet. Upon their return, they will be at home in Monroe.

Summer Is Silly Season For Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — Summer is the silly season.

Take, for example, the big fashion blow up. Inflation has hit everything from ladies' bloomers to men's ties.

Newest from Greenwich Village are ties that look like floating water toys. In fact, they work on the same principle. Made of slippery vinyl in a gaudy chevron striped pattern, the superwide ties grow plump as the wearers puff at their air valves.

Across the ocean in St. Tropez the big mob descends on the seaside in big baggy bloomers. The elastic bunches at the knees. The legs don't need to be inflated. They just are.

Again! A repeat of a sellout!

TART APPLES

Green-skinned apples are not necessarily tart; if you really need tart-tasting apples for a particular dish, ask about the fruit before you buy it.

'Bewitching' Is Watchword For Fall Timepieces

The watchword for Fall's timepieces is — "Bewitching!" From the delicately bejewelled brackelet watch to the sporty rugged "continental" wrist clock, the look in time in stupendous!

For high fashion elegance nothing tells time so beautifully as the glamorous bracelet watch, and this Fall it plays a more important part than ever on the well - dressed wrist. More than a time piece, it is a real jewelry item that fits in well with both afternoon and evening wear. Most have attractive cover lids to continue the bracelet's unbroken round. These lids are either jewel - studded or textured gold, and are hinged to conceal or reveal the watch face at will.

But no watch wardrobe is complete without a rugged Mod model, with its large and easy-to-read face and wide flashy strap of kid, brocade, satin, leather or textured metal. The "Continental Look" of these watches has also ushered in the use of onyx for more sharply visible dial markers which carries over to traditional daintier models.

MRS. JOHN N. THOMAS

Miss Virginia Gilliland, John Thomas Wed In Ruston

Miss Virginia Kay Gilliland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton I. Gilliland Sr., of Calhoun, became the bride of John N. Thomas of Calhoun in a ceremony performed by the Rev. William Stokes at 7 p.m. August 6 in Wesley Chapel, Ruston. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Thomas of Alexandria.

Large bouquets of white sotck, Majestic daisies, and chrysanthemums used with tall white tapers formed a setting for the exchange of vows. Music was provided by Maurice Cottingham at the organ.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white silk organza was styled on empire lines with chapel train attached at the waistline. Her veil was an elbow length mantilla of Alencon lace on silk illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid encircled with white rosebuds and satin streamers.

Miss Julie Ann Gilliland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaid was the groom's sister, Miss Virginia Rae Thomas. Their dresses of yellow peau de soie were styled with lifted waistlines and A-line skirts. They wore shoulder length veils of silk illusion with Alencon lace. Their bouquets were cascades of yellow-centered daisies.

The groom's father, John Henry Thomas, was best man. Groomsmen-ushers were Wentz Brister, Clifton I. Gilliland Jr. brother of the bride; and Oscar Robert Thomas, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Gilliland wore for her daughter's wedding an ensemble of mint green crepe with matching accessories and a yellow rosebud corsage. Mrs. Thomas, mother of the groom, chose pink silk shantung with matching accessories and corsage of garnet rosebuds.

A reception was the chapel followed the wedding ceremony. Mrs. Clifton I. Gilliland Jr., registered guests at a table decorated with a memory candle surrounded by greenery.

The bride's table was centered with a brass candelabra-epergne filled with yellow roses and champagne carnations. Punch was served by Mrs. Richard Watkins and Mrs. Lillian Ballard. Mrs. James W. Gilliland and Mrs. Albert Frost cut the cake.

Tea girls were Mrs. Larry Phillips, Mrs. Daniel Bannister, Miss Betty Oglesbee, Miss Elaine Brown. Rene Giles and Cathy Lynn Wyrick passed rose petals on gold trays.

When the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, Mrs. Thomas was wearing a silk dress printed in shades of rust, olive green and gold with matching rust coat. Her corsage was the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Calhoun High school and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Thomas was graduated from Bolton High School in Alexandria and from Louisiana Tech, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma. He is presently a graduate student at LSU in Baton Rouge, where the couple will make their home.

Sandra Victoria Dalton Is Bride Of Kenneth Earl Posey

First Baptist church of Winnsboro was scene of the ceremony which united Miss Sandra Victoria Dalton and Kenneth Earl Posey, Saturday, August 6. The Rev. Clarence Young officiated at the exchange of vows at 7 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Privett Dalton of Winnsboro, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Posey of Monroe.

A large arrangement of white stock and pompon chrysanthemums decorated the church baptistry, with white tapers and garlands of ivy used in the choir loft. white tapers and foliage were placed in each window of the auditorium.

As guests were being seated by the ushers, Jimmy Posey, Jerry, Posey, and Billy McCullar, a pre - nuptial concert was provided by Mrs. E. T. McClung at the organ and David Worthington, soloist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Carmon E. Privett, who gave her in marriage. Her dress of white silk organza was fashioned on straight lines with a full-length train falling from the back of the empire waistline. Scoop neckline, elbow length sleeves, and skirt were ornamented with reembroidered Alencon lace, a tiara of pearls held her veil of illusion. Atop a white Bible, she carried a cascade of stephanotis and white ribbons centered with phaleonopsis orchids and ivy.

Mrs. James Arnold attended the bride as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. David LaBleu and Miss Linda Cottingham. They wore identical dresses of aqua peau de soie with A-line skirts flarring from Empire waistlines. They wore short white gloves and headpieces of small tulle roses. Their bouquets were of ruffled aqua - tipped white carnations tied with Hahn's ivy and aqua satin ribbon.

The flower girl, Lei Ann Jones, wore a floor length dress of white eyelet over aqua and a circlet of white flowers on her hair. She carried an aqua split reed basket filled with rose petals.

Ralph Abraham served as Mr. Posey's best man. The groom's other attendants were La Ron Donaldson, and Dannie Letterman, groomsmen, and Michael Jones, ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Miss Sharon Graves invited guests to register in the bride's book, which lay on a table covered with a white cutwork cloth and decorated with a memory candle encircled with ivy and white flowers.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and centered with a white cupid compote holding a pyramid of aqua carnations, Baker's fern, and ivy. At one end of the table was the bride's cake, which was served by Mrs. Jack Carpenter, Mrs. Edna Meyer, and Mrs. Claude Taylor. Punch was served by Mrs. George Polenske, and Mrs. Roy Watkins, aunts of the bride.

When the couple left on their wedding trip to Biloxi, the bride was wearing a white silk suit with all white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return, they will be at home in Monroe.

Mrs. Posey is a graduate of Winnsboro High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college, where she was a member of Phi Mu and of Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity.

A graduate of Ouachita Parish High school, Mr. Posey received his degree at Northeast, where he is now enrolled in the Graduate School of Business Administration. He is a past president of the Student lisetd in who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Old Country Club Setting For Reception Following Inabnett - Snellings Wedding

A reception at Old Country Club, home of Mr. and Mrs. George Marion Snellings, Jr., followed the ceremony which united their daughter, Miss Nancy Wilcox Snellings, and Carrick Richard Inabnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wesley Inabnett. The Rev. W. Bradley Trimble heard the exchange of vows in Grace Episcopal church at 7 p.m., Saturday August 6. Participating clergymen were the Rt. Rev. Johm M. Allin, Bishop of Mississippi; the Rev. William Baldridge of Rayville, and the Rev. W. Donald George of Baton Rouge.

John Blackmon of Monroe was server for the ceremony, and Charles Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dolan of Del Rio, Texas was acolyte. Music was provided by Robert Winn at the organ, and Mrs. Robert Wood, soloist.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a dress of heavy white brocade, designed and made for her in Florence, Italy. It was styled with butterfly sleeves, a low round neckline, and A line skirt gently flared at the back. She wore a cathedral length veil of Brussels lace and carried a single magnolia.

Serving as the bride's attendants were Miss Lynne Watkins Farwell of New Orleans, maid of honor; Miss Priscilla Jordan and Miss Tina Freeman of New Orleans; Miss Karen Williams of Mer Rouge, Mrs. Thomas Hatfield of San Antonio, Mrs. Paul Melton, Mrs. John Jordan, Miss Mary Jo Strausser, Miss Caroline Virginia Inabnett and Miss Betty Ann Inabnett, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. George M. Snellings, III, bridesmaids; and Mary A. Mackie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dale Mackie of New Orleans, flowergirl.

They wore dresses of white linen with round necklines, elbow-length sleeves, and A-line skirts. Their headdresses were wreaths of ivy and daisies. They carried white straw hat ties with yellow ribbons and filled with daisy pompons and ivy.

Mr. Inabnett was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Herschel L. Abbott of New Orleans, Dr. James M. Long of Cleveland, Mississippi; James G. Guthrie, Frank Snellings and George M. Snellings, III, brothers of the bride, P. Slade Moody, Guy Campbell, and Steven Wallace, all of Monroe; Gilbert Graham, Lake Charles and Joe Inabnett, Minden. Ushers were Thomas Breard of Monroe, Charles de la Vergne and Louis de la Vergne of New Orleans. George Wilcox Snellings, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

RECEPTION

Following the church ceremony, a reception was held at Old Country Club, home of the bride's parents. Bridal arrangements decorated the circle entrance, the gallery, and gardens of the residence.

A crown of leaves and green and white grapes rested on the head of the small statue of Pan. White flowers overflowed two large urns in the front garden, and floral garlands decorated the gallery railing. A great basket of flowers and foliage hung from a large elm tree.

Inside the home, magnolia foliage, white flowers and white birds were used in hanging arrangements in doorways and in bouquets placed before tall mirrors. The back screened porch was banked with all-green arrangements. Two large wrought iron Mexican bird cages filled with greenery and white flowers hung at each side of the entrance to the rear garden.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Miss Sharon Graves invited guests to register in the bride's book, which lay on a table covered with a white cutwork cloth and decorated with a memory candle encircled with ivy and white flowers.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and centered with a white cupid compote holding a pyramid of aqua carnations, Baker's fern, and ivy. At one end of the table was the bride's cake, which was served by Mrs. Jack Carpenter, Mrs. Edna Meyer, and Mrs. Claude Taylor. Punch was served by Mrs. George Polenske, and Mrs. Roy Watkins, aunts of the bride.

When the couple left on their wedding trip to Biloxi, the bride was wearing a white silk suit with all white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return, they will be at home in Monroe.

Mrs. Posey is a graduate of Winnsboro High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college, where she was a member of Phi Mu and of Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity.

A graduate of Ouachita Parish High school, Mr. Posey received his degree at Northeast, where he is now enrolled in the Graduate School of Business Administration. He is a past president of the Student lisetd in who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Old Country Club Setting For Reception Following Inabnett - Snellings Wedding

A reception at Old Country Club, home of Mr. and Mrs. George Marion Snellngs, Jr., followed the ceremony which united their daughter, Miss Nancy Wilcox Snellings, and Carrick Richard Inabnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wesley Inabnett. The Rev. W. Bradley Trimble heard the exchange of vows in Grace Episcopal church at 7 p.m., Saturday August 6. Participating clergymen were the Rt. Rev. Johm M. Allin, Bishop of Mississippi; the Rev. William Baldridge of Rayville, and the Rev. W. Donald George of Baton Rouge.

John Blackmon of Monroe was server for the ceremony, and Charles Dolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dolan of Del Rio, Texas was acolyte. Music was provided by Robert Winn at the organ, and Mrs. Robert Wood, soloist.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a dress of heavy white brocade, designed and made for her in Florence, Italy. It was styled with butterfly sleeves, a low round neckline, and A line skirt gently flared at the back. She wore a cathedral length veil of Brussels lace and carried a single magnolia.

Serving as the bride's attendants were Miss Lynne Watkins Farwell of New Orleans, maid of honor; Miss Priscilla Jordan and Miss Tina Freeman of New Orleans; Miss Karen Williams of Mer Rouge, Mrs. Thomas Hatfield of San Antonio, Mrs. Paul Melton, Mrs. John Jordan, Miss Mary Jo Strausser, Miss Caroline Virginia Inabnett and Miss Betty Ann Inabnett, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. George M. Snellings, III, bridesmaids; and Mary A. Mackie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dale Mackie of New Orleans, flowergirl.

They wore dresses of white linen with round necklines, elbow-length sleeves, and A-line skirts. Their headdresses were wreaths of ivy and daisies. They carried white straw hat ties with yellow ribbons and filled with daisy pompons and ivy.

Mr. Inabnett was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Herschel L. Abbott of New Orleans, Dr. James M. Long of Cleveland, Mississippi; James G. Guthrie, Frank Snellings and George M. Snellings, III, brothers of the bride, P. Slade Moody, Guy Campbell, and Steven Wallace, all of Monroe; Gilbert Graham, Lake Charles and Joe Inabnett, Minden. Ushers were Thomas Breard of Monroe, Charles de la Vergne and Louis de la Vergne of New Orleans. George Wilcox Snellings, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

RECEPTION

Following the church ceremony, a reception was held at Old Country Club, home of the bride's parents. Bridal arrangements decorated the circle entrance, the gallery, and gardens of the residence.

A crown of leaves and green and white grapes rested on the head of the small statue of Pan. White flowers overflowed two large urns in the front garden, and floral garlands decorated the gallery railing. A great basket of flowers and foliage hung from a large elm tree.

Inside the home, magnolia foliage, white flowers and white birds were used in hanging arrangements in doorways and in bouquets placed before tall mirrors. The back screened porch was banked with all-green arrangements. Two large wrought iron Mexican bird cages filled with greenery and white flowers hung at each side of the entrance to the rear garden.

When the couple left on their wedding trip, Mrs. Inabnett had changed to a gray and white checked suit, with which she wore a white hat, red shoes and bag.

Parties Honor Mrs. Sara Hollingsworth Prior To Her Departure For New Home

Mrs. Sara Hollingsworth, soon to leave Monroe for her new home in Mississippi, has been entertained with parties for the past several weeks. Mrs. Hollingsworth has made her home in Monroe for more than thirty years.

A teacher in the Ouachita Parish school system, she was head of the Mathematics department at Ouachita High for ten years prior to her retirement in 1964. She now plans to make her home with her sister, Mrs. R. H. Ray, in Cleveland, Miss.

This week Mrs. Hollingsworth was complimented by Mrs. Tom Adams, who entertained at supper; and by Mrs. A. L. Tatum, who invited six close friends for luncheon on Tuesday. On Thursday Mrs. A. D. Tisdale planned a luncheon honoring Mrs. Hollingsworth.

Friday's hostess was Miss Harriet Boyle. Saturday night Mrs. Hollingsworth planned to attend the twentieth reunion party of the 1946 graduating class of Ouachita High. Her son was a member of this class. This affair was held at the Paragon last night.

This afternoon a tea is being planned by Miss Juanita Porter, who is entertaining at her home for Mrs. Hollingsworth.

During her years as a teacher, she watched many of Monroe's leaders grow up. Mrs. Hollingsworth worked with the athletic department of the school in ticket sales and was active in a number of civic and social clubs. She was elected to the Louisiana Teachers' Retirement Board for nine years.

Mrs. Hollingsworth is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma society; of Kappa Kappa Iota sorority; of Ft. Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution; and is an active worker with the Women of the Church of Covenant Presbyterian church.

She has one son, David Welsh, who is employed by Univac division of Sperry Rand Corporation as data processing consultant with Electric Boat Co., Greton, Conn., a submarine manufacturer. Mrs. Hollingsworth's four granddaughters thus live in Connecticut.

Even though she is looking forward to living with members of her family for the first time in many years, Mrs. Hollingsworth still plans to return to Monroe several times a year for special activities of her clubs. Her many friends will be looking forward to her visits here.

Reception At Highland Park Follows Surline-Norris Vows

Miss Martha Jean Norris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan Norris of West Monroe, became the bride of Harry David Surline of Wilmington, Delaware, in a ceremony at St. Paschal's church Saturday, August 6. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Surline of Laramie, Wyoming.

Father Vitus Duschinsky and Dr. Clifton Tennison heard the exchange of vows at 6:30 p.m. A reception followed at the Highland Park country club.

The altar was decorated with two large fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli. Sandy Lawn at the organ provided nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Roy C. Brooks.

Mr. Norris escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. Her dress of white silk peau de soie was styled with lifted waistline and A-line skirt. The cathedral train, falling in inverted pleats from the waistline, was trimmed with appliques of Brussels lace. The dress was topped with a bolero of Brussels lace, designed with high scooped neckline and lantern sleeves. Her bouffant silk illusion veil was attached to a Brussels lace halfhat. She carried a cascade of white roses centered with a colonial nosegay of stephanotis and valley lilies.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Victor Hollis, of Shreveport, cousin of the bride, matron of honor; Mrs. Robert W. Yelverton of Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. David Caddy of Houston, Texas, bridesmaids. Their dresses of shell pink chiffon featured bodices overlaid with white Alencon lace. Rose velvet ribbons accented the empire waistlines. Their headdresses were flat rose velvet bows with short veils of rose tulle. They carried bouquets of pink tinted Fuji chrysanthemums and pompon chrysanthemums.

Brian L. Hollenbeck of Boston, Mass., was Mr. Surline's best man. Groomsmen - ushers were Robert A. Hill, Boston, Mass.; James A. Norris Jr., West Monroe; John G. Norris Jr., Farmerville; K. Andrew Achterkirkchen, Boston, Mass.; Thomas S. Conner, Jackson, Miss.; and M. Eugene Norris, Choudrant.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Norris, was wearing a dress of blue crepe with long narrow skirt and beaded and sequined overblouse. Mrs. Surline, the groom's mother, chose pale green crepe with bodice of matching lace. Each wore a corsage of white roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Highland Park country club, where Mrs. Ed Hislop welcomed guests at the door. Mrs. Damon Shankle and Mrs. Brian Hollenbeck registered guests in the bride's book.

The bride's table was centered with a silver epergne filled with pink roses and coral fern arranged with pink cathedral tapers and ivy. Chocolate-colored tapers and garlands of ivy graced the silver candelabra which decorated the groom's table.

Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. K. D. Hayes, Mrs. Jack Beasley, Mrs. A. L. Griffing, Mrs. Eddie Hislop, Mrs. J. E. Walker, Mrs. John G. Norris, Mrs. Clifton Mize, Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs James Wade, Mrs. Bailey Grant, Mrs. M. M. Norris, Mrs. W. W. Norris Jr., Mrs. Glenda Lambert, and Misses Faye Parker, Shirley Norris, Inez Norris, Sarah Lott, Betty Heard, Alice Haynes, Kathy Haynes, Carol Norris, Deborah Norris, Angela Norris.

Mr. and Mrs. Surline leave today for a trip to Wyoming by plane. The bride's travel ensemble is a three piece suit of beige Dupioni silk with blue Italian silk blouse matching lining and facing of the coat, worn with brown accessories.

Mrs. Surline is a graduate of West Monroe High school and of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where she was a member of Phi Mu. She received her master of science degree in foods and nutrition from Cornell University in 1966.

The groom attended the University of Wyoming; received his bachelor of science degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1964; and did graduate work in chemical engineering at Cornell University. His fraternity is Alpha Tau Omega.

The couple plan to make their home in Wilmington, Delaware.

Miss Rita Ruth Camp, Roger McLemore Are Married In West Monroe Church

Miss Rith Ruth Camp became the bride of Roger Randal McLemore in a ceremony performed in First Baptist Church of West Monroe Sunday, July 31. Dr. Clifton R. Tennison officiated at the double ring ceremony at 3 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. George S. Camp and Mr. and Mrs. Quentin McLemore, all of West Monroe, are parents of the bridal couple.

Tall white tapers on wrought iron candelabra used as a background for fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli on white Gothic columns formed the setting for the exchange of vows. Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, the candles were lighted by Miss Sue McLemore, sister of the groom, and Miss Melynda McNeil of Birmingham, Ala., cousin of the groom. They wore A-line dresses of canary yellow linen with yokes of white Dutch lace. Their wrist corsages were of Marguerite daisies.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk-faced peau de soie featured a fitted bodice, modified bell skirt, and detachable court train. Bell sleeves of reembroidered Alencon lace were accented by bows at the shoulders. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a cluster of peau de soie roses. She carried a cascade of yellow miniature calla lillies.

Attending the bride were Miss Marguerete Davis, maid of honor; Mrs. Desmond Jones of Lake Charles, matron of honor; Miss Jan McLemore, Miss Ann McLemore, sisters of the groom, and Miss Donna Reed, bridesmaids. They were identical formal gowns of canary yellow linen styled with bell skirts and elbow length sleeves. Bodices were overlaid with antique white Dutch lace and waists encircled with yellow velvet. Yellow velvet bows held their short scalloped veils of yellow illusion. They wore short white gloves and carried Marguerite daisies garlanded with ivy.

Sidney McLemore attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen - ushers were James McLemore, cousin of the groom; Mike Tucker of New Orleans; Randy Thommsee; George Camp II, brother of the bride; Fred Franton; and Louis Tyner.

Mrs. Camp, mother of the bride, was wearing a turquoise silk crepe costume suit with a pillbox hat of turquoise petals in lighter tones. The groom's mother, Mrs. McLemore, chose peacock blue silk with a chiffon cowl neckline. Her coif was of peacock blue chiffon and tulle. Each wore a corsage of white roses.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlours. Arrangements of white gladioli and Marguerite daisies were used in decorations. Mrs. Lee Roy Adair, sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book table, which held a memory candle circled with yellow tulle and ribbon.

Twin punch bowls were placed at eigher end of a table covered with Quaker lace over white satin. Golden Rapture roses, Marguerite daisies, and yellow tapers were used in a crystal and brass compote which served as centerpiece. Mrs. James Adair, Mrs. Oscar Harrell, Mrs. J. W. McLemore, Jr., of Winnsboro, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. J. L. Spiller of Baton Rouge alternated at the punch bowls.

The tiered bride's cake was served by Mrs. Charles McNeil of Mobile, Alabama; and Mrs. Albert McNeil of Birmingham, aunts of the groom; and Mrs. Delma Carter and Mrs. Dacky Tucker of Winnsboro. Tea girls were Miss Betty Heard, Miss Terry Campbell, Miss Janice Heath of Rayville, and Miss Andrinna Lynn Pipes of La Mesa, California. Miss Nancy McLemore, sister of the groom, and Miss Donna Jones of Lake Charles distributed ricebags.

ELIMINATE MESS OF COFFEE GROUNDS

Coffee grounds are messy. No matter how carefully you measure them into the pot, no matter how cautiously you dispose of them, a shower of grounds always manages to land on the kitchen counter, the floor, etc.

Now there's a new product that should eliminate the mess. It's a pouch made of filter paper which contains ground coffee pre-measured to brew two cups. The pouch is donut shaped so that it fits over the stem of a regular percolater basket. To brew more than two cups, as many as four pouches can be inserted into large coffee-pot baskets.

Vows Pledged Beneath Arch In Hall Summit Church

An arch of magnolia leaves caught with white satin bows and wedding bells formed the setting for the exchange of vows of Miss Peggy Diane Harper of Shreveport and Presley Richard Booker of West Monroe in Hall Summit Baptist Church, Saturday, August 6. The Rev. V. G. Kelly conducted the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Harper of Hall Summit. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Booker of West Monroe.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Otis E. Moore at the organ and George Anderson, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white taffeta was styled with scalloped neckline, fitted bodice, and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt, appliqued with lace and tiny pearls, flowed into a chapel train. A crown of pearls held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of pink roses centered with a white Cattleyea orchid.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Nancy Richie, wore a floor-length dress of pale blue brocade; bridesmaid Miss Gail Harper, sister of the bride, wore pale pink brocade. Their headdresses were whimsies of pink and blue net crowned with pink roses. Each carried a single long stemmed pink Victorian rose.

Patrick L. Booker of Lafayette served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Sammy Marabella of Shreveport, and Tommy Sprvill, of Hall Summit.

Mrs. Harper wore for her daughter's wedding a sheath of pink lace. Mrs. Booker, mother of the groom, chose aqua knit. Their corsages were of white cymbidium orchids.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Patrick L. Booker presided at the bride's book. The refreshment table, which was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with white organza, was centered with the bride's bouquet.

CRUMB CRUSTS

Crumb crusts are usually made in large pie plates, but they can also be made in individual pie plates. If the crust is to be baked, allow a little less time for the small pans than for the large ones.

MRS. RICHARD BOOKER

Mr. Booker is a graduate of West Monroe High School and of Louisiana Tech, where he received his master's degree this week. He is to be on the faculty of Livingston State College, Livingston, Alabama, where the couple will make their home.

Private Ceremony Unites Couple At St. Alban's Church

Mrs. John Albert Bel of Baton Rouge and Lake Charles and Dr. William Maurice Smith of Baton Rouge announce their marriage at St. Alban's Episcopal church, Monroe, Saturday, July 23. The Rev. Robert John Dodwell, Vicar, officiated at the double ring ceremony and was celebrant of the Nuptial mass.

Mrs. Smith was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Ingraham of Lake Charles, and Dr. Smith by James W. Beaver of Monroe. Mr. Ingraham was acolyte for the ceremonies. Mrs. Beaver was the only person, beside the wedding party, present for the private marriage rites and the reception which followed in the parish hall.

Dr. Smith is professor of education in the Graduate School of Louisiana State university, Baton Rouge; and is a former Dean of Northeast State College, Monroe.

FRANKFURTERS

You can drop frankfurters into boiling water, cover and let stand in a warm place for 10 minutes, then drain and serve. Because franks are already cooked, they need only to be heated.

ATTENTION SUNBATHERS

A sunscreen lotion that really works will soon be for sale, says Chemical Week. Unlike the present conglomeration of sprays and creams, it won't wash or rub off and it isn't greasy.

Sunbathers treated with the lotion withstood an hour of strong summer sunlight without noticedable redding as their skin tanned. The lotion, which alters the natural filter in the skin, must be applied at least 12 hours before exposure to the sun. And, its built-in resistance to ultra violet rays lasted for almost a week in some cases. That's protection!

MR. AND MRS. JOHN I. EMORY

Emory-Head Vows Pledged At Home Ceremony

Miss Estha Janell Head, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dewitt Head of Columbia, became the bride of John L. Emory, in a double ring ceremony Saturday, July 23. The Rev. William D. Evans, brother-in-law of the groom, performed the ceremony.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Clarence K. Emory of West Monroe, in whose home the wedding was held, and of the late C. K. Emory of Calhoun.

Vows were exchanged before a wedding arch of greenery and white chrysanthemums. At either side of the arch were branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers and floor baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums in fan-shaped arrangements. The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a dress of white silk peau de soie with bodice of reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell elbow-length from a double princess crown of seed pearls on Alencon lace. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom. She carried white butterfly roses.

Mrs. Elo Washer was her cousin's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a floor-length dress of mint green peau de soie with matching headpiece and carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums.

For the occasion, the bride's mother, Mrs. Head, chose a pale blue silk linen dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Emory, mother of the groom, was in pink silk linen. Each wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

A reception for relatives and close friends followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with white embroidered linen, was centered with the tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candlesticks with lighted tapers. Mrs. Bruce Brooks, sister of the groom, served the cake. Mrs. Richard D. Evans, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Benny Farrar of Farmerville, niece of the groom presided at the punch bowl.

For a wedding trip to the West Coast, the bride changed to a blue knit costume suit with matching accessories. The couple will be at home in San Francisco, Calif., where the groom is stationed with the Naval Air Corps.

QUICK, FOR CLOTHES CARE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Colors of clothing can be altered from foodstuffs, cosmetics and perspiration that have been permitted to stay in garments.

These color changes often show in acetate fabrics where blue or green turn white, or dark blue or black turn red, reports the National Institute of Drycleaning. These color changes can be corrected, if the professional drycleaner gets them soon after the soil. Otherwise, the color change may be permanent.

Your Problems

Teenagers Seeking Jobs Given Interview Advice

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am employed as a personnel director of a large company. Every day I interview dozens of young men and women who are looking for jobs. Some days I could cry.

Scads of teen-agers come in without high school diplomas. They want to work but they are not qualified to do anything. They must start at the bottom of the ladder. And they are doomed to stay there.

I hear the same story all day long. "I hate school. I want to get a job so my boy friend and I can get married. I want to move out of the house and be on my own."

Please let them see the following advice. Maybe they'll take it from you. Ann Landers:

(1) Finish high school before you go job hunting.

(2) Dress appropriately when you apply for a job.

(3) Don't crack gum or blow smoke in the interviewer's face.

(4) Come in by yourself. Don't bring a girl friend, a boy friend, or a relative.

(5) Act as if you really want to work.

(6) Don't inquire about a pension plan when you come in for an interview.

(7) Answer every question on the application. If you don't know the answer, put a dash beside the question so the personnel director will know you haven't overlooked it.

This letter in print could do an awful lot of good. — DEEPLY CONCERNED

Dear Deeply: I checked your suggestions with one of the top personnel directors in Chicago and he could add nothing to your list. Thank you for your fine counsel.

Dear Ann Landers: You recently printed a letter from a woman who signed her letter "Love Thy What?" I think I have her beat.

Whenever our neighbor sees company drive up to our house, she decides to sweep out her street gutter or clip her rose bushes. At first she is content to just eavesdrop (we entertain often in the yard) but after a few minutes she horns in and joins the conversation as if she were an invited guest.

In one of her more benevolent moments she telephoned to say the lampshade in the front window was crooked and she was sure I'd want to straighten it.

Although we resent the old buzzard we feel secure whenever we leave the house. She watches our place as closely as the F. B. I., the C. I. A. and Big Brother combined.

I won't sign my name to this letter because Mrs. See-All probably has her telescope trained on me at this very moment — BELLWOOD BELLE

Dear Belle: There can't be many women in Bellwood who have called up a neighbor lately to clue her in on a crooked lampshade. So now the old buzzard knows how you feel. You just may be free of her permanently.

Confidential to Columbus Took a chance: True, but he had Queen Isabella behind him. You have neither the training, the experience, or the backing to make such a hazardous move. My advice is to wait until you are 21 and then see if it still looks good to you.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MISS JANICE L. ELLIOTT

Janice Elliott Is Engaged To Ronald D. Hearne

Mr. and Mrs. John Todd Elliott Jr., 109 Pershing Place, Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of the daughter, Janice Lynn, to Ronald Drew Hearne. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drew Hearne, 100 Maridale Drive, West Monroe.

The wedding is planned for August 26 in Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ with the Rev. E. C. McKenzie officiating.

Miss Elliott was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and attended Notrtheast Louisiana State College. Mr. Hearne, a graduate of West Monroe High School, will be a senior in the School of Pharmacy at Northeast this fall.

Winnfield Church Setting For Taylor-Huffman Nuptials

First Methodist church of Winnfield was setting Sunday afternoon, July 31, for the wedding of Miss Linda Lois Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Huffman of Winnfield, and Tommy Edward Taylor, also of Winnfield. The groom is the son of Mrs. B. F. Broomfield of Dodson and C. C. Taylor of Winnfield.

The Rev. Richard E. Walton officiated at the double ring ceremony. A twelve-branch candle tree at the back of the altar and massive fan-shaped arrangements of gladioli on the steps provided a background for the wedding party. Music was provided by Mrs. Ruth Dufresne, organist, and Mrs. Reed Carson, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of candlelight imported Swisslin styled with semi-empire waist and slim skirt sweeping into a chapel train. Appliques of baroque Venise lace trimmed the portrait neckline and hem. A crown of seed pearls and leaves held her veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid encircled with white roses.

Attending the bride were Mrs. James Pullig of Natchitoches, matron of honor; Miss Janice Burton, Miss Beverly Badgley and Mrs. Richard Crain, brides maids; Miss Francis Pett, Miss LaDonna Stewart, Miss Mary Ann Petty, junior bridesmaids. Their dresses were of mint green peau de soie with matching headdresses veiled in illusion. They carried long stem white frenched carnations surrounded with white tulle.

Mr. Taylor was attended by Dr. Roy V. Martin as best man. Groomsmen were Elmo Frasier, Jr., of Shreveport, Larry Mayes and Sidney O'Bryan.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN I. EMORY

Emory-Head Vows Pledged At Home Ceremony

Miss Estha Janell Head, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dewitt Head of Columbia, became the bride of John L. Emory, in a double ring ceremony Saturday, July 23. The Rev. William D. Evans, brother-in-law of the groom, performed the ceremony.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Clarence K. Emory of West Monroe, in whose home the wedding was held, and of the late C. K. Emory of Calhoun.

Vows were exchanged before a wedding arch of greenery and white chrysanthemums. At either side of the arch were branched candelabra holding white cathedral tapers and floor baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums in fan-shaped arrangements. The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a dress of white silk peau de soie with bodice of reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell elbow - length from a double princess crown of seed pearls on Alencon lace. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom. She carried white butterfly roses.

Mrs. Elo Washer was her cousin's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a floor-length dress of mint green peau de soie with matching headpiece and carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums.

For the occasion, the bride's mother, Mrs. Head, chose a pale blue silk linen dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Emory, mother of the groom, was in pink silk linen. Each wore a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

A reception for relatives and close friends followed the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with white embroidered linen, was centered with the tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candlesticks with lighted tapers. Mrs. Bruce Brooks, sister of the groom, served the cake. Mrs. Richard D. Evans, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Benny Farrar of Farmerville, niece of the groom presided at the punch bowl.

For a wedding trip to the West Coast, the bride changed to a blue knit costume suit with matching accessories. The couple will be at home in San Francisco, Calif., where the groom is stationed with the Naval Air Corps.

QUICK, FOR CLOTHES CARE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Colors of clothing can be altered from foodstuffs, cosmetics and perspiration that have been permitted to stay in garments.

These color changes often show in acetate fabrics where blue or green turn white, or dark blue or black turn red, reports the National Institute of Drycleaning. These color changes can be corrected, if the professional drycleaner gets them soon after the soil. Other wise, the color change may be permanent.

Your Problems

Teenagers Seeking Jobs Given Interview Advice

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am employed as a personnel director of a large company. Every day I interview dozens of young men and women who are looking for jobs. Some days I could cry.

Scads of teen-agers come in without high school diplomas. They want to work but they are not qualified to do anything. They must start at the bottom of the ladder. And they are doomed to stay there.

I hear the same story all day long. "I hate school. I want to get a job so my boy friend and I can get married. I want to move out of the house and be on my own."

Please let them see the following advice. Maybe they'll take it from you, Ann Landers.

(1) Finish high school before you go job-hunting.

(2) Dress appropriately when you apply for a job.

(3) Don't crack gum or blow smoke in the interviewer's face.

(4) Come in by yourself. Don't bring a girl friend, a boy friend, or a relative.

(5) Act as if you really want to work.

(6) Don't inquire about a pension plan when you come in for an interview.

(7) Answer every question on the application. If you don't know the answer, put a dash beside the question so the personnel director will know you haven't overlooked it.

This letter in print could do an awful lot of good. — DEEPLY CONCERNED

Dear Deeply: I checked your suggestions with one of the top-personnel directors in Chicago and he could add nothing to your list. Thank you for your fine counsel.

Dear Ann Landers: You recently printed a letter from a woman who signed her letter "Love Thy What?" I think I have her beat.

Whenever our neighbor sees company drive up to our house, she decides to sweep out her street gutter or clip her rose bushes. At first she is content to just eavesdrop (we entertain often in the yard) but after a few minutes she horns in and joins the conversation as if she were an invited guest.

In one of her more benevolent moments she telephoned to say the lampshade in the front window was crooked and she was sure I'd want to straighten it.

Although we resent the old buzzard we feel secure whenever we leave the house. She watches our place as closely as the F. B. I., the C. I. A. and Big Brother combined.

I won't sign my name to this letter because Mrs. See-All probably has her telescope trained on me at this very moment — BELLWOOD BELLE

Dear Belle: There can't be many women in Bellwood who have called up a neighbor lately to clue her in on a crooked lampshade. So now the old buzzard knows how you feel. You just may be free of her permanently.

Confidential to Columbus Took a chance: True, but he had Queen Isabella behind him. You have neither the training, the experience, or the backing to make such a hazardous move. My advice is to wait until you are 21 and then see if it still looks good to you.

Awkward and self - conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MISS JANICE L. ELLIOTT

Janice Elliott Is Engaged To Ronald D. Hearne

Mr. and Mrs. John Todd Elliott Jr., 109 Pershing Place, Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of the daughter, Janice Lynn, to Ronald Drew Hearne. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drew Hearne, 100 Maridale Drive, West Monroe.

The wedding is planned for August 26 in Forsythe Avenue Church of Christ with the Rev. E. C. McKenzie officiating.

Miss Elliott was graduated from Ouachita Parish High school and attended Notrtheast Louisiana State College. Mr. Hearne, a graduate of West Monroe High School, will be a senior in the School of Pharmacy at Northeast this fall.

SIFTED MEASURE

One-half pound of cake flour is the equivalent of 2¼ cups of the sifted cake flour.

Winnfield Church Setting For Taylor-Huffman Nuptials

First Methodist church of Winnfield was setting Sunday afternoon, July 31, for the wedding of Miss Linda Lois Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Huffman of Winnfield, and Tommy Edward Taylor, also of Winnfield. The groom is the son of Mrs. B. F. Broomfield of Dodson and C. C. Taylor of Winnfield.

The Rev. Richard E. Walton officiated at the double ring ceremony. A twelve-branch candle tree at the back of the altar and massive fan-shaped arrangements of gladioli on the steps provided a background for the wedding party. Music was provided by Mrs. Ruth Dufresne, organist, and Mrs. Reed Carson, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of candlelight imported Swisslin styled with semi-empire waist and slim skirt sweeping into a chapel train. Appliques of baroque Venise lace trimmed the portrait neckline and hem. A crown of seed pearls and leaves held her veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid encircled with white roses.

Attending the bride were Mrs. James Pullig of Natchitoches, matron of honor; Miss Janice Burton, Miss Beverly Badgley and Mrs. Richard Crain, bridesmaids; Miss Francis Pett, Miss LaDonna Stewart, Miss Mary Ann Petty, junior bridesmaids. Their dresses were of mint green peau de soie with matching headdresses veiled in illusion. They carried long stem white frenched carnations surrounded with white tulle.

Mr. Taylor was attended by Dr. Roy V. Martin as best man. Groomsmen were Elmo Frasier, Jr., of Shreveport, Larry Mayes and Sidney O'Bryan.

College Students Are Married In West Monroe Church

A ceremony in First Church of the Nazarene, West Monroe, united in marriage Miss Lenora Gayle Godwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Godwin of West Monroe, and Robert Jerrell Burdine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burdine of Shreveport. The Rev. Everett Johnson conducted the service at 7 p.m. Saturday, August 6.

White tapers in wrought iron branched candelabra entwined with greenery formed the background for the exchanged of vows. A large basket of white gladioli in the center was flanked with smaller baskets.

Music was provided by Allen Kelly of Shreveport at the organ, and Miss Janis Dawson of Bethany, Oklahoma, soloist. The groom sang a solo to the bride as she came down the aisle.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional gown of white lace with fitted bodice, long sleeves, and bouffant skirt. Her elbow-length triple-tiered veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and teardrops. She carried a cascade of white pompons and tuberoses centered with a lavender-throated white orchid.

Miss Mary Beth Johnson of Morrilton, Ark., served as maid of honor; Miss Theresa Neely of Wichita Falls, Texas, and Miss Sue Crawley of Monroe, bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of orchid peau de soie with matching lace jackets. Their hats were matching pillboxes and they carried lavender orchids surrounded with lavender pompons.

Flower girl was Miss Cynthia Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Matthews of Shreveport. She wore a similar lavender dress and carried a white basket of lavender pompons.

David Boyd of Lufkin, Texas, was best man. Mr. Burdine's other attendants were Curtis Willie and David Foster of Orange, Texas, Roger Crawley of Monroe, and Noel Johnson of West Monroe. Robin Roark of West Monroe was Bible boy.

Mrs. Godwin was wearing a dress of mauve lace with white accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Burdine, chose beige lace with matching accessories. Their corsages were lavender orchids.

A reception was held in the church parsonage following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a floor length lavender cloth of net over taffeta, caught with nosegays of lavender flowers and greenery. A crystal epergne filled with lavender gladioli and candles formed the centerpiece.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to Dallas, Texas, the bride was wearing a three piece pink knit suit with hot pink accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

Mrs. Burdine is a graduate of West Monroe High School; the groom of Lutcher Stark High School in Orange, Texas. Both are seniors at Bethany Nazarene College in Bethany, Oklahoma, where the couple will be at home.

Her Hobby Is Thimbles

SPRINGHILL, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Leslie Fisher could sew with a different thimble every day and go almost half a year without using the same one twice.

But most of her 150 thimbles are too valuable to be used in everyday sewing.

I had no idea there were so many designs of thimbles," says Mrs. Fisher, a former professional seamstress.

Mrs. Fisher tries not to pay more than $10 per thimbles, but succumbed once to pay $30 for a solid gold one edged with opals.

"The gold ones are going completely out of sight," she says. "I paid $8 for the first one and now they're up to $18. I quit buying them."

"Oh, he got the bug with me," she explains.

...On Dit...

by Marillyn Taylor

August is upon us, with some of the most forbidding weather of the year. Only respites from the heat are gay parties for visitors and life on the water. A former resident of this area, MONICA BROYLES of Leesville, was back this week, visiting her mother, MRS. N. P. LILES in Bastrop; and her brother, CHE CHE and BURCHALL LILES in Monroe.

On Tuesady afternoon, MAY SHAW complimented Monica at a party at her home on Loop road. About fifteen friends from school days were invited for a visit with the honoree. May centered her table with a silver bowl filled with watermelon pink crape myrtle and pink and green calladium leaves. With a choice of coffee or sherry, she served assorted tiny sandwiches, cheese straws, and cinnamon crisps.

Last weekend was full for BETTY and WALTER HASTINGS, who entertained several couples with a houseparty at their home on Deborah drive. The group included WIN and B O B JORDEN of New Orleans; KATHERINE and HUNTER HUDDLE, V E R N A MAE and CHARLIE McELROY of Lake Charles.

The guests arrived Friday in time for an afternoon of golf for the gentlemen. Saturday at noon, EVELYN COLE invited the ladies for luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club . . . That night, Betty and Walter complimented their guests with a boat ride on the river aboard the "Miss Chris" . . . Sunday YVONNE and KENT ANDERSON were hosts at brunch. A boat ride on the bayou was included in the day's activities. The guests left for home late Sunday.

Another guest here last weekend was SUE ANN FRANKS of Magnolia, Arkansas, who visited SUZANNE ROWE at her family home on Whitney drive.

Friday afternoon Suzanne invited about fifty girls who are entering their senior year at Neville to meet her guests. The party was an informal conversational hour. Saturday ANN MURPHY was hostess f o r luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club. Sue Ann returned home on Monday.

Guests of CHERYL a n d JOHN LOLLEY this weekend are JOAN and SANDY de HAAN of Detroit, Michigan. With their children, SANDY, SYBIL and JULIE, they arrived Thursday for about a week. Plans included a stay at Lake D'Arbonne this weekend.

Our people who have been traveling are returning home. FRANCES McHENRY returned Wednesday from a three-week trip to Europe. She flew over to join LILY HARRINGTON in England, where they rented a car for a tour of the country side for about a week. Other stops included visits to Paris, Florence, and Rome. Frances flew home in time to catch a final performance of "The Music Man" at Strauss Playhouse. Lily remained for a tour of the Rhine country, will return later by ship.

Due home today is CYNTHIA TERZIA, who has been visiting her cousins, DOUGLAS and STUART MILES in New Orleans for about two weeks.

This week we visited an interesting and fast - growing "community" — a group of houses on Lake D'Arbonne. These places are much too nicely finished and elegantly appointed to be known as "camps": used too often and for too long a season to be called "summer houses" . . . So we'll settle on "leisure residences" as a generic term.

Our tour by water took us over acres and acres of clear lake and by the edges of the wooded area which extends for miles behind the dam. We had a "water view" of a number of houses belonging to Twin City residents and others from Ruston, Farmerville, Bastrop. At this season of year those who love boating, skiing, swimming, are spending a great deal of time at D'Arbonne. Fishermen prefer the quiet spots back in the wooded area. A little later, duck hunters will begin preparing their blinds for hunting season.

Six houses which we toured "by land" are located on a convex curve of the lake. They are so situated that each commands a lake view but none looks directly into his neighbor's yard. They are the leisure residences of the CLAUDE HARRIS O N S, FOSTER WALLACES, ANN and JOE LEDOUX, ANN and R A Y RHYMES JR., LORETTA and JACK RIVERS, and the RALPH WICKERS.

In the Wallace house, the living room is a spacious, lofty area rising two full stories to the vaulted ceiling. Focal point here is the beautiful brass Williamsburg chandelier which centers the open area. End wall of the room is made of large glass panels which extend to the roofline and command a breathtaking water view. Other walls are paneled, and furniture done in blues and golds, most effective with the wood tones.

At the rear of the room, stairs go up to an overhanging balcony and the master suite. Stairs and upright right posts supporting the roof are made of massive beams salvaged from an old gin. There is a seating area on the balcony, and beyond, the master bedroom done in shades of pink and red. . . On the central level, behind the stairs, are the kitchen, two bedrooms, and bath.

Down yet another flight of stairs is a third level, this devoted to a less formal family living room which opens onto a covered terrace. Furniture is done in black and white checks, accented with bright red. There is an old player piano, antiqued gold. In the back wall are doors to a guest room, furnished in white wicker Victorian furniture; and a king-size store room housing freezer, washing machine, and vast amounts of food storage.

Next door is the Ledoux house, first place to be completed in this little section of the lake. This is a more rustic place, more child-oriented. It is a one-story structure on the road side, with a second level added as the hillside slopes away to the water.

One enters the very large paneled room which is central living area and has dining and cooking areas at one end. A massive fireplace of old brick centers the room. Extending the length of the room on the water side is a glassed in porch, and on the level beneath the porch, the mahogany paneled dormitory room for KATHY, KAREN and JOE. On the main floor, bedrooms open from the porch and from the central room.

Designed on the A-line so popular for this type of house, the home of Loretta and Jack Rivers is made of cedar shingles and drop siding painted to match their silvery - gray color. Projecting single story wings flank the central structure.

One enters the center section, directly into the slate -floored room which is used for dining area and also houses the brass-hooded fireplace. An old copper sugar cauldron is used for firewood, and the table is an old telephone cable spool antiqued green and covered with black nagahyde. In on corner are the circular stairs: wooden treads on a wrought iron center pole. Seating area is to the left of the entrance up on step to a long room with oak floor, a glass wall overlooking the water. Drapries are sheer natural linen striped in orange and green, hung on brass rods. Furnsihings are covred with a green and yellow print or with green nagahyde.

To the right is a narrow hall with children's rooms on the water side and Loretta's "cooking closet" opposite. DAWN and RAY have identical rooms with built in bunks. A folding wall between can be thrown open for play or closed for sleep . . . At the end of the hall is the den with its own outside entrance. Here sofas covered with black and white check can be opened into two double beds for guests. Checked curtains hang on red rods, and red accents are also noted in lamps, cushions, and pictures.

Upstairs are the guest room, now being used by younger daughter ROBIN and master bedroom. T h e terial is used to cover the old chest, lamp, and table. Draperies and bedspread are of a sheer stripe in the same colors.

Just being completed are the Wicker and Rhymes houses. Donna and Ralph were moving into their place last weekend: Ann and Ray planned to make their move this weekend.

Home again after nearly a month in Mexico are LILY WOOD, ELIZABETH ANN ATKINSON, and her daughter MARY ANN ATKINSON, who returned last weekend. During their trip, they spent a week in Mexico City and five days in Acapulco; made stops in Cuernevaca, Texaco, and other cities of interest . . . Due home this weekend is another daughter, LINDA ATKINSON, who has been attending the University of Hawaii this summer.

Our trip to D'Arbonne put us in mind of the words of an old song, here quoted as "poem of the week":

With someone like you,
A pal good and true,
I'd like to leave it all behind
And go and find
A place that's known to God alone
Just a spot to call our own.
We'll find perfect peace
Where joys never cease,
Out there beneath the friendly skies.
We'll build a sweet little nest
And let the rest of the world go by.

C. W. Rousseau Jr. Claims Bride In Bastrop Ceremony

Chester William Rousseau Jr., of Monroe claimed as his bride Miss Lynda Faye Carpenter of Bastrop. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Abe Connerly in Memorial Methodist Church in Bastrop August 6 at 3 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Thomas Carpenter of Bastrop and the late Mr. Carpenter. Mr. Rousseau is the son of Mrs. Chester William Rousseau, Sr., of Joplin, Missouri, and the late Mr. Rousseau. They were former residents of West Monroe.

Large fan shaped arrangements of white g l a d i o l i and emerald foliage decorated the church altar, which was flanked with wrought iron candelabra holding tall white tapers. A prenuptial concert was provided by Loyd Baird at the organ and Miss Andre Robinson, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, R o b b i n Carpenter. She was wearing a floor length gown of white silk organza over taffeta appliqued with medallions of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. A detachable chapel train was held by a bow at the back neckline. The fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by clusters of petals encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white stock florets centered with a white Cattleya orchid.

Attending the bride were Miss Virginia Heard of Upper Nyack, New York, maid of honor; Miss Delores Ann Tucker of Crowville, and Mrs. Jerry Richard Lynn, cousin of the bride, bridesmaids. Their dresses were of yellow crepe with Empire bodices of reembroidered yellow lace. A flat lace bow at the back necklines held detachable Watteau trains. Their headdresses were flat bows with veils of yellow silk illusion. Each carried a long stemmed Golden Wave rose.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Carpenter was attired in aqua crepe accented with reembroidered lace. Mrs. Rousseau chose champagne colored silk with matching accessories. Their corsages were of white cymbidium orchids.

CHURCH RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Richard Rousseau presided at the bride's book which rested on a table covered with a floor length white taffeta cloth overlaid with net, and decorated with a memory candle and a single yellow rose.

The bride's table was covered with white taffeta and overlaid with white net. Centerpiece was a massive arrangement of yellow Fuji chrysanthemums in a silver footed container. Mrs. W. O. Day served the wedding cake and Mrs. Lum Day presided at the crystal punch service.

Tea girls were Miss Diane Day of Bastrop, Miss Glenda Carpenter of Bastrop, and Mrs. Terry Martin of Monroe. Mrs. Frank Day also assisted with courtesies. Miss Barbara Day distributed rice bags.

Following the reception, the young couple left on a wedding trip to Florida. The bride chose for travel a navy linen suit with white lace shell. Her hat was of navy straw and other accessories, white. She wore the white orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return they will be at home in Monroe.

Mrs. Rousseau is a graduate of Bastrop High School and of Northeast Louisiana State College. She is a member of the faculty of A. L. Smith elementary school. Mrs. Rousseau, a graduate of Neville, is presently attending Northeast. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

Children Find Moving Fun When Parents Pave The Way

Americans are constantly on the move. Every year about 39 million persons, more than one-fifth of the country's entire population, pull up stakes and relocate in other homes.

At least 14 million people take up residence in a different county from where they have lived and of this number at least half go to another state.

Although grownups may take such moves in their stride and might even be stimulated by the idea of going to a new place to live, their enthusiasm does not always extend to the children in the family. Youngsters are often disturbed by the change.

Their old home has meant security. They have been surrounded by things with which they were familiar and by neighbors and friends they have known all their tender lives. Children of school age suddenly realize that their teachers and classrooms will be different.

FEAR OF UNKNOWN

What lies ahead they can only guess and regard with trepidation. Their lack of enthusiasm for making the move is sometimes buoyed up by the excitement of the occasion. Moreover, the grownups are prepared for what lies ahead. They have familiarized themselves with the new home and community, forgetting to give their children the same opportunity.

Parents can easily inject a spirit of fun and adventure in the move, making it an affair for the entire family and not just a matter of adult concern. They can take the children into their confidence, making them feel they are being consulted about the new home.

If the new house is not too far distant, take the kiddies to see it prior to moving. Probably the new home has features that the present one lacks. This might be a rumpus room with a solid vinyl brick tile floor. Because it is "tough" and easily cleaned, the children will no longer have to be warned about using toys in this room.

NEW PASTIME POSSIBILITIES

Perhaps the new home is located in a neighborhood where traffic safety will not permit them to have bicycles. Maybe the backyard is big enough for badminton and croquet. Kids love new things even while they cling to the old.

...On Dit...

by Marillyn Taylor

August is upon us, with some of the most forbidding weather of the year. Only respites from the heat are gay parties for visitors and life on the water. A former resident of this area, MONICA BROYLES of Leesville, was back this week, visiting her mother, MRS. N. P. LILES in Bastrop; and her brother, CHE CHE and BURCHALL LILES in Monroe.

On Tuesady afternoon, MAY SHAW complimented Monica at a party at her home on Loop road. About fifteen friends from school days were invited for a visit with the honoree. May centered her table with a silver bowl filled with watermelon pink crape myrtle and pink and green calladium leaves. With a choice of coffee or sherry, she served assorted tiny sandwiches, cheese straws, and cinnamon crisps.

Last weekend was full for BETTY and WALTER HASTINGS, who entertained several couples with a houseparty at their home on Deborah drive. The group included WIN and B O B JORDEN of New Orleans; KATHERINE and HUNTER HUDDLE, VERNA MAE and CHARLIE McELROY of Lake Charles.

The guests arrived Friday in time for an afternoon of golf for the gentlemen. Saturday at noon, EVELYN COLE invited the ladies for luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club . . . That night, Betty and Walter complimented their guests with a boat ride on the river aboard the "Miss Chris" . . . Sunday YVONNE and KENT ANDERSON were hosts at brunch. A boat ride on the bayou was included in the day's activities. The guests left for home late Sunday.

Another guest here last weekend was SUE ANN FRANKS of Magnolia, Arkansas, who visited SUZANNE ROWE at her family home on Whitney drive.

Friday afternoon Suzanne invited about fifty girls who are entering their senior year at Neville to meet her guests. The party was an informal conversational hour. Saturday ANN MURPHY was hostess for luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club. Sue Ann returned home on Monday.

Guests of CHERYL and JOHN LOLLEY this weekend are JOAN and SANDY de HAAN of Detroit, Michigan. With their children, SANDY, SYBIL and JULIE, they arrived Thursday for about a week. Plans included a stay at Lake D'Arbonne this weekend.

Our people who have been traveling are returning home. FRANCES McHENRY returned Wednesday from a three-week trip to Europe. She flew over to join LILY HARRINGTON in England, where they rented a car for a tour of the country side for about a week. Other stops included visits to Paris, Florence, and Rome. Frances flew home in time to catch a final performance of "The Music Man" at Strauss Playhouse. Lily remained for a tour of the Rhine country, will return later by ship.

Due home today is CYNTHIA TERZIA, who has been visiting her cousins, DOUGLAS and STUART MILES in New Orleans for about two weeks.

This week we visited an interesting and fast - growing "community" — a group of houses on Lake D'Arbonne. These places are much too nicely finished and elegantly appointed to be known as "camps"; used too often and for too long a season to be called "summer houses" . . . So we'll settle on "leisure residences" as a generic term.

Our tour by water took us over acres and acres of clear lake and by the edges of the wooded area which extends for miles behind the dam. We had a "water view" of a number of houses belonging to Twin City residents and others from Ruston, Farmerville, Bastrop. At this season of year those who love boating, skiing, swimming, are spending a great deal of time at D'Arbonne. Fishermen prefer the quiet spots back in the wooded area. A little later, duck hunters will begin preparing their blinds for hunting season.

Six houses which we toured "by land" are located on a convex curve of the lake. They are so situated that each commands a lake view but none looks directly into his neighbor's yard. They are the leisure residences of the CLAUDE HARRIS ONS, FOSTER WALLACES, ANN and JOE LEDOUX, ANN and R A Y RHYMES JR., LORETTA and JACK RIVERS, and the RALPH WICKERS.

In the Wallace house, the living room is a spacious, lofty area rising two full stories to the vaulted ceiling. Focal point here is the beautiful brass Williamsburg chandelier which centers the open area. End wall of the room is made of large glass panels which extend to the roofline and command a breathtaking water view. Other walls are paneled, and furniture done in blues and golds, most effective with the wood tones.

At the rear of the room, stairs go up to an overhanging balcony and the master suite. Stairs and upright right posts supporting the roof are made of massive beams salvaged from an old gin. There is a seating area on the balcony, and beyond, the master bedroom done in shades of pink and red. . . On the central level, behind the stairs, are the kitchen, two bedrooms, and bath.

Down yet another flight of stairs is a third level, this devoted to a less formal family living room which opens onto a covered terrace. Furniture is done in black and white checks, accented with bright red. There is an old player piano, antiqued gold. In the back wall are doors to a guest room, furnished in white wicker Victorian furniture; and a king-size store room housing freezer, washing machine, and vast amounts of food storage.

Next door is the Ledoux house, first place to be completed in this little section of the lake. This is a more rustic place, more child-oriented. It is a one-story structure on the road side, with a second level added as the hillside slopes away to the water.

One enters the very large paneled room which is central living area and has dining and cooking areas at one end. A massive fireplace of old brick centers the room. Extending the length of the room on the water side is a glassed in porch, and on the level beneath the porch, the mahogany paneled dormitory room for KATHY, KAREN and JOE. On the main floor, bedrooms open from the porch and from the central room.

Designed on the A-line so popular for this type of house, the home of Loretta and Jack Rivers is made of cedar shingles and drop siding painted to match their silvery - gray color. Projecting single story wings flank the central structure.

One enters the center section, directly into the slate -floored room which is used for dining area and also houses the brass-hooded fireplace. An old copper sugar cauldron is used for firewood, and the table is an old telephone cable spool antiqued green and covered with black nagahyde. In on corner are the circular stairs: wooden treads on a wrought iron center pole. Seating area is to the left of the entrance up on step to a long room with oak floor, a glass wall overlooking the water. Drapries are sheer natural linen striped in orange and green, hung on brass rods. Furnsihings are covred with a green and yellow print or with green nagahyde.

To the right is a narrow hall with children's rooms on the water side and Loretta's "cooking closet" opposite. DAWN and RAY have identical rooms with built in bunks. A folding wall between can be thrown open for play or closed for sleep . . . At the end of the hall is the den with its own outside entrance. Here sofas covered with black and white check can be opened into two double beds for guests. Checked curtains hang on red rods, and red accents are also noted in lamps, cushions, and pictures.

Upstairs are the guest room, now being used by younger daughter ROBIN and master bedroom. The terial is used to cover the old chest, lamp, and table. Draperies and bedspread are of a sheer stripe in the same colors.

MR. AND MRS. JIMMY BUTLER

Miss Campbell, Mr. Butler Wed In Home Ceremony

The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Campbell, in West Monroe, was scene of the wedding of Miss Cloydette Campbell and Jimmy Butler Thursday, July 28. The groom is the son of Mrs. Verta Mae Butler and James H. Butler, also of West Monroe.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and greenery formed an improvised altar for the exchange of vows. The Rev. James E. White, pastor of Trinity Baptist church conducted the ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white lace over taffeta trimmed with white satin. Her headdress was a shoulder length tulle veil held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. R. L. Sasser of Jackson, Mississippi attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a mint green with matching accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Carroll Kirkpatrick was Mr. Butler's best man.

Mrs. Campbell was wearing a dress of blue lace, and Mrs. Butler, pink lace. Each wore a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the social room of Trinity Baptist church at 8:30 p.m. Miss Donna Watson, cousin of the bride, of Charleston, South Carolina, presided at the bride's book.

The refreshment table was covered with green linen overlaid with white net, and centered with white chrysanthemums. Punch was served by Miss Syble Butler, sister of the groom, and Linda Owen. Mrs. A. J. Watson, aunt of the bride, of Charleston, South Carolina cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Doil Hobbs also assisted.

Space Age Makes Vast Demands On Educators

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — The world is in the midst of a "knowledge explosion" that has brought vast changes in education and will continue to demand new dimensions in learning.

A report by three senior professors at the Indiana University took a long look at a changing university in a changing era — and specifically their own school.

The three, York Willbern, William Breneman and George Wilson, cited the "knowledge explosion" that started sending out its shock waves in the early 1940's.

Before that, the moon was nice to look at but no one was counting on going there. Television was something to read about in science fiction, along with airplanes faster than the speed of sound and bombs powerful enough to wipe out cities. The word automation wasn't a part of the everyday vocabulary and computers were only adding machines.

But since the 1940's, the three professors write, "there is no subject matter in the curriculum . . . that has not felt the impact of a new developments."

Because change generates change, they added, there is no prospect of a breathing spell, a catching up point, in sight.

"The preservation, production, dissemination and application of knowledge, for better or worse, has become a major enterprise in the United States," professors write, "there is no

No longer can a university be an ivory tower remote from the date-to-day problems of the outside world. At Indiana alone, they noted, there were more than 100 international programs, activities and committees in operation or in advanced planning stages in 1963-64, the date of the latest comprehensive survey. Since then, the university's involvement has accelerated.

About 250,000 to 300,000 homes are lost in the United States each year because of old age, fire, wind or condemnation.

The jellyfish is 95 per cent water and so transparent that you can see the food inside its stomach.

Home Treatment Benefits Dry Hair

There are things you can do for dry hair at home. There are good conditioning products on the market, or you can use castor oil combined with heat. Rub into the scalp, then cover with hot towels or a heating cap. The problem with castor oil is that it's hard to get out, but you can do it with very hot water and a good shampoo.

Brush and massage regularly. Use a shampoo made for dry hair. Conditioners are wonderful but can also soften the hair and you really need a good setting lotion.

One trick to to dry the hair after a conditioning treatment and then use the set lotion on the dried hair. It will have more body this way

MR. AND MRS. JIMMY BUTLER

Miss Campbell, Mr. Butler Wed In Home Ceremony

The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Campbell, in West Monroe, was scene of the wedding of Miss Cloydette Campbell and Jimmy Butler Thursday, July 28. The groom is the son of Mrs. Verta Mae Butler and James H. Butler, also of West Monroe.

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and greenery formed an improvised altar for the exchange of vows. The Rev. James E. White, pastor of Trinity Baptist church conducted the ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white lace over taffeta trimmed with white satin. Her headdress was a shoulder length tulle veil held by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. R. L. Sasser of Jackson, Mississippi attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a mint green with matching accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Carroll Kirkpatrick was Mr. Butler's best man.

Mrs. Campbell was wearing a dress of blue lace, and Mrs. Butler, pink lace. Each wore a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the social room of Trinity Baptist church at 8:30 p.m. Miss Donna Watson, cousin of the bride, of Charleston, South Carolina, presided at the bride's book.

The refreshment table was covered with green linen overlaid with white net, and centered with white chrysanthemums. Punch was served by Miss Syble Butler, sister of the groom, and Linda Owen. Mrs. A. J. Watson, aunt of the bride, of Charleston, South Carolina cut the wedding cake. Mrs. Doil Hobbs also assisted.

About 250,000 to 300,000 homes are lost in the United States each year because of old age, fire, wind or condemnation.

The jellyfish is 95 per cent water and so transparent that you can see the food inside its stomach.

Home Treatment Benefits Dry Hair

There are things you can do for dry hair at home. There are good conditioning products on the market, or you can use castor oil combined with heat. Rub into the scalp, then cover with hot towels or a heating cap. The problem with castor oil is that it's hard to get out, but you can do it with very hot water and a good shampoo.

Brush and massage regularly. Use a shampoo made for dry hair. Conditioners are wonderful but can also soften the hair and you really need a good setting lotion.

One trick to to dry the hair after a conditioning treatment and then use the set lotion on the dried hair. It will have more body this way.

Space Age Makes Vast Demands On Educators

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — The world is in the midst of a "knowledge explosion" that has brought vast changes in education and will continue to demand new dimensions in learning.

A report by three senior professors at the Indiana University took a long look at a changing university in a changing era — and specifically their own school.

The three, York Willbern, William Breneman and George Wilson, cited the "knowledge explosion" that started sending out its shock waves in the early 1940's.

Before that, the moon was nice to look at but no one was counting on going there. Television was something to read about in science fiction, along with airplanes faster than the speed of sound and bombs powerful enough to wipe out cities. The word automation wasn't a part of the everyday vocabulary and computers were only adding machines.

But since the 1940's, the three subject matter in the curriculum . . . that has not felt the impact of a new developments."

Because change generates change, they added, there is no prospect of a breathing spell, a catching up point, in sight.

"The preservation, production, dissemination and application of knowledge, for better or worse, has become a major enterprise in the United States," professors write, "there is no they wrote.

No longer can a university be an ivory tower remote from the date-to-day problems of the outside world. At Indiana alone, they noted, there were more than 100 international programs, activities and committees in operation or in advanced planning stages in 1963-64, the date of the latest comprehensive survey. Since then, the university's involvement has accelerated.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY WAYNE ROBINSON

Start Church Scene Of Robinson-Cole Wedding Ceremony

Standards of cathedral candles entwined with ivy and orange blossoms and white gladioli decorated the altar of Crew Lake Methodist church at Start for the wedding July 28 of Miss Sarah Louise Cole and Jerry Wayne Robinson. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clayton Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Hubert Robinson, all of Start.

The Rev. Joseph Way performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Music was provided by Mrs. Andrew Cole, pianist, and Cecil Watts, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie and silk organza appliqued with embroidered flowers. Her tiered elbow length veil of illusion fell from a head piece of peau de soie bows centered with a crushed fabric rose. She carried a white Bible crested with white butterfly roses and stephanotis.

Serving as best man for his brother was Lonnie Hubert Robinson Jr. Ushers were Kenneth Gable, cousin of the bride, and Bentley Curry.

Mrs. Cole chose for her daughter's wedding a pink crepe sheath with pink and white lace coat and matching pillbox hat. She wore a pink cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Robinson, selected a white dress with blue and white lace overblouse and blue accessories, with a blue cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Covered with white damask, the table was centered with white and blue carnations. Miss Marsha Hogan presided at the punch bowl. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. H. H. Henry.

Mrs. Lonnie Hubert Robinson, Jr. sat at the bride's book table, which was ornamented with a crystal compote holding a white memory candle. Misses Pat and Pam Henry passed rice bags.

When the couple departed on a short wedding trip, Mrs. Robinson was wearing a blue and cranberry paisley print suit with cranberry jersey shell, and a white orchid corsage. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are graduates of Start High School, and plan to live in Start.

MISS CHARLENE NORMAN and Richard C. Breen, Jr., are to be married September 2 at 8 p.m. in First Baptist church of Choudrant. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Norman and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald D. Sanderson, all of Choudrant, are parents of the couple. Both are graduates of Choudrant High school and attended Louisiana Tech. Mr. Breen will leave for service with the U.S. Air Force in October.

A CEREMONY at the home of the Rev. A. T. Mitchell in West Monroe united Miss Mary Ruth Miller and Robert Earl Devine Saturday, July 30. The bride's parents are Mrs. Della T. Miller of West Monroe and E. B. Miller of Ellenwood, Georgia. The groom is the son of Mrs. Louise Devine and Edward E. Devine, both of Houston, Texas.

Wet Look Noted In All-Weather Coats

All - weather coats consisting of the classic and basic rainwear types, fashion rainwear in flat fabrics, and the new all-purpose coats in the puffed and alligator wet look, will be a very potent part of this coming Spring picture. Another part of the all-weather story that looks strong, the new novelty fabrics with a great assortment of tweeds and plaids, classic to fashion styles.

Beauty hint for the day . . . Have your hair trimmed regularly by an experienced beauty operator. Every three, four, five, or six weeks depending on how you wear your hair and how fast it grows. This is a must.

Summer Skin Care

It is easy to have a smooth lovely complexion, despite the skin - coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion from harsh sun rays and will give the skin a cool, matt, dewy even on the hottest days. Your druggist can supply you with oil of Olay for your personal needs.

Coat Over Dress Ensemble Is Favorite In Fall Fashions

By FLORENCE DE SANTIS

NEW YORK — At close of the designer showings under the auspices of the New York Couture Group, it was clear that most designers are hewing to a well - defined line for fall. It's the coat, skinny or full, over a simple shift dress.

What lends variety to this basic is detailing, color and fabrics. Collections seen today also put the accent on fabrics.

Jo Copeland for Patullo mingled the appeals of color and fabric in a rich collection that had something for women of all ages. Side closings accented coats, and on suits appeared as bands of satin. Deep V yokes spreading over the shoulders, gave bosom freedom to straight dresses. Skimmers were softened with cuffed bishop sleeves.

FABRIC VARIETY

All of these were done in such fabrics as LeSeur's black and cr am check wool, Rame jersey in pine or olive green, Anglo wools in pink or purple. Dubonnet was another color in this range, seen in herringbone tweed or four - ply crepe. Hot pink jersey was combined with black satin, black velvet and black crepe were quartered on a cocktail dress. Flame and purple tweed in a jacket was mated with a purple jersey dress.

Copeland evening dresses used orange crepe with glitter cowl neck and sleeves, white brocade, brown matte jersey in a dolman style, white lace for a coat-dress with a ruffled shirt front and sleeves. A long gown in a one-sided cape effect was done in tissue brocade of wine, gold and green with a luxurious maharanee look.

Chuck Howard's way with the costume for Townley, is young and casual, with skirts swishing about in pleats or bias cuts. The silhouette is long torso, whether in striped gray flannel, curry wide wale corduroy or brown crepe.

Details include the narrow-through - the - shoulder cut, flap closings, and cuffed shirt sleeves. The same casual shapes appear for evening in beaded crepes, often with just collars, cuffs and placket fronts done in sequins or colorful beading.

It can be said that the costume has really arrived if Davidow has given in to it. The group of coats - with - dresses is small, so the most is made of each one. Pink and green tweed is used for both coat and dress with a tent-shaped seam, three buttons on each sleeve. Red plaid makes a princess-silhouette pair of coat and skirt, plus a green jersey dress, thus creating a small wardrobe.

Davidow has always made its coats only as partners to suits, but now they have a separate group of coats. The tent shape appears in an over-sized camel and green plaid, while black and yellow check is for a slim coat with a welt-seamed yoke. Noted for its meticulous renditions of Paris fashions, Davidow this time has the camel twill Balenciaga "pup tent" coat and a Pertegas from Spain with panel side pleating.

Chanel, of course, is a tradition with this house, and this fall's beauty is in pink and purple tweed with gold buttons and a tucked silk blouse. Silhouettes included in the general collection are the walking jacket, the double - breasted semi-fit and the cardigan, its sleeve in overlapped detail caught by two buttons.

Barnell has always been famed for costumes, so this house swims happily in the current fashion trend. Many here are fur-collared and in beautiful colors, such as rosy pink, sky blue and white, with mink, sable or Persian lamb collars, cuffs and even hembands. Most are true suits, with contrast blouses, such as a black and white striped silk with a red gabardine suit.

Fabrics are outstanding, in imported and domestic wools, crepes, laces and ottomans. One picks out a beige and brown lattice print wool from Abraham, ottoman in pearl gray or turquoise, a crochet-surface wool in mustard, this used for a coat over a cream jersey shift.

Colors go with the fabrics, including yellow and tangerine. Fur is used like another fabric such as the group of capes lined in stencilled rabbit that looks like tiger, ocelot or zebra. Alaskine, always a favorite here, appears in cocktail clothes with unusual details, such as a back, buttoned tunic over a gored skirt.

Parents Can Help Neatnik Trend

NEW YORK (UPI) — Be a neatnik, suggests the Cleanliness Bureau adding:

"Neatness in personal grooming is learned at home early in life. If a mother takes the trouble to appear in a fresh housecoat at breakfast and a fresh dress at dinner, she's making a lasting impression on her children. If dad makes a strict point of his daily tubbing, the children grow up to accept a daily bath as a routine. Children unconsciously imitate their elders."

Nutritious Summer Thirst-Quencher

Choose summer thirst-quenchers that are nutritious. This cherry-chocolate banana frosty serves 6 to 8 persons.

Drain 1 (4-ounce) jar of red maraschino cherries. In electric blender or mixer bowl combine chopped cherries, cherry syrup, 3 mashed bananas, 1 pint of chocolate ice cream and 3 cups of cold milk. Blend thoroughly. Pour into glasses; garnish with stemmed maraschinos.

Faint Knocks

BRUNSWICK, Germany, (AP) —Faint knocks in a freight car arriving here from Poland Friday led to the discovery of a 32-year-old Pole, apparently a refugee, railroad officials said. The man was too weak to be questioned and was taken to a hospital.

Major Roll Call Votes Announced

World Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Here's how the members of the Ark-La area delegations were recorded on major roll call votes in the Senate and House this week:

SENATE:

Rejected (6 for, 81 against) an amendment by Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, to the proposed legislation to send striking machinists back to work during negotiations. The amendment would provide for compulsory arbitration if the strike had not been ended in the 18-day time period provided by the proposed bill.

Ark.—For: McClellan. Not voting: Fulbright. La—against: Long and Ellender.

Adopted (66 for, 21 against) a motion to table an amendment to the proposed airstrike legislation that would defer further action on the legislation until Aug. 10.

Ark.—For: McClellan. Not voting: Fulbright. La.—For: Long and Ellender.

Adopted (51 for, 36 against) an amendment (in the future of substitute for the bill) that would allow the Congress to order the strikers back to work for 30 days, and delegate to the President the power to keep them working for 150 more days. Ark.—For: McClellan. Not voting: Fulbright. La.—For: Long. Not voting: Ellender.

Passed (54 for, 33 against) the bill to order striking airlines machinists back to work for 30 days and gives the President the power to appoint a special airlines dispute board to mediate for 60 days. The President may extend this period by executive order for 90 more days if he sees fit. The machinists will return to work for the entire 180-day period, if the President exercised his power. Ark.—For: McClellan. Not voting: Fulbright. La.—Against: Long. Not voting: Ellender.

Guide To Good Reading

Many Interesting Books In Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

For reading during lazy August days there are a number of interesting new books of fiction. "Indian Summer" by John Knowles is the story of an Irish-American Catholic family of Connecticut and their interest in politics. It makes exciting reading and there is certain to be an audience. "Call back the Years" is an appealing love story, set in Norway and in midwestern United States seventy years ago. It will be of special interest to women. "The Raging Moon" by Peter Marshall is the story of two young people, both victims of polio, who meet in a nursing home and fall in love. The author himself is a victim of this disease and he writes with rare warmth and sensitivity.

"Wyatt's hurricane" by Desmond Bagley is a story of high adventure and will have great appeal to men." The Night visitor and Other Stories" is a collection of snort stories of rare quality written by B. Traven, an American who has lived the life of a recluse in the provinces of Mexico. Most of these stories have a Mexican setting this were a complete novel. Reading this book can be quite and should be read as though an experience. For readers of mystery stories there are a number of new titles. "High Water at Four" by Jerrard Tickell, "The Murder of Mary Steers" by Brian Cooper, "The Man in the Tricorn Hat" by Delano Ames, "The Toff in Wax" by John Creasey and "Enter Certain Murderers" by Sara Woods. There is also a new western story "The Disturbing Death of Jenkin Delaney. "Now Wait for the Last Year" is the title of a new book of science fiction written by Philip Dick. There are also two new titles in the Keith Jennison series of books printed in large type; "The Pearl" by John Steinbeck and "Goodbye Mr. Chips" by James Hilton.

Readers of non-fiction books will find a great variety from which to make their selections this week. "The Company Town in The American West" by James B. Allen analyzes the influence of this institution in the development of our country. "The Russian-Chinese Rift" by Irwin Isenberg is an interesting volume in the Reference Shelf series. "Private Plans and Public Dangers" by Bernard F. Donahoe is the account of the Nomination of President Roosevelt for a third term. "Where as-a Judge's premises" is an interesting essay on ethics and the law. "A program for Conservatives" by Russell Kirk is a book which will interest many people in our community. "Your career in Civil Service" by Robert A. Liston is a useful and informative book. "Teaching the disadvantaged" by Joseph O. Loretan should be helpful to teachers. "The Polite Americans" by Gerald Carson is a fascinating study of American manners and social customs.

There are two interesting new books in the popular medical field; "Sleep" by Gay Luce and "How to Live With Schizophrenia" by Abram Hoffer. Many people want to know the truth about flying saucers and will welcome the new book by Frank Edwards with the title "Flying Saucers - Serious Business." "Successful Calamity" by Edmund Fuller is an interesting account of farm life in Vermont. "Horses of the World" by Daphne Goodall is a beautiful book with more than 300 photographs of different breeds. A new book about flower arrangements is "Modern Abstract Arrangements" by Emma H. Cyphers. "How to Read a French Menu by Martin Dale should be useful to the traveller. "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" by Simone Beck is a beautiful gift to the Anna Meyer book collection. There are three other new books. "Feasting with Nonna Serafina" by Theresa Bucchieri is an Italian cookbook, "Balkan Cooking" by Robin Howe and "Swiss "Cooking" by Anne Mason will appeal to speciality cooks.

The Library has a new 1966 edition of Fielding's "Guide To Europe" which will be welcomed by travelers. "Vermont" by Ray Bearse is a new edition of the W. P. A. Guide to that state. "The Wars of the Roses" by J. R. Lander is an interesting addition to English History.

There are several new books in the biography section. "John James Audubon" by Alexander Adams is a very fine account of this interesting artist and naturalist. The "Memoirs of Konrad Adenauer" will interest students of contemporary history. "Hirohito" by Leonard Mosley is an account of the life of the Emperor of Japan. "Don't Never Say Cain't" by Ethel Strainchamps is the story of a woman who rose from abject poverty.

Three additions to the reference section are worthy of note. "Boutwell's Heraldry" by Charles Boutell is a very lovely book. "The Original Water Color Paintings" by John James Audubon for the Birds of America" will be of great interest to artists. Last of all there is a copy of the new City Directory for Monroe and West Monroe in each branch of the Library.

Victor And Domingo

Suica's is on the Rossio. If you're standing on the other side of the big square, across six lanes of whirring traffic, you can see its large green awning and almost taste the coffee. In front are chairs and small round tables. On a hill beyond is the Castelo S. Jorge which the Visigoths built many centuries ago. A white helmeted traffic cop directs a swarm of ambitious little automobiles.

The Rossio, is Fifth Avenue, the Champs Elysees, Picadilly Circus, Canal Street - all the gay streets and squares of the world packaged in a bright Portuguese wrapping. Suica's is a sidewalk cafe and a sort of happy headquarters for everybody who comes to Lisbon. Inside is a pastry shop, the wonders of which you can never forget. The aroma of strong coffee is pleasant and inviting. From one of the tables under the awning you can watch the world go by and not really care where it goes. In the mornings the sun comes from behind the great Castelo and brightens the Avenida Palace Hotel and the Portuguese Tourist Office.

At the cafe is a little boy with twinkling eyes and a mischievous smile. He wears a grey uniform which has two rows of bright buttons, and he scoots from table to table with pots of steaming coffee and platters of pastries. He stops to talk at the tables and seems interested in meeting everyone who comes to the cafe. It's amazing how the language barrier disappears in the face of such friendliness, and quickly you learn that his name is Victor. He is twelve years old, his father was a soldier killed in Angola, and he is working hard to help his mother. He wants to take your picture, and if you give him two escudos, he'll return a toothy grin. Here's a boy you'd like to pack up and bring home.

Near the Rossio, on tree-lined Avenue da Liberdade, is the Victoria Hotel. The Victoria is a hub of English visitors to Lisbon. The Union Jack is prominently displayed at the entrance, and you get the feeling that the Queen's own Royal Rifles will suddenly march through the door. At the Victoria, however, the Union Jack must be washed in the waters of the Tagus because the hotel is strictly Portuguese. In the rear of the lobby is the "lift," open in European style for all to see. There is a spotless and excellent dining room and adjoining pub. On duty at the door is Domingo. He's another boy, about twelve, who wears a bright buttoned uniform, a wistful smile and has the saddest eyes. You can see the whole world in this child's face, and know that he has known as much as you can see. In the morning Domingo opens the door, and at night he is still there, sad eyes and all. If you give him two escudos, his eyes will smile a heartfelt "thank you." Here's a boy you'd like to pack up and bring home.

Many times in the rush of life, it's pleasant to think of Lisbon — coffee at a table under the awning at a sidewalk cafe on the Rossio, and the Portuguese hotel determined to be English near the trees on the Liberdade. But in all the thoughts which come back, there comes the mischievous smile of Victor and the sad, wistful eyes of Domingo, the Portuguese boys you'd like to pack up and bring home.

State Board Gives NLSC $4,618,203

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The State Board of Education Saturday allocated $4,618,203 to Northeast State College for 1966-67.

The board also made it clear that colleges and universities under its jurisdiction could establish faculty organizations.

The board reclined an earlier letter sent out by its executive secretary, George Benton, to institutions that the board's education committee opposed "faculty synods."

Benton said the letter was unofficial.

Faculties can organize into groups to "serve as forums for enabling membership to express their opinions, individually or collectively, regarding matters they feel are worthy of study and discussion," the board said.

In other action, the state board:

—Approved budget requests totaling $54 million for nine institutions of higher learning, nine special education centers and 33 vocational - technical schools. The funds represent the institutions' operating budget for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Nine colleges and universities will receive $47,205,244 in state funds, a boost of 24 per cent over last year.

Another $788,039 is being held in the state treasury and will be used if the student credit hour production reaches projections made in legislative budgets.

—Approved a request by the Allen Parish police jury to study the creation of a vocational-technical school in the parish.

—Agreed to abide by the American Legion's recommendations to stress teaching of Americanism in the schools, particularly from grades 1-12.

—Authorized the University of Southwestern Louisiana to establish a course in computer science.

Funds allocated to the colleges and universities for 1966-67 are:

Grambling, $4,519,719; Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, $6,-416,229; McNeese State College, $3,435,090; Francis T. Nicholls State College, $2,607,650; Northeast Louisiana State College, $4,618,203.

Northwestern State College, $5,110,356. Southeastern Louisiana College, $4,656,839; University of Southwestern Louisiana, $7,839,904; Southern University, $6,394,247; and Southern University, New Orleans Branch, $1,-552,637.

Wilson's India Visit To Be Set

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government said Saturday that British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's postponed visit will take place "as soon as mutually convenient dates can be arranged."

Wilson announced earlier in London that he has postponed his October visit to India because of the proposed early election call of Parliament Oct. 18. He had planned to visit between the end of the Labor party convalescence and the return of the House of Commons after the summer recess.

An announcement from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's secretariat said it had been planned that Wilson's first visit to India should include a tour of the country.

Gibbs Cites House Seat Need Here

Rep. Lawrence Gibbs of Monroe Saturday restated Ouachita Parish's need for another seat in the House.

He issued the following statement: "In view of the fact that Gov. McKeithen has called a special session for reapportionment of the House and Senate, my position is now as it always has been. Ouachita Parish is now as it always has been. Ouachita Parish is entitled to an additional seat in the House."

Rep. Gibbs recalled a battle for an additional seat in the 1963 legislature, remarking that Ouachita Parish had the seat for approximately four and one-half hours until parlimentary maneuvering took it away.

Saturday's was the first statement Gibbs has released since June 8. He has been ill with a back ailment but is recovering rapidly.

Shreveport Pilot Missing In Gulf

KEYWEST, Fla. (AP) — An F4B Phantom fighter jet piloted by a Navy commander just back from the war in Viet Nam crashed into the Gulf of Mexico on a retraining flight Friday night.

Listed as missnig along with him was his radio intercept officer, a 21-year-old Navy veteran.

State Board Gives NLSC $4,618,203

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The State Board of Education Saturday allocated $4,618,203 to Northeast State College for 1966-67.

The board also made it clear that colleges and universities under its jurisdiction could establish faculty organizations.

The board reclined an earlier letter sent out by its executive secretary, George Benton, to institutions that the board's education committee opposed "faculty synods."

Benton said the letter was unofficial.

Faculties can organize into groups to "serve as forums for enabling membership to express their opinions, individually or collectively, regarding matters they feel are worthy of study and discussion," the board said.

In other action, the state board:

—Approved budget requests totaling $54 million for nine institutions of higher learning, nine special education centers and 33 vocational - technical schools. The funds represent the institutions' operating budget for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Nine colleges and universities will receive $47,205,244 in state funds, a boost of 24 per cent over last year.

Another $788,039 is being held in the state treasury and will be used if the student credit hour production reaches projections made in legislative budgets.

—Approved a request by the Allen Parish police jury to study the creation of a vocational-technical school in the parish.

—Agreed to abide by the American Legion's recommendations to stress teaching of Americanism in the schools, particularly from grades 1-12.

—Authorized the University of Southwestern Louisiana to establish a course in computer science.

Funds allocated to the colleges and universities for 1966-67 are:

Grambling, $4,519,719; Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, $6,-416,229; McNeese State College, $3,435,090; Francis T. Nicholls State College, $2,607,650; Northeast Louisiana State College, $4,618,203.

Northwestern State College, $5,110,356. Southeastern Louisiana College, $4,656,839; University of Southwestern Louisiana, $7,839,904; Southern University, $6,394,247; and Southern University, New Orleans Branch, $1,-552,637.

Wilson's India Visit To Be Set

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government said Saturday that British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's postponed visit will take place "as soon as mutually convenient dates can be arranged."

Wilson announced earlier in London that he has postponed his October visit to India because of the proposed earlier recall of Parliament Oct. 18. He had planned to visit between the end of the Labor party conference and the return of the House of Commons after the summer recess.

An announcement from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's secretariat said it had been planned that Wilson's first visit to India should include a tour of the country.

Gibbs Cites House Seat Need Here

Rep. Lawrence Gibbs of Monroe Saturday restated Ouachita Parish's need for another seat in the House.

He issued the following statement: "In view of the fact that Gov. McKeithen has called a special session for reapportionment of the House and Senate, my position is now as it always has been. Ouachita Parish is now as it always has been. Ouachita Parish is entitled to an additional seat in the House."

Rep. Gibbs recalled a battle for an additional seat in the 1963 legislature, remarking that Ouachita Parish had the seat for approximately four and one-half hours until parlimentary maneuvering took it away.

Saturday's was the first statement Gibbs has released since June 8. He has been ill with a back ailment but is recovering rapidly.

Shreveport Pilot Missing In Gulf

KEYWEST, Fla. (AP) — An F4B Phantom fighter jet piloted by a Navy commander just back from the war in Viet Nam crashed into the Gulf of Mexico on a retraining flight Friday night.

Listed as missnig along with him was his radio intercept officer, a 21-year-old Navy veteran.

Poles Claim U.S. Bombs Cambodia

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish government officially Saturday that U. S. planes bombed and strafed a Cambodian village last Tuesday and endangered members of the International Control Commission making an investigation there.

The protest said American bombs fell within 100 yards of some of the ICC members.

In Washington, the State Department had no immediate comment.

ATTACK VILLAGE

According to the Polish Press Agency, the attack occurred Aug. 2. Cambodian officials said earlier this week that U.S. planes had attacked a village near the South Vietnamese border that same day and members of the ICC were there.

The Polish protest said the United States was responsible "for this particular and also other acts of aggression in Indochina."

Poland, India and Canada are member nations of the commission which supervises the 1954 Geneva accords setting up the two Viet Nams, Laos and Cambodia.

The Polish government protest declared: "Members of the international supervision and control commission, accompanied by military attaches and representatives of embassys accredited in Cambodia, went on Aug. 2 to the village Thlock Trach, situated 1,100 yards from the South Vietnamese border to investigate a U.S. air raid of July 31.

"While the commission was on its way, American planes attacked the village again. During the investigation U.S. reconnaissance planes appeared, followed by an air raid by U.S. Air Force F105s. The planes bombed and strafed the village, directly endangering the safety of the members of the commission. Some bombs and missiles fell as near as 110 yards from the group. At that time there was no fighting on the other side of the Vietnamese border, and reconnaissance flights prior to the attack exclude any possibility of a mistake as to the attacked object."

The Polish government declared the whole responsibility lies with the United States.

It also informed it would approach in the diplomatic way the governments of Great Britain and the Soviet Union, co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference, and the governments of India and Canada, members of the international commission.

The Warsaw government said it will convey to them an appeal to condemn what it termed systematic infringements and violations of the Geneva accords by the United States, "recently proved by bombings of the demilitarized zone in Viet Nam and the air raids on Hanoi and Haiphong."

The published protest added: "The Polish government declares that the fact is a new, uncontestable act of aggression by the United States against the territory of the kingdom of Cambodia, against its integrity and sovereignty; is a further brutal violation of the Geneva accords; is an openly hostile act against the international supervision and control commission and the life of its members."

Guarding Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Police dogs are helping military patrols guard the northern Cuban coast in the Varadero Beach area, two newly arrived refugees said Saturday.

"Four days ago 17 persons who tried to leave Cuba by boat were arrested," said Oscar Rodriguez, 60. "Two of them were bitten by the dogs."

Rodriguez and Jesus Pujol, 27, escaped from Cuba in a 17-foot motorboat after eluding the dogs they said.

Strength Of Military In U.S. Climbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The strength of U.S. armed forces in Viet Nam will approach the Korean war peak next year unless peace talks take place in the meantime, military officials said Saturday.

They said the limit was not yet in sight—that the present buildup will continue into the fall at a stepped up pace even though previous manpower goals have been surpassed.

On June 30 the services were more than 100,000 men above the goals set for that date earlier in the year. Last Thursday the Defense Department called for a post-Korea record draft of 46,200 men in October.

REPORT QUAKE

BELGRADE, Yugos. (UPI) — Twenty minor earthquakes were recorded Friday and early Saturday around Titograd, 17 miles south of here, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said. No casualties or major damage was reported.

...os Vacation, ...ime To Plan

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

This is the month for clubs' vacation from the weekly Fifth District Garden Center Programs — due to the fact that most of our clubs have disbanded for the summer until September.

This is a good time to touch on subjects that all gardeners and garden clubbers are interested in. Many have inquired about program ideas that are different.

This is always a yearly problem with the program chairman and committee members. Our state Louisiana Garden Club program chairman, Mrs. H. L. Pentecost, gives helpful tips that I will pass on to you, if you are still trying to get that last minute planning completed.

ANNUAL PROJECT

All good clubs need at least one yearly project. The first thing to do, in case you don't have one, is to adopt your project or projects and a theme. Each month's program will be developed from this overall theme under a sub-theme. This ties the year's work together. If your theme is landscaping you need several or at least one good landscape program. It is wise to have one or two good speakers each year. Members should do the research and give the general programs they learn by doing and will remember more about the subject.

The use of horticulture exhibits and or design exhibits at each meeting in keeping with the theme adds value to the meeting.

List definite speakers in your year book. Visual aids at a meeting are much more beneficial to the members than just listening to a speaker. It is very good to list reference books at the end of the monthly meeting page for the members to use ahead of time.

This makes them more acquainted with the subject and feel that they are a part of the meeting when they have become enlightened on the subject. The Garden Center offers excellent books on all subjects. One very young federated garden club, to my knowledge, adopted this plan. Congratulations to them for a good start with a balanced year's program planned. The club is small but, because of the program theme, "Landscaping," they have just acquired three new members.

In planning your yearbook be sure to list the club as member of National or State Garden Clubs (if Federated) instead of affliate.

THREE PROGRAMS

Comprehensive study means at least three programs on the same subject. Present these programs in different ways such as panel discussion, filmstrip, slides, speaker, skits, round table, etc. This keeps down boredom, increases interest, gives each a part on the program.

Keep your club informed about what is being done about our natural resources. Materials on conservation may be obtained from the state LGCF chairman, Mrs. Harold M. Hogan, 5029 Clark Ave., Baton Rouge, La., or through the Louisiana State Conservation Department. The birds add great value to us as gardeners. They should be conserved.

Every yard should be a bird sanctuary by members providing food, shelter and water for them. Keep a file on the National Gardener and Newsletter magazines, or clip all program columns and materials and keep them in a file for future reference and for us. Federated clubs receive application blanks for the State Horticulture Rating sheet and the Blue Ribbon Club award, so that you will be eligible to receive these awards. These should be checked early to see if your club programs and reports meet the various points.

"Order of Business" or the "Agenda" should fill one page in the year book, listing various publications reports. A special chairman could be appointed to give these reports along with other committee chairmen who give their monthly reports.

For your benefit — information on programs listed in National Gardener Magazine giving ideas, suggestions and information:

July-August, 1964-page 36; Sept.-Oct. 1964, page 32 and the Scale of Points for judging yearbooks - page 26. Nov.-Dec. 1964, page 18 and Jan. - Feb.-1965, page 16.

WORKSHOPS

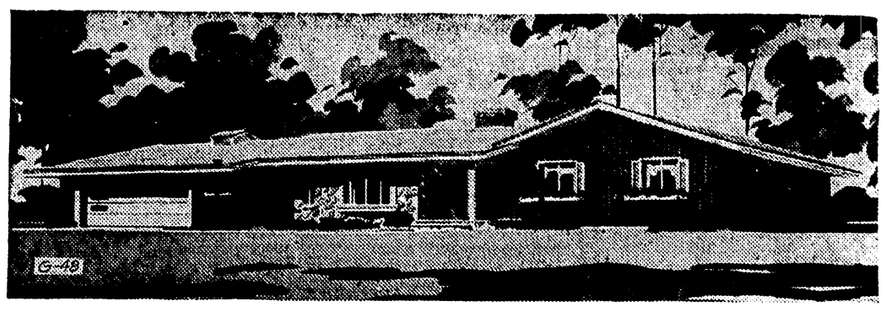
Workshops, club progress on activities of year's projects could be listed at bottom of page of month that work was accomplished. Place and date of workshops should be listed. Workshops may be held on flower-arranging, horticulture, flower show, conservation, work with juniors and high school gardeners, corsage, etc.

Encourage members to learn plant names, common and botanical, by letting each present one and tell about it briefly at roll call. This could include trees. A list of plants can be found in many of the gardening books at the garden center. Copies could be made for each member. A prize could be given to the member learning the most during a given period — All plants have proper names.

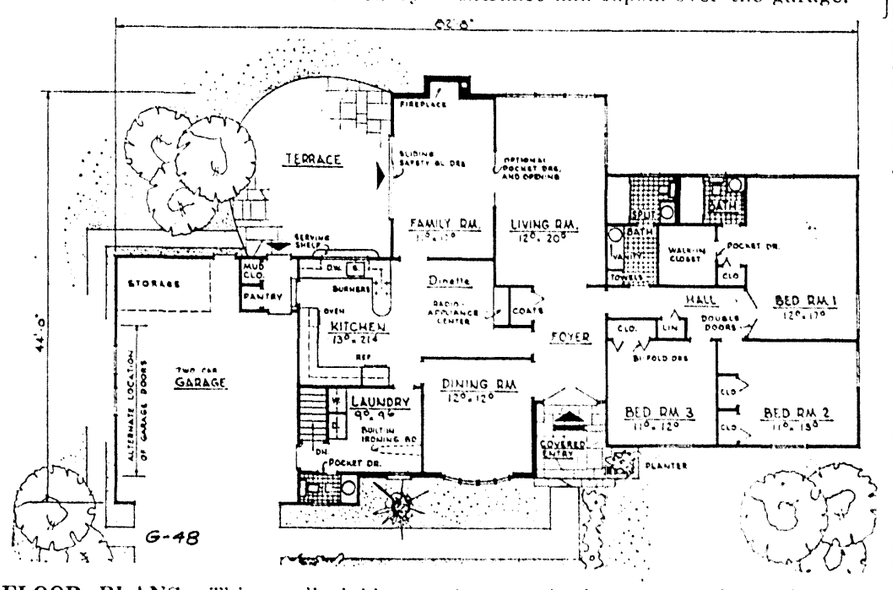
Also, members could report on their own projects, such as keeping a log of plant material grown in their garden. A compiled list of all the trees, shrubs, bulbs, perennials and annuals planted by members may be included on the Horticulture Rating sheet -- counting 25 points. Civic beautification plan should be supported by members.

Remember — Federated Clubs — send in your State Horticulture Rating sheet to the State Horticulture Chairman before Feb. 1. It will count 10 points.

This week — "How to Make a Compost" will be discussed on the Garden Center program.



THREE-BEDROOM RANCH has completely modern lines, but any suggestion of starkness has been avoided by treatment of windows, with shutters and window boxes, as well as covered entrance and cupola over the garage.



FLOOR PLANS: This well laid-out floor arrangement gives special attention to the working area of the house, with a large kitchen-dinette, full pantry, mud closet, extra-large laundry room and a lavatory — with a door at the rear and another from the garage.

Contemporary Ranch Design Is Boon To Woman Of House

By ANDY LANG

There isn't much doubt that architect Herman H. York had the lady of the house in mind when he designed this contemporary ranch.

With no sacrifice of living comfort for Dad and the children, York has gone all out to provide generously for the needs of Mom, who spends most of her time at home. There is a decided emphasis on the kitchen and its satellite areas.

The most obvious example of this is the large laundry room near the kitchen, with ample space not only for the washing and drying appliances, but also for ironing and sewing. And look at the kitchen-dinette, more than 21' long, with an amazingly large amount of cabinet space, a built - in oven, burner top and every modern convenience, plus an old-fashioned floor-to-ceiling pantry.

The dinette portion has a radio-appliance center so that Mom can listen to music as she cooks and serves or can just sit and relax when the mood strikes her. Remember that all this space is in addition to the regular formal dining room, directly adjacent.

Because most family outdoor living is done at the rear of the house (for privacy), this layout features both the living room and the family room, which connects directly with the terrace, readily accessible to the kitchen through a rear door. A barbecue can be built into the main chimney at the back of the terrace area. Complete control of the terrace is possible from both the kitchen and family room, with large glass areas overlooking this vital sector.

The bedroom wing at the right side of the house has three rooms, the largest of which has a private bath and a walk-in closet 36 square feet in size. The hall bath is of the split variety designed to provide dual use, with two lavoratories and a vanity. Special towel space within the bathroom, in addition to a linen closet in the hall, makes for generous linen storage. The large or owners' bedroom has double doors, adding a touch of elegance.

The double-door design also is used at the front entrance of the house. The doors, with glazed contemporary panels open in a large foyer. Incidentally, door at the side of the gara leads to the laundry room a a lavatory, so that anyone w muddy feet and soiled hands c clean up before going into t house. While the basic desi shows the garage opening at t front, the plans include an ternate entrance from the si should the size of the plot p mit. Either way, there is amp storage space in the garage power equipment, bicycles, e

The cellar stairs located give direct access from the g age and laundry room. But the house should be built eith on a slab or over a crawl spa the area occupied by the st could be utilized by a furna and or air conditioning unit.

Design G-48 blends verti wood walls with stone for a h monious exterior. While c temporary in style, such thi as a cupola, shutters, flow boxes and a covered entra add a feeling of warmth a livability.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-48.

Pot Plants For Winter

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want to pot some plants in tubs to use in the landscape this winter, then try one or more of the following: Bamboo, pittosporum, Japanese yew and fatsia japonica. These would do well in tubs and can remain out of doors during the winter months.

You may continue to transplant iris if you did not get them all moved in July.

Don't mow the grass too short at this season. If the grass is left about two inches high this protects the roots and helps to hold the moisture.

It is the general belief among gardeners that it is impossible to plant shrubbery during the summertime when temperatures are high. This may be true for a few classes of plants, but certainly not for most.

BALLED, BURLAPPED

So if you are a new home owner and want to start your planting now, you will be interested to know that the balled and burlapped and container grown can be quite successful planted now. Of course there are certain precautions which must be followed, but this is true of all plantings, summer or winter.

First start with a good plant. Your nurseryman is the most reliable source because he must give constant care to the plants. Be certain that the plant you buy has a good firm ball of soil around the roots. Then handle the plant carefully in planting so that the ball of soil will not be broken or loosened around the roots. A second important consideration is that of properly watering of newly set plants.

It is a good practice to make a small levee of soil around the plant to contain the water which is applied. This will prevent water from running off and allow the water to soak into the soil in the root zone of the plant.

WATER THOROUGHLY

Water thoroughly two or three times a week. Plants with large leaf areas in general require more water than those with small leaf areas. If a plant is set in a full sun exposure, it may be necessary to provide some type partial shade for a short period of time. After three or four weeks the root system will become established and the shade can be removed.

It is completely out of the question to consider the bare root (no soil around the roots) material for summer planting. Bare root plants generally must be in a completely dormant condition for successful transplanting. This means planting during late fall or winter.

HOME, GARDEN WEEK

Twenty three homemakers from Ouachita have registered to attend the annual Home and Garden Week next week on the LSU campus. A full two-days activities have been scheduled. On Tuesday afternoon a tea will be held in the Union Building and those desiring a tour of the refinery will secure tickets at the tea. On Tuesday night a recreational program of music has been planned.

The lectures and demonstrations on Wednesday will include, "Your Furniture Dollar," "What's New in Home Care," "Value of Hobbies to Families," and "Fitness is a Family Affair." The gardening program on Wednesday and Thursday will include: "Growing and Propagating Begonias, Azaleas, for the Southern Gardeners," "Roses from A to Z," "The Art of Bonsai," "The Use of Bulbs in the Landscape," and a Flower Arranging demonstration.

The Wednesday night program will be presented by Rudolph Alperin of New York, a nationally known authority on interior decoration.

The group will be housed in air - conditioned dormitories on the LSU campus.

HOME FREEZER

Mrs. Homemaker, your home freezer should be kept at zero degree or colder and defrosted before more than one-half inch of frost has formed. The freezer should be checked with an accurate thermometer to be sure that the temperature is low enough. The freezer should be defrosted before one-half inch of frost has collected over much of the refrigerated surface. Most freezers need defrosting only once or twice a year. The frequency is determined by how often the freezer is opened, by humidity and other factors.

'Magic Pink' Blooms Again

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The magic pink spider - lilies are with us again. They came in spite of drought and heat. Each time they appear out of nowhere without a leaf to announce them in the worst of mid-summer doldrums, they lift the gardener's spirit like nothing else.

People who see these "naked ladies" appear out of the bare earth for the first time become very excited. They telephone all over trying to find o. what they are. Just reading about them in some gardening column does not catch their imagination. But seeing them in bloom does!

"FORGOTTEN GRASS"

The Chinese call this big lycoris "Forgotten Grass." The leaves, which grew up with the daffodils in spring have long since faded and gone and been forgotten. Then come the tall green stems 18 inches long, and then the cherry pink buds with a touch of purple open into dazzling orchid pink flowers.

Missionaries who went to China sent back some of the bulbs of lycoris squamigera at the beginning of this century. They sent some bulbs to a man in Boston who grew them and exhibited them up there at a flower show. In his honor, they were called "Hall's Amaryllis". The spider-lilies were not known at this time, and almost everything that looked remotely like an amaryllis was given that name. It is surprising that they were not call lilies. Almost everything on a stem and anywhere near bell-shaped gets called a lily.

Experience with lycoris squamigeria, the proper name for our pink spider-lilies, has taught us a few things about them. They are happy where daffodils are. They may remain in the ground until they have multiplied so much that they stop flowering. Then they may be taken up just after the leaves have died down in June, dried out for about a week and then divided. They should be replanted during July if not right away, but they will not perish if they are not replanted until October.

TEMPERAMENTAL

These beautiful creatures are a bit temperamental; they do not bloom heavily every year. Various causes have been given for this, but the most likely reason, if they are not starving, is that the foliage may be injured to some extent by cold spells after it appears in very early spring.

A little protection from something like straw spread over the leaves during extremely cold nights might obviate this trouble, but no one takes the trouble to protect them. When this biggest of the lycorises does bloom normally, as it is doing this year, it makes a dazzling show.

...os Vacation, ...ime To Plan

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

This is the month for clubs' vacation from the weekly Fifth District Garden Center Programs — due to the fact that most of our clubs have disbanded for the summer until September.

This is a good time to touch on subjects that all gardeners and garden clubbers are interested in. Many have inquired about program ideas that are different.

This is always a yearly problem with the program chairman and committee members. Our state Louisiana Garden Club program chairman, Mrs. H. L. Pentecost, gives helpful tips that I will pass on to you, if you are still trying to get that last minute planning completed.

ANNUAL PROJECT

All good clubs need at least one yearly project. The first thing to do, in case you don't have one, is to adopt your project or projects and a theme. Each month's program will be developed from this overall theme under a sub-theme. This ties the year's work together. If your theme is landscaping you need several or at least one good landscape program. It is wise to have one or two good speakers each year. Members should do the research and give the general programs they learn by doing and will remember more about the subject.

The use of horticulture exhibits and or design exhibits at each meeting in keeping with the theme adds value to the meeting.

List definite speakers in your year book. Visual aids at a meeting are much more beneficial to the members than just listening to a speaker. It is very good to list reference books at the end of the monthly meeting page for the members to use ahead of time.

This makes them more acquainted with the subject and feel that they are a part of the meeting when they have become enlightened on the subject. The Garden Center offers excellent books on all subjects. One very young federated garden club, to my knowledge, adopted this plan. Congratulations to them for a good start with a balanced year's program planned. The club is small but, because of the program theme, "Landscaping," they have just acquired three new members.

In planning your yearbook be sure to list the club as member of National or State Garden Clubs (if Federated) instead of affliate.

THREE PROGRAMS

Comprehensive study means at least three programs on the same subject. Present these programs in different ways such as panel discussion, filmstrip, slides, speaker, skits, round table, etc. This keeps down boredom, increases interest, gives each a part on the program.

Keep your club informed about what is being done about our natural resources. Materials on conservation may be obtained from the state LGCF chairman, Mrs. Harold M. Hogan, 5029 Clark Ave., Baton Rouge, La., or through the Louisiana State Conservation Department. The birds add great value to us as gardeners. They should be conserved.

Every yard should be a bird sanctuary by members providing food, shelter and water for them. Keep a file on the National Gardener and Newsletter magazines, or clip all program columns and materials and keep them in a file for future reference and for us. Federated clubs receive application blanks for the State Horticulture Rating sheet and the Blue Ribbon Club award, so that you will be eligible to receive these awards. These should be checked early to see if your club programs and reports meet the various points.

"Order of Business" or the "Agenda" should fill one page in the year book, listing various publications reports. A special chairman could be appointed to give these reports along with other committee chairmen who give their monthly reports.

For your benefit — information on programs listed in National Gardener Magazine giving ideas, suggestions and information:

National Gardener: May-June 1960, pages 20-45—Excellent for program planning and yearbook set up.

March-April issue 1960 - page 40. Nov.-Dec. 1960 - Information on Field Trips. Many-June issue 1962-page 22. The revised list of available program material from National Council is in Nov.-Dec. 1962 issue page 28. Nov.-Dec. 1963—Christmas decoations and suggestions for Christmas programs. Mar.-April 1963 - page 8. Every issue for 1964 has excellent program suggestions and ideas and how to set up programs. Jan.-Feb. 1964 page 43; March-April 1964, pages 13 and 28. May - June 1964 page 16, award for club programs page 19. List of illustrated lectures available from National Council-page 27. July-August, 1964-page 36; Sept.-Oct. 1964, page 32 and the Scale of Points for judging yearbooks - page 26. Nov.-Dec. 1964, page 18 and Jan. - Feb.-1965, page 16.

Program Kits obtainable from the State Program Chairman are listed in the President's Kit.

WORKSHOPS

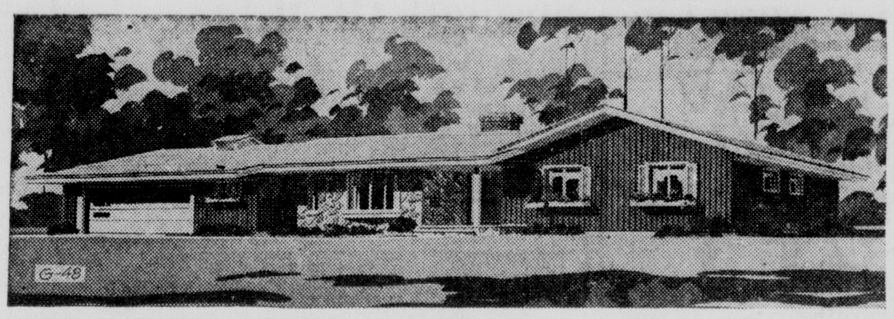
Workshops, club progress on activities of year's projects could be listed at bottom of page of month that work was accomplished. Place and date of workshops should be listed. Workshops may be held on flower-arranging, horticulture, flower show, conservation, work with juniors and high school gardeners, corsage, etc.

Encourage members to learn plant names, common and botanical, by letting each present one and tell about it briefly at roll call. This could include trees. A list of plants can be found in many of the gardening books at the garden center. Copies could be made for each member. A prize could be given to the member learning the most during a given period — All plants have proper names.

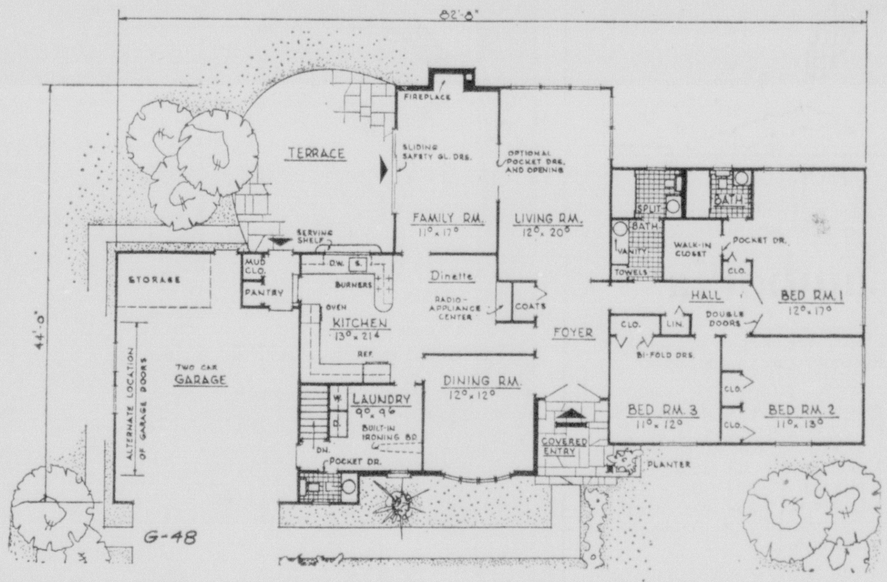
Also, members could report on their own projects, such as keeping a log of plant material grown in their garden. A compiled list of all the trees, shrubs, bulbs, perennials and annuals planted by members may be included on the Horticulture Rating sheet — counting 25 points. Civic beautification plan should be supported by members.

Remember — Federated Clubs — send in your State Horticulture Rating sheet to the State Horticulture Chairman before Feb. 1. It will count 10 points.

This week — "How to Make a Compost" will be discussed on the Garden Center program.



THREE-BEDROOM RANCH has completely modern lines, but any suggestion of starkness has been avoided by treatment of windows, with shutters and window boxes, as well as covered entrance and cupola over the garage.



FLOOR PLANS: This well laid-out floor arrangement gives special attention to the working area of the house, with a large kitchen-dinette, full pantry, mud closet, extra-large laundry room and a lavatory — with a door at the rear and another from the garage.

Contemporary Ranch Design Is Boon To Woman Of House

By ANDY LANG

There isn't much doubt that architect Herman H. York had the lady of the house in mind when he designed this contemporary ranch.

With no sacrifice of living comfort for Dad and the children, York has gone all out to provide generously for the needs of Mom, who spends most of her time at home. There is a decided emphasis on the kitchen and its satellite areas.

The most obvious example of this is the large laundry room near the kitchen, with ample space not only for the washing and drying appliances, but also for ironing and sewing. And look at the kitchen-dinette, more than 21' long, with an amazingly large amount of cabinet space, a built - in oven, burner top and every modern convenience, plus an old-fashioned floor-to-ceiling pantry.

The dinette portion has a radio-appliance center so that Mom can listen to music as she cooks and serves or can just sit and relax when the mood strikes her. Remember that all this space is in addition to the regular formal dining room, directly adjacent.

Because most family outdoor living is done at the rear of the house (for privacy), this layout features both the living room and the family room, which connects directly with the terrace, readily accessible to the kitchen through a rear door. A barbecue can be built into the main chimney at the back of the terrace area. Complete control of the terrace is possible from both the kitchen and family room, with large glass areas overlooking this vital sector.

The bedroom wing at the right side of the house has three rooms, the largest of which has a private bath and a walk-in closet 36 square feet in size. The hall bath is of the split variety designed to provide dual use, with two lavoratories and a vanity. Special towel space within the bathroom, in addition to a linen closet in the hall, makes for generous linen storage. The large or owners' bedroom has double doors, adding a touch of elegance.

The double-door design also is used at the front entrance of the house. The doors, with glazed contemporary panels open into a large foyer. Incidentally, a door at the side of the garage leads to the laundry room and a lavatory, so that anyone with muddy feet and soiled hands can clean up before going into the house. While the basic design shows the garage opening at the front, the plans include an alternate entrance from the side should the size of the plot permit. Either way, there is ample storage space in the garage for power equipment, bicycles, etc.

The cellar stairs located to give direct access from the garage and laundry room. But if the house should be built either on a slab or over a crawl space, the area occupied by the stair could be utilized by a furnace and or air conditioning unit.

Design G-48 blends vertical wood walls with stone for a harmonious exterior. While contemporary in style, such things as a cupola, shutters, flower boxes and a covered entrance add a feeling of warmth and livability.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-48.

Pot Plants For Winter

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want to pot some plants in tubs to use in the landscape this winter, then try one or more of the following: Bamboo, pittosporum, Japanese yew and fatsia japonica. These would do well in tubs and can remain out of doors during the winter months.

You may continue to transplant iris if you did not get them all moved in July.

Don't mow the grass too short at this season. If the grass is left about two inches high this protects the roots and helps to hold the moisture.

It is the general belief among gardeners that it is impossible to plant shrubbery during the summertime when temperatures are high. This may be true for a few classes of plants, but certainly not for most.

BALLED, BURLAPPED

So if you are a new home owner and want to start your planting now, you will be interested to know that the balled and burlapped and container grown can be quite successful planted now. Of course there are certain precautions which must be followed, but this is true of all plantings, summer or winter.

First start with a good plant. Your nurseryman is the most reliable source because he must give constant care to the plants. Be certain that the plant you buy has a good firm ball of soil around the roots. Then handle the plant carefully in planting so that the ball of soil will not be broken or loosened around the roots. A second important consideration is that of properly watering of newly set plants.

It is a good practice to make a small levee of soil around the plant to contain the water which is applied. This will prevent water from running off and allow the water to soak into the soil in the root zone of the plant.

WATER THOROUGHLY

Water thoroughly two or three times a week. Plants with large leaf areas in general require more water than those with small leaf areas. If a plant is set in a full sun exposure, it may be necessary to provide some type partial shade for a short period of time. After three or four weeks the root system will become established and the shade can be removed.

It is completely out of the question to consider the bare root (no soil around the roots) material for summer planting. Bare root plants generally must be in a completely dormant condition for successful transplanting. This means planting during late fall or winter.

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

The theatre is dark now, but memories of this show will linger for a long time. As "Music Man" joins history, it stands beside other great hits such as "King and I," "My Fair Lady," and "Sound of Music."

It will always be remembered by audiences as a warm and entertaining show.

FUN, HARD WORK

For those in the cast, crew, and orchestra, it was a time of fun and hard work. All of which became pleasant memories as the curtain rose on opening night and the ring of laughter and applause filled Strauss Playhouse.

As the audience rose to its feet last night in tribute to an outstanding cast and an outstanding production, expressions of sentiment were in the minds of each cast member. Thoughts went back to eight weeks ago when a group of strangers, one by one, went through auditions hoping to get a part in the play.

Finally a cast was selected, rehearsals started, and the birth of a musical production began to take place. Through the hours of toil, aching muscles, and shouts of "Do that number again," lasting friendships were made. A feeling of comradship was formed, and strangers became friends working toward a common goal.

NEW ACHIEVEMENTS

"Music Man" climaxed eleven consecutive months of production work by the theatre. In this time many goals were set and achievements made. A new director and technical director were hired. A new membership record was achieved.

One of the greatest achievements was the institution of the Children's Theatre School. Under the direction of Miss Murray Burfford great progress was made in this endeavor.

SEASON

The 1965-66 Membership Season opened with "The Pleasure of His Company" with a special patrons preview honoring Blanche Oliver.

Our season musical, "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," broke all records with a near sell-out prior to opening night. And, who can forget the hillarious comedy of "Opal," and "Never Too Late," or the stark drama of "Bad Seed."

These are now history — wonderful memories of a season of fine entertainment.

The playhouse will be deserted through the month of August, but plans are already near completion for next season. Watch for news about the opening of the 1966-1967 season. It promises to be the best yet.

See you at the theatre in September.

Names Added In Hiroshima

HIROSHIMA (UPI) —This growing, living city paused Saturday to remember the day it was pronounced dead.

More than 30,000 citizens and visitors gathered Saturday morning at Hiroshima to pray for peace and for those who died during and after the first atomic bombing in history.

They watched as Mayor Shinzo Hamai deposited in the cenotaph near ground zero a new registerer containing the named of 68 persons who had died during the past year of radiation caused diseases, and the names of 482 others who disappeared without a trace on August 6, 1945, and have finally been confirmed dead.

EASTGATE

Sunday through Thursday: "Battle of the Bulge"—AYC—
All-star cast in World War II drama, re-creating the December, 1944, surprise attack at the Siegfried Line in the Ardennes Forest of Europe when the German forces with Tiger tanks almost turned the tide of war and of history. Cast includes Henry Fonda, Robert Shaw, Robert Ryan, Dana Andrews, George Montgomery, Ty Hardin, Pier Angeli, Telly Savalas, Barbara Werle, James McArthur and Werner Peters. In color.

Friday and Thereafter: "Stagecoach" — AMY —
Bing Crosby, Ann - Margaret, Stefanie Powers, Van Heflin, Alex Cord, Slim Pickens in remake of the Western classic. Passengers on a stagecoach have urgent reasons for wanting to get out of town. Those aboard include an alcoholic doctor, a dance-hall girl, a sheriff and his prisoner, a gambler and an escaping embezzler.

JIM

Sunday through Saturday: "Lt. Robin Crusoe, U.S.N." —AYC—
Dick Van Dyke, Nancy Kwan, in Walt Disney adventure. Contemporary Robinson Crusoe, a Navy flier who has been forced to bail out of his burning plane into the Pacific Ocean, drifts up on the beach of a South Sea Island. The island's sole inhabitant is a chimpanzee whose dog-tag identifies him as an astrochimp. Together, the chimp and the flier make their island habitable. Then one day a native girl appears from another island.

Coming Soon: "Modesty Blaise" —A—
Monica Vitti, Terence Stamp in comedy-drama. Based on the comic strip created by Peter O'Donnell and Jim Holdaway. Adventuress and British secret agent is engaged by the government to protect a shipment of diamonds, on its way to an Arab sheik in an undercover deal for oil leases. Members of an international organization of thieves plan to hijack the gems. One of the villains is a sadistic siren who tortures and murders wantonly.

JOY DRIVE IN

Sunday through Tuesday: "The Chase" — A —
Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda in drama based on play and novel by Horton Foote. Plot concerns the effect upon people in a small town when the radio informs them that a convict has escaped and is heading back to his home town. A wealthy land owner and his hand - picked sheriff are envied by the town's small businessmen and minor executives. The executives tote guns, brawl and have extramarital affairs, the working people alternate between apathy and morbid curiosity. The teen-agers wildly seek excitement. All law - abiding respectability starts to crumble with the radio announcement that the convict may be heading home. Blood lust mounts. The sheriff is brutally beaten by drunks.

"Genghis Khan" — AMY —
Omar Sharif, Stephen Boyd, Francoise Dorleac in dramatized version of the life of the fabulous 12th century Mongol conqueror. As a young man he is brutally enslaved, but escapes and later marries the betrothed of his former captor. He unites the warring Mongol tribes under his leadership and dedicates his life to building an empire from China to Persia through Mongol unity. Cast includes Robert Morley, James Mason.

Wednesday through Friday: "That Man In Istanbul"—AMY —
Horst Buchholz, Sylva Koscina in spoof of James Bond spy movies. The United States pays a million dollar ransom for a kidnapped scientist only to discover that a double has been substituted. Scenes depict a wild chase through a Turkish bath, a fight with a steel - handed adversary atop a minaret, an underwater struggle in a swimming pool, and scene shots of Istanbul and its harbor.

"The Rare Breed" — AYC — James Stewart, Maureen O'Hara, Brian Keith in Western drama. The widow of a British cattlebreeder and her daughter attend the 1884 St. Louis Stockman's Exposition in order to sell their prize Hereford bull. They hope to crossbreed the Hereford with the traditional Texas longhorn stock, creating a new breed. It falls to an experienced cowhand to deliver the animal to its purchaser in Dodge City.

Saturday: "The Pleasure Seekers" — A —

CURTAIN CALL

By CURTIS RAPE

The theatre is dark now, but memories of this show will linger for a long time. As "Music Man" joins history, it stands beside other great hits such as "King and I," "My Fair Lady," and "Sound of Music."

It will always be remembered by audiences as a warm and entertaining show.

FUN, HARD WORK

For those in the cast, crew, and orchestra, it was a time of fun and hard work. All of which became pleasant memories as the curtain rose on opening night and the ring of laughter and applause filled Strauss Playhouse.

As the audience rose to its feet last night in tribute to an outstanding cast and an outstanding production, expressions of sentiment were in the minds of each cast member. Thoughts went back to eight weeks ago when a group of strangers, one by one, went through auditions hoping to get a part in the play.

Finally a cast was selected, rehearsals started, and the birth of a musical production began to take place. Through the hours of toil, aching muscles, and shouts of "Do that number again," lasting friendships were made. A feeling of comradship was formed, and strangers became friends working toward a common goal.

NEW ACHIEVEMENTS

"Music Man" climaxed eleven consecutive months of production work by the theatre. In this time many goals were set and achievements made. A new director and technical director were hired. A new membership record was achieved.

One of the greatest achievements was the institution of the Children's Theatre School. Under the direction of Miss Murray Burfford great progress was made in this endeavor.

SEASON

The 1965-66 Membership Season opened with "The Pleasure of His Company" with a special patrons preview honoring Blanche Oliver.

Our season musical, "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," broke all records with a near sell-out prior to opening night. And, who can forget the hillarious comedy of "Opal," and "Never Too Late," or the stark drama of "Bad Seed."

These are now history — wonderful memories of a season of fine entertainment.

The playhouse will be deserted through the month of August, but plans are already near completion for next season. Watch for news about the opening of the 1966-1967 season. It promises to be the best yet.

See you at the theatre in September.

Names Added In Hiroshima

HIROSHIMA (UPI) —This growing, living city paused Saturday to remember the day it was pronounced dead.

More than 30,000 citizens and visitors gathered Saturday morning at Hiroshima to pray for peace and for those who died during and after the first atomic bombing in history.

They watched as Mayor Shinzo Hamai deposited in the cenotaph near ground zero a new registerer containing the named of 68 persons who had died during the past year of radiation caused diseases, and the names of 482 others who disappeared without a trace on August 6, 1945, and have finally been confirmed dead.

GRIP GETTER

One of the first of the hand tools to be invented, the "pinchers", in a wide variety of styles, have been an indispensable article in every workman's tool box for hundreds of years. Nothing has come along to take their place in performing countless jobs.

Like the pliers, or pinchers, newspaper Want Ads have stood the test of time and their functional utility has never been supplanted. Still the best way to communicate your message to the public at very low cost, today's Want Ads are used by more and more people every year. Isn't it about time for you to put a Want Ad to work for you.

EASTGATE

Sunday through Thursday: "Battle of the Bulge"—AYC—
All-star cast in World War II drama, re-creating the December, 1944, surprise attack at the Siegfried Line in the Ardennes Forest of Europe when the German forces with Tiger tanks almost turned the tide of war and of history. Cast includes Henry Fonda, Robert Shaw, Robert Ryan, Dana Andrews, George Montgomery, Ty Hardin, Pier Angeli, Telly Savalas, Barbara Werle, James McArthur and Werner Peters. In color.

Friday and Thereafter: "Stagecoach" — AMY —
Bing Crosby, Ann - Margaret, Stefanie Powers, Van Heflin, Alex Cord, Slim Pickens in remake of the Western classic. Passengers on a stagecoach have urgent reasons for wanting to get out of town. Those aboard include an alcoholic doctor, a dance-hall girl, a sheriff and his prisoner, a gambler and an escaping embezzler.

JIM

Sunday through Saturday: "Lt. Robin Crusoe, U.S.N." —AYC—
Dick Van Dyke, Nancy Kwan, in Walt Disney adventure. Contemporary Robinson Crusoe, a Navy flier who has been forced to bail out of his burning plane into the Pacific Ocean, drifts up on the beach of a South Sea Island. The island's sole inhabitant is a chimpanzee whose dog-tag identifies him as an astrochimp. Together, the chimp and the flier make their island habitable. Then one day a native girl appears from another island.

Coming Soon: "Modesty Blaise" —A—
Monica Vitti, Terence Stamp in comedy-drama. Based on the comic strip created by Peter O'Donnell and Jim Holdaway. Adventuress and British secret agent is engaged by the government to protect a shipment of diamonds, on its way to an Arab sheik in an undercover deal for oil leases. Members of an international organization of thieves plan to hijack the gems. One of the villains is a sadistic siren who tortures and murders wantonly.

JOY DRIVE IN

Sunday through Tuesday: "The Chase" — A —
Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda in drama based on play and novel by Horton Foote. Plot concerns the effect upon people in a small town when the radio informs them that a convict has escaped and is heading back to his home town. A wealthy land owner and his hand - picked sheriff are envied by the town's small businessmen and minor executives. The executives tote guns, brawl and have extra-marital affairs, the working people alternate between apathy and morbid curiosity. The teen-agers wildly seek excitement. All law - abiding respectability starts to crumble with the radio announcement that the convict may be heading home. Blood lust mounts. The sheriff is brutally beaten by drunks.

"Genghis Khan" — AMY —
Omar Sharif, Stephen Boyd, Francoise Dorleac in dramatized version of the life of the fabulous 12th century Mongol conqueror. As a young man he is brutally enslaved, but escapes and later marries the betrothed of his former captor. He unites the warring Mongol tribes under his leadership and dedicates his life to building an empire from China to Persia through Mongol unity. Cast includes Robert Morley, James Mason.

Wednesday through Friday: "That Man In Istanbul"—AMY —
Horst Buchholz, Sylva Koscina in spoof of James Bond spy movies. The United States pays a million dollar ransom for a kidnapped scientist only to discover that a double has been substituted. Scenes depict a wild chase through a Turkish bath, a fight with a steel - handed adversary atop a minaret, an underwater struggle in a swimming pool, and scene shots of Istanbul and its harbor.

"The Rare Breed" — AYC — James Stewart, Maureen O'Hara, Brian Keith in Western drama. The widow of a British cattlebreeder and her daughter attend the 1884 St. Louis Stockman's Exposition in order to sell their prize Hereford bull. They hope to crossbreed the Hereford with the traditional Texas longhorn stock, creating a new breed. It falls to an experienced cowhand to deliver the animal to its purchaser in Dodge City.

Saturday: "The Pleasure Seekers" — A —
Ann - Margret, Carol Lynley, Pamela Tiffin and flamenco dancer Antonio Gades in sophisticated romance set in Madrid and Toledo. In color. Three American girls sharing an apartment in Madrid seek love and marriage. The singer meets a young doctor; the art student meets a playboy aristocrat, and the secretary is attracted to her married boss.

"Bus Riley's Back in Town" —A—
Ann - Margret, Michael Parks, in drama based on story by Broadway playwright William Inge. In color. Young man returns from the U. S. Navy and attempts to start a new life in a small midwestern town. He turns down a job as a mechanic because he aspires to something loftier. He sells vacuum cleaners door to door and drifts into an affair with a housewife. His basic decency prevails.

PARAMOUNT

Sunday through Thursday: "The Ten Commandments"—AYC—
Charlton Heston as Moses, Yul Brynner as Rameses, Anne Baxter as Princess Nefrititti, Edward G. Robinson as Dathan, Yvonne de Carlo as Sephora, Debra Paget as Lilia and John Derek as Joshua in Cedil B. DeMille's masterwork based on Holy Scriptures and adapted for the screen by Aeneas MacKenzie from the Bible, ancient and modern writings. First released in 1957. In color.

Friday and thereafter: "Walk Don't Run" — NRA —
Cary Grant, Jim Hutton, Samantha Eggar in romantic drama, set in Tokyo during the Olympic Games. An English industrialist, in Tokyo during the sports event, is unable to find a hotel room. He talks a girl into letting him share her apartment. The industrialist later meets an American athlete and architect and after a period of camaraderie sneaks the athlete into the apartment as well.

Ballots Cast

WINNFIELD (Special) — A total of 45 absentee ballots had been cast for the Aug. 13 Dem...ocratic primary election at the 5 p.m. deadline Saturday, ac...cording to Winn Clerk of Court Jesse O. Anders.

In next Saturday's election, Winn voters will have three candidates for U. S. Senator, two for Congressman, six for Louisiana Public Service Com...missioner, three for Winnfield City judge, and two for Ward 1 police jury member to choose from.

There are 31 voting precincts in Winn's 10 wards with 8,276 registered Democrats — 5,683 are white, and 1,590 are Negro.

Records Burned

OAK GROVE (Special) — Ra...dio station KWCL here sponsor...ed the burning of Beatle rec...ords, magazines, pictures and all types of literature in a huge bonfire on the courthouse square here Saturday at 7 p.m.

This action stemmed from a statement made by John Le...non of the Beatles saying his group is more popular than Jesus.

Pope Bestows His Blessings

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Pope Paul VI bestowed his personal blessings Saturday on Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent.

In a telegram from the Vatican, read during the nuptial mass by Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle, the pontiff asked "for abundant heavenly favor in their married life."

"On the joyous occasion of the wedding," the cable said, "the Holy Father bestows upon Patrick J. Nugent and Luci Johnson, personal blessings and apostolic benediction."

Luci and Pat met the Pope last October when he visited the United Nations. He con...ferred with the bride's father President Johnson.

Pope Bestows His Blessings

In a telegram from the Vatican, read during the nuptial mass by Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle, the pontiff asked "for abundant heavenly favor in their married life."

"On the joyous occasion of the wedding," the cable said, "the Holy Father bestows upon Patrick J. Nugent and Luci Johnson personal blessings and apostolic benediction."

Luci and Pat met the Pope last October when he visited the United Nations and conferred with the bride's father, President Johnson.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Finds Swimming Pool For Racehorse!

"Urgently needed. A swimming pool for a horse" read the Want Ad. The ad explained that Pacing Lawn, an Australian gelding in New York for the $100,000 International Pace, used swimming in his training routine and a heated pool was needed.

The Idlewild Health Club at the Holiday Inn near Kennedy Airport made its pool available and Pacing Lawn got "back in the swim" of his training routine.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Finds Swimming Pool For Racehorse!

"Urgently needed. A swimming pool for a horse" read the Want Ad. The ad explained that Pacing Lawn, an Australian gelding in New York for the $100,000 International Pace, used swimming in his training routine and a heated pool was needed.

The Idlewild Health Club at the Holiday Inn near Kennedy Airport made its pool available and Pacing Lawn got "back in the swim" of his training routine.

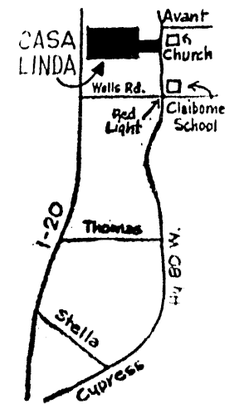
CASA LINDA DEVELOPERS BRINGS YOU

a deeply wooded, quiet and secluded area. A neighborhood of unusually lovely homes and families who reflect pride of ownership in yard care and home maintenance. Paving, curb and gutter, sewage, street lights, highly restricted. Convenient to schools, school bus to the door, shopping, churches — only 8 minutes to downtown Monroe.

Be Sure and Visit Open House Monday thru Saturday



MEDALLION HOME ELECTRICALLY — LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY

- Lots Available
- Will Custom Build For You.
- Financing Available

TO PROSPECTIVE HOME OWNERS:

We would be delighted to show you through one of the new homes in Casa Linda. Downstairs there is a foyer, carpeted living room, dining room, den, bath and kitchen with breakfast bar. Our interiors are coordinated around the avocado shades, blending beautifully with the General Electric Avocado fixtures.

Upstairs there are four oversize carpeted bedrooms, two baths, closets and storage space galore. There is a double garage, patio on the rear, and the yard is landscaped.

If you are interested in a gracious home in a neighborhood of fine people, we hope you will visit with us at our open house Monday thru Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pruett

- CLAYTON GIBSON installed carpeting
- HOUSE OF LIGHT furnished light fixtures
- CLIMATE CONTROL furnished the General Electric built-ins

This Medallion Represents the Three Essentials for

MODERN ELECTRICAL LIVING

1. The Housepower wiring you need to run all the modern electric servants which work for your added comfort and convenience
2. Flameless electric range plus at least three of these other items: electric dryer, refrigerator, freezer, washer, dishwasher, disposal, water heater, bath heater, and air conditioning.
3. Light for Living to keep your home looking its best—and also protect the precious eyesight of your loved ones.

TO PROSPECTIVE HOME OWNERS:

We would be delighted to show you through one of the new homes in Casa Linda. Downstairs there is a foyer, carpeted living room, dining room, den, bath and kitchen with breakfast bar. Our interiors are coordinated around the avocado shades, blending beautifully with the General Electric Avocedo fixtures.

Upstairs there are four oversize carpeted bedrooms, two baths, closets and storage space galore. There is a double garage, patio on the rear, and the yard is landscaped.

If you are interested in a gracious home in a neighborhood of fine people, we hope you will visit with us at our open house Monday thru Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pruett

- CLAYTON GIBSON installed carpeting
- HOUSE OF LIGHT furnished light fixtures
- CLIMATE CONTROL furnished the General Electric built-ins

This Medallion Represents the Three Essentials for MODERN ELECTRICAL LIVING

1. The Housepower wiring you need to run all the modern electric servants which work for your added comfort and convenience.
2. Flameless electric range plus at least three of these other items: electric dryer, refrigerator, freezer, washer, dishwasher, disposal, water heater, bath heater, and air conditioning.
3. Light for Living to keep your home looking its best—and also protect the precious eyesight of your loved ones.

Voters In District Facing Long Ballots

By RICHARD TYLER
Staff Writer

Practically wherever a voter lives, the August 13 first Democratic primary will place a long ballot before him. And nowhere will it be more crowded than in Ouachita Parish and the Fifth District.

In all, voters in various parts of Ouachita and the Fifth District, of which it is a part, will be passing on the merits of a total of 51 candidates, seeking a total of 21 separate offices.

And the competition is spirited. In only seven of the posts is a single man running without opposition—the three Fourth Judicial District judgeship, the West Monroe (Ward 5) judgeship, the State Board of Education seat from the Third Public Service Commission District, the Ouachita — Morehouse district attorneyship and the Ward 8 Ouachita Parish School Board membership.

In addition, in the nearby Eighth U. S. Congressional District, voters will be balloting again on Rep. Speedy O. Long, this time opposed by State Rep. Larry Parker of Alexandria.

STATEWIDE

The entire state will be passing on U. S. Sen. Allen Ellender, Louisiana's senior member in the national upper chamber and a canny veteran of the political wars. The withdrawal before the deadline of Camille Gravel, believed a certain opponent for Ellender, left only Ferriday auto dealer Troyce Guice and State Sen. J. D. Deblieux in the running.

But back in the Fifth Congressional District, a big race prestige-wise is pitting longtime foreign-aid foe, Rep. Otto E. Passman against a former Monroe grocer, Louis LaDart, who pegged his appeal to veterans and the "small man."

Unopposed, as stated, for the district judgeships are incumbents Jesse S. Heard and Hillyer S. Parker, both of Monroe, and Mack E. Barham of Bastrop.

Opposition was developing for Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter, representing the Fourth District (Ouachita and Morehouse Parishes), but fell away as local barristers J. Carl Parkerson and Thomas Fowler withdrew themselves in successive weeks.

Others unopposed include Enoch Talton Nix of Shreveport, the incumbent representative on the Louisiana Education Board from the 28-parish Third Public Service Commission District, West Monroe Judge John McCormick and J. A. Rutledge, sure of another six-year term representing Ward 8 on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

OPPOSITION PLENTIFUL

Elsewhere, the opposition is plentiful, however, including some Republican interest expressed in two Ward 5 seats coming open on the Ouachita School Board. The G.O.P.'s Fairell (Curly) Ketchell and Horace Eyre, both recent candidates for the West Monroe board of aldermen, are qualified and their formal announcements of candidacy are expected any day.

Ketchell will run for a full six-year term from Ward 5, while Eyre will seek a two-year partial term from the same political subdivision.

In other races comprising all or parts of Ouachita Parish, Mrs. Mary Burt Coverdale, serving out the remainder of her late husband, veteran assessor Bert Coverdale's term, is seeking a term in her own right. Odis Russell, an 18-year employee in the assessor's office, also is announced, and a further challenge was issued by V. A. (Bill) Randall.

Candidates are warming up in the wings for three offices from Wards 3 and 10. For Monroe marshal, Richard E. Reitzell, the son of incumbent Frank Reitzell who is not running, is in a field of three, with G. D. (Don) Glasscock and W. C. (Jack) Oglesbee.

Incumbent Pete O. Holcomb has opposition in bid for re-election as West Monroe marshal from Charles W. Towers.

VIGOROUS BID

A heated bid is slated for Monroe city judge, where W. M. Harper, the "dean" of Louisiana municipal jurists, is stepping down after 38½ years on the bench. Four men, including Acting Judge W. L. (Bill) Crowe, who has served during Harper's incapacity following a heart attack, are after the seat. In the running are Hewitt B. Johnson, George Fink, a former Fourth District judgeship candidate, and Billye L. Adams.

Election officials emphasized, in commenting on the three so-called city races, that the scope of the marshal's and judges' offices extends throughout Wards 3 and 10. Therefore, voters from throughout the two wards will be casting ballots Aug. 13, and not just in the respective Twin Cities.

Seats on the local school boards also are hotly-sought items in the Aug. 13 primary.

For a single seat on the Monroe City School Board, held presently by gubernatorial appointee Shelby Hill, a field of six men has developed. The first to qualify, H. Austin Miller, stepped down as chairman of the Monroe Democratic Executive Committee to seek the post. He was joined quickly, however, by insurance executive Robert S. Kennedy, former board candidate Peter J. Dowd, David Kahn, George J. Burroughs and Joe Kilcoyne.

Hill, a local businessman serving temporarily after his appointment by Gov. John McKeithen when Board President J.H. Scogin Jr. moved to Winnsboro, is not contesting the seat. It runs until 1968.

OUACHITA SCHOOL BOARD

Seven seats will be up for attention in the primary on the Ouachita School Board, including the two from Ward 5. The partial term from Ward 5 developed with the death of Board Vice President Roy C. Cash and runs until 1968. J. D. Purvis, a local syrup manufacturer now holding the partial term, has announced as a candidate for a full six-year term.

He is opposed by Mrs. Fred P. Riser Sr. — herself winding up the balance of the Ward 5 term held by her late husband, a well - known West Monroe building official — by druggist and Chamber of Commerce President Roy C. Brooks, and by Morris C. Griggs, the parish school system's retiring transportation supervisor.

In the special election for the partial Ward 5 term, three are vying. They are former board member Chester P. Holloway, Jerry Lee Ford and Joe B. Zuber.

Special elections were called by the governor, concurrent with the regular general election on Nov. 8. The second Democratic primary, officials noted, will be held for survivors of the first on Sept. 24.

Two parish board seats are available representing Ward 10, where the incumbents — James H. Trousdale, an attorney, and George Rorex, bank executive, are not running. Three candidates have announced for the pair of seats — William G. Kelly, Carl H. Thompson and H. W. Tolson.

SINGLE SEATS

Single seats are being contested in Wards 3 and 9, besides the single Ward 8 seat for which Rutledge has no opposition.

Leon T. Shamlin, the first Negro to seek office in Ouachita Parish in memory, has entered the lists for the Ward 3 post. Orville Renfrow is running also, and so is the incumbent, a 12-year veteran and board president, B. A. Tarver.

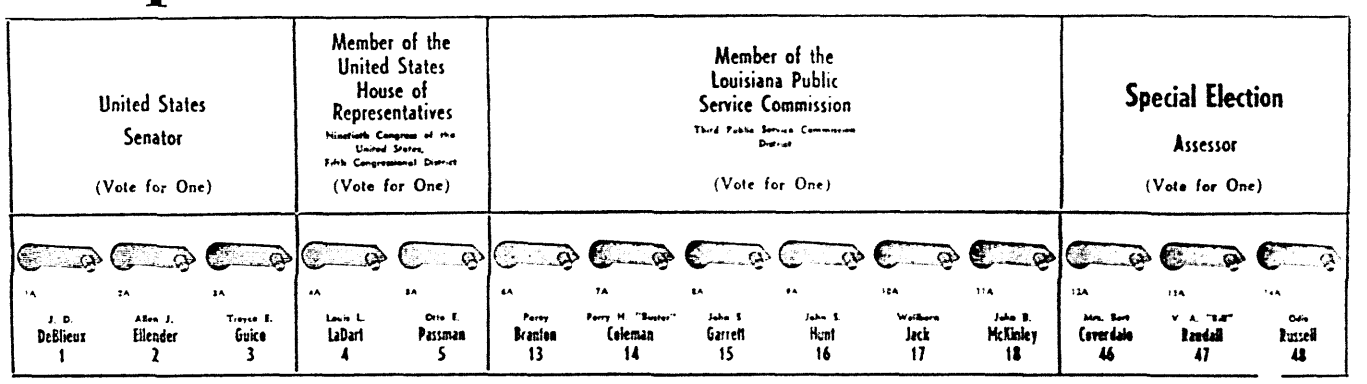
For the Ward 9 seat, a field of three is on tap, counting the incumbent Dwight E. Owens. He is opposed by Hickman L. Bamburg and M. H. Head.

But it is for the Public Service Commission seat held by John S. Hunt of Monroe that one of the primary's largest fields has developed. Hunt, appointed by the governor after McKeithen himself left the commission, is opposed by John McKinley, until recently a McKeithen law partner, by Claiborne Parish Rep. John Garrett, by Webster Parish Rep. Parey Branton, by Wellborn Jack and by Perry H. (Buster) Coleman.

Voting in the Third Public Service Commission District Bienville, Bossier, Caddo, Caldwell, Catahoula, Claiborne, Concordia, DeSoto, East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Natchitoches, Ouachita, Rapides, Red River, Richland, Sabine, Tensas, Union, Vernon, Webster, West Carroll and Winn.

The Fifth District is composed of the parishes of Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, East Carroll, Franklin, Jackson, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, Union and West Carroll.

Sample Ballot For Wards 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 8



HERE IS a sample of the ballot voters in Wards 1, 2, 4, 6, 7 and 8 in Ouachita Parish will use in the August 13 Primary.

Rep. Long Is Active On Committees

Eighth District Congressman Speedy O. Long is a candidate for re-election to the U. S. House of Representatives. First elected to the House in 1964, Long will be seeking his second term of office.

He resides in the Searcy Community, located about six miles east of Jena in LaSalle Parish, with his wife, Florence, and their two sons, Field and David. A native of LaSalle Parish, the congressman is a member of the House Armed Services Committee. This committee has the responsibility of over-seeing the nation's defense program, which includes authorizing over $50 billion annually for our nation's defense.

OTHER ASSIGNMENTS

He is also a member of the three Armed Services subcommittees. They are Subcommittee No. 2, the Subcommittee on Retirement and the Subcommittee on Classified Documents.

Before his election to Congress, Long served eight years in the Louisiana State Senate and practiced law in Jena.

Mrs. Riser Is Active In School Work

Mrs. Fred P. Riser Sr., of West Monroe, currently serving out the unexpired portion of her late husband's Ward 5 term on the Ouachita Parish School Board, is a candidate for a full six-year term representing the ward.

Mrs. Riser is the former Miss Ernie Jordan, a native and life - long resident of Ouachita Parish. She and her family have resided on the New Natchitoches Road for the past 27 years. Mrs. Riser attended parish schools and is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High School.

She is the mother of four children, all graduates of West Monroe High School. The candidate is an active member of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe. She was chairwoman of the group which organized the women's auxiliary of Glenwood Hospital.

Mrs. Riser has been active in many community affairs, being a charter member and president of the McClendon Home Demonstration Club. She has served for two years as president of the Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council, and has been recognized for outstanding work with 4-H Clubs in Ouachita Parish.

'MOTHER OF YEAR'

In 1953, Mrs. Riser was named "Mother of the Year" in the Twin Cities, and has been a leader in both Cub Scout and Girl Scout work. She is a charter member and former president of the West Monroe Lioness Club. She also has served as Ward 5 chairman for polio drives, cancer drives and heart fund efforts.

Her school interests, including P-TA work, have been extensive. She was an organizer of the West Monroe Band Booster Club and served as its treasurer.

Importance Of Post Told By Russell

Odis Russell, 1908 Filhoil, Ave., Monroe, is a candidate for the office of Ouachita Parish tax assessor. He is a 16-year veteran of the tax assessor's office, having served as chief deputy under the late Bert Coverdale.

Russell is married to the former Mamie Danna of Monroe and is the father of three boys. He is campaigning on his record and experience.

KEENLY AWARE

"I am keenly aware of the tremendous importance of the assessor's office and how it touches the lives of each and every property owner in Ouachita Parish. Our parish has been blessed with what many top officials throughout the state consider the finest assessor's administration in Louisiana." Russell said.

He promised that if elected "I will serve the voters on the basis of my training, experience and qualifications, in the only manner known to me, that being the system Mr. Coverdale taught me for 16 years. I feel that great progress has been made in Ouachita Parish. That progress must continue.

Thompson's Main Aims Are Listed

Carl Thompson of 811 Auburn Ave., Monroe, is a candidate for one of the Ward 10 seats on the Ouachita Parish School Board. Thompson is a member of the Methodist Church and is a Mason and a Shriner.

He is a past president of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club. Thompson, 61, is a graduate of Mangham High School. Employed with the Ford dealership in Monroe for the past 40 years, he is married to the former Florence Henry of Monroe, a Southern Bell employee for 40 years.

MAIN ISSUES

The couple have two children, both of whom graduated in the parish school system. He has listed the main issues in his campaign as the "neglect" of school teachers, bus drivers, cafeteria employees and others connected with the schools, and recognition for their service, along with a "decent salary."

Thompson also lists a plan to work for "harmony among members of the school board and other elected bodies" and to "promote harmony within our parish."

He declared in his announcement of candidacy, "When reasonable men meet at the conference table, they can resolve their problems in a manner satisfactory to all concerned. I believe that I can supply the incentive to reach this goal."

Same Policy, Aim Of Mrs. Coverdale

Mrs. Mary Burt Coverdale is a candidate for the office of Ouachita Parish tax assessor. She has held that position since the death of her husband, veteran assessor Bert Coverdale, earlier this year.

She is seeking election to the office with a pledge to "continue Bert's work . . . with no changes being planned in this office of the people." Mrs. Coverdale is a partner and co-owner of a West Monroe printing firm. She, her mother and brothers, have operated the Quality Printing Company since its founding.

PROMISE ON POLICIES

She lives on the Prairie Road, south of Monroe. Mrs. Coverdale promises to keep present policies of the assessor's office in force. "Knowing that the policy Bert Coverdale kept in force in his office will remain in effect will keep his memory alive for me and the people he so dearly loved," she said.

"I pledge to all of you that the doors of the assessor's office will always be open and you will get the same welcome that Bert Coverdale gave you. No changes are being planned in this office of the people.

"Knowing that I am to continue Bert's work will be the greatest reward I can receive," she said.

No. 15

SOME POLITICAL HISTORY — For 100 years Louisiana has suffered from centralization of power in Baton Rouge. Local boards and commission which were supposed to be independent have, as a matter of fact, been dominated by centralized power. Time and time again this has frightened away small industry which could not afford to maintain a lobby in Baton Rouge. We have even seen large industry locate just outside our borders — close enough to draw off our labor and raw materials but not close enough for us to benefit from the payroll. Only recently has Louisiana begun to de-centralize political power and place it back in the hands of the people where it belongs. We still have a long way to go toward state-rights-within-our state. This leads us to:

SOME PLAIN TALK — In the present Public Service Commission race there is an attempt to elect a candidate dominated by Baton Rouge. There is no real reason for this except a political fight within a famliy. However, if this candidate were elected we would be going backward, and regressing to the same type of centralized power that students of government have told us for decades is wrong. Our neighboring states of Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi have long since taken a modern view and have put political power back in the hands of the people— in other words home rule. This leads us to:

RECORDS VS. PROMISES — Of the two candidates who really have a chance to win in the current Public Service Commission race, there is only one who has even been elected to public office. I am the only candidate who has a public record which is open for all to see. Briefly, let's look at that record. I have supported reform legislation; I have supported decentralization of political power; I have supported civil service; I have supported increased teacher pay; I have supported adequate payments to those who cannot take care of themselves. I have opposed every tax increase unless it definitely and positively would provide a needed, proper and useful service.

Having been born on a farm I know the problems of the rural people. As a businessman I know the problems of the business community. Having served on industrial committees I know the needs and requirements of industry in the state and also those seeking to locate within the state of Louisiana.

Actually the needs of our rural people, our business people and of industry are very nearly the same—adequate public utility service at fair and reasonable rates and a Public Service Commission which shows no favoritism.

Remember — promises are one thing, but a proven record is another. Don't trade a proved record for a promise.

HERE IS a sample of the ballot voters in Wards 1, 2, 4, 6, 7 and 8 in Ouachita Parish will use in the August 13 Primary.

Rep. Long Is Active On Committees

Eighth District Congressman Speedy O. Long is a candidate for re-election to the U. S. House of Representatives. First elected to the House in 1964, Long will be seeking his second term of office.

He resides in the Searcy Community, located about six miles east of Jena in LaSalle Parish, with his wife, Florence, and their two sons, Field and David. Mrs. Fred P. Riser Sr., of West Monroe, currently serving out the unexpired portion of her late husband's Ward 5 term on the Ouachita Parish School Board, is a candidate for a full six-year term representing the ward.

Mrs. Riser is the former Miss Ernie Jordan, a native and life - long resident of Ouachita Parish. She and her family have resided on the New Natchitoches Road for the past 27 years. Mrs. Riser attended parish schools and is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High School.

She is the mother of four children, all graduates of West Monroe High School. The candidate is an active member of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe. She was chairwoman of the group which organized the women's auxiliary of Glenwood Hospital.

Mrs. Riser has been active in many community affairs, being a charter member and president of the McClendon Home Demonstration Club. She has served for two years as president of the Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council, and has been recognized for outstanding work with 4-H Clubs in Ouachita Parish.

'MOTHER OF YEAR'

In 1953, Mrs. Riser was named "Mother of the Year" in the Twin Cities, and has been a leader in both Cub Scout and Girl Scout work. She is a charter member and former president of the West Monroe Lioness Club. She also has served as Ward 5 chairman for polio drives, cancer drives and heart fund efforts.

Her school interests, including P-TA work, have been extensive. She was an organizer of the West Monroe Band Booster Club and served as its treasurer.

Importance Of Post Told By Russell

Odis Russell, 1908 Filhoil, Ave., Monroe, is a candidate for the office of Ouachita Parish tax assessor. He is a 16-year veteran of the tax assessor's office, having served as chief deputy under the late Bert Coverdale.

Russell is married to the former Mamie Danna of Monroe and is the father of three boys. He is campaigning on his record and experience.

KEENLY AWARE

"I am keenly aware of the tremendous importance of the assessor's office and how it touches the lives of each and every property owner in Ouachita Parish. Our parish has been blessed with what many top officials throughout the state consider the finest assessor's administration in Louisiana." Russell said.

He promised that if elected "I will serve the voters on the basis of my training, experience and qualifications, in the only manner known to me, that being the system Mr. Coverdale taught me for 16 years. I feel that great progress has been made in Ouachita Parish. That progress must continue.

Thompson's Main Aims Are Listed

Carl Thompson of 811 Auburn Ave., Monroe, is a candidate for one of the Ward 10 seats on the Ouachita Parish School Board. Thompson is a member of the Methodist Church and is a Mason and a Shriner.

He is a past president of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club. Thompson, 61, is a graduate of Mangham High School. Employed with the Ford dealership in Monroe for the past 40 years, he is married to the former Florence Henry of Monroe, a Southern Bell employee for 40 years.

MAIN ISSUES

The couple have two children, both of whom graduated in the parish school system. He has listed the main issues in his campaign as the "neglect" of school teachers, bus drivers, cafeteria employees and others connected with the schools, and recognition for their service, along with a "decent salary."

Thompson also lists a plan to work for "harmony among members of the school board and other elected bodies" and to "promote harmony within our parish."

He declared in his announcement of candidacy, "When reasonable men meet at the conference table, they can resolve their problems in a manner satisfactory to all concerned. I believe that I can supply the incentive to reach this goal."

Same Policy, Aim Of Mrs. Coverdale

Mrs. Mary Burt Coverdale is a candidate for the office of Ouachita Parish tax assessor. She has held that position since the death of her husband, veteran assessor Bert Coverdale, earlier this year.

She is seeking election to the office with a pledge to "continue Bert's work . . . with no changes being planned in this office of the people." Mrs. Coverdale is a partner and co-owner of a West Monroe printing firm. She, her mother and brothers, have operated the Quality Printing Company since its founding.

PROMISE ON POLICIES

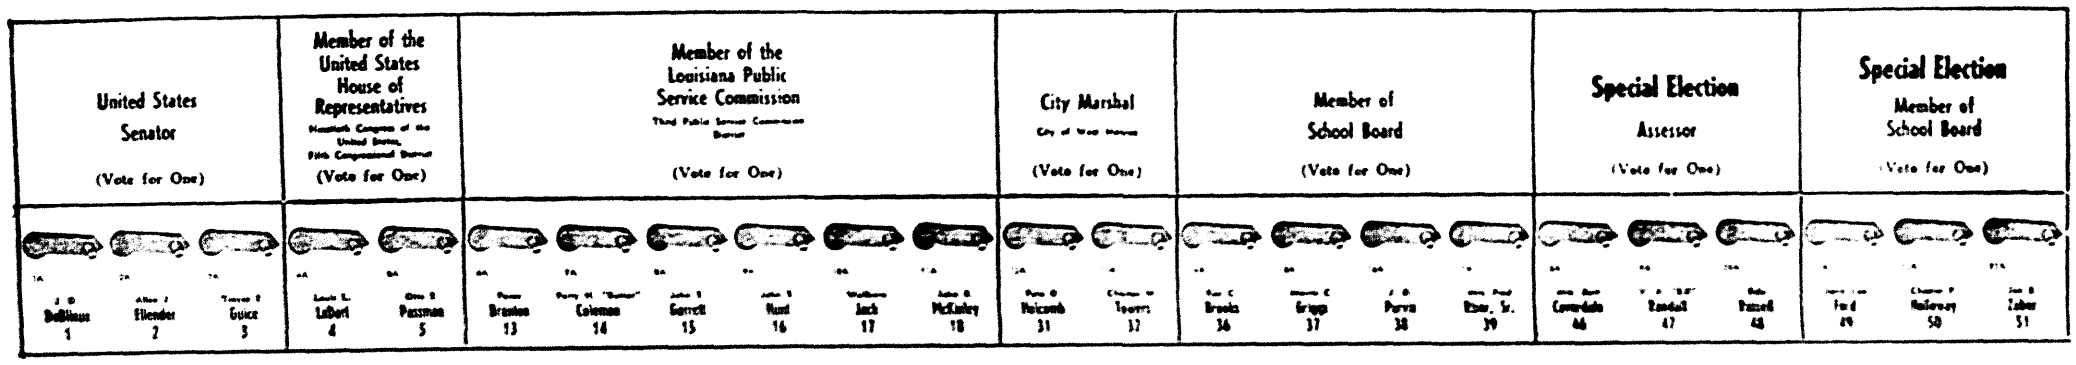
She lives on the Prairie Road, south of Monroe. Mrs. Coverdale promises to keep present policies of the assessor's office in force. "Knowing that the policy Bert Coverdale kept in force in his office will remain in effect will keep his memory alive for me and the people he so dearly loved," she said.

"I pledge to all of you that the doors of the assessor's office will always be open and you will get the same welcome that Bert Coverdale gave you. No changes are being planned in this office of the people.

"Knowing that I am to continue Bert's work will be the greatest reward I can receive," she said.

Mrs. Coverdale attended Ouachita Parish schools and graduated from Northeast Junior College in Monroe.

Sample Ballot For Voters In Ward 5 In Primary



WARD FIVE VOTERS will use this ballot in casting their votes in the August 13 Primary in Ouachita Parish.

Youth Work Pointed Out By Tarver

B. A. Tarver of 508 Richardson, Monroe is a candidate for re-election to a Ward 3 seat on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

Tarver is a 12-year veteran of service on the school board and has served for the past three years as board president. The candidate is a lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish and worked with youth for 11 years at the Louisiana Training Institute in Monroe.

The last 18 years of that period was spent as assistant superintendent of L.T.I. Tarver is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, as are his six children. He is a veteran and an active member of the American Legion.

He is secretary of the board of trustees and is Sunday School superintendent at the Central Baptist Church. Tarver has slanted his campaign to emphasis on his work with youth.

"I am retired and have ample time to devote to our school system," he stated. "I feel that my past experience working with adults and young people qualifies me for re-election to the Ouachita Parish School Board."

He added, "I am interested in all the schools, east side and west side." Tarver declared that the future of the dual school systems in the parish (City of Monroe and Ouachita Parish systems) depends on cooperation, and says, "I am always ready to cooperate."

Points Given On Platform By Johnson

H. B. Johnson, 46, 2809 Pargoud Blvd., Monroe, is a candidate for city judge in Wards 3 and 10.

A native of Catahoula Parish, Johnson has lived here and practiced law for the past 18 years. He is married to the former Hazel Tate of North Caroline and has two children.

A veteran of World War II, having served with the Navy, Johnson is a 1948 graduate of Tulane University law school. He is a member of the Methodist Church, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Y.M.C.A., Louisiana Bar Association and Fourth Judicial District Bar Association.

The candidate set forth his platform in a series of specific points for conduct of the office: "to apply the law in each case to insure the maximum safety and protection to the general public on the streets and in the homes of our city; to exercise the influence of this office to obtain competent and trained personnel for the administering of the problems of the youth of our city; to guarantee every accused a fair and impartial trial according to law; to organize an advisory committee of citizens to make recommendations to the court for the improvement of the administration of the affairs of the court; to be a hard working, full - time judge available at all times to see and to consult with all persons having business with the court; to receive and treat all visitors to the court in a kindly and courteous manner; to require a thorough investigation into all the facts related to the case of any accused appearing before the court."

Fairness Pledged By Glasscock

G. D. Glasscock, 34, of 101 Ivy Place, Monroe, is a candidate for city marshal in Wards 10 and 3.

A native of Franklin Parish, the candidate moved to Monroe in 1956 after serving with the Army in the Korean Conflict. He is married to the former Lucille Coburn of Rayville and is the father of three daughters.

Glasscock served for eight years as a police officer in Monroe, before resigning in 1964 to establish his own business, representing a national stainless steel cookware firm in Louisiana.

He is a member of the First United Pentecostal Church. In a statement, Glasscock said, "I feel that in order for any candidate to declare himself independent and uncontrolled, he cannot make anyone any special promises or accept any donations from anyone. Nor can he have any connection or obligations to any of our present city officials. I want this office but I will not bargain for it.

PLEDGE

"There is no human being that will put money into a candidate's hip pocket without wanting to crawl into that same hip pocket after he is elected sooner or later for some special favor. If I am given the opportunity to serve as marshal, I will put forth all of my time and effort in performing the duties with courteous, fair and impartial service to everyone of Wards 3 and 10.

Federal Workers In Union Ranks Show Increase

WASHINGTON (Special) — Union membership of Federal Government employees is now estimated to have reached approximately 1,100,000 out of the Government's total work force of about 2,500,000 employees.

Of the presently organized Government employees about 600,000 are postal workers. The other 500,000 are in the various Federal white-collar and blue-collar employees' unions as well as in the industrial unions which have members in the Federal service.

Union membership has increased rapidly since the establishment of the automatic check-off union dues system whereby the Government agencies do the job of collecting for the unions in many instances.

Third Term Is Sought By Holcomb

Pete O. Holcomb, 54, of Rt. 2, Box 464, West Monroe, is a candidate for a third term as city marshal, Ward 5.

He has pegged his campaign on continued fairness and service. He is married to the former Ruby Schanks of West Monroe and is the father of two daughters and a son.

He is president and a former vice president of the Louisiana City Marshals' and Constables' Association, and a member of The West Monroe Chamber of Commerce and West Monroe Kiwanis Club.

He is also on the board of directors of the West Monroe Boys Club. He belongs to the Welcome Home Church of God.

The candidate said in a statement, "I promise this time, as before, service and fairness. Anyone with the occasion to use my office will be treated fairly and helped in any way that I can help. I have tried to conduct my office in such a way that I do not have to be ashamed now when I once again ask for the vote and support of Ward 5 residents.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

While I plan to conduct a vigorous campaign, and see as many as possible with keeping up the duties of my office, it may not be possible to contact personally each and every voter. But I certainly covet each one's support and it would be greatly appreciated."

Fair Policy Is Pledged By Renfrow

A native of Franklin Parish and resident of Monroe for the past 13 years, he is married to the former Annelle Abbott of Fort Necessity, and is the father of two daughters and a son. He resides at 1611 Sunset Dr., Monroe.

The candidate served in the U. S. Air Force prior to and during the Korean Conflict, and was stationed on Okinawa in the Pacific theatre for two years. He is employed by Olin Mathieson's container division in West Monroe, having been with the company and its predecessor company in West Monroe, for 13 years.

Renfrow is a member of the Southside Baptist Church. He is active in church work and is adult Sunday School superintendent. He is active in Parent-Teacher Association activities and is president of a local unit. Renfrow has concentrated in his campaign on fitting education to today's world.

RAPID CHANGE

He said, "The world in which we live today is changing at such a rapid pace, a higher degree of education is essential to a wholesome and productive life."

Of his candidacy, he declared, "I will always be fair and conscientious in my representation and will be at the service of our teachers, children and parents. I will be an interested hard-working board member and eager to work with our administrators, other board members and teachers."

Kahn Gives Philosophy On Duties

A graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College, Kahn is a local insurance agent. He has been president of the college's alumni association for the past two years, and is a member of the Louisiana Alumni Council.

He is a member of the Greater Monroe Optimist Club and is a life - long resident of Monroe.

Himself a product of the city school system, he now has two children attending Monroe schools.

PROMPTED

"For a number of years, I have had a tremendous interest in the field of education and this interest has prompted me to announce my candidacy for the city school board.

"As to my educational philosophy, if elected my attitude would be that school board members should handle business matters only, leaving to paid professional educators all matters pertaining to the running of the schools. After all, it is they who have the specialized training, the day to day acquaintance with the specific operational problems, and the awareness of total effects to make informed decisions in the schools. Board concerns should be policy matters.

VOTE CARL H. THOMPSON
OUACHITA PARISH
SCHOOL BOARD

Carl H. Thompson is 60 years old.
Is married and has two children, both of whom graduated from the Ouachita Parish School System. He is a member of the Methodist Church and has been employed by the Ford Motor Company for the past 40 years. He is a Mason, and Past President of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club.

STATEMENT AS FOLLOWS:

I am and always have been interested in the Ouachita School System as I have two children who graduated here. For many years in the past, I have worked to help the crippled children in this area and have been responsible for sending many of them to the children's Shrine hospital in Shreveport. I believe that we have a very fine school system in this Parish, but I can see room for much improvement. I was astonished, shocked, and disappointed when our Governor vetoed the meager pay raise for the lunch room employees and maintenance workers of our system. I promise to do all in my power to secure such a raise for them in the future.

I pledge to you that I will do all that I can to promote harmony among the members of the Ouachita Parish School Board. I believe that a group of reasonable men such as this should be able to sit at the conference table, discuss the problems intelligently, and come up with a reasonable solution without resorting to anger or personalities. I will work toward this end if you elect me as your School Board Member on August 13 Ward 10 Ouachita Parish School Board.

No. 15

SOME POLITICAL HISTORY — For 100 years Louisiana has suffered from centralization of power in Baton Rouge. Local boards and commission which were supposed to be independent have, as a matter of fact, been dominated by centralized power. Time and time again this has frightened away small industry which could not afford to maintain a lobby in Baton Rouge. We have even seen large industry locate just outside our borders — close enough to draw off our labor and raw materials but not close enough for us to benefit from the payroll. Only recently has Louisiana begun to de-centralize political power and place it back in the hands of the people where it belongs. We still have a long way to go toward state-rights-within-our state. This leads us to:

SOME PLAIN TALK — In the present Public Service Commission race there is an attempt to elect a candidate dominated by Baton Rouge. There is no real reason for this except a political fight within a famliy. However, if this candidate were elected we would be going backward, and regressing to the same type of centralized power that students of government have told us for decades is wrong. Our neighboring states of Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi have long since taken a modern view and have put political power back in the hands of the people— in other words home rule. This leads us to:

RECORDS VS. PROMISES — Of the two candidates who really have a chance to win in the current Public Service Commission race, there is only one who has even been elected to public office. I am the only candidate who has a public record which is open for all to see. Briefly, let's look at that record. I have supported reform legislation; I have supported decentralization of political power; I have supported civil service; I have supported increased teacher pay; I have supported adequate payments to those who cannot take care of themselves. I have opposed every tax increase unless it definitely and positively would provide a needed, proper and useful service.

Having been born on a farm I know the problems of the rural people. As a businessman I know the problems of the business community. Having served on industrial committees I know the needs and requirements of industry in the state and also those seeking to locate within the state of Louisiana.

Actually the needs of our rural people, our business people and of industry are very nearly the same—adequate public utility service at fair and reasonable rates and a Public Service Commission which shows no favoritism.

Remember — promises are one thing, but a proven record is another. Don't trade a proved record for a promise.

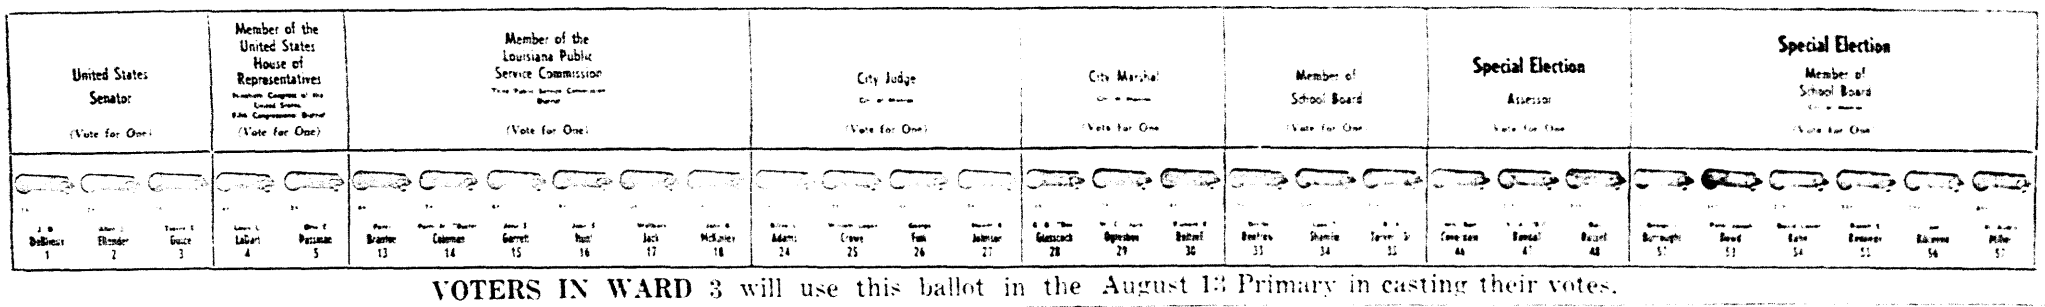
Sample Ballot For Voters In Ward 3 In Primary



VOTERS IN WARD 3 will use this ballot in the August 13 Primary in casting their votes.

T. Guice Listed As Conservative

Dubbed the "Young Conservative," Guice is running under a program of "principled constitutionalism and state sovereignty." He is married and has three daughters.

"I believe imaginative free enterprise is always superior to federal socialism and said, in offering his platform. "I am for the substantial reduction of federal income taxes if the reduction is preceded by an equivalent decrease in excessive government expenditures — a task to which I am dedicated.

"I oppose federal aid to education," he said, "and federal control of agriculture. There should be a gradual return to the free marketing system."

Asserting another plank on his ticket, Guice said he believed strongly in the "military containment of communism in strategic areas. "However," he said "I believe most of our activity is in areas which are not strategic."

Guice said he was for the United Nations, "but not the United Nations as it is now operated. Noting that he was for cutting back foreign aid, Guice said "In short, I am for nationalism here and less internationalism."

Former Senator May Seek Post

WASHINGTON (Special) — Representative Claude D. Pepper, Democrat, who served as United States Senator from Florida from 1936 to 1951, and was the Senate's most ardent New Dealer, is eying his old seat and may make a try for it in 1968 when Senator George A. Smathers retires.

Assured of re-election to the House of Representatives in November, Pepper will not immediately make announcement of any Senate race plans he may have. Former Governor LeRoy Collins, now Undersecretary of Commerce, has already announced he will leave his Washington post in the autumn to seek the Smathers' seat.

Modernizing Of System, Ford's Goal

Jerry L. Ford, 28, is a candidate for the two - year partial term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5. The office-seeker has declared himself an independent candidate aiming to "free the parish school system of the shackles of the old and out-dated dual school system" — a reference to the operation of both City of Monroe and Ouachita systems.

Ford, a citizen of West Monroe for 26 years, is married to the former Avis Patton and the couple have one daughter, Debra, six-years-old, who is a student at Millsaps Grammar School. Ford is the son of the late Joe A. Ford Sr. and Mrs. Tom Mitchell. He attended Millsaps Grammar School, Ouachita Parish High School and West Monroe High School. He began working with his father in the produce business while in grammar school and has been associated with that type of work since.

ACTIVITIES

The candidate is an active member of the Edgewood Baptist Church, where he and his wife presently teach Sunday school classes. He is a member of the Woodmen of the World and of the Young Democratic Men for Better Government organization.

Other points in Ford's campaign, he listed as, "I am for better pay for school teachers and all low salaried school employees. In order for my child and yours to have the best possible education, I realize that we must improve the present pay scale."

He also listed needs for more sidewalks at schools to keep children from nearby streets and for covered walkways to permit movement around school buildings in inclement weather.

Oglesbee Describes Experience

W. C. (Jack) Oglesbee, 54, of 906 Florida St., Monroe, is a candidate for the office of city marshal, Wards 3 and 10.

Oglesbee has served as deputy marshal of the Monroe City Court during off-duty hours for the past four years and has worked fulltime for the last year.

He is a retired Monroe police department captain having retired from the force in January. He is a member of the Louisiana Peace Officers Association, and the Louisiana Marshals and Constables Association.

He is a veteran of World War II, having served with the Navy. He joined the local police department in 1945 and held the rank of captain for 12 years.

He is married and the father of four children.

STATEMENT

In a statement, he said, "During off - duty hours, I have served as deputy marshal for the Monroe City Court for four years and am still serving in this capacity. The present incumbent is not seeking re-election; therefore, since I am thoroughly familiar with all the duties of this office, I believe my service as your deputy marshal qualifies me for the position. I shall gratefully appreciate your vote and support and promise, in return, to render efficient service to all."

DeBlieux Serving In Legislature

State Sen. J. B. DeBlieux of Baton Rouge, is a candidate for the United States Senate.

A native of Ouachita Parish, DeBlieux is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana Junior College, now Northeast State College, and the LSU law school. He has served in the Louisiana Senate for six years and is a member of the Democratic State Central Committee from Baton Rouge and previously served on the same body representing Ouachita Parish from 1938-1940.

He was named "Outstanding Legislator" by the Capitol Press Corps during his first term in the Senate.

DeBlieux has been a practicing attorney in Baton Rouge since 1940, except for military service in World War II.

"Louisiana voters deserve something better than a choice between tweedle-dee and tweedle-dum in the election for United States Senator," DeBlieux said. "I have proved my dedication to the cause of the working people of our state and to the poor and underprivileged. I believe in a creative, open-minded approach to government where new ideas are carefully considered, not automatically shunned."

DeBlieux is married to the former Dorothy Lepino and is the father of one son. He is a member of the Baton Rouge Chamber of Commerce, the Public Affairs Research Council, East Baton Rouge Lions Club and serves on the board of directors of both the Family Counseling Service and the Greater Baton Rouge Mental Health Association.

School Setup Is Lauded By Kilcoyne

Joseph Kilcoyne, 44, 905 South Third St., Monroe, is a candidate for the Monroe City School Board.

"I have no political obligation to anyone in the City of Monroe, or elsewhere, and my only interest in this office is in providing the best program for all students in the city," the candidate said in announcing for the post.

Kilcoyne is married to the former Mary Thrush and has three children — Mike, a student at Neville High School, Danny, a student at Wossman High School, and Marian, a student at Jefferson Junior High School.

ACTIVE WITH YOUTH

Active in youth affairs, the candidate has served as manager or assistant manager of local Little League, Dixie League and Dixie Senior League. He has been employed as a salesman for F. Strauss and Son, Inc. for the past 14 years.

"I believe that the City of Monroe presently has a school system that is second to none in the State of Louisiana. However, I further believe that we should not for once relax our efforts in maintaining and improving the high academic standards, for which our system is noted."

"I feel that I can work in harmony with all members presently serving on the board and I know that I can represent the people of Monroe, from all areas, without favoritism or bias."

Serve Needs Of Schools, Brooks' Aim

Roy C. Brooks, 53, of 315 Medorah Dr., West Monroe, is a candidate for the full six-year term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5.

Brooks, operator of a drug store in West Monroe, is a native of Calhoun and has lived in West Monroe since 1927, where he is a member and steward of the West Monroe First Methodist Church. Active in community affairs, Brooks is a charter member and current president of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce an organization in which he has held eight major committee chairmanships.

He is also on the board of the Ouachita Parish Better Business Bureau, a member and past president of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club, current vice chairman of the Salvation Army board of directors and a current director of the parish United Givers' Fund.

OTHER SERVICE

Brooks held a captaincy in the Salvation Army's building fund drive. He has served for three years on the executive committee of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council and is currently a director of the organization. He is a member of the West Monroe Planning Commission and has been active in recent years in both the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society and Heart Fund campaigns, besides serving on the special committee whose work resulted in the establishment of West Monroe's Glenwood Hospital.

Brooks was instrumental as a chamber leader in organizing the city's Christmas lighting program. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and is seeking his first political office. His military service career includes 3½ years in the U.S. Army, spent mostly overseas in the Pacific theatre. Brooks has built his platform on meeting future needs with a "well-rounded" educational program. His principal points: "To offer first allegiance to the children of our parish; to provide outstanding educational opportunities for all children; and to respect teachers as professional individuals."

LAW ON LAW

MIAMI (AP) — County grand jury investigators raided two bolita (numbers racket) houses recently, arrested three persons — and got a ticket for illegal parking.

"Infuriating," said one of the crime-fighters. "Here we were in this place arresting these people and this policeman is outside writing us a ticket.

"We argued, but he just kept on writing."

YOUR

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE:

- John B. McKinley—age 42—practicing attorney
- Member, Official Board, First Methodist Church of Monroe
- Member Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation
- Married—father of two daughters
- 32 Degree Mason-Shriner
- Veteran of World War II
- Member — Louisiana State Bar Association — American Bar Association — Louisiana Trial Lawyers Association
- Nominated one of Nation's 10 Outstanding Young Men by U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce
- Graduate of Louisiana State University (Worked way through College).
- Chairman, Louisiana State Sovereignty Commission 1964-66.

3 GOOD REASONS WHY JOHN B. McKINLEY WILL BE ELECTED YOUR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER

- Telephone installation rates have been raised without Public Hearing or Notice
- It costs you MORE to make Long Distance calls within Louisiana than it does to call out-of-state
- We have too many people without ANY Telephone Service and too many 2-4-8 party lines.

"The Rates you pay for your Telephone, Gas, Lights and Water need to be protected by a man who will represent YOU. This I am qualified to do."

ODIS RUSSELL

FOR TAX ASSESSOR

I solicit your vote and support solely on the basis of my training, experience and qualifications. Where your taxes are concerned I think you'll agree this should be the only consideration.

Throughout my 16 years experience in the Ouachita Parish Assessor's office, it's been my privilege to receive training and experience under the late Assessor Mr. Bert Coverdale, as well as the late Mr. Sidney Joffrion and the late Mr. Walter Rhodes.

Increasing responsibility was given me through the years and for a long period before the death of the late Assessor I served as his Chief Deputy, in the administration of what was widely considered Louisiana's model assessor's office.

Home Rule Favored By Burroughs

George J. Burroughs, 48, of 803 S. 9th St., Monroe, is a candidate for the Monroe City School Board. An employe of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., he is married to the former Florence Smith of Rayville. Burroughs is a notary public.

He is a member of the Jackson Street Church of Christ, the Collegetown Lodge No. 564, F & AM, and of local 512 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, AFL-CIO. He is also an honorary colonel on Gov. John McKeithen's staff. He has been a resident of Monroe for 20 years. He has three children in the Monroe school system. In a statement, Burroughs pledged not to make any "deals with any party or parties unless it be for the good of our future generation."

He also noted that "there is no wrath so great as the wrath of our Lord, and may I add, the voters." Burroughs further said, "Being born and raised in Louisiana, I am strictly in favor of home rule and constitutional government.

FAVORS EXPANSION

"I am not in favor of limited boundaries, I think as the city grows, so should all the facilities of that city, including the school district. Plans not yet brought before the Legislature in Baton Rouge can be made to rectify the payment of dual school taxes that are occurring because of city expansion. I hope to be able to work toward this solution. I have no axe to grind with any of the personnel or its present board members. Nor do I have anything I wish to sell through these channels except my honest and sincere service to the people of Monroe.

"For many years, the average working family has had little or no voice in the matters pertaining to the conduct and activity of the people who pay most of the taxes. These are the people I wish to represent."

GLUTTON FOR PUNISHMENT

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Byron Watson went fishing and was sunburned and frostbitten in little more than 24 hours.

When he started, the sun boiled up into the 80s and at the end of the day Watson was squirming with a burned back. That night, he returned to the lake and fished all night.

Zuber Cites Basis For Decision

Joe B. Zuber of 402 McGuire St., West Monroe, is a candidate for the two-year partial term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5.

Zuber is married to the former Margaret Durham and is the father of one son, Joe Jr. He is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish school system and has been a resident of West Monroe since 1941. Zuber is associated with his father and brother in P. G. Zuber and Sons Building Contractors in West Monroe.

Following his graduation from high school in 1956, he was a painting contractor, until joining the present family firm in 1963.

The Zubers have been engaged in subdivision developments over the past several years in the West Monroe area. The candidate lists only one pledge in his campaign: "I will represent the people of Ward 5 to the best of my ability, being guided only by their wishes and desires."

DECISION

He added, "I make this decision (to seek office) firmly convinced that better schools build better communities and a better life for its citizens." To Ward 5 voters, Zuber said, "I will make a sincere effort to contact each voter in Ward 5 during the campaign, but to the voters I do not see, I extend an invitation to call me and discuss with me any aspect of the campaign."

The candidate said he feels that his experience as a building contractor will help him in getting the people more for their money in constructing school buildings.

TEACHER WAS NEPHEW OF PUPILS

GLASGOW, Ky. (AP) — Not many teachers faced the problem confronting Samuel S. Smith when he began teaching in a one-room schoolhouse at Little Poplar Grove.

Among Smith's 40 students were three of his aunts, two uncles and a sister.

"None of relatives seemed to know what to call me," he said. "So usually they didn't call me — they just came after me."

VOTE

COVERDALE

No 46 for ASSESSOR

Mrs. Bert Coverdale asks for your support in electing her to the office of ASSESSOR of OUACHITA PARISH to fill the unexpired portion of Bert's term. She has served in this office for the past six months by appointment of the governor.

When elected she promises to continue to operate this office in the same fair and impartial manner as in the past. The "Fair Share" assessment policies which you, the people of Ouachita Parish have come to accept and expect as COVERDALE policies will continue to guide the actions of the office.

1. Manroe Chamber of Commerce dated April 30, 1965
   "Whereas, Ouachita Parish's current total assessment of $139,454,270 is termed 'fair' and realistic percentage of assessment by P. A. R. (Public Affairs Research Council) in comparison to State-wide practices Whereas, Bert Coverdale, the Tax Assessor of Ouachita Parish, has diligently worked over many yeors, with the estoblishment of a constant "Fair-Assessment" ratio philosophy which has been geared to the Progress and Stability of our area's economy"
   "Therefore, be it resolved: that, the Monroe Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors publicly endorse and support the Assessment Philsophy that has been so fairly administered by Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale, and further—that any efforts made to 'change' the average Assessment percentage ratios in Ouachita Parish shall be vigorously opposed."

2. West Monroe Chamber of Commerce dated April 22, 1965
   "Be it resolved by the Board of Directors of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce that said Chamber go on record as favoring the present ratio of assessment used by the Honorable Bert Coverdale, Tax Assessor of Ouachita Parish, in calculating annual ad valorem taxes on property located in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana."
   "Be it further resolved that said Chamber go on record as commending the manner in which the Honorable Bert Coverdale has conducted the affairs of the office of Tax Assessor, of Ouachita Parish, Louisiana."

3. Ouachita Parish School Board dated May 18, 1965
   "Whereas, Bert Coverdale has served as Tax Assessor for a period in excess of a quarter of a century and, Whereas Mr. Coverdale has always carried out his duties in a manner that has been fair to business, industry and home owners and,
   Whereas he has always co-operated with the public bodies of the Parish at all times and especially with the Ouachita Parish School Board, Therefore be it resolved that the Ouachita Parish School Board, meeting in special session, Tuesday, May 18, 1965 commends Mr. Coverdale for his long and distinguished service as Tax Assessor of Ouachita Parish.

4. Letter from West Monroe Civitan Club dated April 21, 1965
   "Dear Mr. Coverdale:
   The West Monroe Civitan Club, at their Tuesday night meeting, voted to draft a resolution endorsing the present ratio of property assessments in Ouachita Parish."

NEEDED: The VERY BEST person available for this MOST IMPORTANT OFFICE.

NECESSARY QUALIFICATIONS:

One who is CAPABLE, COURTEOUS, HONEST, UNCONTROLLED and UNDERSTANDING.

APPLICANT: V. A. "Bill" Randall, 48 years of age, a native of Catahoula Parish and resident of 2408 North 9th Street, West Monroe, Louisiana, since February 1, 1951. Married to the former Annee Heard and father of two sons, Jimmy and Steve.

EDUCATION: High School, General Business Course and Correspondence Course in Higher Accounting.

EXPERIENCE: Deputy Clerk of Court, Deputy Tax Assessor, Abstracter and Clerk of Draft Boord in Catahoula Parish . . .

Yeoman in U. S. Navy . . .

Deputy Clerk of Court in Ouachita Parish . . . Abstracter, Office Manager, Land Title & Leases, and Part Time Deputy Tax Assessor in Richland Parish . . .

Self-employed as Abstracter, Oil & Gas Lease Broker, Right-of-Way Agent and in Land Title Work, based in Ouachita Parish, however, covering Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and elsewhere as occasion demands.

V. A. "Bill" Randall"

I WANT THIS JOB!

To get it I know the majority of YOU VOTERS must be convinced that YOU should "hire" me.

Have you ever personally applied to approximately 38,000 prospective "bosses"? Neither have I, although I have tried and am still trying to do just that.

To YOU who I am unable to see in person . . . To YOU who I did not have time to talk with at length and to YOU who may not know the full truth, I address the following.

YOUR Assessor's Office has a direct relationship with almost every one of YOU, whether a property owner or not. In some form all of YOU are affected by property valuation.

YOUR Police Jury and School Board must use YOUR Assessor's valuation as a basis upon which to project their budgets . . . businesses must consider property taxes when pricing their merchandise . . . landlords the same when fixing a rental figure . . . the list is endless.

YOUR ASSESSOR IS IMPORTANT TO YOU — CHOOSE WISELY.

As to my capability, I submit the above experience covering a PERIOD OF 28 YEARS.

Examination, except for the war years, reveals a continuous association with the one commodity YOUR ASSESSOR MUST KNOW — LAND.

From Clerk of Court's Offices I have acquired a thorough knowledge of deed, mortgage and suit records . . . from Abstract Offices I have learned to compile the history of a tract of land from its first ownership by the U. S. Government through every transaction ever recorded in connection therewith including the present owner . . . and from Assessor's Offices I have first hand knowledge of the job I am asking YOU for.

As a self-employed person I have had to conclude business transactions with people in all walks of life, of every nationality and faith. I have traded in fields, in factories, in huts and in mansions . . . with the uneducated, the poor and the rich, in our own Louisiana, in Illinois, in New York and in California — South, North, East and West.
To have worked with, and for, the PUBLIC these many years should erase any doubt as to the kind of treatment YOU will get. I do not believe any discourteous or dishonest person could have such a past record without these two very necessary qualities. I invite your investigation of my background — talk with any of my former employers and especially do I point with pride to those from whom I have bought leases and rights-of-way, some as many as two and three times, who are now helping me and working in my behalf.

YOU are entitled to know that a portion of my campaign expense has been donated by FRIENDS. These have been small amounts, freely given without any thought of personal gain or promise of jobs and favors, and were accepted with appreciation. There are absolutely no "strings" attached to me — I am not "lined up" with any political faction or other group and the service I will render YOU has no limitation. I will welcome constructive advice FROM ANY AND ALL but will take "orders" from no one.

YOUR ASSESSOR must have an understanding of the people and their problems. It is my belief that I have this qualification in abundance. Not only have I worked in YOUR public offices but I have visited with YOU in YOUR offices, fields and homes. When there were no "poltics at issue I talked with YOU and the things that were discussed are fixed in my mind and will be remembered when I am YOUR ASSESSOR.

The operation of YOUR ASSESSOR'S OFFICE is more than the preparation of a "tax roll" — consider YOUR choice carefully.

If I were unsure of myself I would not have submitted this application.

Sincerely

MONROE CITY JUDGE...

For more than 34 years, I have been engaged in the practice of law before the various Courts of our state and nation. An attorney must constantly study the law and its application to our varied problems. The many contacts and associations I have made over these past 34 years have been invaluable as they have afforded me an insight to the vital need of applying common sense to the law as a practical solution rather than inflexibly applying the law to each and every case.

Just as the law changes to meet the needs of an ever changing society so must the Court itself if the fairest system of justice is to prevail. I was happy to learn that the incumbent judge had finally come around to the viewpoint I epoused some nearly 20 years ago that the judge of the Monroe City Court should not receive fees in addition to his other pay (Act 206 of 1964 which becomes effective January 1, 1967). The time is here for other needed changes to be made in this court such as (1) placing all fines on an equal footing with those imposed by our District Court (2) an acceptable scientific test for driving while under the influence of intoxicants, which should be helpful to both the accused and the law enforcement authorities (3) an increase in the small claim jurisdiction from $100.00 to $200.00 in cases that can be filed without an attorney and (4) extending the civil and criminal jurisdiction (felonies excepted) to cover all Wards east of the Ouachita River, with civil jurisdiction increased to $2500.00.

The unfortunate rapid rise of juvenile cases makes imperative the early establishment of a Family Court where all matters affecting the family can be heard such as is now done in New Orleans, Shreveport and Baton Rouge.

I have long felt that the judge of the Monroe City Court should not be permitted to engage in the practice of law since to do so would put him in direct competition with his fellow attorneys who would sooner or later be practicing before his very court and which would place them both in an unfair position.

I strongly believe that the fines imposed by the City Court should be in line with those handed out in our District Court. If elected your Judge I will place all such fines on an equal basis with those of our District Court. The administration of justice would be a hollow mockery if the only purpose served by fines is to enrich the city treasury. A fine should be imposed only where there is a clear case of a violation and all reasonable doubts must be resolvd in favor of the person being tried as the law requires. I believe in the complete and absolute separation of powers, that is, the Police Department should be run by the Police and the City Court should be run by the Judge.

The people of Monroe have built and will soon open a much needed Civic Center with a beautiful, modern courtroom which must always dispense true justice under the law where every person regardless of his station in life will be treated alike with preferential treatment to no one.

In the case of a working person whose family is dependent on him or her for their support, jail sentences will be carried out by permitting this person to work during his working hours at his trade so that the family will not be deprived of the necessities of life. He or she will spend each night, weekend and holiday serving his sentence.

I have always tried to be fair, considerate and honorable in my every endeavor. This attitude I will take with me to the Judge's Office if you will permit me to occupy it. I do not and can not promise you special consideration for to do so would compromise the Office I seek. I can and I do promise you that every person shall always be received in a fair, honest and courteous manner.

If you feel that I can best carry out the duties and responsibilities of the Office of City Judge, your ballot in my behalf will be welcomed as will any other assistance or counsel you care to give me in this campaign. I believe that I can so operate your Court that it will reflect the proper dignity and decorum so necessary in the administration of justice.

I would appreciate any suggestions that you would care to make as to ways to improve the administration of justice in the Monroe City Court.

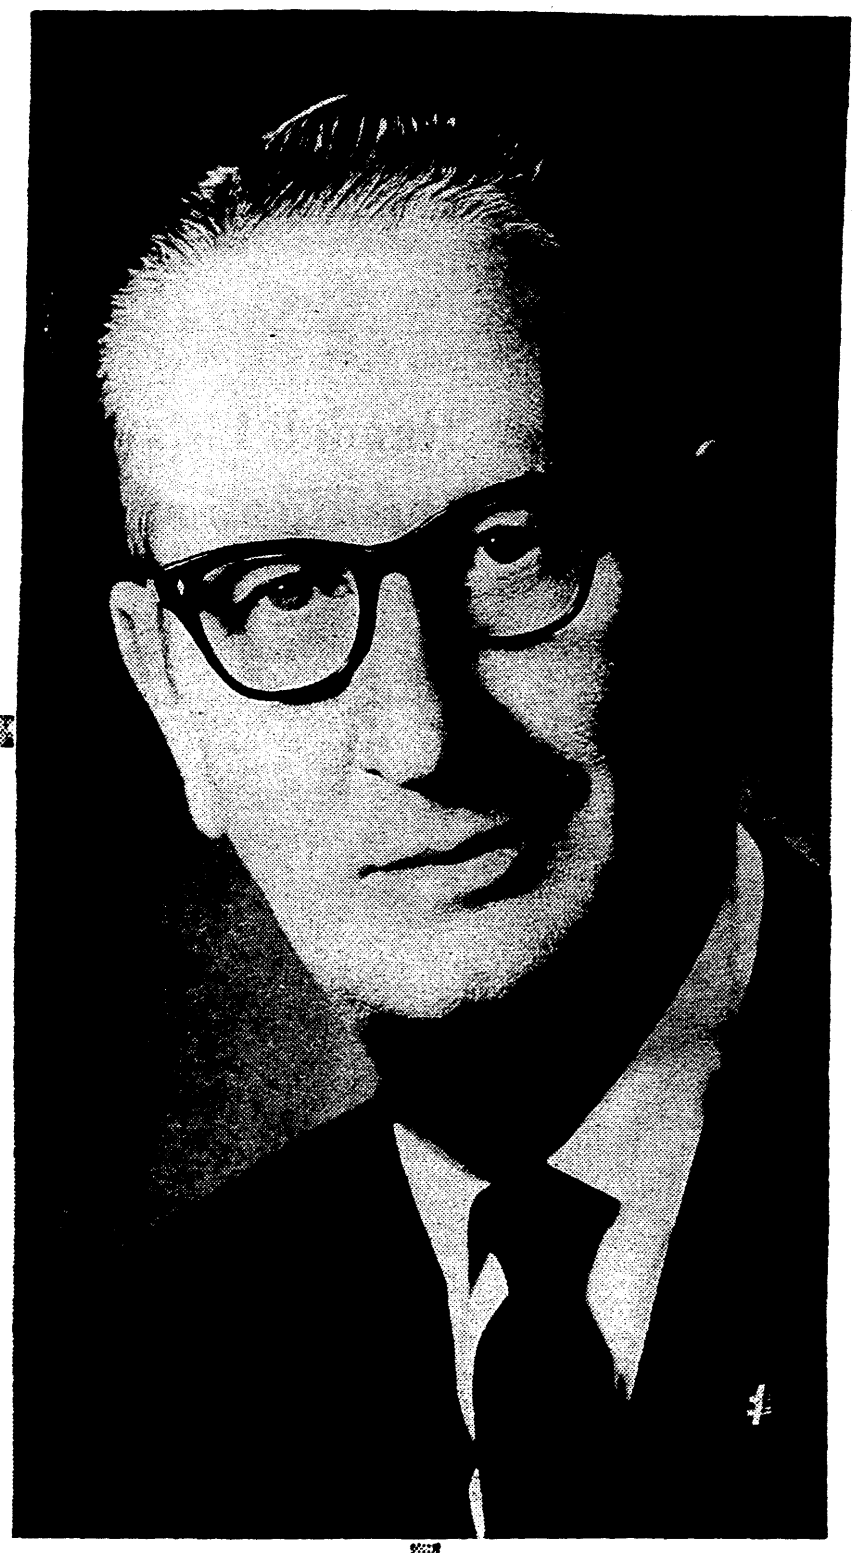
PAID FOR BY GEORGE FINK



My Dear Constituents All:

I sincerely ask for your vote for re-election to the Congress in the August 13 Democratic Primary, based solely upon the type of representation I have afforded our District.

I have endeavored to represent all the people of the Fifth Congressional District fairly and impartially. Rendering personal service to my constituents has been my greatest compensation in serving you in the Congress.

I have worked untiringly and successfully to reduce unnecessary federal expenditures and to maintain fiscal responsibility in government, realizing that excessive spending creates inflation which reduces the purchasing power of the dollar and works to the detriment of the businessman, the working man, the pensioner, the aged and all who live on fixed incomes.

Recognizing that the ravages of floods in our District prevented economic growth and destroyed life and property, I was prompted to make flood control protection my specialty. During my 20-year tenure in the Congress, 193 Million Dollars have been spent in our District for flood control protection. This expenditure enhanced the value of the property and profits of the people of the Fifth Congressional District in excess of ONE BILLION DOLLARS.

I am the only member of Congress from Louisiana who is a member of the powerful Committee on Appropriations of the House. Of the 50-man Committee, only six Members stand between me and the top. I also rank above 375 Members of the House. This is your seniority. I will continue to use it wisely and in the best interests of our District, State and Nation.

Your vote on August 13 will be very much appreciated. My number on the voting machine is FIVE (5).

WARD FIVE VOTERS will use this ballot in casting their votes in the August 13 Primary in Ouachita Parish.

Youth Work Pointed Out By Tarver

B. A. Tarver of 508 Richardson, Monroe is a candidate for re-election to a Ward 3 seat on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

Tarver is a 12-year veteran of service on the school board and has served for the past three years as board president. The candidate is a lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish and worked with youth for 11 years at the Louisiana Training Institute in Monroe.

The last 18 years of that period was spent as assistant superintendent of L.T.I. Tarver is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, as are his six children. He is a veteran and an active member of the American Legion.

He is secretary of the board of trustees and is Sunday School superintendent at the Central Baptist Church. Tarver has slanted his campaign to emphasis on his work with youth.

"I am retired and have ample time to devote to our school system," he stated. "I feel that my past experience working with adults and young people qualifies me for re-election to the Ouachita Parish School Board."

He added, "I am interested in all the schools, east side and west side." Tarver declared that the future of the dual school systems in the parish (City of Monroe and Ouachita Parish systems) depends on cooperation, and says, "I am always ready to cooperate."

Points Given On Platform By Johnson

H. B. Johnson, 46, 2809 Pargoud Blvd., Monroe, is a candidate for city judge in Wards 3 and 10.

A native of Catahoula Parish, Johnson has lived here and practiced law for the past 18 years. He is married to the former Hazel Tate of North Caroline and has two children.

A veteran of World War II, having served with the Navy, Johnson is a 1948 graduate of Tulane University law school. He is a member of the Methodist Church, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Y.M.C.A., Louisiana Bar Association and Fourth Judicial District Bar Association.

The candidate set forth his platform in a series of specific points for conduct of the office: "to apply the law in each case to insure the maximum safety and protection to the general public on the streets and in the homes of our city; to exercise the influence of this office to obtain competent and trained personnel for the administering of the problems of the youth of our city; to guarantee every accused a fair and impartial trial according to law; to organize an advisory committee of citizens to make recommendations to the court for the improvement of the administration of the affairs of the court; to be a hard working, full - time judge available at all times to see and to consult with all persons having business with the court; to receive and treat all visitors to the court in a kindly and courteous manner; to require a thorough investigation into all the facts related to the case of any accused appearing before the court."

Fairness Pledged By Glasscock

G. D. Glasscock, 34, of 101 Ivy Place, Monroe, is a candidate for city marshal in Wards 10 and 3.

A native of Franklin Parish, the candidate moved to Monroe in 1956 after serving with the Army in the Korean Conflict. He is married to the former Lucille Coburn of Rayville and is the father of three daughters.

Glasscock served for eight years as a police officer in Monroe, before resigning in 1964 to establish his own business, representing a national stainless steel cookware firm in Louisiana.

He is a member of the First United Pentecostal Church. In a statement, Glasscock said, "I feel that in order for any candidate to declare himself independent and uncontrolled, he cannot make anyone any special promises or accept any donations from anyone. Nor can he have any connection or obligations to any of our present city officials. I want this office but I will not bargain for it.

PLEDGE

"There is no human being that will put money into a candidate's hip pocket without wanting to crawl into that same hip pocket after he is elected sooner or later for some special favor. If I am given the opportunity to serve as marshal, I will put forth all of my time and effort in performing the duties with courteous, fair and impartial service to everyone of Wards 3 and 10.

Federal Workers In Union Ranks Show Increase

WASHINGTON (Special) — Union membership of Federal Government employees is now estimated to have reached approximately 1,100,000 out of the Government's total work force of about 2,500,000 employees.

Of the presently organized Government employees about 600,000 are postal workers. The other 500,000 are in the various Federal white-collar and blue-collar employees' unions as well as in the industrial unions which have members in the Federal service.

Union membership has increased rapidly since the establishment of the automatic check-off union dues system whereby the Government agencies do the job of collecting for the unions in many instances.

Third Term Is Sought By Holcomb

Pete O. Holcomb, 54, of Rt. 2, Box 464, West Monroe, is a candidate for a third term as city marshal, Ward 5.

He has pegged his campaign on continued fairness and service. He is married to the former Ruby Schanks of West Monroe and is the father of two daughters and a son.

He is president and a former vice president of the Louisiana City Marshals' and Constables' Association, and a member of The West Monroe Chamber of Commerce and West Monroe Kiwanis Club.

He is also on the board of directors of the West Monroe Boys Club. He belongs to the Welcome Home Church of God.

The candidate said in a statement, "I promise this time, as before, service and fairness. Anyone with the occasion to use my office will be treated fairly and helped in any way that I can help. I have tried to conduct my office in such a way that I do not have to be ashamed now when I once again ask for the vote and support of Ward 5 residents.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

While I plan to conduct a vigorous campaign, and see as many as possible with keeping up the duties of my office, it may not be possible to contact personally each and every voter. But I certainly covet each one's support and it would be greatly appreciated."

Fair Policy Is Pledged By Renfrow

A native of Franklin Parish and resident of Monroe for the past 13 years, he is married to the former Annelle Abbott of Fort Necessity, and is the father of two daughters and a son. He resides at 1611 Sunset Dr., Monroe.

The candidate served in the U. S. Air Force prior to and during the Korean Conflict, and was stationed on Okinawa in the Pacific theatre for two years. He is employed by Olin Mathieson's container division in West Monroe, having been with the company and its predecessor company in West Monroe, for 13 years.

Renfrow is a member of the Southside Baptist Church. He is active in church work and is adult Sunday School superintendent. He is active in Parent-Teacher Association activities and is president of a local unit. Renfrow has concentrated in his campaign on fitting education to today's world.

RAPID CHANGE

He said, "The world in which we live today is changing at such a rapid pace, a higher degree of education is essential to a wholesome and productive life."

Of his candidacy, he declared, "I will always be fair and conscientious in my representation and will be at the service of our teachers, children and parents. I will be an interested hard-working board member and eager to work with our administrators, other board members and teachers."

Kahn Gives Philosophy On Duties

A graduate of Northeast Louiana State College, Kahn is a local insurance agent. He has been president of the college's alumni association for the past two years, and is a member of the Louisiana Alumni Council.

He is a member of the Greater Monroe Optimist Club and is a life - long resident of Monroe.

Himself a product of the city school system, he now has two children attending Monroe schools.

PROMPTED

"For a number of years, I have had a tremendous interest in the field of education and this interest has prompted me to announce my candidacy for the city school board.

"As to my educational philosophy, if elected my attitude would be that school board members should handle business matters only, leaving to paid professional educators all matters pertaining to the running of the schools. After all, it is they who have the specialized training, the day to day acquaintance with the specific operational problems, and the awareness of total effects to make informed decisions in the schools. Board concerns should be policy matters.

"This leaves no room for decisions based on sectional interests."

W. L. Crowe Serving In City Court

William L. (Bill) Crowe, 209 Lakeside Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for city judge, Wards 3 and 10. Since September, Crowe has been presiding over court-room work for Monroe City Court due to illness of Judge W. M. Harper.

A 1953 graduate of Louisiana State University Law School, the candidate is a member of the Louisiana State Bar and Junior Bar Association, American Bar Association, and Fourth District Bar Association. He is a former assistant Ouachita Parish district attorney. He is a member of the American Legion, Optimists Club, 40 & 8, and is currently president of the Louisiana State University Ouachita Parish Alumni Association.

He is married to the former Jane O'Kelly of Monroe and has three daughters. He is a member of Jesus The Good Shepherd Catholic Church.

"I have aspired to this judgeship since graduating from law school," he said.

He is a veteran of the Korean conflict, serving with the Army. "I am to uphold the law, not to enforce it and not to make it. The judiciary should act in the capacity of the judiciary branch of the government, and it should not allow the other branches of government to interfere with the judiciary. At the same time, the judiciary should refrain, no matter how tempting, in interfering with the other branches."

Court Needs Analyzed By George Fink

George Fink, 57, of 3405 Loop Rd., Monroe, is a candidate for city judge in Wards 3 and 10.

A native of DeRidder, the candidate has lived in Monroe for the past 53 years. He is married to the former Clayton Heard of Rayville and has three daughters.

He attended Louisiana State

University and Tulane University law school and was admitted to the bar in 1932. He is a member of the Louisiana Bar Association and the Fourth Judicial District Bar Association.

He is a member of the Western Star Lodge 24, F & AM, the Louis Daniel High Twelve Club, and is on the Ouachita Parish Society for Crippled Children adult board. He has pledged judicial practices to meet an "ever - changing society."

In a statement, Fink said, "Just as the law changes to meet the needs of an ever changing society, so must the court itself if the fairest system of justice is to prevail. I strongly believe that the fines imposed by the city court should be in line with those handed out in district court. If elected, I will place all fines on a comparable basis."

VITAL NEED

Fink said the "vital" need in conduct of the court was "applying common sense to the law as a practical solution rather than inflexibly applying the law to each and every case." Fink also called for the establishment of a family court.

"The unfortunate rapid rise of juvenile cases makes imperative the early establishment of a family court where all matters affecting the family can be handled."

Randall Lists Qualification For Office

V. A. "Bill" Randall, 48, 2408 N. 9th St., West Monroe, is a candidate for tax assessor of Ouachita Parish. A resident of West Monroe for the past 15 years, Randall is engaged primarily in the oil and gas lease business.

He lists as qualifications years of active work in leases, purchasing rights of - ways, abstracting and doing land title work. Although this is his first elective office bid, Randall has been employed on several occasions in a public office. In 1938, he was chief deputy clerk of court in Catahoula Parish, and in 1939 became chief deputy tax assessor of the same parish. During that period of time he also worked as an abstracter.

MILITARY SERVICE

He then enlisted in the Navy and served until 1945 when he was honorably discharged. Randall then was employed as deputy in the Ouachita Parish clerk of court's office. He also served as a part time deputy later with the Richland Parish tax assessor's office. During that time he handled evaluations and homestead exemptions for the Town of Delhi. He then went into private business entirely.

"Our affairs should be entrusted to those we deem best qualified," Randall said. "Wise men are not born. Experience is the greatest teacher, and the ability to apply experience in meeting and solving our day to day problems should ever be sought."

Randall is married to the former Annee Heard and is the father of two sons — James, married and a student at Northeast Louisiana State College, and Steve, a senior at West Monroe High School.

Otto Passman Strong Foe Of Waste

Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe is a candidate for re-election to the U. S. House of Representatives. Chairman of the Foreign Operations Appropriations Committee, Passman said he would run on his 20-year record in Congress. He is considered a strong foe of waste in foreign aid.

The Monroe congressman has specialized in flood - control matters during his years in Washington and particularly to the development of the lower Mississippi Valley flood - control program. Since he entered Congress in 1946, more than $193 million has been spent on flood - control work in the Fifth District.

ECONOMIC BENEFITS

These "investments have resulted in tangible economic benefits to the economy of the area, including the enhancement of property values of $1 billion."

He points out his greatest achievement in savings as helping to reduce foreign aid spending by more than $10 billion during the past 11 years he has served as chairman of the committee handling the money bill for that program. The congressman is also near the top of seniority on the powerful 50-member House Committee on Appropriations, being out-ranked by only six of the members. There are only 49 of the 435 House members who outrank Passman on time served in Washington.

Purvis Gains Experience On Board

J. D. Purvis of 602 Norris Lane, West Monroe, is a candidate for a full six year term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5.

Purvis is a lifelong resident of Ward 5 and is married to the former Erma Norris. The couple have three children, all of whom were educated in the parish system.

The candidate is in the syrup manufacturing and farming business. He is a member of the Claiborne Methodist Church of West Monroe. Purvis has held an appointive Ward 5 seat on the school board since early this year, having been named by Gov. John McKeithen to fill the unexpired term of Board Vice President Roy C. Cash when Cash died. He has emphasized his experience on the board so far and pledged in his campaign that he is "willing and eager to devote my time and effort to this job."

PLEDGE GIVEN

He pledged an aggressive campaign. Declared Purvis, "Because I am presently serving on the board, I am acutely aware that there are at present many complex and difficult problems. I will seek ways to be thoroughly familiar with these problems and then will propose workable solutions based on what is best for our school system."

He stated, "I will continue to be an interested, hard working school board member, eager to work and cooperate with our administrators, other board members, teachers, parents and students in an effort to provide our children with an educational program of which we all can be proud."

Tolson Cites Interest In School Needs

H. W. (Buddy) Tolson, 43, of 414 Lakeshore Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for one of the two Ward 10 seats opening on the Ouachita Parish School Board. Tolson is married to the former Peggy Rushing of Alto and is the father of a son.

He is sales manager of the Hill Lumber and Supply Company. An honorary member of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, Tolson is a member of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, is past president of the Ouachita Parish High School Boosters Club, and is a member of St. Mark's Methodist Church. The candidate is a lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish, and has resided in Ward 10 since 1946 when he returned home from overseas duty during World War II.

PLEDGE

He pledged in his campaign to make decisions on the board "based on what I consider best for the entire system," adding, "I will vote independently, if elected." Tolson has pledged to serve "Ward 10 and the entire parish to the best of my ability." He also cited a need for representation on the school board of the Lakeshore and Bayou Shores areas.

Tolson, who received his education in the parish schools and whose son is a recent graduate in the system, lists a "more than casual" interest in the schools.

He states, "I shall work in harmony with the school officials and personnel, the parents of our students and, if elected, shall cooperate with all in the best interest of the entire system."

Billye Adams Independent Candidate

Billye L. Adams, 42, of 2201 Mallory Pl., Monroe, is a candidate for City Judge in Wards 3 and 10. He has pledged himself as an "independent candidate."

A native of Strong, Ark., he has lived in Monroe since 1942. A veteran of World War II, Adams received his law degree from Louisiana State University in 1951. He is a member of a number of organizations, including the American Bar Association, Louisiana State Bar Association, and Fourth Judicial District Bar Association.

He is married to the former June Wright of West Monroe and has four children. He is a member of the Parkview Baptist Church, a past member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Optimist Club.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE

"I am an independent candidate," Adams said. "I owe no allegiance to any person, group or political faction. My responsibility will be to all the people of this community should they see fit to honor me with election to this office. The growth of Monroe and the significance of this court has, in my opinion, also brought about the necessity of many changes. This is particularly true with the processing and trial of criminal complaints.

"I think these changes are necessary to permit the court to devote more time to its proper function of hearing and deciding cases presented. I believe also that these changes are necessary for this court to retain its integrity as a separate and independent branch of government."

French Debt Up. Tourist Tide, Too

WASHINGTON (Special) — France owes the United States $4,088,178,879.17 in delinquent principal and interest from World War I, has got $7,472,000,000 in United States economic and military aid since 1946, but into our gold reserves to the tune of $2,769,000,000 since 1958, and in recent years consistently has pursued policies which raise the hackles of this Government.

But all that does not stop the American tourist tide to De Gaulle's country. It will reach an estimated 1,000,000 this year. There is another interesting estimate — each American tourist to France leaves behind $78 per day.

Reitzell Tells Of Work In Office Sought

Richard F. Reitzell, 34, of 800 Erin St., Monroe, is a candidate for the post of city marshal, Wards 3 and 10.

Reitzell, son of present marshal Frank V. Reitzell, is basing his campaign on a working knowledge of the office gained through close association with its functions.

"In serving you as your marshal, I would always remember that I must be courteous, efficient, conscientious and fair. Most of all, I must and would keep in mind that the persons with whom I deal are not criminals, but just down on their luck at that time."

BACKGROUND

A life-time resident of Monroe, he is married to the former Willie Mae Meeks and is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School. He attended Northeast Louisiana State College from 1950-56 and is a member of the school's alumni association.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church and is president of his Sunday School class. He belongs to the Monroe Civic Singers, the Downtown Monroe Lions Club, the Monroe Jaycees and the National Wildlife Federation.

"Having been deputized for the past four years and having lived with my father, who has held the office of marshal for 18 years, I feel I know the duties of the office."

"The marshal's office is the same as the sheriff's office, but because of the efficient police force, the marshal's office takes care of civil matters only. The marshal is an official representing the City Court of Monroe, whose jurisdiction is all of Wards 3 and 10."

Solons Scarce During Debates

When the multi billion foreign aid bill was under consideration, 81-year-old Representative Barratt O'Hara, Democrat, Illinois, looked around at the empty seats provided for the 435 House members.

"At the last count there were 28 people on the floor listening to this great debate," observed O'Hara. "I believe since then we may have lost one or two to the inroads of human fatigue."

I ask the people of Louisiana for their support of a genuine conservative in my candidacy for the United States Senate.

I am convinced that conservative, principled constitutionalism and state sovereignty must be revitalized if we are to survive as a free society in these crucial times. I believe this is the will of the vast majority of Louisianians, and I am dedicated to these principles.

Despite a decade of reversals, these principles will triumph if given the dedicated and determined leadership needed. Unyieldingly committed to conservative government, I am pledged to stand against unrestrained power of radical liberalism.

ELECT TROYCE GUICE
UNITED STATES SENATE

Aug. 13th Demo. Primary

(THIS AD PAID FOR BY TRO.CE GUICE)

VOTE CARL H. THOMPSON
OUACHITA PARISH
SCHOOL BOARD

Carl H. Thompson is 60 years old.
Is married and has two children, both of whom graduated from the Ouachita Parish School System. He is a member of the Methodist Church and has been employed by the Ford Motor Company for the past 40 years. He is a Mason, and Past President of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club.

STATEMENT AS FOLLOWS:

I am and always have been interested in the Ouachita School System as I have two children who graduated here. For many years in the past, I have worked to help the crippled children in this area and have been responsible for sending many of them to the children's Shrine hospital in Shreveport. I believe that we have a very fine school system in this Parish, but I can see room for much improvement. I was astonished, shocked, and disappointed when our Governor vetoed the meager pay raise for the lunch room employees and maintenance workers of our system. I promise to do all in my power to secure such a raise for them in the future.

I pledge to you that I will do all that I can to promote harmony among the members of the Ouachita Parish School Board. I believe that a group of reasonable men such as this should be able to sit at the conference table, discuss the problems intelligently, and come up with a reasonable solution without resorting to anger or personalities. I will work toward this end if you elect me as your School Board Member on August 13 Ward 10 Ouachita Parish School Board.

R. Kennedy Has Served As Teacher

Robert S. Kennedy, 41, of 2007 Sherwood Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for the Monroe School Board. A life-long resident of Louisiana, he is a former school teacher and former state legislator, and is now engaged in the insurance business. The candidate is a member of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau.

He is a past member of the Jaycees and is a Key Club committee chairman in the Downtown Kiwanis Club. He is a member of the Parkview Baptist Church. A graduate of Louisiana Tech, he served in the Navy in World War II. He is the father of three children now in the Monroe City school system. Among his interests, he lists the "civic and political well being of the community and state."

In a statement, Kennedy said, "I believe that the key to the social, economic and political problems of today is the sound education of our youth, who must accept civic responsibility tomorrow. I am proud of the Monroe school system and deem it an honor to have an opportunity to help further build and strengthen this system. I am interested in providing the best possible education for every child in every section of the city.

TEACHER IMPORTANT

"I believe that the corner stone to a good educational system is the teacher. In order to attract teachers, we must be prepared to pay them adequately. We need the full salary implementation for teachers and other school personnel. It is necessary that our school system prepare our children for higher education, and also prepare those who do not go to college for a worthwhile and rewarding job."

John Hunt Cites Record Of Service

John S. Hunt II, 2121 Valencia St., Monroe, is a candidate for the post of Public Service Commissioner in the third district. An attorney, he has held the post since his appointment by Gov. John McKeithen in 1964.

Hunt is a Presbyterian, is married and has three children. He is a veteran of the Korean conflict and offers as a platform his record in office. He is a native of Ruston, a graduate of the Tulane University Law School, and is a member of the Louisiana Bar Association, the American Bar Association and is qualified to practice before state and federal courts. He is also a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

EXPANSION GREATEST

"During my two years on the commission," Hunt said, "telephone expansion both in dollars and percentage-wise, has been the greatest in the state's history. Further," he said, "during my service on the commission, great strides have been made in expanding toll-free telephone service, the ultimate goal being to provide parish-wide toll-free service in every parish."

He added, "as your commissioner, I have acted as the people's protector at all times, and I have been fair to the utilities it is my duty to supervise and regulate. I shall continue this policy.

"Further, it has been and will always be my practice to make myself available to the public in my district at all times, day and night. I frequently visit all parts of the district and assure you that I have been and will continue to be ready to discuss with you and help solve any problem which falls under the jurisdiction of the Commission."

DUG UP AN ENGINE

MIAMI (AP) — Excavators are accustomed to digging up some weird items when clearing land for new buildings.

But a bulldozer operator breaking ground for a new apartment building here really hit the jackpot.

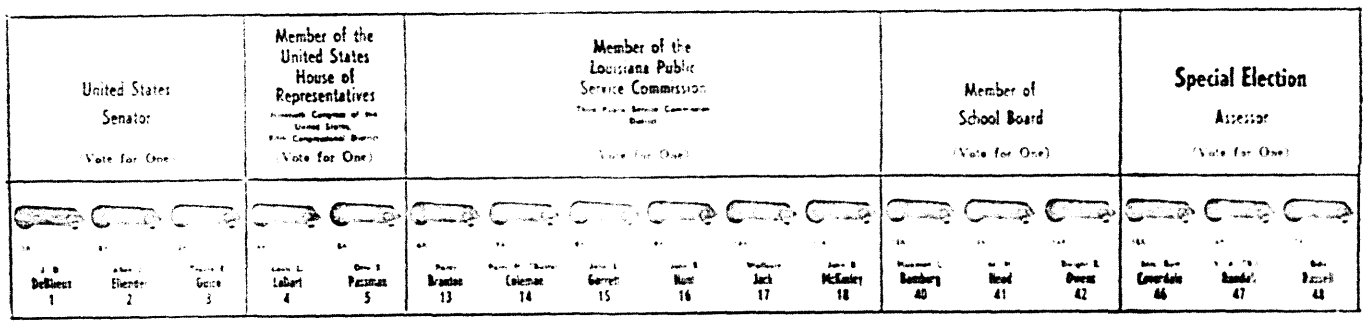
It was later learned that it had been blown over during the hurricane of 1926 and covered up rather than moved.

Sample Ballot For Ward 9 Voters



IN WARD NINE, of Ouachita Parish, voters will use this ballot in casting their votes in the August 13 Primary.

Holloway Tells Views On Schools

Chester P. Holloway, 62, of 102 Thomas Dr., West Monroe, is a candidate for the two-year partial term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5. The candidate, a West Monroe grocer and insurance executive, would serve the remainder of the Ward 5 term of the late Roy C. Cash.

Holloway bases his campaign on past experience with the school board. He has worked for 12 years in farm production in Ouachita Parish and is owner and operator of a grocery store in Ward 5. Holloway currently is debit manager for the Central State Life Insurance Company.

He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, as well as of the Eastern Star and of the Bethel Baptist Church. A native of Ouachita Parish, Holloway was reared near Okaloosa, graduated from Okaloosa High School and attended Louisiana Tech. He is married to the former Delmar Hobbs and is the father of five children — four boys and a girl, all of whom attended Ouachita Parish schools.

STATEMENT

In his campaign, he stated, "I am very interested in our schools, which hold the future of our boys and girls. I feel that I can best serve my community on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

"The experience I have gained will enable me to make sound decisions and better fulfill the responsibilities placed on board members by the public. I believe our children should be served by the best possible leadership available at all levels."

J. McKinley Running As Independent

John B McKinley, 1412 Riverside Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for commissioner in the Third Public Service Commission District.

He is married and has two children.

An attorney, McKinley is a member of the State Sovereignty Commission and recently resigned as its chairman.

He is a Methodist and a graduate of Louisiana State University.

A veteran of World War II, McKinley is a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner. He is a member of the American Legion, Louisiana Trial Lawyers Association, American Bar Association, Louisiana State Bar Association, and is licensed to practice before all state and federal courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court.

MEMBERSHIPS

He is a member of the Official Board of the First Methodist Church of Monroe, the Monroe Juvenile Advisory Board, board of directors of Doctor's Hospital, Shreveport, and a member of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation.

His political philosophy: "I am really a constitutional conservative and believe all political candidates should be chosen on the basis of qualification and not as a result of a political machine or a directive from a governor, and therefore that is why I've been running as an independent in this race."

Background Of Garrett Pointed Out

John S. Garrett, state representative from Claiborne Parish, is a candidate for public service commissioner from the third district.

A native of Haynesville, Garrett has served in the House for 18 years and is chairman of Judiciary Committee B, a member of the Legislative Budget Committee and serves on the Joint Legislative Committee.

"Some of the candidates in the Public Service Commission race seem to believe the only issue is the nickle telephone rate," Garrett said. "Fair telephone rates are important, however, I want to emphasize that North Louisiana is rapidly being industrialized and there are many matters with which the commission must deal, if we are to be in a competitive position with neighboring states.

GUARD RIGHTS

"The Commission must guard the rights of the people and the rights of industry not only to telephone rates but for railroads, truck lines, bus lines, express companies and power companies."

"If elected," Garrett said, "I intend to protect the rights of our people in every field in which the Public Service Commission has authority. I have been a leader in the fight against every unfair or unnecessary tax raise during my 18 years in the legislature."

"If you want to know where a man is going," Garrett said, "Look where he has been."

Solons Take Careful Look At Traffic Safety Needs

WASHINGTON (Special) — Some years ago the people of Kansas City decided to light their streets better at night. Most of the pedestrians being killed by autos were being killed at night, and in one three-year period 70 pedestrian deaths had occurred after dark.

By the time 90 per cent of the new lights had been installed, nighttime deaths of pedestrians during a comparable period of time had dropped to 13.

In the mountains near Los Angeles skidding on wet pavements is a driving hazard. At one intersection 11 skidding accidents occurred in a three-year period and at another there were seven in two years.

As an experiment California highway engineers cut grooves in the pavements leading to the crossings and the skidding stopped. For two years thereafter there were no skidding-on-pavement accidents at those intersections.

These examples and others have convinced members of the Senate committee on public works that street and highway safety can be improved, and that the annual death toll of autoists and pedestrians doesn't need to be as large as it is.

Spreading the use of good traffic practices more widely, and taking full advantage of good new ideas as they come along can make a big change, the Senators feel.

What upset many persons is that the traffic death toll is rising. It is rising by every standard. The actual number of deaths is rising, the rate of deaths is rising per captial, per car, and, by what is probably the most accurate safety yardstick, per 100 million miles of street and highway use.

The auto death rate per 100 million miles of highway use rose 10 per cent from 1961 to 1964, and in the Spring of 1965 it increased an additional 4 per cent. In 1965 49,000 persons died. It is fair to say that between 5000 a 7000 of these lives would have been saved if the 1961 rate of highway safety had been maintained .

As most readers know Congress is taking a hard look at the subject of automotive safety this year. The House gives every sign of endowing the Secretary of Commerce with authority to determine safety standards for autos and to require manufacturers to live up to them.

WILLIAM L. "BILL"

CROWE

CANDIDATE FOR MONROE

CITY JUDGE

AD PAID FOR BY W. L. CROWE

1. A Judge cannot make or legislate law.

2. A Judge cannot change or modify law.

3. A Judge must uphold the law, considering first the public good and secondly the individual, extending clemency when he can do so in good conscience and when doing no violence to the law or to the public good.

4. A Judge, in criminal matters, must extend a reasonable doubt to the accused, granting to him the presumption of innocence until proven otherwise; the guilty may sometimes escape but the innocent must not suffer. In civil matters, the Judge must weigh the evidence fairly.

5. Traffic safety is one of the most important aspects of life in this generation and will be even more important to future generations. Our children, as well as all citizens, must be safe to travel, work and play. The achievement of traffic safety is a must to our survival. We must educate and orientate ourselves as well as our children to this proposition.

6. Bad driving, drunk or sober, cannot be tolerated. Some label it an act of indiscretion. If it is, it is an indiscretion which kills and maims men, women and children without discrimination and leaves nothing but sorrow for not only the innocent but the guilty as well. Records prove automobiles are one of the greatest killers.

7. There can be no bargain basement price placed on the achieving of justice and the maintaining of peace and dignity and law and order. These goals do not come cheaply, just as a championship football team, freedom, liberty or Godliness do not come cheaply.

8. If prisoners were released from jails during the day, the public good would be endangered and the police force would have to be tripled. Most prisoners did not support their families prior to their imprisonment.

9. A system of fining a convicted person cannot be based on the income of that individual as related to another individual. The result would be just and fair and the system would be impossible of administration and totally unworkable. This is not to say that the Court should not or does not consider all circumstances in each case. This Court has done so.

10. A Judge can owe no obligations to any individual or to any group of individuals. A candidate for Judge can make no promises to any individual or group of individuals. He must be independent of the other departments of government and yet he must maintain a spirit of cooperation with all who seek good government.

11. I am independent; my only obligation to anyone is to be a good Judge. My supporters have not asked nor would they receive any other promise. If elected, I will look to no man nor to any group of men to run this Court.

3 GOOD REASONS WHY JOHN B. McKINLEY WILL BE ELECTED YOUR PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER

- Telephone installation rates have been raised without Public Hearing or Notice
- It costs you MORE to make Long Distance calls within Louisiana than it does to call out-of-state
- We have too many people without ANY Telephone Service and too many 2-4-8 party lines.

Public Service Commission Race Holds Wide Interest

By MILO DAKIN
Staff Writer

Political eyes in Louisiana will be staring hardest August 13 at the race for Public Service Commissioner from the third district — 28 parishes comprising North Louisiana.

This area is traditionally a proving ground for politicians, and this commission seat a jumping off point for the state's highest position, the governor's office.

Three have made the big step — Huey Long, Jimmie Davis, and John McKeithen — and a strong field of candidates now hints toward a possible Democratic nominee for governor in 1971.

CANDIDATES

The candidates are the incumbent, John S. Hunt, Monroe; John S. Garrett, state representative from Claiborne Parish; John McKinley, Monroe, member of the State Sovereignty Commission and former chairman; Parey Branton, Webster Parish representative; Wellborn Jack, Shreveport, former Caddo Parish representative, and Perry H. Coleman, Alexandria businessman.

Looming far up front in issues is opposition for Hunt, backed by Gov. John McKeithen. This will be the first political test this year for the administration, and although it isn't a real measuring stick, a sound victory for Hunt would ease some concern for the two-term referendum in November.

SPECULATION

"A vote for Hunt is a vote for McKeithen," one oldtimer in politics said.

But others are saying McKeithen may as well have handpicked two candidates in the race. Garrett, figured strong in the race, has often acted as an administration floor leader and is the man most people say McKeithen would have nominated if Hunt had decided not to run. The Haynesville lawmaker is a veteran of 18 years in the Louisiana House of Representatives.

Hunt has Long blood — a nephew of Earl and Huey — and McKeithen backing. Garrett has strong political backing among his legislative counterparts and the seasoned experience of his years as a lawmaker. He has termed Hunt's backing as a "political debt" by the governor.

What political prognosticators are scratching their heads at is the figure of John McKinley as a candidate. His announcement as a candidate led to the breaking of a law firm partnership with McKeithen. His chief political claim is his appointment as chairman of the sovereignty commission by the governor.

INDEPENDENT STAND

McKinley says he is completely independent and has criticized those who reckoned Hunt as strong simply on his McKeithen endorsement. "I don't believe in a rubber stamp candidate," he said. "That is why I am in this race."

McKinley, like Hunt is a practicing Monroe attorney.

Perhaps the most independent candidate in the race is Branton. A "Wallace-Goldwater, free enterprise, right to profit Democrat," the Webster lawmaker is a strong foe of the McKeithen administration and is campaigning on "political independence,"

COMEBACK RACE

For former state representative, Wellborn Jack, this is a comeback race. The veteran Shreveport politician was the first to officially announce, his first political attempt since falling to J. Bennett Johnston in a re-count House race in 1964. He had served as a legislator for 24 years.

The least known of the candidates is Coleman, an oil lease businessman who campaigns on lowering long distance telephone rates. Coleman is a native of Grant Parish and will be making his first political stab as a public service commission candidate. He has listed no particular philosophy of government and his campaign, as yet, has not swung into the mainstream of extreme North Louisiana where most of his opponents have been on the stump for weeks. At best, he is expected only to split the Alexandria-area vote.

In fact, the five candidates are well spread geographically — cept for two in Monroe — and home votes should put at least three candidates in running range of each other.

With 280,000 registered voters in the 28 parishes comprising the commission district, an optimistic turnout of 150,000 may vote. Any one candidate will probably need a minimum of 60,000 votes and maybe up to 75,000 to go in on the first primary The voting show will depend largely on the strength of campaigns showed by candidates.

And the governor will probably have as much interest in this race as when he was a candidate.

So will any potential opponents.

L. Parker Serving In Legislature

Larry Parker of Alexandria, is a candidate for U. S. representative in the 8th District.

He was born April 1, 1922 and is a graduate of Bolton High School in Alexandria. He was a member of the U. S. Navy (seabees) during World War Two, and became a radio announcer and newscaster in 1945.

He was a news commentator at KSYL in Alexandria for seven years prior to successfully seeking public office in 1964. He is now serving in the state house of representatives.

He is married to the former Sylvia Snyder of Marrell, Ark., has four children. Dianna, 11, Cathy, 10, Michael 8, and Kenneth, 6, and resides at 2060 White St., Alexandria. He is owner of a toy wholesale distributing company.

NEWS CAREER

During his news career he was heard often on NBC Monitor, was also a stringer for the Associated Press and several newspapers. He completed an extension course from University of Miami in radio journalism, is chairman of the 8th District American Legion Legislative Committee, member of the Exchange Club of Alexandria, is active in crippled children's work in Rapides Parish, and organized and directed the Pelican State Boxing Team for three years.

He said, "My freshman term in the legislature has been pretty well documented by the news media. I have remained independent, have been involved in numerous floor fights and have compiled a record which I think pleases my constituents."

Kelly States Obligations To Schools

William G. (Bill) Kelly Jr., of 406 Erin, Monroe, is a candidate for a Ward 10 seat on the Ouachita Parish School Board. Kelly is a native of Choudrant in Lincoln Parish, who attended Louisiana Tech in Ruston and later graduated from Louisiana State University with bachelor and law degrees.

The candidate and his wife, the former Petra Melton of Plaquemines, have three children, all of whom will be in elementary school this year. He also served two years in the U. S. Air Force. Kelly is a member of the First Methodist Church, where he teaches Sunday School, and has served on the official board for a number of years.

He is chairman of the board of directors of the Wesley Foundation at Northeast Louisiana State College. He is president of the Monroe Kiwanis Club, and is a former member of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Kelly's campaign has stressed the development in schools of "well - educated, well-rounded young people who are better prepared to assume their future responsibilities."

ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY

He declared, "The ultimate responsibility for the quality of the school rests upon the school board, and consequently upon the individual members. I will assume the necessary responsibility as a board member, if elected, and make every decision based upon what I feel is right for better education in our parish community. Beyond this, I will make no commitments."

Interest Rates

WASHINGTON (Special) — More than 10 years of inflation in Brazil, the largest and most industrialized nation in Latin America, has brought average interest rates there to more than 30 per cent per year.

The official rate is 24 per cent but few loans are made at the official rate. Also there is little annual borrowing. Mostly it is by the month and for a 30 day loan the borrower pays between 2.5 percent and 3.5 percent.

T. Guice Listed As Conservative

Troyce Guice, Ferriday business and cattleman, is a candidate for the United States Senate.

Dubbed the "Young Conservative," Guice is running under a program of "principled constitutionalism and state sovereignty." He is married and has three daughters.

"I believe imaginative free enterprise is always superior to federal socialism and said, in offering his platform. "I am for the substantial reduction of federal income taxes if the reduction is preceded by an equivalent decrease in excessive government expenditures — a task to which I am dedicated.

"I oppose federal aid to education," he said, "and federal control of agriculture. There should be a gradual return to the free marketing system."

Asserting another plank on his ticket, Guice said he believed strongly in the "military containment of communism in strategic areas. "However," he said "I believe most of our activity is in areas which are not strategic."

Guice said he was for the United Nations, "but not the United Nations as it is now operated. Noting that he was for cutting back foreign aid, Guice said "In short, I am for nationalism here and less internationalism."

Former Senator May Seek Post

WASHINGTON (Special) — Representative Claude D. Pepper, Democrat, who served as United States Senator from Florida from 1936 to 1951, and was the Senate's most ardent New Dealer, is eying his old seat and may make a try for it in 1968 when Senator George A. Smathers retires.

Assured of re-election to the House of Representatives in November, Pepper will not immediately make announcement of any Senate race plans he may have. Former Governor LeRoy Collins, now Undersecretary of Commerce, has already announced he will leave his Washington post in the autumn to seek the Smathers' seat.

Modernizing Of System, Ford's Goal

Jerry L. Ford, 28, is a candidate for the two - year partial term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5. The office-seeker has declared himself an independent candidate aiming to "free the parish school system of the shackles of the old and out-dated dual school system" — a reference to the operation of both City of Monroe and Ouachita systems.

Ford, a citizen of West Monroe for 26 years, is married to the former Avis Patton and the couple have one daughter, Debra, six-years-old, who is a student at Millsaps Grammar School. Ford is the son of the late Joe A. Ford Sr. and Mrs. Tom Mitchell. He attended Millsaps Grammar School, Ouachita Parish High School and West Monroe High School. He began working with his father in the produce business while in grammar school and has been associated with that type of work since.

ACTIVITIES

The candidate is an active member of the Edgewood Baptist Church, where he and his wife presently teach Sunday school classes. He is a member of the Woodmen of the World and of the Young Democratic Men for Better Government organization.

Other points in Ford's campaign, he listed as, "I am for better pay for school teachers and all low salaried school employees. In order for my child and yours to have the best possible education, I realize that we must improve the present pay scale."

He also listed needs for more sidewalks at schools to keep children from nearby streets and for covered walkways to permit movement around school buildings in inclement weather.

Oglesbee Describes Experience

W. C. (Jack) Oglesbee, 54, of 906 Florida St., Monroe, is a candidate for the office of city marshal, Wards 3 and 10.

Oglesbee has served as deputy marshal of the Monroe City Court during off-duty hours for the past four years and has worked fulltime for the last year.

He is a retired Monroe police department captain having retired from the force in January. He is a member of the Louisiana Peace Officers Association, and the Louisiana Marshals and Constables Association.

He is a veteran of World War II, having served with the Navy. He joined the local police department in 1945 and held the rank of captain for 12 years.

He is married and the father of four children.

STATEMENT

In a statement, he said, "During off - duty hours, I have served as deputy marshal for the Monroe City Court for four years and am still serving in this capacity. The present incumbent is not seeking re-election; therefore, since I am thoroughly familiar with all the duties of this office, I believe my service as your deputy marshal qualifies me for the position. I shall gratefully appreciate your vote and support and promise, in return, to render efficient service to all."

DeBlieux Serving In Legislature

State Sen. J. B. DeBlieux of Baton Rouge, is a candidate for the United States Senate.

A native of Ouachita Parish, DeBlieux is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana Junior College, now Northeast State College, and the LSU law school. He has served in the Louisiana Senate for six years and is a member of the Democratic State Central Committee from Baton Rouge and previously served on the same body representing Ouachita Parish from 1938-1940.

He was named "Outstanding Legislator" by the Capitol Press Corps during his first term in the Senate.

DeBlieux has been a practicing attorney in Baton Rouge since 1940, except for military service in World War II.

"Louisiana voters deserve something better than a choice between tweedle-dee and tweedle-dum in the election for United States Senator," DeBlieux said. "I have proved my dedication to the cause of the working people of our state and to the poor and underprivileged. I believe in a creative, open-minded approach to government where new ideas are carefully considered, not automatically shunned."

DeBlieux is married to the former Dorothy Lepino and is the father of one son. He is a member of the Baton Rouge Chamber of Commerce, the Public Affairs Research Council, East Baton Rouge Lions Club and serves on the board of directors of both the Family Counseling Service and the Greater Baton Rouge Mental Health Association.

School Setup Is Lauded By Kilcoyne

Joseph Kilcoyne, 44, 905 South Third St., Monroe, is a candidate for the Monroe City School Board.

"I have no political obligation to anyone in the City of Monroe, or elsewhere, and my only interest in this office is in providing the best program for all students in the city," the candidate said in announcing for the post.

Kilcoyne is married to the former Mary Thrush and has three children — Mike, a student at Neville High School, Danny, a student at Wossman High School, and Marian, a student at Jefferson Junior High School.

ACTIVE WITH YOUTH

Active in youth affairs, the candidate has served as manager or assistant manager of local Little League, Dixie League and Dixie Senior League. He has been employed as a salesman for F. Strauss and Son, Inc. for the past 14 years.

"I believe that the City of Monroe presently has a school system that is second to none in the State of Louisiana. However, I further believe that we should not for once relax our efforts in maintaining and improving the high academic standards, for which our system is noted."

"I feel that I can work in harmony with all members presently serving on the board and I know that I can represent the people of Monroe, from all areas, without favoritism or bias."

Serve Needs Of Schools, Brooks' Aim

Roy C. Brooks, 53, of 315 Medorah Dr., West Monroe, is a candidate for the full six-year term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5.

Brooks, operator of a drug store in West Monroe, is a native of Calhoun and has lived in West Monroe since 1927, where he is a member and steward of the West Monroe First Methodist Church. Active in community affairs, Brooks is a charter member and current president of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce an organization in which he has held eight major committee chairmanships.

He is also on the board of the Ouachita Parish Better Business Bureau, a member and past president of the West Monroe Kiwanis Club, current vice chairman of the Salvation Army board of directors and a current director of the parish United Givers' Fund.

OTHER SERVICE

Brooks held a captaincy in the Salvation Army's building fund drive. He has served for three years on the executive committee of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council and is currently a director of the organization. He is a member of the West Monroe Planning Commission and has been active in recent years in both the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society and Heart Fund campaigns, besides serving on the special committee whose work resulted in the establishment of West Monroe's Glenwood Hospital.

Brooks was instrumental as a chamber leader in organizing the city's Christmas lighting program. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and is seeking his first political office. His military service career includes 3½ years in the U.S. Army, spent mostly overseas in the Pacific theatre. Brooks has built his platform on meeting future needs with a "well-rounded" educational program. His principal points: "To offer first allegiance to the children of our parish; to provide outstanding educational opportunities for all children; and to respect teachers as professional individuals."

LAW ON LAW

MIAMI (AP) — County grand jury investigators raided two bolita (numbers racket) houses recently, arrested three persons — and got a ticket for illegal parking.

"Infuriating," said one of the crime-fighters. "Here we were in this place arresting these people and this policeman is outside writing us a ticket.

"We argued, but he just kept on writing."

Home Rule Favored By Burroughs

George J. Burroughs, 48, of 803 S. 9th St., Monroe, is a candidate for the Monroe City School Board. An employe of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., he is married to the former Florence Smith of Rayville. Burroughs is a notary public.

He is a member of the Jackson Street Church of Christ, the Collegetown Lodge No. 564, F & AM, and of local 512 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, AFL-CIO. He is also an honorary colonel on Gov. John McKeithen's staff. He has been a resident of Monroe for 20 years. He has three children in the Monroe school system. In a statement, Burroughs pledged not to make any "deals with any party or parties unless it be for the good of our future generation."

He also noted that "there is no wrath so great as the wrath of our Lord, and may I add, the voters." Burroughs further said, "Being born and raised in Louisiana, I am strictly in favor of home rule and constitutional government.

FAVORS EXPANSION

"I am not in favor of limited boundaries, I think as the city grows, so should all the facilities of that city, including the school district. Plans not yet brought before the Legislature in Baton Rouge can be made to rectify the payment of dual school taxes that are occurring because of city expansion. I hope to be able to work toward this solution. I have no axe to grind with any of the personnel or its present board members. Nor do I have anything I wish to sell through these channels except my honest and sincere service to the people of Monroe.

"For many years, the average working family has had little or no voice in the matters pertaining to the conduct and activity of the people who pay most of the taxes. These are the people I wish to represent."

GLUTTON FOR PUNISHMENT

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Byron Watson went fishing and was sunburned and frostbitten in little more than 24 hours.

When he started, the sun boiled up into the 80s and at the end of the day Watson was squirming with a burned back. That night, he returned to the lake and fished all night.

Zuber Cites Basis For Decision

Joe B. Zuber of 402 McGuire St., West Monroe, is a candidate for the two-year partial term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5.

Zuber is married to the former Margaret Durham and is the father of one son, Joe Jr. He is a graduate of the Ouachita Parish school system and has been a resident of West Monroe since 1941. Zuber is associated with his father and brother in P. G. Zuber and Sons Building Contractors in West Monroe.

Following his graduation from high school in 1956, he was a painting contractor, until joining the present family firm in 1963.

The Zubers have been engaged in subdivision developments over the past several years in the West Monroe area. The candidate lists only one pledge in his campaign: "I will represent the people of Ward 5 to the best of my ability, being guided only by their wishes and desires."

DECISION

He added, "I make this decision (to seek office) firmly convinced that better schools build better communities and a better life for its citizens." To Ward 5 voters, Zuber said, "I will make a sincere effort to contact each voter in Ward 5 during the campaign, but to the voters I do not see, I extend an invitation to call me and discuss with me any aspect of the campaign."

The candidate said he feels that his experience as a building contractor will help him in getting the people more for their money in constructing school buildings.

TEACHER WAS NEPHEW OF PUPILS

GLASGOW, Ky. (AP) — Not many teachers faced the problem confronting Samuel S. Smith when he began teaching in a one-room schoolhouse at Little Poplar Grove.

Among Smith's 40 students were three of his aunts, two uncles and a sister.

"None of relatives seemed to know what to call me," he said. "So usually they didn't call me — they just came after me."

VOTE

COVERDALE

No 46 for ASSESSOR

Mrs. Bert Coverdale asks for your support in electing her to the office of ASSESSOR of OUACHITA PARISH to fill the unexpired portion of Bert's term. She has served in this office for the past six months by appointment of the governor.

When elected she promises to continue to operate this office in the same fair and impartial manner as in the past. The "Fair Share" assessment policies which you, the people of Ouachita Parish have come to accept and expect as COVERDALE policies will continue to guide the actions of the office.

1. Monroe Chamber of Commerce dated April 30, 1965

"Whereas, Ouachita Parish's current total assessment of $139,454,270 is termed 'fair' and realistic percentage of assessment by P. A. R. (Public Affairs Research Council) in comparison to State-wide practices Whereas, Bert Coverdale, the Tax Assessor of Ouachita Parish, has diligently worked over many years, with the establishment of a constant "Fair-Assessment" ratio philosophy which has been geared to the Progress and Stability of our area's economy"
"Therefore, be it resolved: that, the Monroe Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors publicly endorse and support the Assessment Philsophy that has been so fairly administered by Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale, and further—that any efforts made to 'change' the average Assessment percentage ratios in Ouachita Parish shall be vigorously opposed."

2. West Monroe Chamber of Commerce dated April 22, 1965
"Be it resolved by the Board of Directors of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce that said Chamber go on record as favoring the present ratio of assessment used by the Honorable Bert Coverdale, Tax Assessor of Ouachita Parish, in calculating annual ad valorem taxes on property located in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana."
"Be it further resolved that said Chamber go on record as commending the manner in which the Honorable Bert Coverdale has conducted the affairs of the office of Tax Assessor, of Ouachita Parish, Louisiana."

3. Ouachita Parish School Board dated May 18, 1965
"Whereas, Bert Coverdale has served as Tax Assessor for a period in excess of a quarter of a century and, Whereas Mr. Coverdale has always carried out his duties in a manner that has been fair to business, industry and home owners and,
Whereas he has always co-operated with the public bodies of the Parish at all times and especially with the Ouachita Parish School Board, Therefore be it resolved that the Ouachita Parish School Board, meeting in special session, Tuesday, May 18, 1965 commends Mr. Coverdale for his long and distinguished service as Tax Assessor of Ouachita Parish.

4. Letter from West Monroe Civitan Club dated April 21, 1965
"Dear Mr. Coverdale:

ATTENTION

VACANCY: IN THE OUACHITA PARISH TAX ASSESSOR'S OFFICE . . . Presently filled by appointment — awaiting YOUR CHOICE in the upcoming election.

NEEDED: The VERY BEST person available for this MOST IMPORTANT OFFICE.

NECESSARY QUALIFICATIONS:

One who is CAPABLE, COURTEOUS, HONEST, UNCONTROLLED and UNDERSTANDING.

APPLICANT: V. A. "Bill" Randall, 48 years of age, a native of Catahoula Parish and resident of 2408 North 9th Street, West Monroe, Louisiana, since February 1, 1951. Married to the former Annee Heard and father of two sons, Jimmy and Steve.

EDUCATION: High School, General Business Course and Correspondence Course in Higher Accounting.

EXPERIENCE: Deputy Clerk of Court, Deputy Tax Assessor, Abstracter and Clerk of Draft Board in Catahoula Parish . . .

Yeoman in U. S. Navy . . .

Deputy Clerk of Court in Ouachita Parish . . . Abstracter, Office Manager, Land Title & Leases, and Part Time Deputy Tax Assessor in Richland Parish . . .

Self-employed as Abstracter, Oil & Gas Lease Broker, Right-of-Way Agent and in Land Title Work, based in Ouachita Parish, however, covering Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and elsewhere as occasion demands.

V. A. "Bill" Randall"

I WANT THIS JOB!

To get it I know the majority of YOU VOTERS must be convinced that YOU should "hire" me.

Have you ever personally applied to approximately 38,000 prospective "bosses"? Neither have I, although I have tried and am still trying to do just that.

To YOU who I am unable to see in person . . . To YOU who I did not have time to talk with at length and to YOU who may not know the full truth, I address the following.

YOUR Assessor's Office has a direct relationship with almost every one of YOU, whether a property owner or not. In some form all of YOU are affected by property valuation.

YOUR Police Jury and School Board must use YOUR Assessor's valuation as a basis upon which to project their budgets . . . businesses must consider property taxes when pricing their merchandise . . . landlords the same when fixing a rental figure . . . the list is endless.

YOUR ASSESSOR IS IMPORTANT TO YOU — CHOOSE WISELY.

As to my capability, I submit the above experience covering a PERIOD OF 28 YEARS.

Examination, except for the war years, reveals a continuous association with the one commodity YOUR ASSESSOR MUST KNOW — LAND.

From Clerk of Court's Offices I have acquired a thorough knowledge of deed, mortgage and suit records . . . from Abstract Offices I have learned to compile the history of a tract of land from its first ownership by the U. S. Government through every transaction ever recorded in connection therewith including the present owner . . . and from Assessor's Offices I have first hand knowledge of the job I am asking YOU for.

As a self-employed person I have had to conclude business transactions with people in all walks of life, of every nationality and faith. I have traded in fields, in factories, in huts and in mansions . . . with the uneducated, the poor and the rich, in our own Louisiana, in Illinois, in New York and in California — South, North, East and West.
To have worked with, and for, the PUBLIC these many years should erase any doubt as to the kind of treatment YOU will get. I do not believe any discourteous or dishonest person could have such a past record without these two very necessary qualities. I invite your investigation of my background — talk with any of my former employers and especially do I point with pride to those from whom I have bought leases and rights-of-way, some as many as two and three times, who are now helping me and working in my behalf.

YOU are entitled to know that a portion of my campaign expense has been donated by FRIENDS. These have been small amounts, freely given without any thought of personal gain or promise of jobs and favors, and were accepted with appreciation. There are absolutely no "strings" attached to me — I am not "lined up" with any political faction or other group and the service I will render YOU has no limitation. I will welcome constructive advice FROM ANY AND ALL but will take "orders" from no one.

YOUR ASSESSOR must have an understanding of the people and their problems. It is my belief that I have this qualification in abundance. Not only have I worked in YOUR public offices but I have visited with YOU in YOUR offices, fields and homes. When there were no "poltics at issue I talked with YOU and the things that were discussed are fixed in my mind and will be remembered when I am YOUR ASSESSOR.

The operation of YOUR ASSESSOR'S OFFICE is more than the preparation of a "tax roll" — consider YOUR choice carefully.

If I were unsure of myself I would not have submitted this application.

Sincerely

V. A. "Bill" RANDALL

My Dear Constituents All:

I sincerely ask for your vote for re-election to the Congress in the August 13 Democratic Primary, based solely upon the type of representation I have afforded our District.

I have endeavored to represent all the people of the Fifth Congressional District fairly and impartially. Rendering personal service to my constituents has been my greatest compensation in serving you in the Congress.

I have worked untiringly and successfully to reduce unnecessary federal expenditures and to maintain fiscal responsibility in government, realizing that excessive spending creates inflation which reduces the purchasing power of the dollar and works to the detriment of the businessman, the working man, the pensioner, the aged and all who live on fixed incomes.

Recognizing that the ravages of floods in our District prevented economic growth and destroyed life and property, I was prompted to make flood control protection my specialty. During my 20-year tenure in the Congress, 193 Million Dollars have been spent in our District for flood control protection. This expenditure enhanced the value of the property and profits of the people of the Fifth Congressional District in excess of ONE BILLION DOLLARS.

I am the only member of Congress from Louisiana who is a member of the powerful Committee on Appropriations of the House. Of the 50-man Committee, only six Members stand between me and the top. I also rank above 375 Members of the House. This is your seniority. I will continue to use it wisely and in the best interests of our District, State and Nation.

Your vote on August 13 will be very much appreciated. My number on the voting machine is FIVE (5).

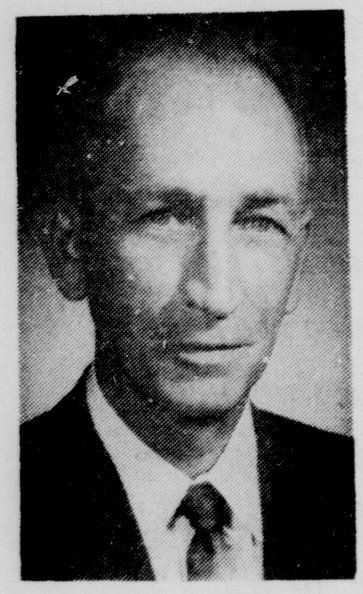
MONROE CITY JUDGE...



For more than 34 years, I have been engaged in the practice of law before the various Courts of our state and nation. An attorney must constantly study the law and its application to our varied problems. The many contacts and associations I have made over these past 34 years have been invaluable as they have afforded me an insight to the vital need of applying common sense to the law as a practical solution rather than inflexibly applying the law to each and every case.

Just as the law changes to meet the needs of an ever changing society so must the Court itself if the fairest system of justice is to prevail. I was happy to learn that the incumbent judge had finally come around to the viewpoint I epoused some nearly 20 years ago that the judge of the Monroe City Court should not receive fees in addition to his other pay (Act 206 of 1964 which becomes effective January 1, 1967). The time is here for other needed changes to be made in this court such as (1) placing all fines on an equal footing with those imposed by our District Court (2) an acceptable scientific test for driving while under the influence of intoxicants, which should be helpful to both the accused and the law enforcement authorities (3) an increase in the small claim jurisdiction from $100.00 to $200.00 in cases that can be filed without an attorney and (4) extending the civil and criminal jurisdiction (felonies excepted) to cover all Wards east of the Ouachita River, with civil jurisdiction increased to $2500.00.

The unfortunate rapid rise of juvenile cases makes imperative the early establishment of a Family Court where all matters affecting the family can be heard such as is now done in New Orleans, Shreveport and Baton Rouge.

I have long felt that the judge of the Monroe City Court should not be permitted to engage in the practice of law since to do so would put him in direct competition with his fellow attorneys who would sooner or later be practicing before his very court and which would place them both in an unfair position.

I strongly believe that the fines imposed by the City Court should be in line with those handed out in our District Court. If elected your Judge I will place all such fines on an equal basis with those of our District Court. The administration of justice would be a hollow mockery if the only purpose served by fines is to enrich the city treasury. A fine should be imposed only where there is a clear case of a violation and all reasonable doubts must be resolvd in favor of the person being tried as the law requires. I believe in the complete and absolute separation of powers, that is, the Police Department should be run by the Police and the City Court should be run by the Judge.

The people of Monroe have built and will soon open a much needed Civic Center with a beautiful, modern courtroom which must always dispense true justice under the law where every person regardless of his station in life will be treated alike with preferential treatment to no one.

In the case of a working person whose family is dependent on him or her for their support, jail sentences will be carried out by permitting this person to work during his working hours at his trade so that the family will not be deprived of the necessities of life. He or she will spend each night, weekend and holiday serving his sentence.

I have always tried to be fair, considerate and honorable in my every endeavor. This attitude I will take with me to the Judge's Office if you will permit me to occupy it. I do not and can not promise you special consideration for to do so would compromise the Office I seek. I can and I do promise you that every person shall always be received in a fair, honest and courteous manner.

If you feel that I can best carry out the duties and responsibilities of the Office of City Judge, your ballot in my behalf will be welcomed as will any other assistance or counsel you care to give me in this campaign. I believe that I can so operate your Court that it will reflect the proper dignity and decorum so necessary in the administration of justice.

I would appreciate any suggestions that you would care to make as to ways to improve the administration of justice in the Monroe City Court.

W. L. Crowe Serving In City Court

William L. (Bill) Crowe, 209 Lakeside Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for city judge, Wards 3 and 10. Since September, Crowe has been presiding over courtroom work for Monroe City Court due to illness of Judge W. M. Harper.

A 1953 graduate of Louisiana State University Law School, the candidate is a member of the Louisiana State Bar and Junior Bar Association, American Bar Association, and Fourth District Bar Association. He is a former assistant Ouachita Parish district attorney. He is a member of the American Legion, Optimists Club, 40 & 8, and is currently president of the Louisiana State University Ouachita Parish Alumni Association.

He is married to the former Jane O'Kelly of Monroe and has three daughters. He is a member of Jesus The Good Shepherd Catholic Church.

"I have aspired to this judgeship since graduating from law school," he said.

He is a veteran of the Korean conflict, serving with the Army. "I am to uphold the law, not to enforce it and not to make it. The judiciary should act in the capacity of the judiciary branch of the government, and it should not allow the other branches of government to interfere with the judiciary. At the same time, the judiciary should refrain, no matter how tempting, in interfering with the other branches."

Court Needs Analyzed By George Fink

George Fink, 57, of 3405 Loop Rd., Monroe, is a candidate for city judge in Wards 3 and 10.

A native of DeRidder, the candidate has lived in Monroe for the past 53 years. He is married to the former Clayton Heard of Rayville and has three daughters.

He attended Louisiana State University and Tulane University law school and was admitted to the bar in 1932. He is a member of the Louisiana Bar Association and the Fourth Judicial District Bar Association.

He is a member of the Western Star Lodge 24, F & AM, the Louis Daniel High Twelve Club, and is on the Ouachita Parish Society for Crippled Children's adult board. He has pledged judicial practices to meet an "ever - changing society."

In a statement, Fink said, "Just as the law changes to meet the needs of an ever changing society, so must the court itself if the fairest system of justice is to prevail. I strongly believe that the fines imposed by the city court should be in line with those handed out in district court. If elected, I will place all fines on a comparable basis."

VITAL NEED

Fink said the "vital" need in conduct of the court was "applying common sense to the law as a practical solution rather than inflexibly applying the law to each and every case." Fink also called for the establishment of a family court.

"The unfortunate rapid rise of juvenile cases makes imperative the early establishment of a family court where all matters affecting the family can be handled."

Randall Lists Qualification For Office

V. A. "Bill" Randall, 48, 2408 N. 9th St., West Monroe, is a candidate for tax assessor of Ouachita Parish. A resident of West Monroe for the past 15 years, Randall is engaged primarily in the oil and gas lease business.

He lists as qualifications years of active work in leases, purchasing rights of - ways, abstracting and doing land title work. Although this is his first elective office bid, Randall has been employed on several occasions in a public office. In 1938, he was chief deputy clerk of court in Catahoula Parish, and in 1939 became chief deputy tax assessor of the same parish. During that period of time he also worked as an abstracter.

MILITARY SERVICE

He then enlisted in the Navy and served until 1945 when he was honorably discharged. Randall then was employed as deputy in the Ouachita Parish clerk of court's office. He also served as a part time deputy later with the Richland Parish tax assessor's office. During that time he handled evaluations and homestead exemptions for the Town of Delhi. He then went into private business entirely.

"Our affairs should be entrusted to those we deem best qualified," Randall said. "Wise men are not born. Experience is the greatest teacher, and the ability to apply experience in meeting and solving our day to day problems should ever be sought."

Randall is married to the former Annee Heard and is the father of two sons — James, married and a student at Northeast Louisiana State College, and Steve, a senior at West Monroe High School.

Otto Passman Strong Foe Of Waste

Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe is a candidate for re-election to the U. S. House of Representatives. Chairman of the Foreign Operations Appropriations Committee, Passman said he would run on his 20-year record in Congress. He is considered a strong foe of waste in foreign aid.

The Monroe congressman has specialized in flood - control matters during his years in Washington and particularly to the development of the lower Mississippi Valley flood - control program. Since he entered Congress in 1946, more than $193 million has been spent on flood - control work in the Fifth District.

ECONOMIC BENEFITS

These "investments have resulted in tangible economic benefits to the economy of the area, including the enhancement of property values of $1 billion."

He points out his greatest achievement in savings as helping to reduce foreign-aid spending by more than $10 billion during the past 11 pears he has served as chairman of the committee handling the money bill for that program. The congressman is also near the top of seniority on the powerful 50-member House Committee on Appropriations, being out-ranked by only six of the members. There are only 49 of the 435 House members who outrank Passman on time served in Washington.

Purvis Gains Experience On Board

J. D. Purvis of 602 Norris Lane, West Monroe, is a candidate for a full six-year term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5.

Purvis is a lifelong resident of Ward 5 and is married to the former Erma Norris. The couple have three children, all of whom were educated in the parish system.

The candidate is in the syrup manufacturing and farming business. He is a member of the Claiborne Methodist Church of West Monroe. Purvis has held an appointive Ward 5 seat on the school board since early this year, having been named by Gov. John McKeithen to fill the unexpired term of Board Vice President Roy C. Cash when Cash died. He has emphasized his experience on the board so far and pledged in his campaign that he is "willing and eager to devote my time and effort to this job."

PLEDGE GIVEN

He pledged an aggressive campaign. Declared Purvis, "because I am presently serving on the board, I am acutely aware that there are at present many complex and difficult problems. I will seek ways to be thoroughly familiar with these problems and then will propose workable solutions based on what is best for our school system."

He stated, "I will continue to be an interested, hard working school board member, eager to work and cooperate with our administrators, other board members, teachers, parents and students in an effort to provide our children with an educational program of which we all can be proud."

Tolson Cites Interest In School Needs

H. W. (Buddy) Tolson, 43, of 414 Lakeshore Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for one of the two Ward 10 seats opening on the Ouachita Parish School Board. Tolson is married to the former Peggy Rushing of Alto and is the father of a son.

He is sales manager of the Hill Lumber and Supply Company. An honorary member of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, Tolson is a member of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, is past president of the Ouachita Parish High School Boosters Club, and is a member of St. Mark's Methodist Church. The candidate is a lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish, and has resided in Ward 10 since 1946 when he returned home from overseas duty during World War II.

PLEDGE

He pledged in his campaign to make decisions on the board "based on what I consider best for the entire system," adding, "I will vote independently, if elected." Tolson has pledged to serve "Ward 10 and the entire parish to the best of my ability." He also cited a need for representation on the school board of the Lakeshore and Bayou Shores areas.

Tolson, who received his education in the parish schools and whose son is a recent graduate in the system, lists a "more than casual" interest in the schools.

He states, "I shall work in harmony with the school officials and personnel, the parents of our students and, if elected, shall cooperate with all in the best interest of the entire system."

Billye Adams Independent Candidate

Billye L. Adams, 42, of 2201 Mallory Pl., Monroe, is a candidate for City judge in Wards 3 and 10. He has pledged himself as an "independent candidate."

A native of Strong, Ark., he has lived in Monroe since 1942. A veteran of World War II, Adams received his law degree from Louisiana State University in 1951. He is a member of a number of organizations, including the American Bar Association. Louisiana State Bar Association, and Fourth Judicial District Bar Association.

He is married to the former June Wright of West Monroe and has four children. He is a member of the Parkview Baptist Church, a past member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Optimist Club.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE

"I am an independent candidate," Adams said. "I owe no allegience to any person, group or political faction. My responsibility will be to all the people of this community should they see fit to honor me with election to this office. The growth of Monroe and the significance of this court has, in my opinion, also brought about the necessity of many changes. This is particularly true with the processing and trial of criminal complaints.

"I think these changes are necessary to permit the court to devote more time to its proper function of hearing and deciding cases presented. I believe also that these changes are necessary for this court to retain its integrity as a separate and independent branch of government."

French Debt Up, Tourist Tide, Too

WASHINGTON (Special) — France owes the United States $4,688,478,839.17 in delinquent principal and interest from World War I, has got $7,472,000,000 in United States economic and military aid since 1946, bit into our gold reserves to the tune of $2,369,000,000 since 1962, and in recent years generally has pursued policies which raise the hackles of this Government.

But all that does not stop the American tourist tide to De Gaulle's country. It will reach an estimated 1,000,000 this year. There is another interesting estimate — each American tourist to France leaves behind $78 per day.

Reitzell Tells Of Work In Office Sought

Richard E. Reitzell, 34, of 800 Erin St., Monroe, is a candidate for the post of city marshal, Wards 3 and 10.

Reitzell, son of present marshal Frank V. Reitzell, is basing his campaign on a working knowledge of the office gained through close association with its functions.

"In serving you as your marshal, I would always remember that I must be courteous, efficient, conscientious and fair. Most of all, I must and would keep in mind that the persons with whom I deal are not criminals, but just down on their luck at that time."

BACKGROUND

A life-time resident of Monroe, he is married to the former Willie Mae Meeks and is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School. He attended Northeast Louisiana State College from 1952-56 and is a member of the school's alumni association.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church and is president of his Sunday School class. He belongs to the Monroe Civic Singers, the Downtown Monroe Lions Club, the Monroe Jaycees and the National Wildlife Federation.

"Having been deputized for the past four years and having lived with my father, who has held the office of marshal for 18 years, I feel I know the duties of the office."

"The marshal's office is the same as the sheriff's office, but because of the efficient police force, the marshal's office takes care of civil matters only. The marshal is an official representing the City Court of Monroe, whose jurisdiction is all of Wards 3 and 10."

Solons Scarce During Debates

When the multi-billion foreign aid bill was under consideration, 84-year-old Representative Barratt O'Hara, Democrat, Illinois, looked around at the empty seats provided for the 435 House members.

"At the last count there were 28 people on the floor listening to this great debate" observed O'Hara. "I believe since then we may have lost one or two to the inroads of human fatigue."

hints from Heloise

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
I save the heavy envelopes we get in the mail and use them to make a file for your hints.

I use 6½x9" envelopes. I glue the envelopes shut and cut them into two (crosswise), making a tab at the top for identification, staggering the tabs to make them easier to see.

I label each with a different category, such as "Stains", "Laundry", "Painting", "Cooking", etc. . . . I even have a special one for "Net"!

I covered a sturdy box with decorative paper, cut out the colorful "Hints from Heloise" title from your column, and pasted it on the front of the box.

Each day I clip hints I want and file them. When a problem comes up, I take out the proper envelope and usually find the solution.

Before painting, housecleaning, or any large undertaking, I read all your hints concerning it. If I vaguely remember a hint, I can always look it up in a hurry.

Wilma Kinden

DEAR HELOISE:
I get a two-fold benefit from perfumed toilet soap.

I use it first as a sachet in dresser drawers and to perfume closets and linen chests, then use it for regular purposes after it has lost most of its fragrance. The bar of soap has hardened by then and lasts much longer than soft soap.

Mrs. Ann Dubas

DEAR HELOISE:
When I get through cooking bacon and while the grease is still hot, I line a strainer with a facial tissue, and just pour the grease through it.

The grease is absolutely clear. The tissue catches all the residue.

Ruth

BABY'S PLASTIC PANTS

DEAR HELOISE:
If you want to dry baby's plastic pants in a hurry, place them in the hood of your hair dryer! They dry in a few minutes and are soft and warm to put back on the baby.

Mother

DEAR MOTHER:
This actually works. Even when your baby's overpants have become stiff, it softens them again. And it's a real good trick when you have only one pair and they are damp. Just rinse 'em out and dry them in that hood.

Also, if you put a washcloth in the hood, along with the plastic pants, it helps. I don't know if it's the friction or the moisture the washrag absorbs, but it works better. Probably also prevents overdrying.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
If you have some old bedspreads you are about ready to throw away . . . Don't!

I made some beautiful baby blankets by cutting the center out of the quilted kind. Just fold in half, pin on colored blanket binding all the way around and sew it up.

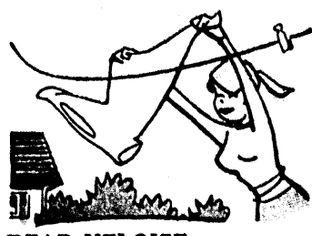
The closely-woven chenille spreads are useful, too. I cut one up and made four nice pillowcases for my dog's bed. Now he doesn't pull out the blanket (because he can't!) and I can change his bed so much easier and keep him clean, as well as my once dog-hair-filled house.

Oh, yes, and don't forget the scraps make nice spreads for dolly's bed, and small children love them for bathrobes, too.

Mrs. D. C. M.

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. 8-7

T-FORMATION LINE-UP



DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a little hint to mothers and wives whose menfolk wear T-shirts or other knitted undershirts:

Before hanging on the clothesline, gather the shirt at the bottom with your hand and give it a hard SHAKE. The part that shows, when the man wears it, will be beautifully shaped.

For those who buy inexpensive T-shirts that shrink in length, gather the top in one hand and the bottom in the other, and give it a hard pull. This stretches the garment again. Then hold the shirt at the bottom and give it a good shake.

Just watch those old T-shirts stretch back into shape.

M. F.

HOT (WATER BOTTLE) TIP

DEAR HELOISE:
Those of you who have hot water bottles, but don't use them often:

When they are emptied, just blow them full of air and then put the cap on tightly.

When stored this way, the sides do not stick together.

General Hospital

LETTER OF TRUTH

DEAR HELOISE:
When you have settled down to sleep — SMILE — and let the wrinkles form in a pleasant expression, instead of one of tension.

Betty Bissell

SLICE IT THIN

DEAR HELOISE:
This is such an easy hint that I presume it has been mentioned before . . . however, I have not seen it!

Before slicing liver, first freeze it to a semi-solid condition, then slice. You can get the desired thickness of slice you want.

And did you know that the same can be applied to chicken or other fowl? When it is frozen whole, let it thaw until one can just move the thigh and leg. Pull apart and cut.

It will be the neatest job of separating and cutting you ever saw and can be easily cut into smaller pieces.

No slipping or sliding.

Mrs. Victor Henderson

WA... WASH

DEAR GALS:
I want to give you a word of advice on laundering wash-and-wear clothing in your washing machine:

DON'T, please don't, try to do as big a machine load of wash-and-wears as you would of other items, such as sheets, towels, etc.

It is far better to do only half as large a load.

This prevents crowding, and there is less chance of setting wrinkles in the garments. And NEVER use hot water. Use either cold or luke warm.

And, you do remember, don't you, that you should never spin-dry your wash-and-wears or your "lons"?? Same reason as above—it sets those wrinkles.

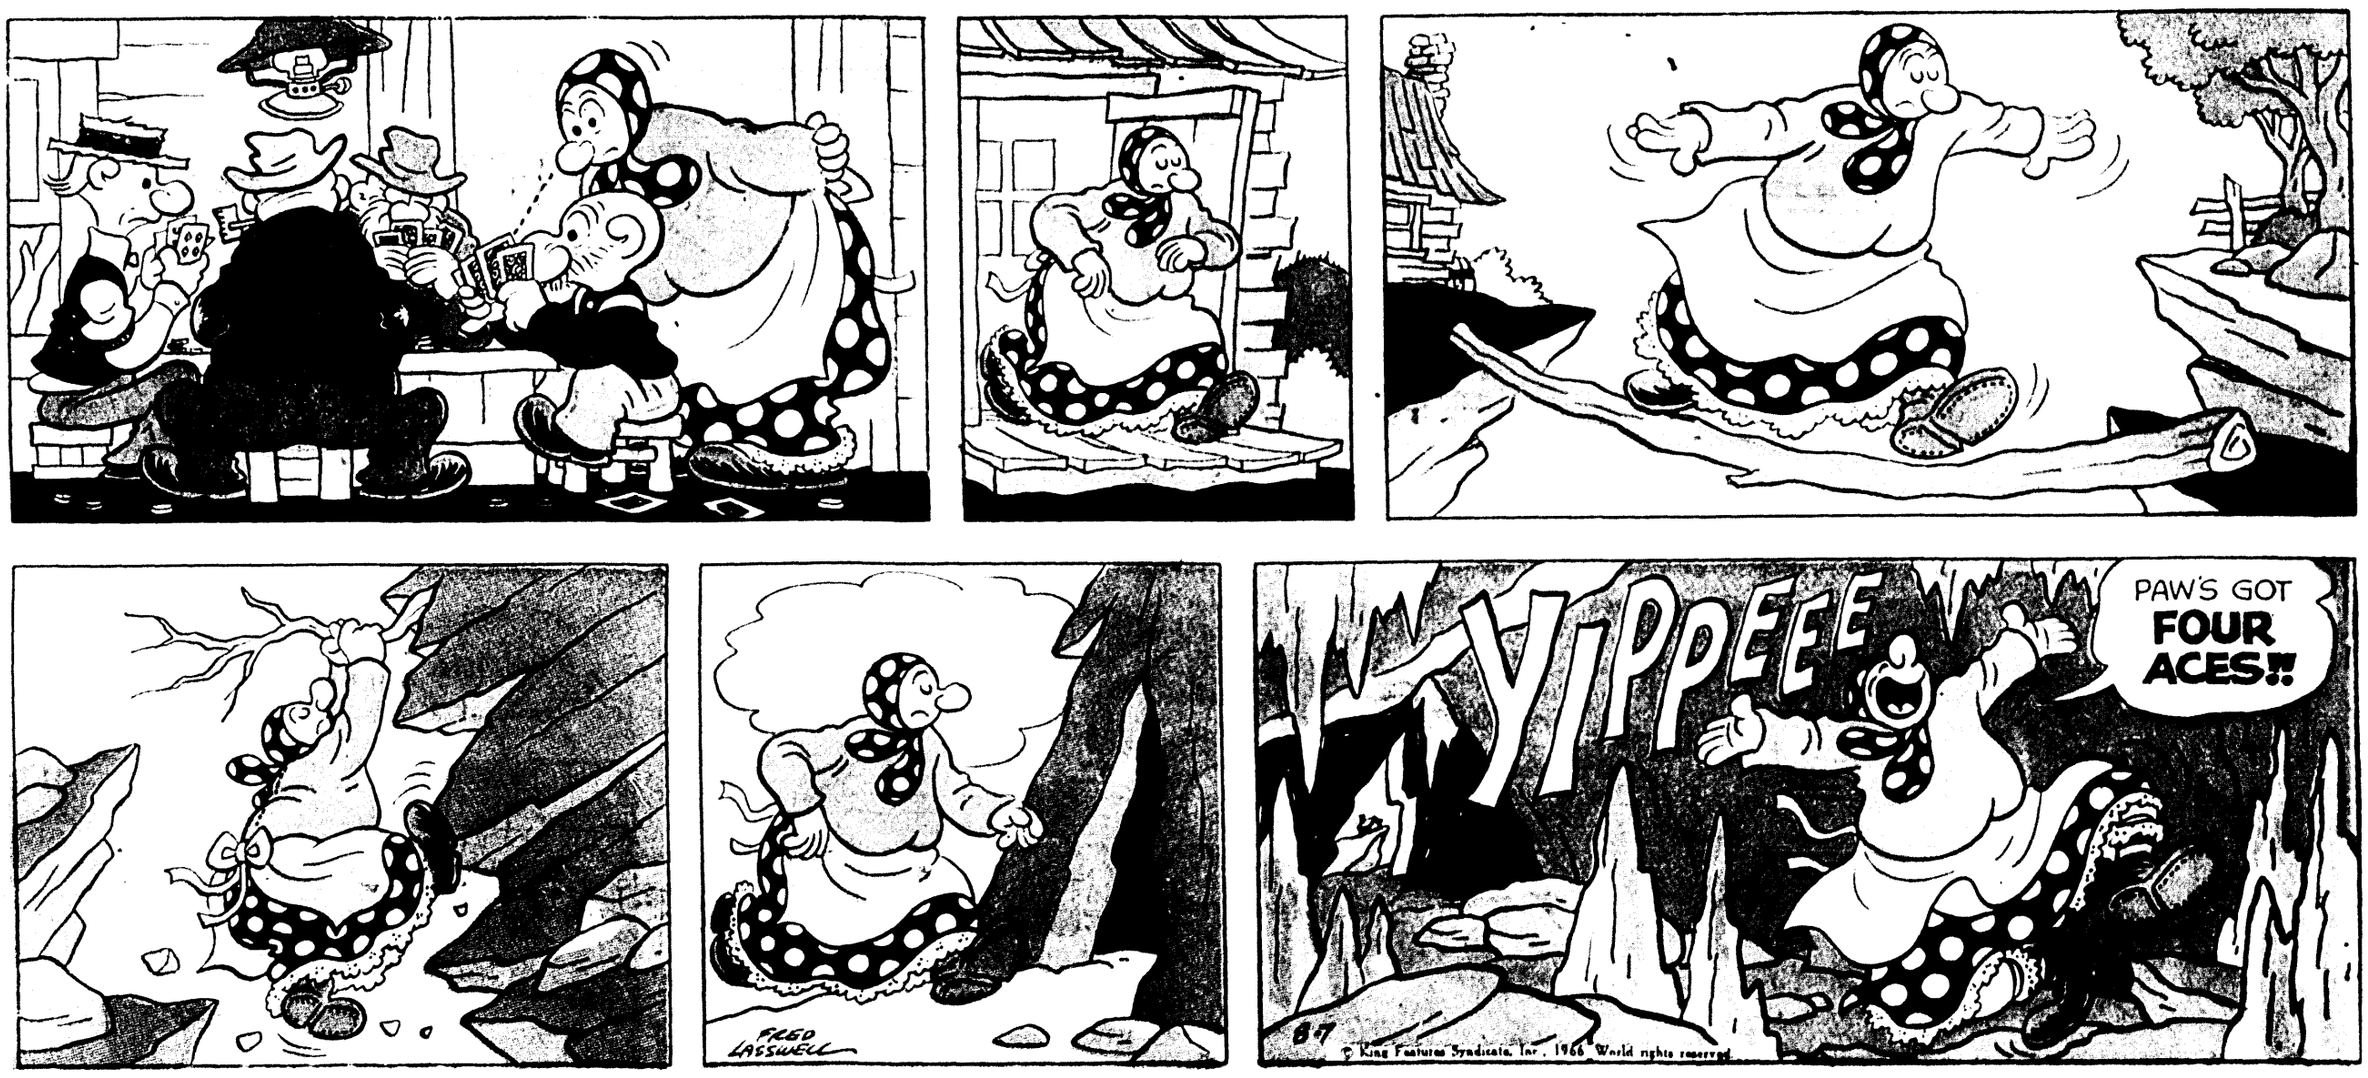
BARNEY GOOGLE and SNUFFY SMITH by FRED LASSWELL



Mary Perkins ON STAGE ®

I ask the people of Louisiana for their support of a genuine conservative in my candidacy for the United States Senate.

I am convinced that conservative, principled constitutionalism and state sovereignty must be revitalized if we are to survive as a free society in these crucial times. I believe this is the will of the vast majority of Louisianians, and I am dedicated to these principles.

Despite a decade of reversals, these principles will triumph if given the dedicated and determined leadership needed. Unyieldingly committed to conservative government, I am pledged to stand against unrestrained power of radical liberalism.

VOTE NO. 25

WILLIAM L. "BILL"

CROWE

CANDIDATE FOR MONROE

CITY JUDGE

AD PAID FOR BY W. L. CROWE

1. A Judge cannot make or legislate law.

2. A Judge cannot change or modify law.

3. A Judge must uphold the law, considering first the public good and secondly the individual, extending clemency when he can do so in good conscience and when doing no violence to the law or to the public good.

4. A Judge, in criminal matters, must extend a reasonable doubt to the accused, granting to him the presumption of innocence until proven otherwise; the guilty may sometimes escape but the innocent must not suffer. In civil matters, the Judge must weigh the evidence fairly.

5. Traffic safety is one of the most important aspects of life in this generation and will be even more important to future generations. Our children, as well as all citizens, must be safe to travel, work and play. The achievement of traffic safety is a must to our survival. We must educate and orientate ourselves as well as our children to this proposition.

6. Bad driving, drunk or sober, cannot be tolerated. Some label it an act of indiscretion. If it is, it is an indiscretion which kills and maims men, women and children without discrimination and leaves nothing but sorrow for not only the innocent but the guilty as well. Records prove automobiles are one of the greatest killers.

7. There can be no bargain basement price placed on the achieving of justice and the maintaining of peace and dignity and law and order. These goals do not come cheaply, just as a championship football team, freedom, liberty or Godliness do not come cheaply.

8. If prisoners were released from jails during the day, the public good would be endangered and the police force would have to be tripled. Most prisoners did not support their families prior to their imprisonment.

9. A system of fining a convicted person cannot be based on the income of that individual as related to another individual. The result would be just and fair and the system would be impossible of administration and totally unworkable. This is not to say that the Court should not or does not consider all circumstances in each case. This Court has done so.

10. A Judge can owe no obligations to any individual or to any group of individuals. A candidate for Judge can make no promises to any individual or group of individuals. He must be independent of the other departments of government and yet he must maintain a spirit of cooperation with all who seek good government.

11. I am independent; my only obligation to anyone is to be a good Judge. My supporters have not asked nor would they receive any other promise. If elected, I will look to no man nor to any group of men to run this Court.

R. Kennedy Has Served As Teacher

Robert S. Kennedy, 41, of 2007 Sherwood Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for the Monroe School Board. A life-long resident of Louisiana, he is a former school teacher and former state legislator, and is now engaged in the insurance business. The candidate is a member of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau.

He is a past member of the Jaycees and is a Key Club committee chairman in the Downtown Kiwanis Club. He is a member of the Parkview Baptist Church. A graduate of Louisiana Tech, he served in the Navy in World War II. He is the father of three children now in the Monroe City school system. Among his interests, he lists the "civic and political well being of the community and state."

In a statement, Kennedy said, "I believe that the key to the social, economic and political problems of today is the sound education of our youth, who must accept civic responsibility tomorrow. I am proud of the Monroe school system and deem it an honor to have an opportunity to help further build and strengthen this system. I am interested in providing the best possible education for every child in every section of the city.

TEACHER IMPORTANT

"I believe that the corner stone to a good educational system is the teacher. In order to attract teachers, we must be prepared to pay them adequately. We need the full salary implementation for teachers and other school personnel. It is necessary that our school system prepare our children for higher education, and also prepare those who do not go to college for a worthwhile and rewarding job."

Background Of Garrett Pointed Out

John S. Garrett, state representative from Claiborne Parish, is a candidate for public service commissioner from the third district.

A native of Haynesville, Garrett has served in the House for 18 years and is chairman of Judiciary Committee B, a member of the Legislative Budget Committee and serves on the Joint Legislative Committee.

"Some of the candidates in the Public Service Commission race seem to believe the only issue is the nickle telephone rate," Garrett said. "Fair telephone rates are important, however, I want to emphasize that North Louisiana is rapidly being industrialized and there are many matters with which the commission must deal, if we are to be in a competitive position with neighboring states.

GUARD RIGHTS

"The Commission must guard the rights of the people and the rights of industry not only to telephone rates but for railroads, truck lines, bus lines, express companies and power companies."

"If elected," Garrett said, "I intend to protect the rights of our people in every field in which the Public Service Commission has authority. I have been a leader in the fight against every unfair or unnecessary tax raise during my 18 years in the legislature."

"If you want to know where a man is going," Garrett said, "Look where he has been."

John Hunt Cites Record Of Service

John S. Hunt II, 2121 Valencia St., Monroe, is a candidate for the post of Public Service Commissioner in the third district. An attorney, he has held the post since his appointment by Gov. John McKeithen in 1964.

Hunt is a Presbyterian, is married and has three children.

He is a veteran of the Korean conflict and offers as a platform his record in office. He is a native of Ruston, a graduate of the Tulane University Law School, and is a member of the Louisiana Bar Association, the American Bar Association and is qualified to practice before state and federal courts. He is also a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

EXPANSION GREATEST

"During my two years on the commission," Hunt said, "telephone expansion both in dollars and percentage-wise, has been the greatest in the state's history. Further," he said, "during my service on the commission, great strides have been made in expanding toll-free telephone service, the ultimate goal being to provide parish-wide toll-free service in every parish."

He added, "as your commissioner, I have acted as the people's protector at all times, and I have been fair to the utilities it is my duty to supervise and regulate. I shall continue this policy.

"Further, it has been and will always be my practice to make myself available to the public in my district at all times, day and night. I frequently visit all parts of the district and assure you that I have been and will continue to be ready to discuss with you and help solve any problem which falls under the jurisdiction of the Commission."

DUG UP AN ENGINE

MIAMI (AP) — Excavators are accustomed to digging up some weird items when clearing land for new buildings.

But a bulldozer operator breaking ground for a new apartment building here really hit the jackpot.

It was later learned that it had been blown over during the hurricane of 1926 and covered up rather than moved.

IN WARD NINE, of Ouachita Parish, voters will use this ballot in casting their votes in the August 13 Primary.

Holloway Tells Views On Schools

Chester P. Holloway, 62, of 102 Thomas Dr., West Monroe, is a candidate for the two-year partial term on the Ouachita Parish School Board representing Ward 5. The candidate, a West Monroe grocer and insurance executive, would serve the remainder of the Ward 5 term of the late Roy C. Cash.

Holloway bases his campaign on past experience with the school board. He has worked for 12 years in farm production in Ouachita Parish and is owner and operator of a grocery store in Ward 5. Holloway currently is debit manager for the Central State Life Insurance Company.

He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, as well as of the Eastern Star and of the Bethel Baptist Church. A native of Ouachita Parish, Holloway was reared near Okaloosa, graduated from Okaloosa High School and attended Louisiana Tech. He is married to the former Delmar Hobbs and is the father of five children — four boys and a girl, all of whom attended Ouachita Parish schools.

STATEMENT

In his campaign, he stated, "I am very interested in our schools, which hold the future of our boys and girls. I feel that I can best serve my community on the Ouachita Parish School Board.

"The experience I have gained will enable me to make sound decisions and better fulfill the responsibilities placed on board members by the public. I believe our children should be served by the best possible leadership available at all levels."

Solons Take Careful Look At Traffic Safety Needs

WASHINGTON (Special) — Some years ago the people of Kansas City decided to light their streets better at night. Most of the pedestrians being killed by autos were being killed at night, and in one three-year period 70 pedestrian deaths had occurred after dark.

By the time 90 per cent of the new lights had been installed, nighttime deaths of pedestrians during a comparable period of time had dropped to 13.

In the mountains near Los Angeles skidding on wet pavements is a driving hazard. At one intersection 11 skidding accidents occurred in a three-year period and at another there were seven in two years.

As an experiment California highway engineers cut grooves in the pavements leading to the crossings and the skidding stopped. For two years thereafter there were no skidding-on-pavement accidents at those intersections.

These examples and others have convinced members of the Senate committee on public works that street and highway safety can be improved, and that the annual death toll of autoists and pedestrians doesn't need to be as large as it is.

Spreading the use of good traffic practices more widely, and taking full advantage of good new ideas as they come along can make a big change, the Senators feel.

What upset many persons is that the traffic death toll is rising. It is rising by every standard. The actual number of deaths is rising, the rate of deaths is rising per captial, per car, and, by what is probably the most accurate safety yardstick, per 100 million miles of street and highway use.

The auto death rate per 100 million miles of highway use rose 10 per cent from 1961 to 1964, and in the Spring of 1965 it increased an additional 4 per cent. In 1965 49,000 persons died. It is fair to say that between 5000 a 7000 of these lives would have been saved if the 1961 rate of highway safety had been maintained .

As most readers know Congress is taking a hard look at the subject of automotive safety this year. The House gives every sign of endowing the Secretary of Commerce with authority to determine safety standards for autos and to require manufacturers to live up to them.

Statistics Presented On Area And State Voter Registration

A total of 1,244,264 persons were qualified to vote in Louisiana as of June 30, according to the latest figures released by the State Board of Registration.

These figures include 1,019,114 whites and 220,014 Negroes.

J. McKinley Running As Independent

John B McKinley, 1412 Riverside Dr., Monroe, is a candidate for commissioner in the Third Public Service Commission District.

He is married and has two children.

An attorney, McKinley is a member of the State Sovereignty Commission and recently resigned as its chairman.

He is a Methodist and a graduate of Louisiana State University.

A veteran of World War II, McKinley is a 32nd Degree Mason and a Shriner. He is a member of the American Legion, Louisiana Trial Lawyers Association, American Bar Association, Louisiana State Bar Association, and is licensed to practice before all state and federal courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court.

MEMBERSHIPS

He is a member of the Official Board of the First Methodist Church of Monroe, the Monroe Juvenile Advisory Board, board of directors of Doctor's Hospital, Shreveport, and a member of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation.

His political philosophy: "I am really a constitutional conservative and believe all political candidates should be chosen on the basis of qualification and not as a result of a political machine or a directive from a governor, and therefore that is why I've been running as an independent in this race."

Public Service Commission Race Holds Wide Interest

By MILO DAKIN
Staff Writer

Political eyes in Louisiana will be staring hardest August 13 at the race for Public Service Commissioner from the third district — 28 parishes comprising North Louisiana.

This area is traditionally a proving ground for politicians, and this commission seat a jumping off point for the state's highest position, the governor's office.

Three have made the big step — Huey Long, Jimmie Davis, and John McKeithen — and a strong field of candidates now hints toward a possible Democratic nominee for governor in 1971.

CANDIDATES

The candidates are the incumbent, John S. Hunt, Monroe; John S. Garrett, state representative from Claiborne Parish; John McKinley, Monroe, member of the State Sovereignty Commission and former chairman; Parey Branton, Webster Parish representative; Wellborn Jack, Shreveport, former Caddo Parish representative, and Perry H. Coleman, Alexandria businessman.

Looming far up front in issues is opposition for Hunt, backed by Gov. John McKeithen. This will be the first political test this year for the administration, and although it isn't a real measuring stick, a sound victory for Hunt would ease some concern for the two-term referendum in November.

SPECULATION

"A vote for Hunt is a vote for McKeithen," one oldtimer in politics said.

But others are saying McKeithen may as well have handpicked two candidates in the race. Garrett, figured strong in the race, has often acted as an administration floor leader and is the man most people say McKeithen would have nominated if Hunt had decided not to run. The Haynesville lawmaker is a veteran of 18 years in the Louisisiana House of Representatives.

Hunt has Long blood — a nephew of Earl and Huey — and McKeithen backing. Garrett has strong political backing among his legislative counterparts and the seasoned experience of his years as a lawmaker. He has termed Hunt's backing as a "political debt" by the governor.

What political prognosticators are scratching their heads at is the figure of John McKinley as a candidate. His announcement as a candidate led to the breaking of a law firm partnership with McKeithen. His chief political claim is his appointment as chairman of the sovereignty commission by the governor.

INDEPENDENT STAND

McKinley says he is completely independent and has criticized those who reckoned Hunt as strong simply on his McKeithen endorsement. "I don't believe in a rubber stamp candidate," he said. "That is why I am in this race."

McKinley, like Hunt is a practicing Monroe attorney.

Perhaps the most independent candidate in the race is Branton. A "Wallace-Goldwater, free enterprise, right to profit Democrat," the Webster lawmaker is a strong foe of the McKeithen administration and is campaigning on "political independence,"

COMEBACK RACE

For former state representative, Wellborn Jack, this is a comeback race. The veteran Shreveport politician was the first to officially announce, his first political attempt since falling to J. Bennett Johnston in a re-count House race in 1964. He had served as a legislator for 24 years.

The least known of the candidates is Coleman, an oil lease businessman who campaigns on lowering long distance telephone rates. Coleman is a native of Grant Parish and will be making his first political stab as a public service commission candidate. He has listed no particular philosophy of government and his campaign, as yet, has not swung into the mainstream of extreme North Louisiana where most of his opponents have been on the stump for weeks. At best, he is expected only to split the Alexandria-area vote.

In fact, the five candidates are well spread geographically — cept for two in Monroe — and home votes should put at least three candidates in running range of each other.

With 280,000 registered voters in the 28 parishes comprising the commission district, an optimistic turnout of 150,000 may vote. Any one candidate will probably need a minimum of 60,000 votes and maybe up to 75,000 to go in on the first primary. The voting show will depend largely on the strength of campaigns showed by candidates.

And the governor will probably have as much interest in this race as when he was a candidate.

So will any potential opponents.

L. Parker Serving In Legislature

Larry Parker of Alexandria, is a candidate for U. S. representative in the 8th District.

He was born April 1, 1922 and is a graduate of Bolton High School in Alexandria. He was a member of the U. S. Navy (seabees) during World War Two, and became a radio announcer and newscaster in 1945.

He was a news commentator at KSYL in Alexandria for seven years prior to successfully seeking public office in 1964. He is now serving in the state house of representatives.

He is married to the former Sylvia Snyder of Marrell, Ark., has four children, Dianna, 11, Cathy, 10, Michael 8, and Kenneth, 6, and resides at 2060 White St., Alexandria. He is owner of a toy wholesale distributing company.

NEWS CAREER

During his news career he was heard often on NBC Monitor, was also a stringer for the Associated Press and several newspapers. He completed an extension course from University of Miami in radio journalism, is chairman of the 8th District American Legion Legislative Committee, member of the Exchange Club of Alexandria, is active in crippled children's work in Rapides Parish, and organized and directed the Pelican State Boxing Team for three years.

He said, "My freshman term in the legislature has been pretty well documented by the news media. I have remained independent, have been involved in numerous floor fights and have compiled a record which I think pleases my constituents."

Kelly States Obligations To Schools

William G. (Bill) Kelly Jr., of 406 Erin, Monroe, is a candidate for a Ward 10 seat on the Ouachita Parish School Board. Kelly is a native of Choudrant in Lincoln Parish, who attended Louisiana Tech in Ruston and later graduated from Louisiana State University with bachelor and law degrees.

The candidate and his wife, the former Petra Melton of Plaquemines, have three children, all of whom will be in elementary school this year. He also served two years in the U. S. Air Force. Kelly is a member of the First Methodist Church, where he teaches Sunday School, and has served on the official board for a number of years.

He is chairman of the board of directors of the Wesley Foundation at Northeast Louisiana State College. He is president of the Monroe Kiwanis Club, and is a former member of the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Kelly's campaign has stressed the development in schools of "well - educated, well-rounded young people who are better prepared to assume their future responsibilities."

ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY

He declared, "The ultimate responsibility for the quality of the school rests upon the school board, and consequently upon the individual members. I will assume the necessary responsibility as a board member, if elected, and make every decision based upon what I feel is right for better education in our parish community. Beyond this, I will make no commitments."

Interest Rates

WASHINGTON (Special) — More than 10 years of inflation in Brazil, the largest and most industrialized nation in Latin America, has brought average interest rates there to more than 30 per cent per year.

The official rate is 24 per cent but few loans are made at the official rate. Also there is little annual borrowing. Mostly it is by the month and for a 30 day loan the borrower pays between 2.5 percent and 3.5 percent.

hints from Heloise

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
I save the heavy envelopes we get in the mail and use them to make a file for your hints.

I use 6½x9" envelopes. I glue the envelopes shut and cut them into two (crosswise), making a tab at the top for identification, staggering the tabs to make them easier to see.

I label each with a different category, such as "Stains", "Laundry", "Painting", "Cooking", etc. . . . I even have a special one for "Net"!

I covered a sturdy box with decorative paper, cut

out the colorful "Hints from Heloise" title from your column, and pasted it on the front of the box.

Each day I clip hints I want and file them. When a problem comes up, I take out the proper envelope and usually find the solution.

Before painting, housecleaning, or any large undertaking, I read all your hints concerning it. If I vaguely remember a hint, I can always look it up in a hurry.

SOAPY SACHET

DEAR HELOISE:
I get a two-fold benefit from perfumed toilet soap.

I use it first as a sachet in dresser drawers and to perfume closets and linen chests, then use it for regular purposes after it has lost most of its fragrance. The bar of soap has hardened by then and lasts much longer than soft soap.

Mrs. Ann Dubas

IT'S A STRAIN ON FAT

DEAR HELOISE:
When I get through cooking bacon and while the grease is still hot, I line a strainer with a facial tissue, and just pour the grease through it.

The grease is absolutely clear. The tissue catches all the residue.

Ruth

BABY'S PLASTIC PANTS

DEAR HELOISE:
If you want to dry baby's plastic pants in a hurry, place them in the hood of your hair dryer! They dry in a few minutes and are soft and warm to put back on the baby.

Mother

DEAR MOTHER:
This actually works. Even when your baby's overpants have become stiff, it softens them again. And it's a real good trick when you have only one pair and they are damp. Just rinse 'em out and dry them in that hood.

Also, if you put a washcloth in the hood, along with the plastic pants, it helps. I don't know if it's the friction or the moisture the washrag absorbs, but it works better. Probably also prevents overdrying.

THOSE OLD BEDSPREADS

DEAR HELOISE:
If you have some old bedspreads you are about ready to throw away . . . Don't!

I made some beautiful baby blankets by cutting the center out of the quilted kind. Just fold in half, pin on colored blanket binding all the way around and sew it up.

The closely-woven chenille spreads are useful, too. I cut one up and made four nice pillowcases for my dog's bed. Now he doesn't pull out the blanket (because he can't!) and I can change his bed so much easier and keep him clean, as well as my once dog-hair-filled house.

Oh, yes, and don't forget the scraps make nice spreads for dolly's bed, and small children love them for bathrobes, too.

Mrs. D. C. M.

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper. 8-7

T-FORMATION LINE-UP

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's a little hint to mothers and wives whose menfolk wear T-shirts or other knitted undershirts:

Before hanging on the clothesline, gather the shirt at the bottom with your hand and give it a hard SHAKE. The part that shows, when the man wears it, will be beautifully shaped.

For those who buy inexpensive T-shirts that shrink in length, gather the top in one hand and the bottom in the other, and give it a hard pull. This stretches the garment again. Then hold the shirt at the bottom and give it a good shake.

Just watch those old T-shirts stretch back into shape.

HOT (WATER BOTTLE) TIP

DEAR HELOISE:
Those of you who have hot water bottles, but don't use them often:

When they are emptied, just blow them full of air and then put the cap on tightly.

When stored this way, the sides do not stick together.

LETTER OF TRUTH

DEAR HELOISE:
When you have settled down to sleep — SMILE — and let the wrinkles form in a pleasant expression, instead of one of tension.

Betty Bissell

SLICE IT THIN

DEAR HELOISE:
This is such an easy hint that I presume it has been mentioned before . . . however, I have not seen it!

Before slicing liver, first freeze it to a semi-solid condition, then slice. You can get the desired thickness of slice you want.

And did you know that the same can be applied to chicken or other fowl? When it is frozen whole, let it thaw until one can just move the thigh and leg. Pull apart and cut.

It will be the neatest job of separating and cutting you ever saw and can be easily cut into smaller pieces.

No slipping or sliding.

Mrs. Victor Henderson

WASH-AND-WEAR WASH

DEAR GALS:
I want to give you a word of advice on laundering wash-and-wear clothing in your washing machine:

DON'T, please don't, try to do as big a machine load of wash-and-wears as you would of other items, such as sheets, towels, etc.

It is far better to do only half as large a load.

This prevents crowding, and there is less chance of setting wrinkles in the garments. And NEVER use hot water. Use either cold or luke warm.

And, you do remember, don't you, that you should never spin-dry your wash-and-wears or your "lons"?? Same reason as above—it sets those wrinkles.
